"It should be observed that our ministerial friend assumes, as a matter of course, that, from the moral standpoint, the question of province-wide prohibition as against a strictly enforced license system is not debatable—the advocates of the former policy are on the side of right and the advocates of the latter are on the side of wrong. But there can be nothing essentially moral about prohibition as such. Such moral merit as it may have must be due wholly to its influence in promoting the virtue of temperance. If in any community it be found that temperance is better promoted under a strictly enforced license system than under prohibition, then—in that community at least—a license system strictly enforced is more "moral" than is prohibition. Thus prohibition may be more moral than the license system in the same community and less moral in others. There are cities in American prohibition states—cities about the size of Hamilton—where there is more intemperance than there is in Hamilton. In those cities prohibition is probably less moral than a rigidly enforced license system would be.

"Temeprance is a moral subject, the right or wrong of which are not debatable. It is universally admitted that temperance is right and intemperance is wrong. But any particular method of promoting temperance and discouraging intemperance is surely debatable; and to affirm it to be either essentially moral or essentially immoral is merely a begging of the question.

The divine orator says that prohibition is a moral question and therefore an appropriate theme for pulpit discussion. The Herald has not and does not question such appropriateness. But prohibition is also now a subject upon which the political parties in this province are divided; it is a political issue; and when a political issue is discussed in public, opportunity should be given the people to hear both sides o fthe question discussed in order that they may be the better qualified to vote intelligently when the time comes for them to decide as electors between the contending parties.

"There is a moral aspect to most public questions. We have heard extreme free traders declare that the trade question is essentially a moral question, and that it is the duty of everp preacher to denounce tariff protection from the pulpit as a violation of the eighth commandment—as a system of organized robbery. A conscientious clergyman might take this view; but we do not think it would be either wise or just for him to use his pulpit as a Sunday hustings in order to help the political party which favors free trade and to defeat the political party which stands by tariff protection. Or, if he were to do so, it would be only fair to allow the other side to be presented from the same place."

NO FARM WORK FOR THEM

Last week a considerable crowd of immigrants from Great Britain landed at the Union Station, Toronto, and were met by a number of farmers who were anxious to secure help. All the immigrants were supposed to be looking for work, and yet the farmers could not secure a man. These immigrants had not come to Canada to work upon the farm, but to swell the ranks of the out-of-works in the cities. And this scene, says a contemporary, will be repeated with more or less variation during the next few months, both in Toronto and in other Canadian cities. The farmer, unless he gets help, cannot cultivate his land properly, and will have to restrict his operations more and more, while the city, already over-supplied with skilled labor, will be at its wits' end to know what to do with the unemployed. Long ago, the British immigrant who came to Canada rolled up his sleeves and went to work in the backwoods. He succeeded and helped to make Canada; and we venture to say that the British immigrant today who is willing to learn and willing to work cannot fail to succeed, but he had better go where his work is needed most. The farm, not the city, is most in need of him.

CANADA'S NEW CLUB

(Buffalo News)

Canada will amend her tariff act so that she will put up a high wall against any country that works unfavorably to the Dominion. Nobody is deceived as to the meaning of that policy.

It is intended that giving American coastwise vessels the free use of the Panama canal shall result in compelling the Americans to pay perhaps double the present duty on taking goods into the Dominion.

Canada is our second best customer, and no other trade is so convenient as the trade with Canada. Neither is any other so profitable, for among other things, it means that we sell to Canada more than twice as much as we buy of Canada. In other words, the balance of trade is enormously in our favor as a people.

To have bars put up, so that we cannot get over except at very high cost is to adopt the protective policy to which this country is really devoted, but is to carry it to an extreme, merely to get even with the rule that gives ships of our country free passage through the canal while Canadians going from one side of their continent to the other, must pay toll.

We shall meet very much the same sort of treatment in every other country before we get through with it, unless we do the honest thing that was intended when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was made.

CURRENT COMMENT

One of Belleville's city sights—Front street, and other streets leading south off Bridge street on the east hill.

* * *

* * *

We hope our City Council will not take to heart the idle street rumors of irregularities connected with the giving out of paving contracts to the extent of holding the work in abeyance until an investigation is threshed out. That beautiful coat of Front street mud should be preserved by covering of concrete or some other material as soon as possible. Let there be no delay.

* * *

Toronto Globe: "Out on the coast people seem to believe that Sir Richard McBride is to be High Commissioner of Canada in London. It may be so, but only if Hon. Robert Rogers does not want the office. He is first on the list." How keen the Grits are to get rid of the Hon. Bob. Father to the thought, eh? He is a power and a thorn to the plunderbunds.

* * *

Like a true woman Madame Caillaux is preparing to defend herself against the charge of murder by hiring the best dressmakers.

* * *

Can a Protectionist belong to a Free Trade party and remain a Protectionist? asks a contemporary. Answer: Can a Methodist belong to a Presbyterian church and remain a Methodist?

* * *

The committee enquiring into the Canadian cigarette evil threatens to have certain brands of cigarettes examined by scientists. While they are at it the scientists might examine the craniums of the smokers.

* * *

Now that Montreal has selected its Board of Control, we hope to hear less of civic irregularities from the city papers. If one were to judge from newspaper comment there was not an honest official among the whole retiring bunch.

* * *

We have often wondered who will comprise the inhabitants of hades. Partial light is thrown on the subject by a church card, which reads:

"HELL."
"Everybody Come and Welcome."

When the general roll is called will you be there?—Guelph Herald.

* * *

Under the caption of "Free Trade and Party," the Toronto News says it is difficult to understand the Free Trade newspapers. We have observed that the Reform papers possessed a dialect all their own. But when it comes to fathoming the epitaphs at the tail end of each sentence, we admit ignorance.

Montreal Gazette: "The London Standard, in discussing the case of Mme. Caillaux in Paris, says that Blackmail based upon unfortunate letters is rampant in London at the present moment, more so, in fact, than ever before. The statement may easily be believed. There is a rich field for the vultures in a great city."

* * *

Bankers and business men throughout the Dominion unite in the opinion that while this is a time for prudence and caution in the conduction of public and private enterprises, it is also a time for confidence and courage. It is universally admitted that we are rapidly settling down to a common sense procedure of substantial progress.

* * *

The death toll of aviators from January 1st to April 1st of this year was 38. Since the flying machine was invented the total number killed by it has been 462. They were not all martyrs to science, however. Probably a majority of the victims were killed while trying to do circus stunts to entertain crowds. That sort of thing should be forbidden.

* * *

Ottawa Free Press: "Mr. W. H. Rowley, expresident of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, says the farmers get the best of everything in any tariff revision. We have a faint recollection that Mr. Rowley or some other prominent member of the association said the same thing before." And the criticism invariably emanates from the Liberal camp.

Schooner Runs Ashore.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., April 13.—The British schooner Percy B. from Port Clyde, N.S., for New London, Conn., with wood pulp, ran ashore on East Chop early yesterday and was still fast yesterday. There was little wind and sea during the night, and it was expected that the schooner would be floated without serious damage.

Lit Fire To Hide Theft.

BRANTFORD, April 13.—The grocery store on Rawdon street, owned by Alfred Teague, was burglarized on Friday night, and to cover up the robbery an attempt was made to burn it down. When the owner went in the morning he found that the place had been soaked with coal oil and the cupboard was ablaze with fire. He soon had this put out, and then found that a good quantity of groceries had been taken.

TREATY IS RATIFIED.

Anglo-American Arbitration Pact Continues For Five Years.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Secretary Bryan and Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, yesterday exchanged ratifications of the arbitration treaty which will continue for another five years.

The original form of the treaty of 1908 was preserved without change. Great Britain advanced the suggestion that there be incorporated in the terms of the treaty a provision similar to that contained in various commercial treaties by which the life of the treaty continues until one year after notification from one or the other of the contracting parties that that party desires to terminate the agreement. This proposition was not objectionable to this Government, but the necessity of sending the treaty to the Senate for ratification and the possible entanglements likely to arise in the present stress of feeling over the tolls question dictated the wisdom of adhering to the old form and not trying to attempt any new arrangement.

Secretary Bryan signed the treaty for the United States and Ambassador Spring-Rice performed the same function for the British crown.

SEAL PELTS FOUND.

Ominous Flotsam May Have Come From Missing Southern Cross.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 11.—Seal pelts thought to have come from the missing sealing steamer Southern Cross were sighted yesterday, seventy miles south of St. Mary's Bay by the steamer Kyle, which has been searching the coast for a week. This is the first definite clew to the fate of the vessel, which was last reported off the southern coast on March 31.

The pelts are skins which have been roughly removed and to which considerable fat usually adheres, causing them to float readily. It is believed that they either were washed from the decks of the sealer or floated to the surface after she went down. None of the sealing fleet which came in last week from the St. Lawrence grounds, where the Southern Cross had been seal hunting, lost any pelts off the southern coast in the vicinity of St. Mary's Bay.

The Kyle reported by wireless that she would continue the search though the weather was foggy.

TO PURIFY LAKES.

Commission Seeks Remedy For Pollution of Water.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—With the extent of pollution in the international waters along the boundary between the United States and Canada established, the international joint commission has undertaken to find and apply a remedy.

Chairman Tawney said yesterday that at the conference just concluded here the commission decided first to employ leading sanitary engineers to study the problem, then to give them a hearing, which will be about the middle of May. After that hearings will be held in the various cities and towns affected. Buffalo and Detroit, as the two largest, being the first to be visited by the commission.

The commission will meet again at Sault Ste. Marie May 4 to investigate the water power project which American and Canadian concerns desire to build at that point and which will affect the level of Lake Superior.

SERVANT KILLS MISTRESS.

Japanese Boy Then Commits Suicide In Basement.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 11.—Mrs. Ellis R. Harbert, wife of a prominent physician and surgeon of this city, was shot and killed by a Japanese servant while she was in one of the upper bedrooms of her palatial home in the suburbs.

After killing Mrs. Harbert, the slayer locked the door to the room and busied himself gathering up silverware and other valuables. The crime was not discovered until night, when Dr. Harbert returned home. Finding no one about the living rooms, he made a search of the house, only to find his wife's body, still and cold, stretched upon the bedroom floor.

The servant later took refuge in the basement of the house, where he killed himself as he was about to be taken.

Suffragette on Rampage.

LONDON, April 11.—With a butcher's cleaver, which she had concealed under her cloak, a suffragette started Thursday afternoon to demolish a glass case and its contents, consisting of valuable porcelains, in the Asiatic gallery of the British Museum. At the time there were few visitors in that section, and on this the suffragette doubtless counted for long enough freedom from interruption to complete the work of destruction.

But the sound of splintering glass carried far, and before she had struck many blows two attendants reached the spot and seized her and turned her over to the police.

Paralyzed Woman Nearly Perishes.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 11.—A fire which broke out in the grocery store of James Barker, on Howard avenue, yesterday, completely destroyed the building and almost resulted in the death of Mrs. Barker, who is a paralytic. She was carried to safety just as the flames reached the room in which she was lying helpless in bed. The conflagration resulted from the throwing of a match near a gasoline tank at the rear of the store by Mr. Barker, who had been attempting to thaw out a frozen water pipe.

Old Paris Resident Dead.

PARIS, Ont., April 11.—Paris lost one of its oldest residents yesterday morning in the person of John Armstrong, who died, aged 90.

It takes a young widow to convince a man that he is making love to her when she is doing all the lovemaking herself.

Luck is too uncertain to sit around and wait for.

FEDERALS ARE ROUTED

Villa Drives Huerta's Generals Out of San Pedro.

Rebel Commander Sends Word That In Operations Back of Saltillo He Has Forced De Moure and Maas Out of Town With Heavy Losses—One Detachment Will Carry a Guillotine For the Federals.

JAUREZ, April 11.—As a climax of the second campaign of the Coahuila country the Federals, under De Moure and Maas, were driven out of San Pedro de Los Colonias and back to Saltillo. This information was relayed from the front last night by Gen. Villa, who has sent his chief commanders to San Pedro to overwhelm the Federal forces. After an eight days' battle between the Federal reinforcements from Monterey and Saltillo and the joint commands of Ortega, Hernandez and Benavides, the Federals were driven from the streets of San Pedro after the most severe hand-to-hand fighting, back into the desert beyond the irrigated district of San Pacio to the east. The losses on both sides were heavy, and the rebels suffered from lack of supplies and ammunition.

Ortega and Hernandez were twice forced to withdraw to their base at Sacramento, but renewed the attack with the receipt of supplies from Torreon, and finally drove the Federals out of their well-fortified positions.

Velasco, in command of the Torreon column, and Hidaljo, who commanded at Saltillo, have formed a junction, and are now near Saltillo, having slipped around the San Pedro command of rebels before the battle started. They are preparing for an offensive campaign against Torreon, and will make an effort to drive Villa out of the town. They have the necessary elements, and with the supplies that are at Saltillo they can accomplish much against Villa's exhausted army.

The compaign against Saltillo has not yet been undertaken by Villa, who is holding his main column in Torreon and Gomez Palacio.

Torreon's Fall Admitted.

MEXICO CITY, April 11. — The first admission that Gen. Villa and the rebel army have occupied Torreon was made by The Mexican Herald on Thursday. The newspaper, however, states that Gen. Auerellano Blanquet declares that Gen. Jose Refugio Velasco, the Federal commander, has not evacuated the city in the full sense of the word. The Minister of War says the Federal commander has made a strategic move which is expected to give the best results on the arrival of the Federal columns now on their way to Torreon.

Will Use Guillotine.

ELPASO, April 11.—Gen. Eulalia Gutierrez, who is in command of the San Luis Potosi district, held by the rebels, and is now in Juarez conferring with Carranza, was advised yesterday that his troops surrounding the city of San Luis Potosi Thursday killed 200 Federals, who attempted to make a sally out of the city against him.

Gen. Gutierrez yesterday described a guillotine which he has constructed for use on Federal prisoners when captured. "We tested it on sheep," he said, "and it worked beautifully."

Asked if he had used it yet on a human being, he said, "No, not yet, but there are plenty of Federals and there is plenty of time." He said the machine was portable and would be carried on a flat car with his army.

Two Huertists Executed.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, April 11.—Standing blindfolded on the brink of their open graves, Francisco Fimbres and Jose M. Canoba, members of a Huerta junta on the American side of the line, were executed in the cemetery yesterday. Fimbres was captured several days ago while carrying a message from the junta to Canoba, who was then at Montezuma.

MONOPLANE FALLS.

German Aviator and Woman Passenger Are Killed.

DRESDEN, April 11. — The German aviator, Reichelt, carried a woman passenger with him on a flight last evening. At a height of 200 feet the motor exploded and the monoplane shot blazing to earth. The woman was dead when extricated. Reichelt died in a hospital.

On several previous occasions the deceased aviator had narrow escapes from death. Once, in 1913, with a passenger aboard, when at a height of 6,000 feet, his motor stopped and he had to plane downward through a heavy fog in the darkness. He landed on a house, crushing the roof, but he and his passenger escaped injury.

RUSHED UP TO PULPIT.

Suffragettes Had To Be Dragged From Lowestoft Church.

LOWESTOFT, Eng., April 13. — A large number of suffragettes disturbed the service at St. John's Church yesterday while the Bishop of Norwich was officiating. Several days ago the bishop was visited by a delegation of suffragettes, and after a long parley consented to see two of them. They protested to him against the forcible feeding of women, and he promised to take their protest under consideration.

Yesterday they kept up a continuous chanting of "God save Emmeline Pankhurst." Several were ejected, then others ran to the foot of the pulpit and exclaimed: "My Lord Bishop, will you protest against the torturing of women?"

These disturbers were also dragged from the edifice, after which the bishop was able to deliver his sermon.

"They should be proclaimed outlaws, their contracts should be made incapable of taking legal proceeding of any kind, civil or criminal."

ITALIAN IS KILLED.

Brawl In Ottawa Foreign Boarding House Results Fatally.

OTTAWA, April 13.—John Sisinni, an Italian, 25 years of age, died last night from wounds received shortly after two o'clock yesterday afternoon in a foreign boarding-house at 24 West George street. His alleged assailant, Antonio Pedro, commonly known in the Italian colony as Tony, escaped, and has not been seen since. His description has been sent to surrounding towns and cities.

All the murdered man would say before he died was that he knew the man who had shot him. The only distinctive feature which the police are counting on to aid in Pedro's capture is that his face is badly scratched. He is about 35 or 40 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height, and weighs 175 pounds.

One Killed In Train Wreck.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., April 12.—One man was killed and six persons were injured when a suburban train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, eastbound, was was wrecked at Clayton, two miles from this city Saturday. Carroll of North Redding, Conn., were taken from the wreck unconscious and removed to a hospital, where Carroll died soon after. The cause of the accident has not been determined.

Three Men Drowned.

EMO, Ont., April 13. — A tripple drowning occurred Friday afternoon at Barwick, the first station west of Emo, on the Canadian Northern Railway, caused by four men trying to cross the Rainy River in a small canoe in a heavy wind storm, three of the men being drowned and the fourth escaping death by a small margin. The drowned were Carl Haglund, Eric Ericson and Albert Weeks. The bodies have not yet been recovered. George Smart, the survivor, was rescued by people on shore, who heard cries for assistance.

KINGSTON, April 13.—Miss Lulu Smith, of Glencoe, aged 21, second year arts student at Queen's University, died Saturday as a result of burns received at the Y.W.C.A. residence Friday night at midnight. Father's Sacrifice In Vain.

PARIS, April 13.—The eight-year-old son of a chauffeur was knocked down and seriously injured by an automobile Friday evening. A large quantity of blood was transfused but in vain; the boy died, and the father is in a critical condition.

Scare Brings Her Voice Back.

ROCKPORT, Mass., April 12.—Miss Sophronia Lowe hasn't been able to utter a sound since last Thanksgiving, a few days after her 65th birthday. This was because of a throat affection caused by a heavy cold.

But Miss Lowe can talk now—high or low, shrill or soft. She rented and occupied half of a large house. Not long ago a tenant was found for the other half. Miss Lowe didn't know it. Saturday she started to go to the attic of the house and met the other tenant.

He was a man. And Miss Lowe was so shocked, besides being pent up since Thanksgiving, that she screamed. And right from that instant she has been able to talk volubly. And has.

Okuma Is Popular.

TOKIO, April 13.—The selection of Count Shigenobu Okuma, Japan's foremost progressivist, who is engaged in forming a Cabinet to replace that of which Count Yamamoto was head, has created a profound impression. All classes consider that it denotes the dawn of a new epoch in Japanese history in the direction of a more representative government. Business men especially are pleased with the choice of Count Okuma by the elder statesmen, and the stock market is buoyant.

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of
"Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

"They would kill, if I tried to come between them and their victim," she said; "and I am afraid to die."

She crept to her wretched bed, and flung herdown down, dressed as she was. She drew the thin patchwork coverlet round her.

Ten minutes after she had thrown herself upon the bed a key turned in the lock and the door was opened by a stealthy hand. Black Milsom looked into the room.

The cold glimmer of day fell full upon the girl's pale face. Her eys were closed, and her breathing was loud and regular.

"Asleep," he whispered to some one outside; "as safe as a rock."

He drew back and closed the door softly.

Joyce Harker worked his hardest on board the "Pizarro," and the repairs were duly completed by the 4th of April. On the morning of the 5th the vessel was a picture, and Joyce surveyed her with the pride of a man who feels that he has not worked in vain.

He had set his heart upon the brothers celebrating the first day of their re-union on board the trim little craft: and he had made arrangements for the preparation of a dinner which was to be a triumph in its way.

Joyce presented himself at bar of the "Jolly Tar" at half-past eleven on the appointed morning. He expected that the brothers would be punctual, but he did not expect either of them to appear before the stroke of noon.

All was very quiet at the "Jolly Tar" at this hour of the day. The landlord was alone in the bar, reading a paper. He looked up as Joyce entered; but did not appear to recognize him.

"Can I step through into your private room?" asked Joyce; "I expect Captain Jernam and his brother to meet me here in half an hour."

"To be sure you can, mate. There's no one in the private room at this time of day. Jernam—Jernam did you say? What name is that? I don't recollect the name."

"You've a short memory," answered Joyce, "you might remember Captain Jernam of the 'Pizarro;' for it isn't above a week since he was here with me. He dined here, and slept here, and left early in the morning, though you were uncommonly pressing for him to stay."

"We've so many captains and sailors in and out from year's end, to year's end, that I don't remember them by name," said Dennis Wayman "but I do remember your friend, mate now you remind me of him; and I remember you, too."

"Yes," said Joyce, with a grin, "there ain't so many of my pattern. I'll take a glass of rum for the good of the house; and if you can lend me a paper, I'll skim the news of the day while I'm waiting.

Joyce passed into the little room, where Dennis took him the newspaper and the rum.

Twelve o'clock struck, and the clerk began to watch and to listen for the opening of the door, or the sound of a footstep outside the door. The time seemed very long to him watching and listening. The minute-hand of the Dutch clock moved slowly on. He turned every now and then towards the dusty corner where the clock hung to see what progress that slow hand had made upon the discolored dial.

He waited thus for an hour.

"What does it mean?" he thought. "Valentine Jernam so faithfully promised to be punctual. And then he's so fond of his brother. He'd scarcely care to be a minute late, when he has a chance of seeing Captain George."

Joyce went into the bar. The landlord was scrutinizing the address of a letter—a foreign letter.

"Didn't you say your friend's name was Jernam?" he asked.

"I did."

"Then this letter must be for him. It has been lying here for the past two or three days; but I forgot all about it till just this minute."

Joyce took the letter. It was addressed to Captain Jernam, of the "Pizarro," at the Jolly Tar," care of the landlord, and it came from the Cape of Good Hope.

Joyce recognized George Jernam's writing.

"This means a disappointment," he thought, as he turned the letter over and over slowly; "there'll be no meeting yet awhile. Captain George is off to the East Indies on some new venture, I dare say. But what can have become of Captain Valentine? I'll go down to the 'Golden Cross,' and see if he's there."

He told Dennis Wayman where he was going, and left a message for his captain. From Ratcliff Highway to Charring Cross was a long journey for Joyce; but he had no idea of indulging in any such luxury as a hackney-coach. It was late in the afternoon when he reached the hotel; and there he was doomed to encounter a new disappointment.

Captain Jernam ha been there on the second of the month, and had never been there since. He had left in the forenoon, after saying that he should return at night; and in evidence that such had been his intention the waiter told Joyce that the captain had left a carpet-bag, containing clean linen and a change of clothes.

"He's broken his word to me, and he's got into bad hands," thought Harker. "He's as simple as a child, and he's got into bad hands. But how and where? He'll never, surely, go back to the 'Jolly Tar,' after what I said to him. And where else can he go? I know no more where to look for him in this great overgrown London than if I was a new-born baby."

In his perfect ignorance of his captain's movements, there was only one thing that Joyce Harker could do, and that was to go back to the "Jolly Tar" with a faint hope of finding Valentine Jernam there.

It was dusk by the time he got back to Ratcliff Highway, and the flaring gas-lamps were lighted. The bar of the tavern was crowded, and the tinkling notes of the old piano sounded feebly from the inner room.

Dennis Wayman was serving his customers, an Thomas Milsom was drinking at the bar. Joyce pushed his way to the landlord.

"Have you seen anything of the captain?" he asked.

"No, he hasn't been here since you left."

"You're quite sure of that?"

"Quite sure."

"He's not been here to-day; but he's been here within the week hasn't he? He was here on Tuesday, if I'm not mistaken."

"Then you are misinformed," Wayman said, coolly; "for your searfaring friend hasn't darkened my doors since the morning you and he left to go to the coach-office.

Joyce could say nothing further. He passed through the passage into the public room, where the so-called concert had begun. Jenny Milsom was singing to the noisy audience.

The girl was very pale and her manner and attitude, as she sat by the piano, were even more listless than usual.

Joyce Harker did not stop long in the concert-room. He went back to the bar. This time there was not one but Milsom and Wayman in the bar, and the two seemed to be talking earnestly as Joyce entered.

"I didn't come to here music," answered Joyce; "I came to look for my captain. He had an appointment to meet his brother here to-day at twelve o'clock, and it isn't like him to break it. I'm beginning to get uneasy about him."

"But why should you be uneasy? The captain is big enough, and old enough, to take care of himself," said the landlord," with a laugh.

"Yes; but then you see mate, there are some men who never know how to take care of themselves when they get into bad company. There isn't a better sailor than Valentine Jernam, or a finer fellow at sea; but I don't think, if you searched from one one end of this city to the other, you'd find a greater innocent on shore. I'm afraid of his having fallen into bad hands, Mr. Wayman, for he had a goodish bit of money about him; and there's land-sharks as dangerous as those you meet with on the sea."

"So there are, mate," answered the landlord, "and there's some queer characters about this neighborhood, for the matter of that."

"I dare say you're right," returned Joyce; "and I'll tell you what it is. If any harm has come Valentine Jernam, let those who have done the harm look out for themselves. Perhaps they don't know what it is to hurt a man that's got a faithful dog at his heels. Let them hide themselves where they will, and let them be as cunning as they will, the dog will smell them out, sooner or later, and will tear them to pieces when he finds them. I'm Captain Jeram's dog, Mr Dennis Waymark; and if I don't find my master, I'll hunt till I do find those that got him out of the way. I don't know what's amiss with me tonight; but I've got a feeling come over me that I shall never look in Valentine Jernam's honest face again. If I'm right, Lord help the scoundrels who have plotted against him, for it'll be the business of my life to track them down, and bring their crime home to them—and I'll do it."

After having said this, slowly and deliberately, with an appalling earnestness of voice and manner, Joyce Harker looked from Dennis Wayman to Black Milsom, and this time the masks they were accustomed to wear did not serve these scoundrels so well as usual, for in the faces of both there was a look of fear.

"I am going to search for my captain," said Joyce. "Good-night mates."

He left the tavern. The two men looked at each other earnestly as the door closed upon him.

"A dangerous man," said Dennis Wayman.

"Bah!" muttered Black Milsom, savagely; "who afraid of a hunchback's bluster? I dare say he wanted the handling of the money himself."

All that night Joyce Harker wandered to and fro admist the haunts of sailors and merchant captains; but wander where he would, and inquire of whom he would, he could obtain no tidings of the missing man.

Cure Children's Colds By External Treatment

Mothers Will Find Nothing so Speedily and Reliable as Old-Time Nerviline

It's really a shame to upset a young child's stomach by internal dosing, when external treatment will so promptly break up a cold.

When your boy comes in after play with his feet soaking wet, his throat hoarse and sore, his little chest tight and congested, just apply Nerviline. Give him a vigorous rubbing over his throat, and puts lots of Nerviline on his chest and rub it right in. To make Nerviline penetrate more quickly cover his chest and throat with a hot flannel bandage. This treatment WON'T fail. Your boy will be feeling better in half an hour, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have warded off perhaps a cold, or grippe or illness that might have laid him up.

Nerviline is mighty good for preventing colds and for breaking up a bad one, too. For general family use it cures all sorts of external aches and pains—you simply can't beat it. Try it for earache toothache, neuralgia, sciatica,lame back rheumatism or lumbago. Wherever there is congestion, inflammation or pain in the joints or muscles, Nerviline will cure mighty quick. The large 50c. family size bottle is so economical, so useful, it should be in every home. There is also a small 25c. size. Dealers anywhere sell Nerviline.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-west Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

If you suffer from an form of Rheumatism, remember that RHEUMA goes to work quickly to remove the cause, not simply to relieve the distress. Many years' use has demonstrated that it goes to the seat of the disease and expels the poisonous matter through the natural channels—the kidneys, bowels, liver and skin.

"For many years I was troubled with Rheumatism, also with Bright's disease of the Kidneys. I suffered awfully. Tried many advertised remedies. After using your truly remarkable preparation RHEUMA, I was fully cured."—Prof. C. Budlong, Sound View, Conn.

Vol 47 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1914. No. 289

J. H. LARMONTH ONCE OF BELLEVILLE

Well Thought of in Edmonton, Appointed Supt. of Street Railway

EDMONTON, April 14—J. H. Larmonth, just appointed superintendent of the street railway department of the city of Edmonton at a salary of $5,000 a year, has had wide and varied experience in eastern Canada. Commissioner Chalmers, at whose recommendation the appointment was made, said today that Mr. Larmonth is fitted in every way for the position, adding that the new appointee can be depended upon to work out a satisfactory plan for the 43 miles of street railway system, which is owned and operated by the city.

Mr. Larmonth was graduated in 1894 from the mechanical and engineering department of McGill University in Montreal, after which he worked a year in the Grand Trunk Railway company's erecting shops at Point St. Charles, followed by four years in the company's draughting department. This was followed by two years in the draughting office of the Laurie Engine company, followed by one and a half years in an office of chartered accountants, Ottawa, to get experience in municipal and corporation accounting; later employed by the E. B. Eddy company of Hull, as erecting engineer and chief draughtsman, reconstructing and re-erecting their works after the big fire of 1900, which wiped out the entire plant.

After remaining 18 months with the E. B. Eddy company he was engaged in the office of C. H. Keefer, of Ottawa, consulting engineer; went to Peterborough as resident engineer for C. H. Keefer, acting on behalf of the Quaker Oats company on construction of power house and dam; after six months entered the employ of the Quaker Oats company as sup[illegible]ising engineer of its construction.

When in 1904, the Quaker Oats company, having taken over the Peterborough Radiol Railway, and the Peterborough Light and Power company and the Peterborough Gas Plant, he was put in charge of construction and operation as manager; remained in that position until the spring of 1910, entirely rebuilding the street railway, placing the same on a sound financial footing and making a dividend paying proposition. The maximum number of cars in 1910 was 17. In 1910 the utility interests of the Quaker Oats company were bought out by the Electrical Power company of Toronto, which controlled about twenty different properties scattered throughout Ontario, capitalized at $12,000,000. He entered the employ of the Electric Power company as general manager, with charge of operating all of the subsidiary companies, for which position a salary of $5,000 a year was paid. After two years as general manager of this company he resigned to go into practice as consulting engineer on street railway, light, power and hydraulic work, with the good will of the company and employed by them as consulting engineer on special work.

BOLT FROM THE BLUE SMASHED A WINDOW

TORONTO April 13.—A bolt from the blue descended at the corner of Yonge and King streets at 11.30 this morning. Fortunately it was only a bit of the bolt which came rushing down sky-high from the iron girders being erected at the new Royal Bank building, but it was big enough to smash the centre plate glass window at the offices of the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

By about the length of a bee's knee a passer-by escaped meeting it with his head. He didn't know this, but he heard the smash, and saw the bit of the broken bolt fall at his feet. He picked it up, looked over it, put it in his pocket, and carried it away as a souvenir. The clerks in the office, who still have their nerves slightly on edge owing to the gigantic Easter rush for transportation, wondered what had struck them.

WELL KNOWN AUTHOR ARRESTED

LONDON, April 14.—T. W. H. Crosland, late assistant editor and director of the Academy, and author of a number of books, was arrested to-day on a charge of conspiring with Lord Alfred Douglas and others to charge falsely with a criminal offence Mr. Robert B. Ross, the executor of the estate of the late Oscar Wilde. In the Police Court, Mr. Crosland was remanded on bail. It was said in court that Lord Afred Douglas has gone abroad for the purpose of evading arrest.

"I SEE BY THE PAPER WHERE;"—

Not the English of Lindley Murray perhaps, but nevertheless a very expressive phrase which we hear every day.

There is food for thought in it for every one who has an appeal to make to the great purchasing public.

Why not make that "WHERE" apply to your goods or your store?

There is no appeal so direct nor one which brings such immediate results as that made through the columns of a live daily newspaper like The Intelligencer.

The newspaper is the intimate friend of the family. People turn to it for guidance, and naturally they look to it for advice when they have shopping to do.

Where? LET IT MEAN YOUR STORE AND YOUR GOODS.

GAMBLING WITH EMPIRE DESTINY

Australian High Commissioner Voices His Country's Sentiments

LONDON. April 13.—Sir George Reid, high commissioner in London for Australia, who returned to London on Saturday, said the startling developments in connection with the Home Rule bill are being watched with grave concern in Australia.

"In only one part of the vast British Empire is there at present any risk of civil war", he said, "and a singular and discreditable fact is that the scene of this impending catastrophe—and they are gambling with peace and the prestige of the Empire—is in the central citadel of our Imperial power and amongst the wisest and greatest of the King's counsellors.

"Australians themselves, willing to risk their lives in defence of the Empire, do seem to have a right in common with the rest of His Majesty's subjects to offer a solemn remonstrance, and to demand that British statesmen shall not allow this disastrous explosion to occur. If a way out cannot be found at once, surely at least some temporary compromise can be agreed to postpone an outbreak and secure that better chance of peaceful issue which added experience and further deliberation in calmer atmosphere would undoubtedly afford."

A TITLE, BUT NOT A GENTLEMAN

The Manchester (England) Guardian says: G. W. E. Russell has a story of a Member of Parliament whom he calls Mr. Thomas Titmouse, approaching the chief whip of his party for a knighthood. He was told he had not earned it. Next year he repeated the request and explained. He had a few years before met and proposed to a delightful woman with a large fortune, and to strengthen his suit told her his public services entitled him to feel confident of the reward of knighthood. Attracted by the prospect of becoming "My Lady," she consented. But now the wife had begun to inquire when the knighthood was coming. In short, the member's domestic happiness was at stake.

The whip conveyed this artless tale to the Prime Minister, whose reply Mr. Russell quotes as follows: "Under the circumstances which you so feelingly describe I will recommend Mr. Titmouse for a knighthood, as it seems to be the only way of making Mrs. Titmouse a lady. I only regret there is no honor in the gift of the Crown which could possibly make Mr. Titmouse a gentleman."

(Intelligencer Special)

BOSTON, April 14.—Seven persons met death, two others are missing, and many were injured as the result of a fire which wrecked the Melvin five story brick apartment house in the Alstone district early today. The dead are Mr. and Mrs. J. Raymond Power and their two year old baby boy; Mrs. Alice Shackford, Mrs. Edith G. Bemis, a young woman supposed to be Mrs. Power's maid, and one unidentified body.

DAILY INTELLIGENCER'S BIG VOTING CONTEST STARTED WITH A BUSY WHIRL

Now is the Opportune Time to Enter and Start Campaigning for Winning Votes

One McLaughlin Buick Touring Car, One $400 Bell Piano, Two Victor Victrolas, Two Beautiful Lounging Chairs, Two Gold Watches, Two Ten Dollar Gold Pieces, and 5 Per Cent Cash Commissions to all non-Prize Winners Who Remain Active Until the End of the Contest.

Now is the real starting time for candidates in The Intelligencer's contest. The ones who are desirous of winning one of the many valuable prizes will begin to show their strength. However, there is still plenty of time for new entries, but the sooner you start, the greater the chances of success. If you are not first your friends who may be anxious to help you may promise their support to some other candidate before they learn that you are in the race. It is generally said the first come, first served, so if you are first you are almose sufe to receive the support of your friends. It will require a little time and energy to secure one of the prizes, but just think of the delightful time you can have with an automobile. In fact every one of the valuable prizes to be given are well worth the small effort to win them.

Send Letters To Friends

Candidates should send letters to their friends requesting them to help by sending subscriptions to The Intelligencer. Nearly everyone in the campaign has friends at distant points who probably lived in this county at one time, and are interested still in the happenings in this community. Letters to these people will prove effective. The Intelligencer has imitation typewritten letters prepared that are all ready for the candidates to address and send out to their friends. A card to the office will bring a supply of these.

Don't Stay Behind

Don't sit back and allow others to get all the good things of life. Grasp the opportunities that come your way. This is one of the opportunities of a life-time and you will be sorry if you do not take advantage of it.

Keep a cheerful and confident spirit. If it is apparent that you expect to win you will get many interested who would not like to see you disappointed. The average man likes to be of service to someone who will make the most of whatever aid is given.

Deep down in the soul there is a wholesome regard for a hustler. Everybody wil gladly help you get busy and keep busy to then end. Even the occasional person who may be forced to admit that at least you deserve to win. You will meet with encouragement all along the line.

Once you have entered the campaign do not drop out. If someone should get a few votes ahead of you, put some sand on the track and pass the field.

Open Evenings

The contest department of The Intelligencer will be open each evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Write, 'phone or call for all information.

WANT HENS TO LAY? PURCHASE BULL-DOG

Rochester Man Finds He Made a Profitable Investment

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 13.—At least one of Rochester's gentlemen farmers who has taken up the fad of poultry raising thinks that he sees a way to make a success of his avocation. During the recent epidemic of chicken stealing, he purchased a bulldog and chained it to a kennel in his poultry yard to ward off thieves. Not only did the dog keep away thieves, but the owner of the poultry was surprised, he says, to find that the egg output increased to twenty eggs daily from twenty hens.

Investigation showed that when a hen came out of the poultry house in the morning the bulldog chased her into his kennel and kept watch over her until she laid an egg. He then chased her out and chased another hen in. By 5 o'clock in the afternoon he had forced each of the twenty hens to contribute to the day's work.

The owner said he had refused an offer of $500 for the dog.

TO KEEP CHILDREN FROM PICTURE SHOWS

Legislation to Prevent Strangers Passing Youngsters in TORONTO. April 13.—In order to give further protection to parents who find their young children attending moving-picture shows without their permission the Legislature has decided to introduce additional restrictions.

The Act already requires that children under 15 must be accompanied by an adult. Some considerable proportion of youngsters have been in the habit of approaching strangers, asking them to see them past the entrance doorways, and, in this way, a large number have improperly secured admittance.

To meet this condition the Government will amend the Act by providing that all such children must be accompanied by parent or guardian, or an adult member of the household to which the child belongs. The onus of determining the status of the adult will rest on the proprietors of the places.

MISS WILSON BUSY WITH BRIDAL GOWN

White House Wedding Will Probably Take Place Early in May

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The general impression is that the wedding of Miss Eleanor Wilson and Secretary McAdoo will take place the early part of May, and that it will be informal and quiet. At first a large wedding was predicted, but if that was the case the wives of the foreign Ambassadors, who are beginning to leave Washington for their home abroad, would postpone their sailing until after the wedding.

It is said Miss Eleanor Wilson's trousseau is far more elaborate than that of her sister, Mrs. Sayre, whose wedding took place in the White House last November. Miss Wilson has done most of the selecting of materials and styles herself, and while they are not extreme, they are up to the minute in every respect. She has been characterized as the President's most stylish daughter.

HUSBAND HAS RIGHT TO KEEP LATCH KEY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 13.—If a ruling of Justice Leary of the District Court takes root and spreads a man living in any part of the country can make his wife stay home nights.

He needn't even give her a latchkey.

Furthermore, he may lounge about the house to his heart's content in light attire.

The jurist handed down the decision in denying Mrs. Evelyn F. Lunt a divorce from Raymond L. Lunt. She said he sat about the bungalow in scant clothing and refused to take her to places of amusement. The court held that if a man cared to keep his wife on the premises evenings it was his right—that he was entitled to her company after a hard day's work.

THAW'S PETITION IS GRANTED

CONCORD, N.H., April 14.—Harry Thaw's petition for a writ of habeas corpus was granted by Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States District Court today. No order will be issued for the prisoner's discharge from custody, however, until arrangements have been completed to take the case to the U. S. Supreme Court on appeals.

TWO CAMELS TAKE APARTMENTS AT ZOO

TORONTO, April 13.—Two camels presented to the Riverdale Park Zoo by ex-Alderman Lamb have arrived at their new home. They are fine specimens of the two-hunmped variety from Asiatic Russia, and were selected by Superintendent Goode from a herd of 20 recently brought to the United States and taken to Mr. Louis Rube's wild animal farm at Queensboro, N.Y.

The camels were led through the streets from the station and taken into the zoo by the Winchester street gate so that Mr. Lamb who has been ill might see them from his window. As they are shedding their winter coats and growing their new summer clothes, the camels look rather scraggy, but they seemed to be strong, healthy, quiet and contented. For the present they will be lodged at night in the kangaroo building and during the day they will have a pen near the one occupied by the elephant.

Town of Trenton Has Two Fires

Within the past twenty-four hours the town of Trenton was visited by two fires which did damage to the extent of several hundred dollars.

Yesterday afternoon about 4.30 fire broke out in what is known as Martin's Terrace, situated along the C. N. O. R. track at the foot of he mountain. As a result two families were burned out and lost a considerable portion of their household effects. damage was also done to contents belonging to other families who were occupants of the terrace. The terrace was badly wrecked. Mr. James Kenny is the owner of the premises.

At about four o'clock this morning the barn in connection with the Strathcona was discovered on fire, and the interior was badly burned before the blaze was extinguished. How the fire originated is not known. Mr. James Watson conducts the house and the property belongs to Mr. Lavel.

TO INVESTIGATE MYSTERIOUS DEATH

GALT, April 14.—Peculiar circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Dempsey, a practical nurse, who resided on King Street, are responsible for an inquest having been ordered by Coroner Radford. The woman was nursing Mrs. Robert Jamieson, Roseville Road, several miles from Galt. Yesterday she telephoned the attending physician, Dr. Charlton, that she did not feel well, but said that she was not so unwell that she need return to town, as the doctor suggested. A later call that she was violently ill caused Dr. Charlton to order the ambulance and further information received immediately after decided him to follow. When he arrived at the Jamieson homestead, Mrs. Demsey was dead. It is stated that there was no medicine around that she could have taken by mistake, and the cause of her death is a mystery. An autopsy will be performed. Two children survive.

CANADIAN WANTS A ROCHESTER BLONDE

For a Housekeeper – There is a Fair Prospect of Matrimony

PORT COLBORNE, April 13.—A man of this town has written to Postmaster Crane, of Rochester, asking for information which may lead to his conquest of a young blonde in the United States city. The Port Colborne man wants a housekeeper for himself and his five-year-old son, and there is a fair possibility of marriage for the one he engages The requirements are definite. She must be a blonde and young and of good disposition. The man lost his wife about five years ago, and since then he has had charge of the boy.

The postmaster has sent him a list of all the Rochester newspapers and he will probably advertise for the blonde he desires. By way of opposition it might do for Canadian blondes to send in their photos as candidates for the job.

FREE FOOD AND FREE IMPLEMENTS

OTTAWA, Ont., April 13.—The defection of Sir Lyman Melvin-Jones and Mr. A. C. Ross, ex-M.P. from the Liberal party, with the knowledge of more to come, has frightened off the Liberals and it is said today that they will go no further in amendments to the budget than free food and free agricultural implements, which, of course, includes the policy of free wheat.

It was the original intention of the party to ask for an increase in the British preference from 33 1-3 per cent. to 50 per cent. but the protectionist wing of the party objected so strenuously that this would mean the complete alienation of all manufacturers as well as factory employes that it was decided to abandon the increased British preference.

BOY LOST HIS LIFE JUMPING FOR TRAIN

Hurry to Get Home to Mimico Resulted in Fatality at Sunnyside

TORONTO. April, 13.—In an attempt to board a westbound freight train at Sunyside last night, John Stortz, aged 17, of Mimico, was struck by an east-bound G.T.R. passenger train and sustained injuries to which he succumbed a few minutes afterwards in the police ambulance on the way to the Western Hospital. The young man and a companion, Kenneth Warner, also of Mimico, had missed the 10.30 radial to that village and sooner than wait fifteen minutes for another car, the two intended to jump on the freight train and drop off at Mimico.

BRITAIN COMMENDS AMERICAN GOLFERS

LONDON, April 13.—The Daily Mail editorially praises the thoroughness with which the American golfers set themselves the task of attempting to win the British amateur championship by arriving early, getting acclimatized and studying the contitions with a comprehensive plan of campaign, wherein as little as possible is left to chance. They are omitting no precautions that might enable them to cut the best possible figure.

"It is this spirit of foresight, perseverance and minute attention to detail," says the Mail, "that has brought American victory in so many varied branches of sport, and it is in precisely this spirit that we in Britain are lacking. These American golfers, so early on the ground and so anxious to neglect nothing that might help them to victory, are something more than good sportsmen and valued rivals. They also are an object lesson in the right sort of efficiency."

INSURANCE MEN TO BE LICENSED

TORONTO, April 13.—Should the amendment to the Insurance Act proposed in an act which the government will bring before the Ontario legislature pass all insurance agents in the province will require to get a license at a cost of $5 each.

One local broker said he would like to see it become law as hundreds of people not regular agents add to their income from time to time by writing insurance and cutting the regulars out of the premium.

In this city there are about five hundred regular agents of various fire, accident, life and other insurance companies and as many more men who do a little on the side. All these people would require to be licensed.

HON. SYDNEY FISHER AGAIN ON WARPATH

Rumor Says He Will Make a Bid for the Nomination in Jacques Cartier

OTTAWA April 14.—Word reaches Ottawa that Hon. Sydney Fisher is again on the warpath. He wants the Liberal nomination in Jacques Cartier. The writ for the bye-election necessitated by the resignation of Hon. F. D. Monk has not yet been issued, but the ex-Minister of Agriculture is said to be doing all he can to prepare the way for his candidature, and it is expected that as soon as the date is announced he will throw his bonnet into the ring. It was thought that after his signal defeat in Chateauguay, Mr. Fisher would take the hint now twice thrown out by the Quebec electors. On the part of some of his former colleagues this thought was fathered by the wish. Mr. Fisher, as now appears, has no intention of gratifying this wish and will make a bold bid for the Jacques Cartier nomination. He has given up hope of winning back his old constituency of Brome.

EXONERATES BECKER.

Before Execution "Dago Frank" Made Voluntary Statement.

ALBANY, N.Y., April 14.—Shortly before "Dago Frank" Cirofici went to the death chair in Sing Sing prison early yesterday, he told Warden Clancy that "Gyp the Blood," Horowitz, "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg and Harry Vallon, the informer, fired the shots which killed Herman Rosenthal, for which crime the four gunmen paid their lives.

The formal statement of the warden is in part as follows:

"About eight o'clock Sunday night Rosenberg asked me to save Frank, saying he had nothing to do with the shooting, as he was not there. I went over and asked Frank why he did not tell the truth. He replied that he knew what was going on, but was not there when the shooting took place. I advised him to tell the whole story. He said if he did they would kill his brother. I asked whom he meant by 'they.' He replied that there were fifty men in New York he could name. He said, 'I don't care about myself; it's my family I care for.'

"He finally made the following, among other statements, in the presence of myself, Principal Keeper McInery, the chaplain, his mother and sister. They urged him to tell the whole truth. He hesitated and said:

"'I don't want to make any statement for the public. I do not fear for myself, but I do fear for you.'

"His sister replied: 'Don't have any fear for us; we will take care of ourselves; God will protect us.'

"His mother and sister continued to urge him to tell the truth. He said: 'I did not do the shooting. The men who fired the shots were Gyp, Louie and Vallon.'

"He said: 'I was five miles away at the time. So far as I know Becker had nothing to do with the case. It was a gamblers' fight.'

The executions of the four men began at 5.27 yesterday morning and in forty minutes all were dead. The only statement at the last was made by Frank Seidenshner ("Whitey" Lewis), who declared that he did not shoot at Rosenthal.

AGED BROTHERS DIE.

Founders of Davisville, Ont., Pass Away a Few Hours Apart.

TORONTO, April 14.—Two brothers, F. H. Davis, aged 74, 32 Joseph street, Davisville, and A. J. Davis, 76 years, 12 Imperial street, North Toronto, died within four hours of each other yesterday.

Both of them were old residents and well-known figures in North Toronto, their father, the late John Davis, being the first postmaster of Davisville.

The late A. J. Davis died from the effects of an accident which occurred on Saturday. He was crossing the corner of Shaftesbury avenue and Yonge street when he was run down by a wagon belonging to the Canadian Transfer Co. and so severely injured that death resulted yesterday morning at his home.

F. H. Davis, whose death occurred at 7.30 yesterday morning had been living in retirement for many years and previous to his death had been in bad health for about eight months. The funeral of F. H. Davis will take place on Wednesday at three o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, and that of his brother on Thursday to the same place.

RIFLE IS HARMLESS.

Modern Military Weapon Not Bad But Shrapnel Is Condemned.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The modern rifle used by the armies of the world was called "a comparatively harmless weapon" yesterday by Dr. A. Depage, president of the International Surgical Association, at the opening of the fourth congress of that organization. President Depage, one of the foremost surgeons of Europe, spoke on the surgery of war.

He protested, in the name of the association, against the use of shrapnell, and urged that the civilized nations abolish these death-dealing projectiles for the same reasons that brought about the banishment of explosive bullets.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

..Physician's Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs, who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and is unequalled for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this peerless preparation, which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. J. S. McKeown Drug Store and other good druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

A GOOD BOARD OF TRADE WORK

The Illustrated London News—circulating all over the civilized world—found in every reading room, library, ship and train—issued on March 28th a special Canadian supplement with its regular edition in colors and photogravures—a "thing of beauty and a joy forever." Belleville and the Bay of Quinte (with the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa) occupy two pages which compare most favorably with other Canadian localities included in this artistic and business review of Canada. Thirteen photogravures in sepia from the photographs taken by Mr. Swan of the G. T. R. and Mr. Topley, for the Board of Trade, give a fair idea of our attractive surroundings, and more are to follow in subsequent issues. The Armouries, City Hall and market, Albert College, the cheese industry, mammoth corn, Massassaga, private residences, the fair grounds, and Stirling valley from the Oak Hills, are among the features portrayed. The descriptive letterpress accompanying the pictures, which is understood to be the literary work of the Secretary of the Board of Trade, is excellent, touching nearly all our varied activities, resources and prospects, and offering special attractions to the British immigrants able and willing to work, who will seek homes among us in this centre of opportunity and remunerative industry. We congratulate the Belleville Board of Trade on the success of this factor in their publicity campaign for Belleville and the County of Hastings.

CRITICISING A CRITIC.

To look for and find in masterpieces little flaws, real or imagined, is an occupation that must have its mysterious joys, otherwise, as it brings no profit, the task would not command all the time and labor that are devoted to it, nor would every such discovery be so exultingly proclaimed. This condition is based, or, rather, its repetition, by the letter in which a correspondent confessed that, having heard verbal perfection ascribed to Gray's "Elegy," he was moved carefully to examine the verses on the chance of proving this praise undeserved. And he did, he thinks, having found no less than two errors in the lines:

> Their name, their years, spelt by the unlettered muse
> The place of fame and elegy supply,
> And many a holy text around she strews
> To teach the rustic moralist to die.

"Name" should be "names," this authority declares, for the reason that the stones bore not one but several names, and "many a holy text," being singular, demands "teaches" instead of "teach!"

Now, just why Gray put the word "name" in the singular and not in the plural might be made the subject of ingenious inquiry, with any one of half a dozen sufficient explanations as recompense and all inconclusive, but to see force in the diversity of village patronymics—that requires more than ingenuity; it demands perversity. As for "many a holy text," that does indeed, the grammarians say, insist that a verb in immediate sequence be singular. Even the grammarians admit, however, with innumerable writers of both verse and prose, that if the verb be in a later clause the plural idea involved in "many" can properly be allowed to govern. Would our correspondent insist that when the estimable W. Scott, quoted by Goold Brown in debating this very question, wrote

> In Hawick twinkled many a light,
> Behind him soon they set in night—

the "they" should have been turned to "it?" The change would at least be amusing. That much can be said.

Critics of this sort never will learn that rules for linguistic usage are not applied to but are deduced from writers like Gray and Scott, that what such men do is right because they do it and that no further justification is needed.—New York Times.

COURSE OF A PITCHED BALL.

That a pitched baseball curves in the direction in which the nose of the ball is moving because of the spin—upward if the twist given by the pitcher is upward, toward the right if the twist is to the right, and so on—is a matter of experience that is quite comprehensible, but how a hard pitched ball should jump sidewise in a most irregular manner, although pitched straight without spinning is certainly puzzling. In the Journal of the Franklin Institute Professor W. S. Franklin of Lehigh university expounds the phenomenon as well as the philosophy of twisted balls. Multitudes of "fans" who have always supposed that the baffling qualities of a straight pitched ball were due simply to its swiftness never suspected this eccentricity. Professor Franklin states the case in this way:

Consider a very smooth ball which is moving through still water without spinning. There is certainly no more reason why the [illegible] should jump to the right than t[illegible]eft. Therefore it must continue t[illegible]aight forward. That is go[illegible] such a ball is no more sub[illegible] than is a sharp stick. The fa[illegible] ball does jump sidewise an[illegible] irregular manner. This may be shown by dropping a smooth marble in a jar of still water. The marble goes nearly straight for several inches and then suddenly jumps sidewise. Similarly a smooth baseball jumps sidewise irregularly as it moves through the air if the ball is not spinning.

The explanation lies in the fact that a rapidly moving stream of air splits when it flows past a ball with unstable dividing lines or vortex sheets. The unstable sheet will spurt now upward, now downward. The condition is the same when the ball splits the air and is shunted in a glancing manner past the bat. The only requisite for this baffling effect is power in the pitcher's arm.

Strange Arabian Custom.

In a Tripoli cemetery the gravestones, with bowls or saucers sunken in the cement, indicate that the one who lies buried there was a person of wealth and importance. These receptacles, however, are not for flowers, as one might imagine, but to hold water for birds. The birds are said to bring good fortune, so the drinking basins are not provided wholly for love of them.

Helping Her.

"So much that when her first husband died I married her that I might share her grief and so lessen it."

"And how did it work?"

WEDDING BELLS

HAGERMAN—HALBERSTADT

Preston, April 8th, 1914.

The home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Halberstadt of Preston, Fountain street, was the scene of a pleasing event, it being the marriage of their daughter Florence, to Mr. J. C. Hagerman of Dundas, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hagerman of Picton. To the strains of the wedding march the bridal party took their place beneath an arch of ferns and daffodils, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Mr. Applegath of Galt, friend of the groom.

The bride was gowned in white satin and lace over dress, with pearl trimmings, and carried a sheaf of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Eva Halberstadt, sister of the bride, wore pale blue satin and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. Merrill Hagerman, brother of scene of a pleasing event, it being the groom's present to the bride was a sunburst of pearls; to the bridesmaid a gold necklet, and to the best man a diamond tie pin.

The presents were beautiful and costly, showing the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

Miss Halberstadt will be missed in the church and social circle, where she was a great favorite. Mr. Hagerman holds a prominent position with the Hydro Electric Co. at Dundas. They will reside on Napier street, Dundas.

OTTAWA IRISH INCENSED

Father Fallon's Transfer Presented by a Certain Faction

OTTAWA, April 13.—"English speaking Catholics look not on this as a personal offence to Rev. Father James Fallon. It may be surmised that the attempt to fill his position as Prefect of Studies (at Ottawa University), Professor of English, and Director of the University Debating Society, by a French priest, will be ill received."

A prominent and representative English speaking Roman Catholic made the above statement relative to the removal of Rev. Father James Fallon from the Ottawa University staff. The statement made in some quarters that the Oblate Order took this step for reasons other than that of the bilingual troubles and complications here between French and English, is not believed. In fact there is scarcely a Roman Catholic ratepayer who is not discussing the situation. Irish professors, students, ratepayers, and educationists are naturally indignant. The Irish students at the University, when they return after the Easter holidays, will surely be heard from.

BILINGUAL CONTROVERSY.

It is pointed out that Rev. Father Charlebois, brother of the Oblate Provincial, who is the editor of the local French newspaper known as Le Droit, has for years been carrying on Nationalist or bilingual propagandism throughout the Ottawa Valley, but there was no interference from his superiors. Naturally the question is being asked: "Why find fault with an Irish priest and say nothing pertaining to a French speaking one?" Then it is alleged that what Father Fallon said relative to election matters here was small and unimportant in comparison with comments of several French Canadian ecclesiastics.

STAFF MOSTLY FRENCH.

At Ottawa University, though the English-speaking students out-number the French-speaking by a heavy percentage, the great majority of priests on the staff are French. The present embroglio may lead to a demand that this situation be evened up in view of the fact that the chief support is from the Englishspeaking people. Another, phase of the affair is that the revenues of St. Joseph's church, one of the richest Roman Catholic parishes in the city, go to the university after the upkeep of the church has been provided for, and the surplus is understood to be a substantial one. It is even said that some of it is devoted to the support of the Church of the Sacred Heart. The withdrawal of the support or an easing up in the generosity of the contributors would be a serious matter.

MAY DISRUPT UNIVERSITY.

Some go so far as prophesying that the incident may disrupt the University.

Father James Fallon has been connected with the University ever since his ordination some fifteen years ago and was everywhere recognized as a man of keen executive ability, and had risen gradually to his position of prefect of studies by steady application. He is a pleasing and polished speaker and in many ways resembles his more famous brother the Bishop of London. His case is somewhat analogous to his, as the latter fourteen years ago was forced to leave the city and pastorate of St. Joseph's church under practically indentical circumstances and subsequently became first American provincial of the Oblate Order and then Bishop of London.

Father Fallon enjoyed the confidence of the students in a marked degree. Besides his duties as prefect of studies and member of the University Senate he was professor of English literature, and moderator of the University debating society, which recently won the Intercollegiate debating championship. He will be succeeded as prefect of studies by Father Lejeunesse.

OFFICER'S MEETING OF HASTINGS' RIFLES

The 48th annual meeting of the officers of the 49th Regiment was held at the headquarters armory on Church street on Monday, 13th. The morning was devoted to business pertaining to the welfare of the regiment. At noon Col. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, ex-Premier of Canada and Hon. Col. of the regiment, visited the armories and made a few complimentary remarks, among which, he said the 49th Regiment should be proud of the record they had made in the past, for they had produced two Ministers of Militia and a Premier of the Dominion. He referred to himself and Hon. Col. Sam Hughes. He tendered the officers of the regiment an invitation to luncheon at Hotel Quinte.

The officers present:—

Transport Officer — Lieut. Thos. Solmes.

Indications point to the regiment going into camp at Petawawa on June 15th with ranks well filled and that the reputation held in the past will be maintained.

SIMPLICITY IS FAVORED

School Teachers Presents Proposed Changes in Curriculum.

Ontario Educational Association Will Consider Draft Regulations Which Make Many of the Now Compulsory Subjects Optional — Studies Are Arranged In Three Groups For Ease of Classification.

TORONTO, April 14.—The simplification of the common school curriculum, which has been long demanded by a section of the public, is provided for in the draft of the new regulations and courses of study of the public and separate schools of this province, just completed for presentation to the Ontario Educational Association for study this afternoon. These amended rules have not been submitted to Hon. Dr. R. A. Pyne, Minister of Education, yet, but go directly before the association through John Seath, Ontario superintendent of education. The simplification of the school studies is made through an extension of the optional principle, so that a school board is at liberty to pare down the number of subjects taught to a minimum. In forms one to four, the subjects to be taught are now divided into three groups. The first group comprises reading, literature, composition, spelling, grammar, history, geography, writing, arithmetic, manners and morals, and is made compulsory. The second group includes hygiene, physical culture, art, nature study and vocal music. When the teacher is qualified this group may be taught with the omission of topics duly authorized by the inspector, or local chief inspector. Group number three comprises bookkeeping, manual training, hand-sewing, household science, agriculture and horticulture, which are made entirely optional, but the school board may select for teaching any subjects that are desirable and practicable under the conditions of the school. In the fifth form foreign languages, commercial subjects, manual training, household science, horticulture and agriculture, are optional.

The new rules also provide for religious instruction in the schools after hours by the clergy of any denomination to the pupils of that faith, once a week. Any number of denominations may agree to send a particular clergyman to teach the pupils of their church members. Religious exercises consisting of the reading of selected portions of the Scriptures, the recital of the ten commandments, or a Scripture reading of the International Sunday School Association, are compulsory, but a parent may have his children absent themselves from the schoolroom during the rehearsal of these exercises.

Changes are made in the basis of the grants to rural schools. These formerly used to be made on attendance. Now teachers' salary and school equipment are the main considerations in the suggested rules. Formerly no rules for equipment obtained in urban districts. The new rules give explicit instructions in this respect.

It's easy to tell others how they might have succeeded after they fail.

INTERESTING FEATURES OF MONTREAL ELECTION

There was no little excitement and disappointment during, and at the result of the municipal election in the city of Montreal held a few days ago. This was intensified when it was learned that Mr. Martin, the French candidate for Mayor, had been elected by over five thousand majority, particularly when the general feeling was that Martin was not at all considered fitted for the position of Chief Magistrate of the commercial metropolis of the Dominion. This fact had little weight with French electors when race and creed are made the ruling claims for municipal honors.

The civic administration of Montreal consists of thirty-six members—a Mayor, four Commissioners and thirty-one Aldermen. The French race numbers twenty-seven, as against an English-speaking minority of nine. This minority consists of three English Protestants, Aldermen Boyd, Ward and Weldon; of two Irish Catholics, Aldermen Hushion and O'Connell; of two Scotch Catholics, Commissioner McDonald and Alderman Macdonald; and of two Jews, Aldermen Blumenthal and Rubenstein, giving the French a preponderating majority in the Council, showing "the utter incapacity," says a Montreal journal, "of the English-speaking minority to dominate the situation in the slightest way," as the French claim they desire to do.

"The state of affairs," says Mr. Bourassa, "is all the fault of the English-speaking people themselves, because of their arrogant, unjustifiable claim of an alternative representative and their entire apathy on all that which relates to the situation of the French minority in the other provinces."

Whether this is true or not, in Montreal, so far as it relates to the English portion of the population, it is well known that in the Senate and Commons the French not only claim alternate Speakers but violate the rule and practice when such violation favors the French, though they are in a minority in both branches of the legislature.

Another interesting feature of this Montreal fight for municipal honors is that no less than thirteen aldermanic candidates, and six candidates to the Board of Control, lost their deposits of $200 each, as they failed to poll one-half the vote won by their successful opponents.

There are no property qualifications needed to run for either Mayor, Controller or Alderman. The right to be a candidate for any of the above positions may be exercised by citizens simply depositing the sum of two hundred dollars. The result was that a large number of candidates entered the field, lost and forfeited their deposits, making the city $3,800 the richer.

Judging from the exposures of graft which has characterized municipal government in Montreal in years past, and no punishment meted out to the offenders, outsiders will not wonder that aspirants for aldermanic honors are so numerous in that city. If a few of the grafting crew were given an opportunity of learning an honest trade in a certain institute not far from Montreal there might be less fighting for seats in the Council chamber than there is at present.

KRAFCHENKO THE CRIMINAL

John Krafchenko, the murderer of Mr. H. H. Arnold, manager of the Bank of Montreal at Plum Coulee, Man., is to pay the full penalty for his cowardly crime. Krafchenko's career has been a stormy one ever since he came to America from Europe,' says the Montreal Gazette. He has had trouble with the law on each side of the border, having been mixed up in burglaries, assaults and other offences of violence. A strong man and an intelligent one, he resorted to periodical villainy rather than earn an honest living by working like ordinary individuals. The crime for which he has been sentenced to death was a cowardly and villainous one, and its perpetrator is deserving of small pity. The sad part of the business is that it might easily have been prevented. Krafchenko had been arrested in Winnipeg in connection with a robbery some time previous to the Plum Coulee tragedy. On his person was found a plan of the Bank of Montreal branch in that town. Strange to say, the officials of that branch were not notified. Had they been, the murder would in all probability have been avoided, for a watch could have been kept for robbers. Forewarned is forearmed. Krafchenko managed to get out of his difficulty in Winnipeg and went about boasting what he would do if the law interfered with him. According to the Winnipeg Journel, the desperado had such assurance that he walked into a newspaper office, drew a revolver, and warned the editors and reporters that if they did not cease publishing accounts of his misdeeds he would shoot them. Then he went his way. After the robbery of the bank and the murder of the manager, the murderer escaped. He was captured, however, but was undaunted, and defied the authorities to keep him imprisoned in Winnipeg. Strangely enough he escaped. Money got him out of jail.. The defiance of law was too much and Krafchenko was hunted down. Exposure of the methods which gained him his liberty followed his capture. His lawyer and two policemen were implicated, and the former and one of the officers were placed on trial and convicted. Percy E. Hagel, the counsel, who planned the escape of the murderer, was found guilty and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. Constable Reid, his tool, was given seven years. Now the desperate criminal is to end his life on the gallows, unless the sentence is commuted. Foreigners of Krafchenko's type have been responsible for most of the train holdups and bank robberies in the West of late. One of them at least will bother the residents of the new country no more.

DON'T HAWK, SPIT, SNEEZE,
CURE YOURSELF! BREATHE "CATARRHOZONE"!

GIVES INSTANT RELIEF. CLEARS OUT NOSE, THROAT AND ALL BREATHING ORGANS.

In this fickle climate, repeated colds very easily drift into catarrh.

The natural tendency of Catarrh is to extend through the system in every direction.

Exposure to cold or dampness intensifies the trouble and nasal catarrh is the result.

Unless a complete cure is effected, inflammation passes rapidly to the throat, bronchial tubes and then to the lungs.

In using Catarrhozone you don't take medicine into the stomach—you just breath a healing piney vapor direct to the lungs and air passages.

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists, germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Use Catarrhozone to prevent—use it to cure your winter ills. It's pleasant, safe and guaranteed in every case. Complete outfit $1.00. Smaller size 50c., at all dealers.

What do Canadians think of this war upon pussy? A Bill was introduced in the Massachusetts House of Representatives on the 9th inst. and passed into law, imposing a license upon cats. The bill has been before every Legislature for many years. It passed by 79 to 41. The bill provides that all unlicensed cats may be killed on sight. A farmer is allowed to keep one unlicensed cat for the protection of his grain, but the bill spells the death knell of the animal which makes night hideous in the city alleys. Bird lovers advocated the measure. Those who voted for this bill deserve to be overrun with rats and mice.

A Better Remedy Than Nasty Salts

Few people like to take physic, especially salts, because they are so disagreeable to take and because of the griping and pains they cause. Rexall Orderlies enable you to take less physic, and all without griping, purging or excessive looseness. Salts and harsh physics usually give only temporary relief and often leave the bowels worse off then before.

Rexall Orderlies move the bowels promptly, and soothe, tone and strength the intestinal muscles, leaving them healthy and regular in action. They taste like candy, and the movement they cause is as easy and natural as though your bowels were in perfect health and you never had to take physic at all. We have so much faith in Rexall Orderlies that we urge you to try them with the understanding that, if they do not satisfy you in every walk, all you have to do to get your money back is to tell us. We honestly believe them to be the best bowel remedy made. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50c.

TIMISKAMING

(By Geo. S. Shields)

A great many different sections of the continent are being boomed at the present time. Lives of ease and luxury are "guaraneed" to those who will invest but a few hundred dollars in the soil of this or that "Promised Land." To-day there are hundreds of citizens who are almost persuaded, and in many instances who have been actually persuaded to part with their hard-earned dollars, resign their positions and journey to some remote section where rich rewards are promised.

In the columns of an American weekly the public are warned to beware of flim-flammers who are engaged in booming such lands for no other reason than that they may dispose of their holdings at a wide margin of profit. It says—"These sweet singers are for the most part gentlemen of the road—modern Jack Sheppards, who daintily turn back their lace cuffs before they slit your purse or coax your bank balance from its snug retreat."

In Distant Parts

The issuing of false statements regarding any particular section of a country is only practised by those who seek to rob the public, and is only possible when the sections referred to are far removed from the scene of the flim-flammers' operations.

No individual, no matter how unscrupulous, would dare to engage in the issuing of grossly exaggerated statements regarding a section so near at hand as to be easily visited by any who were sufficiently interested.

The district known as Timiskaming lies within a few hundred miles of the city of Toronto. Trains pulling out of the Union Station at 10.30 p. m. land their passengers in the clay belt before noon the following day. A visit to Timiskaming may be made at small expense.

Not in Private Hands

A vast area has been opened for settlement there, not by private individuals or land companies, but by the Provincial Government. The price asked for the land is 50c an acre, or $80 for 160 acres. There is no difference in price according to location. It is only necessary to pay $20 down in order to secure a homestead, the remainder to be paid in three equal instalments, covering a period of three years, when, if homestead duties have been performed, a patent to the land is issued.

Hard Work Ahead

Ease and luxury is not promised to those who take up the Government lands of the clay belt. On the contrary, as repeatedly pointed out, the man who will make good in Timiskaming must be endowed with physical strength, plenty of courage and a willingness to work and work hard. He must be content to endure the many hardships incident to frontier life. He must be prepared to toil patiently for a period of at least three years before he can expect to get within hailing distance of more than ordinary prosperity.

In the meantime he can, if he has a mind to, enjoy a fair living, reasonable comfort, and at the same time have the assurance of future independence as the owner of fertile acres equal to the best in the Dominion of Canada.

A Sure Reward

The wonderful productiveness of the lands of the clay belt have been abundantly proven. The cleared and cultivated farms there are the demonstration grounds. The crops that have been raised on these farms prove beyond a doubt that there's no section in the country where bigger yields per acre of hay, roots, barley, peas, oats, and wheat can be grown, than in the clay belt. Clover is a weed and covers the ground wherever a clearing is made. Alfafa, too, has been succesfully grown, while even corn has been grown, though only in a few places, as yet.

A visit to New Liskeard will convince anyone of the possibilities of the clay belt as an agricultural section. Thousands of others are making good. The hundreds of thousands who must soon be attracted to this rich section will ultimately become prosperous farmers.

Have Made Good

Twenty years ago the whole of Timiskaming was practically an unbroken forest. To-day it is dotted with cultivated farms and small clearings. A few years hence, and the forest will have made way for fields of grain, pasture and herds of cattle.

The wooded homestead of but a few years ago is to-day the well cultivated farm that you couldn't buy for $5,000. It requires a lot of hard work to clear up a bush farm. It requires courage to undertake the job. The reward, however, is sure and well worth the earning.

A PLEASANT AND SURE WAY TO AVOID SORE THROAT TONSILITIS AND ORDINARY COLDS

It is now an accepted scientific fact that not only sore throat, tonsilitis and ordinary colds, but the more serious forms of infectious disease, such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, etc., are caused by germs.

These germs get into the system in the air that we breathe. Their usual passaeg is through the mouth, which by its moisture and warmth makes it an ideal breeding ground.

Effort should be made, therefore, to destroy the germs in the mouth before they have a chance to do harm. This may best be done by the use of a very pleasant remedy, that tastes like candy, and is perfectly harmless to the system. The Lozenges should be slowly sucked until dissolved. In this way the saliva is permeated with the germ killing properties of the chief ingredient, which is one of the best known disinfectants in refined form.

Being harmless, the lozenges can be taken daily as a preventive of sore throat, cold in the head, and in fact disease of any kind. They keep the mouth in a thoroughly aseptic condition in which germs cannot live.

Use them when you have to be where people congregate, either on the street, in the store, at the theatre, etc., and under any other conditions that may expose you to contagion. They are just the thing for children going to school who so easily take infectious diseases, and may be given to them with absolute safety.

Wampole's Paraformic Throat Lozenges are sold by all druggists at 25 cents per bottle. A liberal sample in handsome lithographed tin box will be sent free on request to manufacturers.

MOBS ASSAIL CLERGY

Fierce Riots Occur Throughout Italy on Easter.

Widespread Indignation of People at Endeavor to Suppress Ancient Folk Observances Results In Attack on Priests During Religious Processions—One Cleric and His Acolytes Are Wounded.

MILAN, April 14.—An extraordinary series of religious disturbances spoiled the Easter festivities in various parts of Italy. At Pagnano, in the province of Treviso, the parish priest and acolytes were shot at and wounded while carrying the sacred image in a public procession. One of the religious canopies was riddled with bullets. At Porto Ferrajo Cathedral, where about 3,000 worshippers were present, a dispute between rival religious confraternities for precedence in the procession developed into a riot. According to Corriere della Sera many women and children and old men were injured during the panic-stricken rush for the doors of the cathedral.

Similar disgraceful reenes occurred at Santo Stefano, near Messina. The peasantry of two adjacent Sicilian villages fought for precedence in the open-air cortege. Sticks, stones and hayrakes were freely used, and the clergy and monks were put to flight. All the sacred images were smashed to pieces. Scores of people were injured. Reinforcements of carabinieri had to be summoned by telegraph.

Catanzaro Cathedral, in Calabria, was also a scene of amazing riots. A new archbishop attempted to suppress certain popular local customs involving the use of pagan symbols, and owing to his instructions being openly disobeyed had laid a neighboring church under three days' interdict. When the archbishop appeared in the cathedral to celebrate Easter High Mass an infuriated throng threatened a tumult, and shrieked curses at him. As it was feared he would be assaulted the clergy hurried him away by a private exist. Troops were sent for to drive the mob out of the cathedral.

WRIT AGAINST FLEMMING.

F. B. Carvell, M.P., Acts for Company Seeking Refund of Charges.

WOODSTOCK, N.B., April 14. — A Supreme Court writ has been issued against James K. Flemming, Premier of New Brunswick; W. H. Berry and Edgar R. Teed on behalf of Timothy Lynch & Co., Ltd., lumbermen, for the recovery of $1,830 and costs in connection with the alleged payment of money by the Lynch estate in the matter of timber bonus charges made on the floor of the New Brunswick Legislature a few days ago. This action is taken by F. B. Carvell, K.C., M.P., who is solicitor for the Lynch Company.

It is announced that the basis of this suit is information in the possession of Mr. Carvell to the effect that the Lynch Company, without the knowledge and consent of a sufficient number of the directors, is alleged to have paid over $1,630, amounting to $15 a square mile of its timber limits, in connection with timber bonuses.

Mr. Carvell says that the serving of the writ at this time is due to the fact that he has heard that one of the defendants contemplated a journey out of New Brunswick for his health, and that serving the writ will inform him of the fact that his presence in this province is necessary during the immediate future.

Woman Frozen To Death.

MONTREAL, April 14.—The body of a woman, believed to be Mrs. Kate McGuiggan, a servant, was found yesterday on the water front. She had gone into an old shack apparently to get away from the cold Sunday night, and had been frozen to death.

Which is the greater nusiance—the neighbor's piano or our dog?

There are times when the truth is about as inspiring as a cold fried egg.

Hair Doesn't Die It Has To Be Killed

Hair often continues to live and grow long after the death of the body. But it is often killed through neglect or misuse. Almost always the woman or man whose hair is falling out, or is stringy, lifeless and dull-looking, is entirely to blame because of not giving it the proper care. It is easy to take care of the hair. Use Harmony Hair Beautifier to make it glossy, soft and silky, and Harmony Shampoo to keep hair and scalp thoroughly clean. It is delightfully perfumed with true rose. Sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil, and will not change color of hair, nor darken grey hair.

To keep your hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo is most convenient to use, giving an instantaneous rich, foaming lather that immediately penetrates to every part of the hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair, and leaves no harshness or stickiness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us—J. S. McKeown.

Ferryboat Burned.

SARNIA, Ont., April 14.—The ferryboat Grace Dormer, of the Port Huron and Sarnia Ferry Line was destroyed by fire at midnight and the watchman, Mick Macdonald, who told a sensational story of having been seized, gagged, bound and lowered from the boat to the dock by several men who climbed over the side of the vessel and afterwards set fire to it, is being held pending an investigation by the Port Huron police. The boat had just left dry dock after having undergone repairs to the extent of $2,000. She was insured for $8,000.

Boy Shot By Brother.

STRATHROY, Ont., April 14.—While playing about the farm of his uncle, Charles Sifton, in Metcalfe Township, Herbert Boyd, the 11-year-old son of Charles Boyd, received the full charge of a loaded shotgun through his shoulder when his eight-year-old brother accidentally pulled the trigger. The shooting occurred at 4.45 yesterday afternoon, and in 10 minutes the boy was dead.

Rebels Retire From Tampico.

VERA CRUZ, April 14. — Private advices received here yesterday from Tampico report that the rebel forces have withdrawn a considerable distance from the outskirts of the town, it is presumed for the purpose of reorganization.

Schooner In Bad Plight.

EASTPORT, Me., April 14. — The three-masted schooner John Paul of Franklin, Me., ran ashore near Head Harbor, Campo Bella, N.B., yesterday while bound for St. George, N.B., to load pulpwood. A tug was unable to float her and as the schooner lay in a bad position it was feared she would break in two.

Transformed.

Slim little girl in the checkered apron,
Hair combed back from bulging brow,
Eyes so deep and true and tender,
Ankles, oh, so very slender!
Slim little girl, where are you now?

Slim little girl, you are no longer.
Broad and stout and strong you've grown.
You that once seemed so ethereal
Now belong to the world material
And have a slim little girl of your own.
—Chicago News.

Not Practicing It.

"Isn't that fine?"

"I don't know. It doesn't seem to be doing any good. At the bottom of his letter he says he's out of funds and wants $25 more."—Detroit Free Press.

Pickups.

She dropped her handkerchief; he stooped
And picked it up for her.
She dropped her purse; he picked it up,
And likewise with her fur.

So gentlemanly was he that
She put him to the test.
She dropped a gentle hint, and then—
Well, you may guess the rest.
—Lawrence American.

Her Habit.

"Did you hear how the telephone operator broke off her engagement?"

"No. How did she do it?"

"Just held out her hand to her exfiance and coldly remarked, 'Ring off.'"—Baltimore American.

GLORIOUS HAIR

Girls and women of all ages want to be charming, beautiful and attractive—it's their birthright—but unsightly, thin and lifeless hair destroys half the beauty of a pretty face.

If your hair is not attractive, is falling out, streaky, full of dandruff, too dry or if the scalp itches and burns, don't delay—use Parisian Sage. Rub it well into the scalp. It will go right to the hair roots, nourish them, and stimulate the hair to grow strong and luxuriant. Parisian Sage removes dandruff with one application and cleanses the hair of dirt dust and excessive oil.

Parisian Sage gives the hair just what is needed to make it soft, fluffy, thick and gloriously radiant. It is sold in fifty cent bottles only by W. H. Lattimer and at all drug and toilet counters. Look for the trade-mark—"The Girl with the Auburn Hair." Accept no substitute.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being steady, owing to the small offerings and the limited demand. Demand for calves was fair, and the supply was ample, with steady prices. Trade in sheep and lambs was slow. The feeling in the market for hogs continues very firm under a good demand from packers, and sales of Ontario selected stock were made at $10 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

ITALY AWAITS STORM

Every Precaution Taken to Offset Impending Strike.

Detachments of Troops Have Been Stationed at Critical Places and Navy Is Ready to Take Action In the Event of a Tie-Up of the State Railways — Better Wages, Pensions and Hours Are Demanded.

ROME, April 14.—The question of a strike of the railwaymen throughout Italy still hangs in the balance, but the Government, in order to be in readiness for any eventuality, has already occupied certain stations with detachments of troops. Arrangements have been made to replace with bluejackets the sailors on postal steamers plying between the continent and the islands, while the engineers and stokers of the warships will, if necessary, assist the military engineers to carry on the train service.

In several cases damage has been done to the engines, and those responsible have been dismissed. The leaders of the railway men have been holding secret meetings, but what they have decided upon it not known. It is thought by some that the strike may be suddenly proclaimed.

The operating forces permanently engaged by the Italian state railways, including officials of all classes, number about 115,000 individuals, who are joined in a league which has been pressing for increases of wages and diminution of hours of work.

The men's chief demand is for a minimum wage of sixty cents a day. Some get only thirty-four cents a day. Twenty cents extra per night for night work is demanded. More reasonable hours are also asked.

The guardians at the flag stations and the grade crossing women are to work ten hours a day, with one day of rest a week, the latter having no night hours and no work when maternal duties interfere.

Exceptional pensions are demanded for all the employes who are obliged to leave the service through infirmity caused by their service. A minimum pension of one hundred dollars yearly is asked.

The Government asserts that these claims cannot possibly be granted, as they would involve a yearly expenditure of over $20,000,000, which the budget of the country cannot stand.

ITALIAN IS ARRESTED.

OTTAWA, April 14.—A man believed to be Antonio Pedro, who on Sunday afternoon shot and killed John Sisinni, another Italian, in a boarding-house in George street west, was arrested yesterday afternoon at Prescott, Ont., while attempting to cross the international line at Ogdensburg. Two friends, Tony Mandell and Tony Giratti, both of this city, were apprehended at the C. P. R. station yesterday afternoon, after returning from Prescott, and were held on a charge of aiding and abetting a fugitive from justice.

Immediately following their arrest the police made a round-up of foreigners who were present when the shooting occurred, and as a result six men and Donato Maraschino, the woman who is one of the central figures in the case, were taken to police headquarters last night and locked up. They will be questioned closely by the authorities.

PLOT NIPPED IN BUD.

Royalist Conspirators Quarrelled and Plans Leaked Out.

LISBON, April 14.—A well organized royalist conspiracy has been discovered, according to semi-official reports. It appears that the royalists, disheartened by lack of support they had received from the members of the House of Braganza, decided to find foreign support and to place a foreign prince at the head of the monarchy.

The plan was carefully matured, but opinions were divided as to the person to be asked to accept the throne. One faction wanted a British prince, while another preferred an Italian ruler. The dissension at last grew so bitter that the plot leaked out. Several arrests have been made.

Bride Accused of Murder.

TAUNTON, Mass., April 14.—Mrs. Bradford Scudder, a bride of three months, was arrested on a charge of murder after her brother-in-law, Edgar Scudder, a farmer, had been shot and killed in her apartments yesterday. According to Medical Examiner Charles A. Atwood, the woman admitted that she fired the shot because "there was no privacy in the house."

Scudder was 54 years of age. The woman is 30 years of age.

Three Nova Scotia Sailors Lost.

LUNENBURG, N.S., April 14.—With her flag flying at half-mast, the Lunenburg fishing schooner Associate, Captain Albert Backman, arrived here yesterday from the banks and reported the loss of three of her crew. They were all young Nova Scotians, and they lost their lives while setting their trawls. The victims were two brothers, Cleveland, and a man named Rafuse.

NEW ULSTER PROPOSAL

LONDON, April 14.—(Special.)—A new basis for the negotiations with regard to the Ulster deadlock is now being discussed in certain quarters, the essence of the proposal being a combination of the optional exclusion policy, with Home Rule, the idea being that at the termination of the six years' period the exclusion of Ulster should be either fixed for a further definite period or until Parliament should intervene. Ulster in the meantime to be allowed all the freedom permissible under the scheme summed up in Sir Edward Grey's proposal of Federalism.

It will be remembered that Mr. Asquith in a recent speech in the House of Commons expressed his personal preference for home Rule from within, under which, for administrative purposes Ulster would be emempted from the executive authority of the Irish Parliament, while its local government would be in the hands of a separate body.

As regards legislation the propcsal was that Ulster should like the rest of Ireland, return representatives to both the Houses of the Irish Legislature, but when any law was enacted by the two Houses which Ulster deemed detrimental to the province it should not become operative without the consent of the Imperial Parliament. Premier Asquith told Parliament that the Home Rule within Home Rule scheme had not met with general favor, although it appealed to him personally.

The question now was whether if combined in this way with the Government's optional and temporary exclusion it would commend itself to the public. The combined scheme is regarded by some politicians as worthy of serious consideration within the next few weeks.

FOUR WINTERS OF RHEUMATISM

RIDGETOWN, ONT., May 21st. 1913.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism. It was the only medicine that made any impression on me. I was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism. I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was completely crippled.

Some neighbor of mine told me that "Fruit-a-tives" helped him, and I started in to take them. I used "Fruit-a-tives" faithfully for two years, taking them every day as I saw they were doing me good, and the results were marvellous.

For over two years, I have been completely free from any Rheumatic Pains whatever, and I give "Fruit-a-tives" the credit." W. H. RACHER.

CANADIAN TRIP TO KEEP PROMISE

TORONTO, April 13.—Sir Newton James Moore, agent general for Western Australia in London and former premier arrived in Toronto yesterday en-route to England. A peculiar feature of the journey is the fact that Sir Newton is making his trip through Canada in fulfilment of a promise he made to the late Lord Strathcona, whom he was great friends, previous to his return to Australia last year.

Sir Newton is a strong advocate of compulsory military training. He said that it was a decided success in Australia and that it has given the country a force of over 80,000 trained men.

The policy of a "white Australia" is still being followed out by the country and Sir Newton expressed surprise at seeing so many Asiatics in British Columbia. He said that the trip through Canada was a great education as Australia had but gone in for agriculture and that he realized that it was one of Canada's greatest assets.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour Improvements at Port Hope, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Monday, May 11, 1914, for the construction of Harbour Improvements at Port Hope, Durham County, Ontario.

ALCOHOL AND INSANITY

U.S. Statistics are Contrary to the Popular Impression

NEW YORK, April 11.—Dr. Edward Huntingdom Williams, in an article on "The Liquor Question in Medicine' in the current number of the Medical Record, calls attention to the fact that although prohibition is spreading and about one-half of the population of the country is now living in so-called "dry" territory, yet diseases that are attributed to alcoholic excesses are increasing rather than diminishing.

"The Government statistics for the last census period," he says, "show that certain diseases which are attributed to excessive alcoholic indulgence, directly or indirectly, have increased more in the group of States where prohibitive legislation existed at the close of the period than in the United States as a whole. Thus there was a gain of 4.4 insane persons per one hundred thousand of the population committed to institutions of the country during the census period. But during this same period the gain in the eight prohibition States was 7.3 per one 100,000, almost twice the gain in the country as a whole.

"Morerer, the greatest gain in any State with a single exception was in rpohibition Maine, where the number of insane increased 2.12 per each one hundred thousand inhabitants, while "wet" Nebraska holds the record at the other extreme with a decline of 27.6 per 100,000 during the same period.

"When we add to these facts that the record for homicides in 1912 went to Memphis, in prohibition Tennessee with 64.3 homicides per 100,000 of the population, as against licensed Philadelphia's 1.4 (the lowest record for the year); that Bangor, Maine, a prohibition city for thirty years, has a record for the year); for arrests for drunkenness for that year of one or every nine inhabitants, and that Kansas, the veteran standard bearer for prohibition, has more insane than seventeen of the "wet" States scattered across the country and more paupers and convicts than her unregenerate neighbor Nebraska; the result of prohibition legislation are not encouraging, to put it mildly.

MAYOR-ELECT IS STILL MEMBER OF OTTAWA HOUSE

MONTREAL, April 11.—Mr. Mederic Martin, M.P., Mayor-elect of Montreal, referring to a report that he had resigned his position as member for St. Mary's division in the House of Commons, said that he had not done so, and had no intention of doing so. "As I said during my campaign, if a general election should be held during my term of office I will not run for my old constituency; otherwise, I will hold the two positions."

"I have begun work," he said. "Yesterday I wrote the thirty-one aldermen asking them to at once place before the Board of Control their views in regard to civic questions so that the two bodies may work together in harmony. I thank the English-speaking electors who gave me their votes and I want to emphasize this—I am the representative not only of the French-Canadians, but all the citizens of Montreal, that will be my attitude throughout my whole term of office."

CHILDLESS WOMEN INVITE CANCER

NEW YORK, April 12.—A disagreement over the action of radium on tissues of the human body sprang up yesterday at the closing session of the American Surgical Association's convention at the Hotel Astor.

Dr. Robert Abb, of New York, one of the best known advocates of the use of radium in cancer cases, defend radium after Dr. Sparman, a pupil of Anton Von Eiselsberg, of Vienna, had said radio-activity made worse many cases of malignant tumor.

Dr. John M. T. Finney, of Baltimore, who refused the presidency of Princeton after Woodrow Wilson resigned, caused a stir among the assembled surgeons by declaring that cystic disease of the breast in women is a "protest against modern civilization."

Other surgeons who followed Dr. Finney confirmed his statements that childless women and those with a child they do not nurse are the chief victims of cystic disease of the breast.

SHORTAGE OF EGGS DUE TO ROOSTER

WASHINGTON, April 12.—"Alas! the poor rooster." This is the plot the department of Agriculture pronounces against him:

"In the interest of egg conservation the poultry specialists of the Department of Agriculture have started a campaign for the elimination of the rooster among poultry nocks during the season between May 1 and December 1. In this connection, Saturday, May 16, has been set aside as Rooster Day in Kentucky and Tennessee when every poultry dealer in these states has agreed to pay the same prices for roosters as they do for hens and pullets."

The department estimates that one-third of the tremendous annual loss of eggs is due to the rooster. The department adds that on May 15 the school authorities of the cities, counties and towns of Kentucky and Tennessee have been requested to announce Rooster Day to their scholars and it is expected that it will be observed. Other states will follow the lead, and "Rooster Day" will be pretty generally established.

BENZINE MANIAC 12 YEARS OLD

VIENNA, April 12.—A peculiar case of benzine mania was described the other day by Dr. Schmeiz to the Medical Association here. The victim was the 12-year-old daughter of a widow who kept a clothes cleaning establishment and who in the course of her business used a great quantity of benzine. The child always showed a great partiality to the benzine bottles, and was frequently smelling them; but the mother did not pay any particular attention to this strange taste.

When the girl was about 10 the mother gave up the business and the benzine supply was stopped. A year afterward the mother began to notice that when the girl returned from errands abroad she had a peculiar look about the eyes, her face was flushed and she smelt of benzine. It was then found that the child spent all her money on the stuff which she poured on her handkerchief and then inhaled. She said that when under the influence of benzine she saw beautiful landshapes, people and animals and heard lovely voices.

Medical treatment proved unavailing, but Dr. Schnelz was able to cure her in a very shot time by using hypnotic influence. He described the case as a variant of ether-mania, which some time ago was a widespread vice among young girls in Austria.

CHILD IMMIGRATION

FREDERICTON, N. S., April 13.—The Government of the Province is addressing itself to the question of the settlement of its vacant lands, of which there are many millions of acres available. One of the propositions being considered in this respect is that of Child Immigration. Attention to this new method of population has been called by the marked success that has attended the Farm School in Pinjarra, Western Australia, which is conducted under the auspices of the Child Immigration Society of London and has attracted widespread interest throughout New Brunswick, whose accessibility from Great Britain, with its many lakes, rivesr and streams, fertile soil and agreeable climate, make it an ideal location for the kind of experimental farm that has been so successful in Western Australia.

The idea of training immigrants from orphan and destitute children for agriculture in the land of their adoption was started by Rhodes scholars at Oxford, England, in 1909, and the first farm school resulting from this movement has been established near Pinjarra, where it has been carried on for the past twelve months. Thirty-three boys are happily domiciled at the farm, the youngest being under eight years, the eldest under thirteen. Most of the boys come from the Boards of Guardians in London, Scotland and Wales. Until they are 14 years old they are subject to the primary education of the state. After 14 they will receive three years agricultural education before they are found positions with reputable farmers.

It is hoped to extend the operations of the Society to the Maritime Provinces and sections where agricultural population is still needed. Amongst the useful occupations the older boys have already learned are the elements of pruning fruit trees, thinning, picking and packing apples, hay-making, tending pigs and poultry, and milking cows. The boys take turns at house duties. For the past quarter the cost of supervision, clothing and maintenance of one boy per year is about $130, but it is expected that this can be cut down considerably. The Farm School is supported by public subscriptions and donations.

ANOTHER BATTLE RAGES.

Federals and Rebels Are In Conflict South of Torreon.

EL PASO, Texas, April 13.—Ciudad Parras, the Manchester of northern Mexico, is the battleground of the Federal and rebel forces. Communication has been cut from all directions, and only the most meagre details of the battle there have drifted through the censor at Torreon, who is holding every detail of Villa's troop movement away from the world. The situation is considered a serious one for the revolutionists. This is indicated by the departure of Villa from Torreon in a high-power limousine automobile at a time when he was most needed there to straighten out the tangle which resulted from the collapse of the Federal civil government and the substitution of military rule under rebel control. Parras is 58 kilometres southeast of Torreon, and all of the available men and elements are being rushed in that direction to crush the escaped enemy by weight of superior arms. The censorship is so strict that nothing of a military nature has been permitted to pass by telegraph, and only the most general descriptions of the battle at the Coahuila factory town can be obtained.

The one great fear of the rebels is that the Federal columns which left San Pedro after the rebels occupied it have swung about and are marching to the relief of Parras from the northeast with sufficient men and means to overwhelm Benavides' brigade before Villa's main column under Gen. Angeles can advance to support the mounted brigade.

Made Amends For Arrests.

MEXICO CITY, April 13.—Assurances were given last night by Minister of War Blanquet that the incident growing out of the arrest at Tampico Thursday of several American marines had been "satisfactorily arranged," although he did not say in what manner.

No information has been received here since Friday concerning the incident, and the members of the American embassy staff and American flag was saluted in accordance with the demands of Rear-Admiral Mayo.

SUBSIDY REFUSED.

Canada Will Not Bonus Wealthy British Shipbuilders.

QUEBEC, April 13.—While the Borden Government is ready and desirous to give every reasonable encouragement to the promotion of the shipbuilding industry in Canada, and will insist that all vessels for the Canadian service must be built within the confines of the Dominion in future, it has no intention of establishing a precedent by subsidizing wealthy and powerful British concerns to enter the Canadian field and compete with this added advantage against the companies already established. This was the substance of Hon. L. P. Pelletier's reply on Saturday to a delegation of Quebec and Levis citizens who interview him with regard to the establishment of a branch of the Armstrong firm at Lauzon, where the new drydock is to be built.

Mr. Gravel, president of the Levis Board of Trade and member of the Quebec Harbor Commission, put the case for a subsidy before the Minister, telling of the negotiations which are being carried on with the Armstrongs and urging that a steel shipbuilding plant would be almost a necessity to the drydock, as the repair of damaged vessels would call for the permanent employment of a staff of experienced shipwrights and a well-equipped plant.

PREPARES FOR STRIKE.

Army and Fleet Will Be Used to Offset Railway Crisis.

ROME, April 13.—In addition to the army the whole fleet will be employed to facilitate communications and maintain order in case a general strike is inaugurated by the railway employes on Wednesday next. In this way the Government hopes either to check the strike or minimize its effects. In its attitude the Government appears to be supported by public opinion, which is not favorable to that section of the railway men which is advocating the employment of strong coercive measures.

The various organizations of civil service employes have already planned at what points to erect barricades and are in readiness to take possession of various offices. They believe that they have some of the army on their side. Meanwhile all the army officers are under orders to join their regiments. Detachments have been concentrated at those places considered the most dangerous, especially in Milan and in Rome.

Cured For Spinal Paralysis.

PARIS, April 13.—Prof. Arnold Netter made an important statement at the Academy of Medicine regarding a new cure for spinal paralysis.

The cure, which Prof. Netter had sought since 1910, consists of an injection of serum collected from the spinal marrow of a sufferere from a similar disease. Apparently the microbes coming from the first sufferer kill those inhabiting the second.

Prof. Netter illustrated his theory by the case of a man aged 34, who had been reduced in six months to utter helplessness by paralysis. He was cured entirely in a few weeks by the new treatment.

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of

"Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

Towards daybreak, he took a couple of hours' sleep in a tavern at Shadwell, and with the day his search began again.

Throughout the day the same paquiries were repeated with indomitable perseverance, in every likely and unlikely place; but everywhere the result was a failure.

It was towards dusk that Joyce Harker turned his back upon a tavern in Rotherhithe, and set his face towards the river bank.

I have looked long enough for him among the living," he said; "now I must look for him amongst the dead."

Before midnight the search was ended. Among the printed bills flapping on dreary walls in that river-side neighborhood, Joyce Harker had discovered the description of a man "found drowned." The description fitted Valentine Jernam, and the body had been found within the last two days.

Joyce went to the police-station where the man was lying. He had no need to look at the poor dead face—the dark, handsome face, which was so familiar to him.

"I expected as much," he said to the official who had admitted him to see the body; "he had money about him, and he has fallen into hands of scoundrels."

"You don't think it was an accident?"

"No; he has been murdered, sir. And I think I know the men who did it."

"You know the men?"

"Yes; but my knowledge won't help to avenge his death, if I can't bring it home to them—and I don't suppose I can. There'll be a coroner's inquest won't there?"

At the inquest, next day, Joyce Harker told his story; but that story threw very little light on the circumstances of Valentine Jernam's death.

The investigation before the coroner set at rest all question as to the means by which the captain met his death. A medical examination demonstrated that he had been murdered by a blow on the back of the head, inflicted by some sharp heavy instrument. The unfortunate man must have died before he was thrown into the water.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was to the effect that Valentine Jernam had been wilfully murdered by some person or persons unknown. And with this verdict Joyce Harker was obliged to be content. His suspicions he dared not mention in open court. They were too vague and shadowy. But he called upon a celebrated Bow Street officer, and submitted the case to him. It was a case for secret inquiry, for careful investigation; and Joyce offered a handsome reward out of his own savings.

While this secret investigation was in progress, Joyce opened the letter addressed to Valentine by his brother George.

"Dear Val," wrote the sailor: "I have been tempted to make another trip to Calcutta with a cargo shipped at Lisbon, and shall not be able to meet you in London on the 5th of April. It will be ten or twelve months before I see England again; but when I do come back, I hope to add something handsome to our joint fortune. I long to see your honest face, and grasp your hand again; but the chances of a big prize lures me out yonder. We are both young, and have all the world before us, so we can afford to wait a year or two. Bank the money; Joyce will tell you where, and how to do it; and let me know your plans before you leave London. A letter addressed to me care of Riverdale and Co., Calcutta will be safe. Good luck to you, dear old boy, now and always, and every good wish.—From your affectionate brother,

GEORGE JERNAM

It was Joyce Harker's melancholy task to tell Valentine Jernam's younger brother the story of the seaman's death. He wrote a long letter, recording all that happened within knowledge, from the moment of the "Pizarro" reaching Gravesend to the discovery of Valentine's body in the river-side police station. He told George the impression that had been made upon his brother by the ballad-singer's beauty.

"I think that this girl and these two men, her father, Thomas Milsom, and Dennis Wayman, the landlord of the 'Jolly Tar,' are in the secret—are, between them, the murderers of your brother. I think that when he broke his promise to me, and came back to this end of London, before the fifth, he came lured by that girl's beauty. It is to the girl we must look for a key to the secret of his death. I do not expect to exbort anything from the fears of the men. They are both hardened villians; and if, as I believe they are guilty of the crime, it is not likely to be the first in which they have been engaged. The police are on the watch, and I have promised a liberal reward for any discoveries they may make; but it is very slow work.

This, and much more, Joyce Harker wrote to George Jernam. The letter was written immediately after the inquest; and on the night succeeding the inquiry, Joyce went to the "Jolly Tar," in the hope of seeing Jenny Milsom. But he was doomed to disappointment; for in the concert-room at Dennis Wayman's tavern he found a new singer—a fat, middle-aged woman with red hair.

"What has become of the pretty girl who used to sing here?" he asked the landlord.

"Milsom's daughter?" said Wayman "Oh, we've lost her. She was a regular she-devil it seems. Her father and she had a row and the girl ran away. She can get a job anywhere with that voice of hers and I don't suppose Milsom treated her over well. He's a rough fellow, but an honest one."

"Yes," answered Joyce, with a sneer, "he seems uncommonly honest There's a good deal of that sort of honesty about this neighborhood, I think mate. I suppose you've heard about my captain?"

"Not a syllable. Is there anything wrong with him?"

"Ah!" news seems to travel slowly down here. There was an inquest held this morning, not so many miles from here."

The landlord shrugged his shoulders.

"I've been busy in-doors all day, and I haven't heard anything," he said.

Joyce told the story of his captain's fate to which Dennis Wayman listened with every appearance of sympathy.

"And you've no idea what has become of the girl?" Harker asked, after having concluded the story.

"No more than the dead. She's cut and run, that's all I know."

"Has her father gone after her."

"Not a bit of it. He's not that sort of a man. She has chosen to take herself off, and her father will let her go her own way."

"And her grandfather, the old blind man?"

"He has gone with her."

There was no more to be said about the girl after this.

"I'll tell what it is Mr. Wayman," said Joyce, "I'm likely to be a good bit down in this neighborhood, while I'm waiting for directions about my poor captain's ship from his brother, Captain George, and as your house suits me as well as any other, I may as well take up my quarters here. I know you've got plenty of room here and you'll find me a quiet lodger."

"So be it," answered the landlord promptly. "I'm agreeable."

Joyce deliberated profoundly as he walked away from the "Jolly Tar" that night.

"He's too deep to be caught easily," he thought. "He'll let me into his house because he knows there's nothing I can find out, watch as I may. Such a murder as that leaves no trace behind it. If I had been able to get hold of the girl, I might have frightened her into telling me something; but it's clear to me she has really bolted, or Wayman would never let me into his house.

For weeks Joyce Harker was lodger at the "Jolly Tar" always on the watch; always ready to seize upon the slightest clue to the mystery of Valenine Jernam's death; but nothing came of his watching.

The police did their best to discover the key to the dreadful secret, but they worked in vain. The dead man's money had been partly in notes and gold, partly in bills of exchange. It was easy enough to dispose of such bills in the city. There were men ready to take them at a certain price and to send them abroad; men who never ask questions of their customers.

So there was little chance of any light being thrown on this dark and evil mystery. Joyce watched and waited with dog-like fidelity, ready to seize upon the faintest clue; but he waied and watched in vain.

CHAPTER 111

Disinherited

Nearly a year had elapsed since the murder of Valentine Jernam, and the March winds were blowing amongst the leafless branches of the trees in the Green Park.

In the library of one of the finest houses in Arlington Street, a gentleman paced restlessly to and fro, stopping before one of the windows every now and then to look, with a fretful glance, at the dull sky. "What weather!" he muttered: "what execrable weather!"

The speaker was a man of some fifty years of age—a man who had been very handsome and who was handsome still—a man with a haughty patrician countenace—not easily forgotten by those who looked upon it.

Sir Oswald Eversleight, Baronet, was a descendant of one of the oldest families in Yorkshire. He was the owner of Raynham Castle, in Yorkshire; Eversleigh Manor, in Lincolnshire; and his property in those two counties constituted a rent-roll of forty thousand per annum.

He was a bachelor and having nearly reached his fiftieth year it was considered unlikely that he would marry.

ROASTS CHURCHILL.

Australian Minister of Defence Alleges Bad Faith.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 13.—Hon. E. D. Millen, Australian Minister of Defence, has issued on behalf of the Commonwealth Government an important and comprehensive statement on the whole question of Imperial naval defence, in which he severely criticizes Mr. Churchill's recent speech and emphatically defends the Australian policy.

Australia, declares the Minister, is irrevocably committed to an Australian navy policy and needs her own ships. If Churchill's references to battle cruisers mean that the British Government thinks such vessels are unnecessary in the Pacific, then a most startling departure has been made by the Admiralty from the agreement of 1910 between Australia and the Mother Country.

It is impossible, he proceeds, for the Commonwealth Ministers to accept the existence of the Japanese alliance as a reason for this departure. Mr. Millen cities instances in which the Admiralty has violated the 1910 compact without acquainting the Australian Government, and declares that while the Imperial aspect of the Australian naval unit scheme still cordially commends itself to the Australian people, the latter are also wedded to the local control and defence system, as determined five years ago. He insists that until the Australian unit is placed on a thoroughly sound foundation Mr. Churchill's suggested Imperial squadron will not appeal to Australian sentiment.

In concluding, Mr. Millen says that Mr. Churchill suggests a reversion to the discarded policy of a contribution. He quotes Admiral Sir Reginald Henderson, in his report with regard to the establishment of an Australian navy, who said that continuity of policy was essential. "Yet almost before the foundations of the policy inaugurated in 1909 have been laid we are urged to adopt a radical modification."

GUNMEN GO TO CHAIR

Governor Glynn Refuses Final Appeal For a Reprieve.

Rumor at Ossining, N.Y., Is That the Sentence of Death Was Carried Out at Dawn To-day, Within a Few Hours of the Beginning of Week Set For the Execution—Governor Refused Plea.

OSSINING, N.Y., April 13.—Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenberg, Frank Cirofici and Frank Seidenshner, the gunmen whose picturesque aliases were flung across the continent after the murder of the New York gambler, Hermann Rosenthal, failed yesterday in their last effort to escape the penalty of their crime, and it was stated unofficially here this morning that they had been executed in the electric chair at dawn. Under the New York State law the execution is assigned to a certain week, but it is the custom to carry it out at sunrise on Monday.

To relatives who bade them goodbye yesterday and to their spiritual advisers the four condemned men again declared their innocence.

In the executive chamber of the deserted state capitol, Governor Glynn heard the final appeals of two attorneys for the convicted slayers, C. G. F. Wahle and H. L. Kringle, for a stay of the death sentence, and then again and for the last time refused to interfere with the executions.

For two hours— from three until five o'clock—the two attorneys pleaded with the governor. All appeals to his sympathies were disregarded. Only the new evidence that was presented before Justice Goff in New York Saturday was presented. Seldom did the attorneys speak above a conversational tone. When they had finished, the governor and his legal adviser, John G. Saxe, retired to a private room to consider the evidence.

Pale and a trifle nervous, the governor returned and said:

"Gentlemen, I am sorry, but I cannot see my way clear to change my decision."

With their last chance to save the gunmen from the electric chair gone, the attorneys walked slowly from the chamber.

"It seems the boys must die," Mr. Wahle said then. "Unless the governor changes his decision before morning they are doomed."

"Did he hold out any hope?" was asked.

"No," he replied. "On the contrary, he said his decision was final."

Mr. Wahle then told of the nature of his appeal, emphasizing that he thought the governor was very patient.

"There is nothing left for us to do but continue our duties as bearers of bad news," he said. "We shall telegraph to Ossining and later return to New York to report the governor's decision to the relatives of the condemned men."

A written statement issued at the executive chamber follows: "Judge Wahle renewed his application and the governor heard him for one hour and a half.

"The application was renewed on the same facts that were before the governor originally, and the affidavits of new witnesses presented to Judge Goff yesterday afternoon.

"The governor replied that there was nothing before him to justify his interference with the course of the law."

CONVENIENT BAGS.

New Models Are Compact and Fitted With Useful Accessories.

Manufacturers of fine leather goods are offering exquisite novelties in traveling bags and cases, which are much smaller in size than the heavy, old fashioned types of bags. The responsibility for the change lies with the modern taste for motoring. The woman of 1914 covers such distances and her belongings must be so generic in size and so easily packed that designers have been at work turning out the most elegant as well as the most convenient form of toilet apparatus.

The party bag is a mere trifle to handle and looks almost like a handkerchief in black moire drawn in with a ribbon. It may be concealed in a coat pocket, or there would be space for it in a little hand bag. Within its folds are all the items that go to give a woman the finishing touches for the toilet. Just a little frame keeps all the gold, silver gilt or enameled trifles together, and the contents are all that is required.

The prevailing taste leans to easily folded or drawn bags, and some novelties consist of round models of the finest leather, so soft as to crush into very small space. Inside is a frame, and into this are fitted the little implements of the toilet. A tiny hairbrush is set into gold, gilt, enamel or inlaid ivory or tortoise shell. The comb is decorative, and there are small pots for cream, powder, lip salve, tiny bottles for perfume, a miniature toothbrush, diminutive manicure implements and a long thin roll of metal matching the setting of the case that turns out to be a receptacle for needles, cotton and other trifles to mend a rent.

Color enters into many of these fanciful cases, a green leather bag or case containing red or rose colored fittings, while a yellow bag will have every item in blue enamel or in silver gilt. Many and varied are these dainty trifles and devices featuring a season of unusual luxury and elegance.

Shock Fatal To Inventor.

MONTE CARLO, April 13.—Ferdinand Forest, an aged inventor of a motor, died suddenly yesterday while testing a new auto boat, in which he was about to attempt to break the mile speed record. The boat came into collision with a jetty. It was only slightly damaged, but the excitement proved fatal to the inventor, who suffered from heart disease. Forest was the first to construct a four-cylinder engine and apply the magneto ignition.

Postman Brother Visits Pope.

ROME, April 13.—For two weeks Pope Pius will enjoy the companionship of his brother, Angelo Sarto, who has abandoned his duties as a postman for that length of time that he may be near the pontiff.

After the first visit to the Vatican Signor Sarto said his brother appeared greatly pleased on seeing him, and with all cheerfulness and resignation remarked that he supposed this would be the last Easter they will spend together.

Montreal Greeks Celebrated.

MONTREAL, April 13.—In the little Greek Church on St. Lawrence boulevard, Greek citizens of Montreal yesterday celebrated the 93rd anniversary of the independence of their country, which followed the war of 1821.

OPENS CREATION DRAMA IN LOUISVILLE

Pastor Russell Conducts Exhibitions Himself.

HE SPEAKS ON RESURRECTION

Over 35,000 See and Hear In One Day the Story of the Bible as Presented by This Truly Great Drama—In Forenoon Pastor Russell Preached on That Feature of His Photo-Drama Which Relates to "the Chiefest Resurrection," Which Began With Jesus—His Footstep Followers Share In It With Him—Then Will Come Another Class on the Spirit Plane—Then Will Follow the Resurrection of the Ancient Worthies—Remainder of World Will Be Resurrected Gradually During Thousand Years of Messiah's Reign.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Louisville, Ky., April 12.—In the Shubert Masonic Theatre here this afternoon Pastor Russell presented his Photo-Drama of Creation. It is truly a wonderful presentation of the Bible narrative. Nothing of the kind has ever before been shown here. It is interesting to the point of fascination. One desires to see it over and over again.

It is now reported successful in more than thirty of the best theatres of the principal cities, where crowds are the rule. Over 35,000 attend in one day, and the numbers are rapidly rising.

In the forenoon Pastor Russell delivered a discourse on "The Chiefest Resurrection," from the text, "There shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust."—24:15.

The Pastor remarked that Easter Sunday, throughout the civilized world, stands as the reminder of the resurrection of Jesus; and yet there has perhaps never been a time when the professed followers of Jesus have believed less in the Resurrection of the Dead than at present. This shows a great falling away from the faith once delivered to the saints. The Resurrection hope is the great hope which the Bible sets before mankind.

The Pastor cited various Scriptures to prove that death is the penalty of sin—the curse which came upon Adam and all his race because of Adam's disobedience to God in Eden. He showed that God's promise to roll away the curse, and to give blessing instead, includes every member of the human family. He reasoned, and produced Bible proofs in support, that the blessing of all the families of the earth, therefore, will mean the resurrection of the dead—the resurrection of Adam and every member of his race.

The earliest information on God's part that He would do anything for man's recovery from the death sentence, was given when our first parents were expelled from Eden. There God vaguely declared that at some future time the Seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head. This was merely a ray of hope, with no intimation of how it would be accomplished.

God's first definite statement of what He purposed to do for Adam and his race was made to Abraham two thousand years after sin had entered the world. To Abraham God made known His future good intentions toward Adam and all of his posterity. He said, "I purpose to bless all the families of the earth. Walk before Me and be thou faithful; and the blessing shall come to the human family through thee and thy posterity." After Abraham had endured tests, God confirmed the previous assurances and gave His oath to prove the certainty of the whole matter. The words were: "In thee and in thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

God knew, when He made the Promise to Abraham, that his Spiritual Seed, The Christ, would not appear even in the flesh for more than two thousand years. He knew also that it would be nearly two thousand years after that before the Spiritual Seed would be given the necessary power and authority to bind Satan and to release the slaves of sin from the tomb and from the shackles of ignorance, superstition and weakness. But it was neither necessary nor expedient that all this should be told to Abraham. It was sufficient that the friend of God should know of a surety that a blessing was coming, and that his seed would be identified with that work of blessing mankind.

God did, indeed, give a typical lesson respecting the fact that there would be two seeds of Abraham; one, Heavenly, and the other, earthly. Without explaining the matter to Abraham, God stated it so that it would be written aforetime for the information of the Household of Faith of this Gospel Age. He said, "Thy Seed shall be as the stars of Heaven, and as the sand of the seashore." One of these seeds would be developed under the Law—by being required to obey the Divine Law, and thus being helped up toward perfection. The other Seed, the Heavenly, would be by grace, not by Law. Good works would be accounted to the Heavenly Seed on the basis of faith.

St. Paul calls our attention to [illegible] two seeds, and [illegible] the Promise of God made to Abraham appertains to both the Heavenly, Spiritual Seed, and the earthly, human-nature class. His words are: "Therefore it is of faith, that it might be by grace; to the end that the Promise might be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of the Law, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham."—Romans 4:16.

God allowed Abraham's posterity, through Jacob, to go down to Egypt, and there to become a nation of bondmen. Later, He brought them to Mount Sinai, where He made a Law Covenant with them, Moses serving as its Mediator. In that Covenant God promised that if the Israelites would keep His Law perfectly He would use them as His holy nation for the blessing of all nations. But God knew that Israel could not keep that Covenant into which they entered.

God had a double purpose in entering into that Covenant with Israel. (1) It served to show them that they were sinners, who could not keep the Law and who could not be blessed themselves by anything that they could do; and that hence they could not expect to be used of God in the blessing of other peoples. Additionally, it taught a similar lesson to all others who would subsequently know about the arrangement. That one great lesson was that God's Law is perfect, and obedience to it requires perfection, and that no man is perfect; hence no man is able to keep the Law of God; hence no man is entitled to eternal life; for God purposes to give eternal life only to the perfect.

(2) Another object was that the Law Covenant and everything appertaining thereto were typical, and pointed forward to glorious antitypes, which would bring in the real blessings.

The Law Covenant typified the New Law Covenant of the future, which will be in operation for all the families of the earth during the thousand years of Christ's reign. The Mediator of that New Covenant will be the antitype of Moses—The Christ—Jesus the Head, and the Church His Body, enthroned in power and great glory as the antitypical Melchizedek — a Priest upon His Throne. As the typical Covenant was inaugurated by the sacrifice of bulls and goats, so the antitypical Covenant, the New Law Covenant, will be inaugurated upon the basis of "better sacrifices" than those. As the typical Covenant had its Day of Atonement for the sins of the people, so the antitypical Covenant will have a much greater Atonement Day.

The offering of the "better sacrifices" takes place during the early part of the antitypical Atonement Day, which began eighteen hundred years ago and is not yet completed. The great Sin-Offering was that of Jesus, finished at Calvary; but His secondary offerings, as our great High Priest, have continued ever since; and during this period He has been offering up the members of His Body, justified through His precious sacrifice. These, the Apostle declares, are holy and acceptable sacrifices, because offered by their great Redeemer and Advocate.

Soon, we believe, the antitypical sacrifices will all be slain. Soon all the members will be glorified with their Head, their Lord Jesus, beyond the veil. This is the First Resurrection. The change of Jesus to the Heavenly condition at His resurrection was the beginning of this Chief Resurrection; and the glorious change of the last member of the Body of Christ, the Church, will be the consummation of the Chief Resurrection. Only the blessed and holy will have part in it.

The typical high priest on the Day of Atonement, after having offered the sacrifices, put on his glorious garments, and then appeared to bless the people. The antitype will be when our great High Priest, Jesus, shall have finished offering the last member of His Body, and when that last member shall have passed beyond the veil. Then the entire Melchizedek Priest will put on His official robes as King of glory, and be manifested to the world as the great antitypical Mediator, whose sacrifice satisfies Divine Justice in behalf of all.

Then, for a thousand years, this antitypical Priest, Mediator, King, will be engaged in blessing mankind—uplifting Adam and all his race from sin and death; and thus He will fulfill, as God's Representative, the promise, "God shall wipe away all tears.—Revelation 2:4.

We now see from God's standpoint that the Law Covenant was added because of transgression—to show the natural tendency of sin, the impossibility of any other way of righting the matter than that which God foreordained; namely, through Jesus and His glorious Messianic Kingdom.

We see also that whoever would be the Seed of Abraham with power and authority from God to bless mankind must, first of all, accomplish a redemption—must pay the penalty against mankind. In God's Providence, only one man was tried and sentenced to death—Adam. Therefore when the time came for redeeming mankind it required only one man, The Man Christ Jesus, to die for Adam. As Adam's sin had entailed itself through heredity upon all his children, so the redemptive work of Christ's sacrifice would be co-extensive, and signify reconciliation to all of Adam's race.

Thus it was impossible for anything to be done in the way of blessing mankind or granting a resurrection from the dead until Christ had died for the sin of Adam—the sin of the world. On the third day after Jesus' crucifixion God raised Him from the dead, fully empowered to be the Deliverer of Adam and his race.

But when Jesus arose from the dead, the blessing of the world was not yet due. God, who had foreordained that Jesus should be the antitypical Seed of Abraham, had foreordained also that Jesus should have a Church to be His Joint-heir in the Kingdom of glory and the work of blessing mankind. God foreordained that all who would be of this Body of Christ must show the same spirit that He had—a spirit of faithfulness, loyalty, self-sacrifice. God predestinated that this Church class must be conformed to the image of His Son—must possess similar character.

All through this Gospel Age God has been developing the Church as the Body of the great antitypical Mediator of the New Covenant. These are developed under a special Covenant, different entirely from the New Covenant, made with the world.

Jesus did not become the great Mediator under the Law Covenant; for the Law Covenant offered life; whereas the Covenant under which Jesus qualified called for death. The Church of Christ is developed under the same Covenant under which the Master qualified, which reads: "Gather My saints together unto Me; those that have made a covenant with Me by sacrifice."—Psalm 50:5.

The New Covenant is to be sealed, or made operative, through the blood of Christ. The efficacious sacrifice was that of Jesus Himself. The Church has a share in the sacrifice of Christ as a privilege; for in God's order, only by suffering with Him can she reign with Him; only by becoming dead with Him to the earthly life, earthly interests, can she become alive with Him on the Heavenly, Spiritual plane.

From what we have seen, we are prepared for St. Paul's declaration that Jesus' faithful footstep followers only can share with Him in His Resurrection. (Philippians 3:10.) Only those who are to reign with Him will receive, in the resurrection, the Divine nature, to which He was changed in His resurrection. The Master's words to these are: "Blessed and holy are all they that have part in the Chiefest Resurrection; upon such the Second Death hath no power; they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with Him a thousand years."

Next to the Royal Priesthood of the First Resurrection will be the antitypical Levites. Their resurrection will be to spirit conditions, because they experienced the begetting of the Spirit. Failing to get the highest prize—joint-heirship with the Saviour—they will constitute the Great Company, "whose number no man knows," to serve God in His Temple. As the Levites of old were the servants of the typical priesthood, so these antitypical Levites will be the servants of the Royal Priesthood in the great work of blessing and instructing mankind.

We come now to the resurrection of the world in general, and find that of those who will be resurrected to human perfection there is already selected a preferred class. Theirs will be the chief resurrection on the earthly plane. These are the holy ones of the period preceding the coming of Jesus and the offer of the High Calling of joint-heirship with Him. Some of this glorified class St. Paul mentions in Hebrews 11: Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, all the Prophets and those less notable. The last of these was John the Baptist, as Jesus testified, saying. "Among them that are born of women there has not risen a greater than John the Baptist; notwithstanding he that is least in the Kingdom of Heaven, is greater than he."

These Ancient Worthies, had they lived during this Gospel Age, would doubtless have been members of the Royal Priesthood. As it is, however, being approved of God, they were promised "a better resurrection" than others of humanity. St. Paul says of them: "These all died in faith, not having received the promises, * * * God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect." By this the Apostle signifies that the Church must be perfected on the Heavenly plane prior to God's fulfilment of His promises to the Ancient Worthies on the earthly plane.—Hebrews 11:13, 40.

The better resurrection of the Ancient Worthies will be to human perfection, to be used by Messiah as earthly representatives of His Spiritual Kingdom. Of this Jesus said to some: "Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and all the Prophets in the Kingdom." They will be seen because they will be human beings. Christ and the Church will be unseen, because they will be spirit beings. As Jesus said, "Yet a little while, and the world seeth Me no more." Even the Church sees not her Lord until she is changed.

As death constituted the Divine curse upon Adam, which the whole world inherited by natural laws, and as sickness, sorrow and pain are elements of death, the rolling away of the curse will mean the rolling away of sickness, pain, sorrow and death. God has provided a thousand years for this great work, which will include all the members of the human family, "every man in his own order." Those who have fallen asleep must needs be awakened. Then the world's resurrection program will begin. It will include the progressive steps of uplifting out of sin, ignorance, imperfection, back to God's image and likeness. Only the wilfully wicked shall ultimately be destroyed in the Second Death.

Then every creature in Heaven and earth, everywhere, will be heard saying, "Praise, glory, honor, dominion and might, be unto Him that sitteth upon the Throne, and unto the Lamb forever."

In Memory of Edward VII.

The plan of adding a stone gatehouse and colonnades to Holyrood House as a memorial to King Edward has now been abandoned, and it has been arranged, with the cordial approval of the King and Queen, to place two ornamental gates at the north and south ends of the forecourt of the palace, along with a statue or medallion of King Edward. There has been a remarkable delay in setting to work on the memorial, but it is hoped that a serious commencement will now soon be made.

ZAM-BUK SAVED MY ARM

So says Mr. John Evans, of 87 Lawrence St., Halifax, N.S. He had blood poison in his finger. A doctor attended him for three months, but the finger got worse; and a second doctor was called in. Finally the finger was cut off! But the mischief didn't end there. Another operation was performed, and the bones in the palm of his hand scraped. Still no relief, and the hand would not heal! The poison had got into the blood vessels of the arm, and the doctor said the arm must come off, too!

Then, after undergoing all this agony, Mr. Evans was advised to try Zam-Buk—a course he should have taken right at the start. He says:—"The Zam-Buk quickly reduced the lumps which had formed on my arm and eased the pain. It was doing so much good that I told the doctor I would use nothing else. Day by day I applied it freely, both to the terrible sore in my hand and to my arm, and it drew the poison out marvellously. To cut a long story short, by the time I had used seven boxes of Zam-Buk my hand was healed, my arm was free from inflammation or pain, and every trace of blood-poisoning had been banished. Zam-Buk saved my arm."

THE LESSON IS THIS!—Use Zam-Buk right at the start for cuts, blood-poisoning ulcers, abscesses, piles, varicose veins, eczema, eruptions, scalp sores, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. Don't wait until these lead to a grave condition!

SINGSONG PETE

He Proves a Blessing In Disguise

By CLARISSA MACKIE

The lower rim of the sun rested on the edge of the horizon, a huge orange ball against the background of copper red sky.

Nancy Barton watched it slowly sink below the flat Texas plain until all at once it was gone and the weird twilight was about her.

With a little sigh she turned her horse to the low hills that bounded the northeast. Her black Judy skimmed over the ground with velvet feet, and the passage of the graceful girl and the beautiful animal were almost like shadows fleeing before the light western breeze.

Then as they passed into the deep gloom of a walnut grove Nancy heard rough voices in discussion. For a moment her heart thrilled with terror, for the Barton ranch was very near the Mexican border, and in these uncertain days there was a growing spirit of lawlessness among the rough characters that invested the neighborhood.

The voices came from a little hollow on the left of the trail, and Nancy was glad of the protection afforded by the great trees that surrounded her.

She pulled Judy to a standstill and listened sharply.

Five minutes afterward she had emerged from the grove and was tearing down the trail toward home.

Her appearance in the yard brought her father into the porch and the cook into the doorway of the bunk house.

"That you, Nan?" cried her father relievedly. "I've been wild about you for the last hour. I know you can take care of yourself, but remember what I told you about staying out after dark. Why, what is it, child? You are trembling." Mr. Barton lifted the girl from the saddle, and she sank limply on to the steps.

"You no see men, Miss Nancy?" shrilled Hep Loo across the yard. He waved a spoon toward his waiting supper table in the bunk house.

"They will come later, Hep Loo," said Nancy faintly, and as the Chinaman returned muttering to his kitchen she said to her father: "Dad, what shall we do? I came home through the grove, and I overheard our men here plotting to burn the ranch and run the cattle across the border."

"You are sure, daughter?" demanded Barton sharply, for he had trusted his cowboys to a man.

"Yes. I heard all their voices. Singsong Pete seemed to be the leader. It is planned for tonight."

"I wonder if they are coming back to supper," mused Barton.

"No. They planned the raid, and after it is accomplished they are to rush in and appear to rescue me. Oh, dad, they said they would finish you, and you know what that means—and"— Nancy's voice broke a little, and her father knew that when his brave daughter's courage wavered there was danger indeed, and he guessed that she had not told him all she had overheard.

"We need help. How shall we get it?" he muttered.

"Let me go, father. I am safer riding than I am here," she shuddered.

"Where will you go, child? You could never ride to Fenby's in time, and"—

"I will go and get Roger Dare," said Nancy.

Mr. Barton started.

"Roger Dare?" he repeated. "He would never come after the way I treated him. I can't expect it. No man with red blood in him would do it."

"Roger would do it, dad," said Nancy quietly. "Just because he has got red blood in his veins would he forgive an injury and help. He's a man!"

Barton stared down at the girl.

"Nancy! I believe—I believe you really did care"— He stopped short as Nan lifted her gloved hand.

"Dad, you can believe almost anything of a foolish girl," she whispered. "Give me a cup of tea and let me go. They are cowards, and they will not shoot me if I run across the gang, but I will go the lower trail if it will lessen your anxiety. You and Hep Loo remain in the house and protect the place." Nancy arose and ran into the house, where Aunt Hepsy, the stout negress, was waiting impatiently to serve supper.

Nancy drank a cup of tea and ate a few mouthfuls of food; then, with a last close embrace from her father, who had protested even while he saw that her pistols were loaded and that Judy was ready at the door, she swung into the saddle and vanished into the night.

Then James Barton worked swiftly. Within an hour the house was closely shuttered and loaded weapons placed at all the upper windows.

Silence fell over the ranch. Hepsy lumbered uneasily about her room, while Barton, kneeling in an upper window, watched the entrances by which the enemy might be expected. While he waited he thought of Nancy flying for help and asking Roger Dare, of all men!

In the darkness Barton blushed. When Roger Dare had first come to the cattle country the finger of suspicion had pointed heavily at him in a very dubious transaction. Barton had been one of his most relentless accusers; he had really believed the man guilty. There had been a lynching stopped at the critical instant by news of the capture of the guilty man, and Roger had been set free, but his stern attitude toward his accusers had told them that he had not forgotten the insult and injury their unjust accusations had brought upon him.

James Barton had made handsome apology for the injustice, and in more ways than one had he been of service to the young rancher, but quite unknown to Roger, for it is probable that that stern young man might have refused the aid that came from unknown sources. Then Barton's contrition had an added bitterness, for Roger had fallen promptly in love with Nancy, and there might have been a romance there on the Texas plain had not the unfortunate affair come up to blight it in the bud.

Now, this very evening Barton had discovered something in Nancy's tone that betrayed her secret. She loved Roger after all. That was what had worn upon her during the past year, although she had maintained her cheerful demeanor. He swore softly under his breath as he thought of how he had failed after all to make his motherless daughter entirely happy, and that was all he lived for.

So James Barton waited for the enemy to come and burn his home, if they could, but his thoughts traveled side by side with the gallant young [illegible] speeding through the night surrounded by unseen dangers.

• • • • • • •

The lower trail led away from the chestnut grove and its concealed plotters. The trail skirted the foot of a hill and then followed the dry bed of Cinder creek, plunged through the narrow confines of Cinder canyon and emerged on Roger Dare's north range.

Nancy Barton, leaning low in the saddle, rode the miles unflinchingly. Her pride must suffer in going to Roger Dare for help. But what mattered? She thought of her brave, gray haired father standing off the crowd of desperadoes single handed, and she spurred Judy to greater effort.

The stones rattled in the dry bed of the creek, and then the dark plunge through the little canyon was accomplished with heaven only knows what hairbreadth escapes from death or disaster, and then Judy's feet pounded over the grass of Roger Dare's land.

A dog barked in the distance, a light flared in a window, other lights sprang out around the house, and when Nancy arrived on the almost winded mare she was at once surrounded by a circle of excited men, with Roger Dare in their midst.

"What has happened?" asked Roger, his hand on Judy's neck.

In a few broken words Nancy told him, and then, reeling in the saddle, she murmured:

"I'm not going to faint. I never fainted in my life." And she straightway proceeded to drop into Roger's outstretched arms.

"She has fainted away," said Roger as he laid her on a sofa in the sitting room. "Eliza," turning to his grim featured housekeeper, "there is trouble at the Barton ranch, and I must go, but watch over Nancy. You will know what to do, and guard her as you would your own child. Ben and Gallagher will remain with you."

With a last glance at the sweet, pale face on the pillow, Roger turned and rushed out into the yard, where his men were piling on to their horses. In a moment twenty of them were flying toward Cinder canyon, and the disgruntled Gallagher and his companion were left behind.

Long afterward old Hepsy tried to describe the battle of Barton's ranch, but words were inadequate.

"Lawsy, chile," she told her listener, "I jest wish you could hev been dero and seen how Marse Barton pinged dem snakes wid his gun, and right in de midst of it dere was a rarin' shout from de lower gate, and I declar' if Marse Roger Dare and his men didn't come skyhootin' erlong, and—well, do war ended right off! Marse Roger and de rest of 'em jes driv dat Singsong Pete and de odder snakes clean off de place, and I heahs dey went ovah de bo'der inter Mex'co, and a good place for 'em, too, wid de greasers! Uh, huh! Marse Roger am sure a brave man, but he ain't no braver den Marse Barton—no, suh!"

Roger Dare, coming back from that wild chase over the border in pursuit of Singsong Pete and his band, rode into the Barton yard and met Barton's hearty hand clasp with one equally warm. No one heard the few words they uttered as they stood there side by side, but that very instant the feud between them died.

There was a light patter of hoofs at the gate, and Nancy came riding in on Judy. The girl, her face now pale and rosy, slipped from the saddle and looked from her father to Roger Dare.

"I am so glad you are safe—safe, father," she sobbed, clinging to Barton. "I told you he would come"—

"Yes, darling," smiled Barton over her sunny head. "He has come, indeed, and he tells me that he has come to stay!"

Nancy was silent for awhile, and then she timidly put a hand toward Roger, her eyes still hidden on her father's sleeve. And when she lifted her eyes at last and looked shyly around she found herself standing hand in hand with her father and Roger Dare.

And Aunt Hepsy, who was an interested observer of this scene, was scandalized to hear her master exclaim:

"Well, we can thank Singsong Pete for this!" and Roger's happy answer: "Heaven bless Singsong Pete!"

But on the wedding day Nancy explained what they meant.

STRONG MINDED

A Third, Ordinary Person Proved a Dark Horse

By F. A. MITCHEL

How Edgar Marston met and wooed Julia Spingler does not pertain to this story. It is sufficient to say that he won her consent to their marriage when she was passing out of her teens and her ideas of the stand she should take in the world were in embryo. Soon after her engagement Julia fell under the influence of Margaret Halsted, an elderly unmarried lady—to avoid the unpleasant term old maid—who wrought a considerable change in her.

Miss Halsted was what was called a strong minded woman till the more pleasing term "new woman" was invented. Under the tutelage of the stronger, or at least the more developed, intellect Julia conceived a different notion from what she had held of the part of women in the universe. That it was a woman's part alone to bear children she did not believe. Under the new dispensation the professions were open to the gentler sex, and she saw no more reason why a woman should not enter them than a man. After consultation with her mentor she resolved to become a lawyer.

Marston was not considered bright, but was universally respected. Some of Julia's intimate friends who looked upon her as a talented girl wondered how she could fancy one who was intellectually her inferior. He regretted that she had entered a field which has been occupied, almost exclusively by men, for he was not up to the new departure. He had looked forward to having a wife who would rely on him to provide the home and on herself to run it smoothly. Being one of those persons who believe in the adage "All things come to those who wait," he took no action upon his fiancee's becoming a lawyer, leaving the matter of his relationship with her to work itself out.

Julia consulted Miss Halsted with reference to her engagement with Marston, but did not act on her advice, which was to remain single. The fable of the fox who had lost its tail suggested itself to the pupil, and she saw no reason why because a woman adopted a profession she should give up wifehood and motherhood, so she continued her engagement.

But while pursuing her studies Julia listened to a course of lectures from an eminent member of the bar, by whom she was very much impressed. It seemed after hearing the keen logic of Cyrus Underwood that Edgar's talk was extremely commonplace. Mr. Underwood, who was a bachelor in middle age, took a great fancy to Julia and, not being aware of her engagement, showed her attention.

Julia, who realized that she was bound in honor to Marston and was extremely fond of him, now entered upon one of those periods of indecision that are extremely trying. But whatever there was in him was not glittering and did not appear to advantage beside the brilliant mind of Underwood. In her perplexity Julia made a confidant of Margaret Halsted.

Perhaps if she wished for advice she would have done better to go to a married woman who had had experience in such matters. But even this would not have been likely to avail anything, for Julia was pretty likely to make up her own mind about what she would do in her own affairs without the advice of any one. However, Miss Halsted gave her a couple of pictures, the one of a union with a commonplace man, the other with a brilliant lawyer with whom she might in time be a partner not only matrimonially, but professionally. It must be confessed that this second picture was very attractive. Julia saw herself and her husband working together on interesting cases, each assisting the other with suggestions and oftentimes supplying each other's deficiencies.

It was this that finally determined Julia to break with Edgar Marston and accept Cyrus Underwood. Relying on a certain sense of justice she had observed in the former, she laid the case before him, telling him that she saw in a union with Underwood a brilliant future for herself, and, though it pained her to pain Edgar, she thought that in justice to herself she should make the change. But on no account would she do so unless Edgar assured her that he thought her perfectly right in the matter.

If Marston had a fault it was not in opposing persons whose minds were made up. He said that her problem was altogether too deep for him to solve, but if it was better for her to marry a lawyer it was certainly better for himself that she should do so, inasmuch as he was not a lawyer, but a plain man of business. Nothing would be well for either that was not well for both.

Julia, whose mind at the time was fixed upon the brain union that promised such brilliant results, was much pleased with her lover's statement of the case, not so much on account of its good sense as because it left her free to enter upon a new alliance that appeared so advantageous. A few weeks later she wrote a very kind letter to Edgar, regretfully breaking her engagement with him, and not long afterward her engagement with Underwood was announced.

By this time Julia had been admitted to the bar. The first problem that came up for her to solve after becoming a lawyer was whether she should better practice awhile independently of her fiance or form the expected partnership with him at once. Underwood urged her to be married and enter his office as his assistant for one year, with the partnership in view. This she rejected as incompatible with her ideas of equality between the sexes. She demanded a partnership, and Underwood yielded.

Singularly enough, before consummating the arrangement she wished to ask her former lover what he thought about it. Why she should wish for the opinion of a man she had discarded because he was not intellectual enough for her does not appear. She could probably not have explained the matter herself. It had been agreed between her and Edgar that they should remain friends. She did not, therefore, hesitate to ask him whether she would better remain for awhile independent or enter upon a partnership at once.

Edgar looked at her stupidly for awhile before replying. She was about to turn away from him disappointed when he said:

There was something far down at the bottom of this advice that appealed to her, though she could not exactly explain what it was, since she didn't exactly see how such a situation could be brought about. Edgar, who was connected with a corporation having considerable law business, said he would watch for an opportunity. It was not long after this that his company proceeded by law against a man for a debt. The defendant's counsel being Mr. Underwood, Edgar Marston secured the appointment of his former fiancee as counsel for the company.

Mr. Underwood was a lawyer—not a jurist, but a practical court lawyer—from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet. Miss Spingler opened the case by stating the company's claim against the defendant, showing conclusively wherein he had acted with intent to defraud and how he had laid himself criminally liable. She had studied the law in the case carefully and made an excellent presentment of both the law and the case. There was no doubt but that the defendant would be worsted unless his counsel could either throw dust in the eyes of the jury or work upon its sympathies.

When he arose to speak he referred admiringly—somewhat patronizingly, Julia thought—to his "young opponent," as he called her, and to the ingenuity she had displayed in making the law appear to be on the side of the company, while he was prepared to show that it was all on the side of his client. He would also show that the facts in the case favored the defendant. As he warmed up he began to whirl both the law and the facts over the heads of the jury, at the same time appealing to the prejudices of the twelve men in what he called an octopus corporation sucking the blood out of an innocent man whom it had purposely ruined for the sake of sucking the little business he possessed into its capacious maw.

Miss Spingler, who had considered Mr. Underwood to be full of the dignity of the law, was appalled at what she considered an attack on plain justice. Mr. Underwood, who had won success by such handling of his cases and had fought his male opponents with far more defiling weapons, breaking a bottle of wine with them after the trial, was oblivious to the fact that his opposing counsel considered his statements untrue, that he knew they were untrue and, moreover, that he was personally attacking her from the opening to the close of his speech.

The next matter that occupied the court was the examination of witnesses. Miss Spingler's indignation at the treatment she had received was so great that she could barely settle herself to the work of drawing out the facts. While she was doing so her opponent further antagonized her by apparently paying no attention to her. When she had finished Mr. Underwood in cross examination destroyed every point she had made, proved her witnesses perjurers and turned all her efforts to ridicule. His summing up was rather an attack on corporations than a statement of his side of the case. The jury acquitted his client without leaving their seats.

"Come, dear," said the defendant's counsel after all was over and they were gathering lawbooks and putting them in green bags; "let's go to lunch."

To his surprise, Miss Spingler swept out of the courtroom without replying to his invitation or otherwise noticing him. Then for the first time it occurred to him that a woman might not be constructed to stand the browbeating he had been accustomed to visit on his male opponents. He looked after her with a troubled expression and wondered how he could have been so stupid. He must call in the evening and undo the damage he had done.

But before leaving his office that afternoon he received a note from his fiancee stating that, whereas she had considered him a jurist and found him a pettifogger, she felt constrained to break her engagement.

The subsequent career for a year of Miss Spingler was one of indecision. What other women may be fitted for, she was not adapted by nature for a lawyer. She gradually fell back into a reliance on plain matter of fact Edgar Marston. It never occurred to her that in the only advice he had given her he had hoped to show her the true situation in her own individual case. She finally married him, and after the birth of her first child, instead of concerning herself with the meshes of the law, she gave herself up to the best treatment of babies during the tooth cutting period.

The death toll of aviators from January 1st to April 1st of this year was 38. Since the flying machine was invented the total number killed by it has been 462. They were not all martyrs to science, however. Probably a majority of the victims were killed while trying to do circus stunts to entertain crowds. That sort of thing should be forbidden.

Pump Anchors.

A pump is a queer sort of anchor, but it has been found to be the best kind of an anchor for a sandy bottom. The anchor consists of a heavy piece of metal with a hole down through the center and a tube from this hole to the ship, so that water can be pumped from the ship down through the tube and out of the bottom of the metal mass. When this anchor drops to the sandy bottom and the pump is started it makes quicksand of the material round it so that it sinks in deep. When the pumping stops the sand hardens and holds the anchor. To raise the anchor it is necessary only to start pumping again and loosen the sand.—Saturday Evening Post.

What Is Instinct?

Instinct is a generic term comprising all those faculties of mind which lead to the conscious performance of actions that are adoptive in character, but pursued without necessary knowledge of the relation between the means employed and the ends attained. It is hardly necessary to remark that sometimes "instinct" comes so close to "reason" that it is almost impossible to distinguish between them.—New York American.

Dancing Masters' Academy Meeting in Paris to Decide on the Real Article and on New Dances

PARIS, April 13.—The International Academy of Dancing Masters' discussed at their annual meeting to-day various dances from which it is hoped to select one which may serve as a typical figure for all the world during the coming year. Forty-five dancing masters from the United States and Europe attended the Congress.

During the session the delegates debated at length on the desirability of the tango, which was attacked in some quarters and warmly defended in others. Finally it was decided that the tango might be danced on condition that it be purged of certain objectionable features.

A Parisian professor of dancing who has invented a figure known as the tatao with the object of maintaining the purity of the art, argued against the regrettable tendencies of certain teachers who are responsible for conditions which have aroused violent hostility on the part of a large section of the public.

Demonstrations were then given of a number of new dances, including the tatao and furlana. The furlana is really not a new dance, as it was first practiced by the Venetians in 1650, but it is new to many parts of the world. At a later session of the Congress, the choice will be announced.

QUEBEC CAMPAIGN ON NAVAL POLICY

Hon. Geo. H. Perley Found French-Canadians Enthusiastic Over Borden Platform

OTTAWA, April 14.—That the Conservative party would undertake an extended campaign of Quebec next summer, during which the naval policy of the Borden Government would be dealt with almost wholly, was the statement made by Hon. Geo. H. Perley, who has returned from a tour of the Eastern Townships, whence he was accompanied by Hon. Louis Coderre, Albert Sevigny, Harry Baker and Fred Cromwell, M.P.'s The purpose of the trip was to get closely into touch with the party in the Townships, and Mr. Perley expresses the view that at the next election several constituencies are likely to be won.

Speaking of the navy, Mr. Perley said: "When we explained the Government's policy and the reasons which animated that policy we found the electors most enthusiastic; so much so, in fact, that we shall make a more extended campaign next summer in Quebec, during which we shall deal almost entirely with the naval issue. We find that when the French-Canadian understand our policy he sees the wisdom of it, and is ready to support us."

Mr. Perley added that the French electors were found to be resolutely opposed to the naval policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and considerable indignation was manifested over the action of the Senate in rejecting the Highways Bill, as the good roads movement is being strongly propagated in Quebec.

"The people of Quebec," continued Mr Perley, "are ready and willing to do their duty by the Empire. The only trouble is that they have been misled. It is simply a question of explaining to them our position and they become enthusiastic. There is absolutely no doubt about their loyalty."

SWALLOWED HAIRPINS JUST AS PASTIME

NEW YORK, April 14.—Having swallowed hundreds of hairpins within the last two years, Mrs. Alice Bischog died Sunday night in Bellevue Hospital. Today an autopsy is in progress so doctors may learn how it was possible for her to live so long with hairpins in her stomach.

The woman, who was forty-three years old was committed to the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane early in 1912. At once she began to swallow every hairpin she could get. Five operations have been necessary in the two years to relieve her of her strange food, the last one proving fatal. She died of shock.

A GOLD VEIN FOUR FEET WIDE

Munroe and Beattie Township Must Have Porcupine Backed off Map

MONTREAL, April 14.—That Monro and Beattie townships will eventually, and very shortly, wrest the crown from Porcupine as a gold producing centre is the belief of Mr. J. A. Smith, of Montreal, who has just returned from a three weeks' mining inspection of those districts.

Mr. Smith, who was the first man to bring gold from Porcupine to Montreal, after the "rush" to the former, speaks as an eye-witness of new "finds."

At the Dobie mine, dicovered in Munro township this winter, Mr. Smith saw a spectacular vein of gold, four feet wide, with a pay shoot of fifty feet, and stripped for one hundred feet. It shows, he said high values, is of higher grade than Porcupine gold, and looks permanent. The average value will go from $25 to $30 per ton. The Walsh property, about ten miles from Matheson, Ont. also showed rich veins of beautiful gold.

Painkiller Lake, in Beattie township, adjoining Munro, is also on the way to becoming a new prosperous mining field. Tellurium, which carries a very high percentage of gold, has been discovered there; other properties in Beattie township have ore that values at $35 to $40 per ton; and others that value at $27 to $30 per ton. "Development of these two townships," Mr. Smith declares, "is bound to come, and result in another big gold mining district in Canada."

At Cobalt a new vein of silver was discovered last Sunday on the Cochrane property. According to Mr. Smith, the silver is of high grade quality.

A NEW HOTEL FOR ST. ANDREWS

Canadian Pacific Replaces New Burned Structure by More Solid One

MONTREAL, April 14.—An immediate start will be made towards rebuilding the Algonquin, the big summer hotel of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at St. Andrews, that was destroyed by fire. Previously the company had prepared tentative plans for a new structure to replace the one which fell before the flames, but had deferred carrying them out. Now the loss of the structure so well known to Montrealers compels the company to take immediate action. It is stated that instead of using wood, the material of which the old structure was built, more solid material will be used and it is probable that an even more pretentious building will replace the one just destroyed.

RAILROAD BRIDGE ON FIRE TRAINS ARE HELD UP

Peculiar Accident Tied up Traffic on Parry Sound District--Delayed for Six Hour

TORONTO, April 15.—(Special.—Train service on the Parry Sound division of the Canadian Northern Railway was delayed for more than six hours yesterday as the result of fire destroying part of a bridge a few miles south of Parry Sound The passenger service was kept moving by running trains to the scene of the blaze and transferring the passengers to another train waiting on the other side. The Sudbury train was about three hours late in arriving in the Union Station last night.

The fire broke out in the girders of the bridge, which spans a gully at the Canada Atlantic branch of the Grand Trunk Railway. Before it was discovered the fire had gained a good headway. A special crew was sent from the Parry Sound terminals to extinguish the blaze, but before they arrived one of the bends was badly damaged.

The structure was greatly weakened and it was necessary to extensively repair it before it was considered strong enough to permit traffic being resumed. Special timbers were rushed to the scene to be used as supports, but it was more than six hours before the work was completed, and the line again open for traffic. The cause of the blaze is unknown, and the railway will hold an enquiry in an attempt to solve the mystery.

Traffic on all lines was exceptionally heavy yesterday. It was the last day for the special holiday excursion rates, and all trains were crowded. Owing to the large numbers waiting at small country stations, the trains lost a great deal of time at each stop and all were running from 15 to 30 minutes behind schedule. Train connections were also belated at the various junction points, and this caused greater delay. It is estimated that almost 20,000 people returned to the city during the day.

PROFIT SHARING

This is the age of profit-sharing. Business men are finding that to give their employes a share of the profits is stimulating to the employes and helpful to the business.

Co-operative advertising between merchant and manufacturer in the local newspaper is, in a way, a phase of this profit sharing movement.

The manufacturer brings to the merchant a certain share of his profits—by advertising in the newspapers of the merchant's city.

These profits in turn create more business, and when the merchant is shrewd enough to do his share in pushing the goods, the increased sales are well worth while, both for the merchant and for the manufacturer.

LIBERAL CAMPAIGN PLANNED FOR ONTARIO

TORONTO, April 14.—The second annual business meeting of Liberal Club Federation of Ontario was held yesterday. The principal suggestion came from the retiring president, Mr. W. T. Preston, Brantford, who advanced the proposal of a speaker's committee being formed among the members of the Federation, to make arrangements for the province from one end to the other being visited by capable and effective young advocates of Liberalism. The proposal was heartily endorsed by the meeting.

Mr. Preston stated that while there were only twenty-four clubs originally in the scheme they were able to now announce that the number had been augumented, and there were fifty-one active clubs in this federation.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Dr. A. H. Spoon, Penetanguishene; vice-presidents, Mr. J. E. Schlichter, Cardinal; Mr. R. J. Haley, Berlin; secretary-treasurer, Mr. H. J. McLaughlin, Toronto; Executive, Messrs. J. C. McDonald, Owen Sound; F. Treleaven, Hamilton; A. Siple, Woodstock; W. S. Smith, Belleville; C. A. Moss, Toronto; E. M. Legge, King City; A. W. Roebuck, New Liskeard; W. T. Preston, Brantford (past president); Stanley Kerr, Toronto, (past secretary).

ST. JOHN VALLEY RAILWAY TO BE FINISHED THIS YEAR

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 15—Special—It is expected that this year will see the completion of the St. John and Quebec Railway, better known as the St. John Valley Railway, which will extend from Grand Falls to St. John, a distance of over 200 miles, through Fredericton. The section from Fredericton to Gagetown has already been finished, and a train service will soon be in operation. Another new railroad passing through Fredericton is the Gibson & Minto R.R., it gives direct access to the Minto coal fields in the Grand Lake coal district, and many carloads of black diamonds from this district are arriving in Fredericton for distribution to all parts of New Brunswick.

The field is clear and every contestant has his right of way. Look over the list of entries and you will probably find a friend or a relative of yours whom you wish to help, even though you do not intend entering the race yourself. There is a great deal one can do to assist their favorite candidate, and a little boosting goes a long way in a contest.

With the announcement of the list of candidates, The Intelligencer is offering a special offer which will be known as "Booster Period." During Booster Period each yearly subscription will count 50,000 votes. There is no limit to the number of these yearly subscriptions candidates can secure. This offer is for a short time only, closing Saturday, April 29th at 9 p.m., and all subscriptions must be turned into this office by that time in order to count on this offer. All subscriptions that have been turned in since the start of the contest will count on this offer, that is, with the exception of the first subscription which candidates secured the 60,000 votes. Subscriptions may be turned in any day during this offer and candidates will be credited with the votes.

With the list of prizes such as are being offered by The Intelligencer to be awarded, headed by a McLaughlin Buick auto, Bell piano, with many other valuable prizes, and 5% to all non-prize winners remaining active until the end of the contest, the contest presents an opportunity for those who are ambitious to secure by their own efforts one of the valuable awards. Begin now—don't wait until later, as there is no gain in that. It will take just so much effort to win and the sooner you make that effort the easier it will be for you. The world is going to judge you by your own standard. If you show that you are going to win it will not be long before your friends are believing it too, and ten to one they will be right. Tackle your work without fear, and a proper effort will meet with splendid reward.

SEND IN NOMINATION BLANKS

Send or bring the nomination blank to the contest manager at The Intelligencer office, who will give you credit for 1000 votes toward winning one of the valuable prizes, and will send you a receipt book to be used when securing subscriptions to this paper. A representative of the Contest Department will call upon you, explain the proposition in detail if you don't understand it, and will render you any possible assistance.

SECURE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

As soon as you are nominated get out among your friends; get them to subscribe for The Intelligencer, giving you their votes—vote scale will be found in each issue of the paper. Send the subscriptions to the Contest Manager, together with the amount covering each subscription.

This is no grab-box proposition. No luck or guessing contest. All that is required of a candidate is to simply call upon your friends and secure subscriptions for these papers. The best hustlers will be awarded the prizes as determined by the vote.

USE YOUR LEISURE TIME.

As soon as you have secured one subscription, go after another. This does not mean that you will be compelled to lose any time which should be spent looking after your business, whatever that may be. You are to understand that this work may be done during your leisure moments, though even if you were to spend your time doing nothing but securing subscriptions to this paper, the reward of your labor would be sufficient to repay you many times over. Think what a wonderful profit would be yours were you to win one of the grand prizes, or any of the other valuable rewards. Do it now!

OPEN EVENINGS.

The Contest Department of The Intelligencer is open each evening from 7 to 8 o'clock.

HOCKEY GAME PLAYED APRIL 13TH

The Ice in the Rink is Good Yet--a Record Has Been Established for Late Hockey

KINGSTON, April 14.—A number of boys from the Kingston Collegiate Institute established a record for late hockey in Kingston, on Monday morning when they had a game at the covered rink. The ice was in first-class condition For some time James Bews, physical director at Queen's, has been having a skate at the rink every morning. The cold weather on Sunday night made it possible for the boys to have one hour of fast hockey.

Unless something unseen happens the ice at the rink will be in condition for another game before the end of the week. For some days the officials at the university have experienced difficulty in keeping boys from entering the rink windows for the purpose of having a skate. One day last week a couple of boys who entered the rink received a hot reception at the hands of one of the officials who caught them and gave them a good trimming.

Some of the boys have "hockey on the brain," and they will climb up the roof and crawl in a window. After getting into the rink the boys have to crawl along the gallery and then down the stair-way.

CHEQUE FOR $500,000

Donor Asked to be Elected Member of Choir

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Easter collection at the cathedral of St. John the Divine included a cheque for $500,000 from Frederick G. Bourne, president of the Singer Manufacturing company, and former commodore of the New York Yacht Club.

The contribution is to be placed in the endowment fund of the choir school of the cathedral. This means that the choir is placed upon a permanent independent basis. The only condition of the gift was that Commodore Bourne should be elected a member of the cathedral choir, which was done immediately.

Alleged Real Estate Man Wins Five Thousand in "Little Game" but he Fails to Get the Cash

MONTREAL, April 14.—He was a large estate operator; he was in Montreal for the purpose of his business, and, moreover, he stayed at a fashionable hotel on Sherbrooke street, and spent money like a man of affairs.

His fame spread and many people who had land to sell made much of him.

He was "made" a member of a club—a club where high play is in order on occasion. It was a big game; and the newly made member did not seem afraid of it. He "bucked the tiger" with the best of them. And he won; he won $5,000 from one member who is ordinarily a "good loser". But in this case it seemed there was something wrong for certain indefinable and instinctive reasons. And so one of the clubmen telegraphed to the reputed place of origin of the winner. The reply settled the matter.

Yes; he was known—as a card sharp and generally suspicious character. What he did not know about real estate would fill a large-sized volume. The payment of the cheque was stopped, and the membership in the club was cancelled. Then this step was followed up by an appeal to the management of the hotel to put out the fraudulent "real estate" man. This, too, was done, and the hero of our story has now disappeared to pursue his calling elsewhere than here. Meantime the club members are not saying anything to the loser. They privily discuss the affair, however.

BARBER AND CUSTOMER HAVE A CLOSE SHAVE.

St. Thomas, April 14.—Special—Ed. Merritt, barber, had a narrow escape today when a bullet from a rifle fired off, it is supposed, at a point a couple of hundred yards distant, tore through the window and whizzed past his head as he was shaving a customer. The latter had his hair filled with pieces of glass from the window. No trace has been found of the man who fired off the rifle.

BOXING WOMEN IN PARIS DRAW CROWD

American "World's Champion" Fights With Grimaces, but Injures Her Knee

PARIS, April 14.—The world's boxing championship for women was begun at the Paris Casino yesterday, although Prefect of Police Hennion had forbidden the contests. The law was evaded by the audience. Just as they were leaving the theatre after a vaudeville performance they received an invitation to return and occupy the same seats free, which they accepted.

The Sunday matinee attracted only twenty-one persons to the 2 franc (40 cents) promenoir, twelve to the 2 francs ($1.80) stalls, and nineteen to the 5 francs ($1) seats. This made the total receipts 233 francs ($46.60), if every one paid, which is out of the question here.

The figures were probably trebled at the evening performance. The manager introduced ten boxing women. One whom he named as Mme. Dickson, who wore the American colors, was, he said, the champion of the world. Mme. Oro was introduced as the champion woman boxer of France, England, Germany, and Martinique. The rest were merely "the best boxing women in the entire world."

At the matinee Yvonne Darliss, a fat, smiling woman, who wore the American colors, boxed a French woman for three two minute rounds Their blows were very weak and the referee pronounced the match a draw.

A go between Mme. Dickson and Mme. Brunet followed. Mme. Dickson, the world's champion, sailed in with a terrific windmill action which seemed to scare her opponent, especially as the champion followed this up with terrific grimaces and also with putting out her tongue at frequent intervals. The champion cracked her knee at the end of the first round and abandoned the contest. The other bouts were for four rouns.

The evening contests were more exciting, especially the one between Youyou, a colored Martinique woman against Yvonne Darliss, a woman who wore the American flag. The fourth round was so fierce that the ribbon binding up Mme. Darliss's hair became displaced. The Johnson-Jeffries fight at Reno was repeated. The colored woman got the verdict and the two opponents kissed amid great enthusiasm.

Mme. Brunet succumbed to the French Champion in the second round for no perceptible reason.

The third match went four rounds and there was the best of feeling. The referee only interfered when the women were hurting each other. No one lost her temper, not even when the audience tried to arouse the fighting spirit of the boxers.

Men's bathing suits, from the neck almost to the knee, were used by all the women.

USE PARCEL POST TO BUILD CHURCH

BALTIMORE Md. April 14.—Congressman David J. Lewis, father of the parcel post system in the United States, never in his most roseate dreams contemplated the sending of a brick church through the mails. Yet it is proposed now to do this very thing.

The mails will be burdened with the church brick by brick. Each one of the thousands that are required to erect the edifice will be stamped and addressed to "Methodist Church, Wenona, Somerset County, Maryland."

Mr. Lewis himself will be asked to be among the senders of the bricks, and President Wilson will be requested to mail a brick or two.

The congregation of Wenona church desires to rebuild the edifice, which was destroyed by fire March 1. No insurance could be collected because the fire started from an exploding gasoline lamp.

No effort will be made to have the bricks of uniform size, shape, weight or color. Any kind will do, from the white enameled to the heavy paving brick.

The sender of each brick is requested to write his or her name on the surface. This side will be turned inward, and the edifice when completed will be a memorial of the donors.

It was a most demarkable gathering of intelligent men and women, the like of which has never been seen in the State capital.

SIR WM. WHYTE DEAD

Well Known Railwayman Passes Away in California.

He Was Until a Year Ago the Vice-President of the C.P.R., and During Most of His Twenty-Five Years in the West Had Full Control of Company's Affairs — Was Born in Scotland 71 Years Ago.

MONTREAL, April 15. — Word reached C. P. R. headquarters yesterday afternoon of the death of Sir William Whyte at Coronado Beach, California. Sir William was for years vice-president and a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The death of one of the pioneers of the C. P. R., and one of the best known men in Canada, came as a shock to his friends, as messages received up to a few hours previously were to the effect that Sir William's health was improving and that he would return to his home in Winnipeg quite restored in health. A special car has been sent to California to bring the body back. Lady Whyte will accompany it.

A message from San Diego says death was due to pyelitis and a complication of diseases.

Sir William Whyte had a quite remarkable railway career, which was characterized by gradual but steady evolution rather than by meteoric rapidity. He was born in 1843 at Charleston, in Fifeshire, Scotland. He was educated in the schools of his native place, and his first business appointment was that of clerk for two years in the factor's office of Lord Elgin's estate in Scotland. After spending a year in the service of the West of Fife Railway, he came to Canada in 1863, and was from that date till 1883 continuously in the service of the Grand Trunk Railway. During those twenty years he worked as brakeman, freight clerk, and afterwards freight foreman at Toronto, as yardmaster and station agent at Toronto, as station agent at Stratford and London, and as assistant superintendent of the central division.

SIR WILLIAM WHYTE.

Leaving the service of the Grand Trunk in 1883, he was appointed general superintendent of the Credit Valley Railway, to which were afterwards added the Ontario & Quebec and the Toronto, Grey & Bruce. As the Canadian Pacific Railway system in Ontario became consolidated his office became more and more important and responsible until it included the general superintendence of all the company's sections in Ontario and the provinces farther to the east. His great opportunity came when he took over the western division and became general superintendent and afterwards manager of all the lines west of Lake Superior. From 1886 till his retirement in 1911 he spent in the west twenty-five years, rising to the post of vice-president.

In 1871, he married Jane, daughter of Adam Scott, in Toronto, and he leaves four daughters and one son; Margaret, Christina Methven, Edith Jane, Gladys Helen, and William Whyte.

EVANS TO RETURN.

Crown Prosecutor Says Financier Will Arrive Next Week.

TORONTO, April 15. — According to the statement made by Crown Prosecutor E. A. Du Vernet, K.C., at the opening of the spring assizes at the City Hall yesterday afternoon, Pollman Evans has sailed from France in order to stand his trial on a charge of conspiracy to defraud in connection with the affairs of the defunct Union Life Insurance Co.

This information came as the result of Eric Armour's request that the charges against his clients, Harry Symons, K.C., and Geo. Millichamp should be proceeded with at once. To this Mr. Du Vernet objected, and when pressed by Mr. Justice Middleton for his reason, he declared that Evans would be in Toronto probably by next week.

Sir Hibbert Tupper Mentioned.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper has been added to the list of possible selections for the post of High Commissioner for Canada in London.

Sir Richard McBride, in the corridor gossip, is very prominently to the fore in connection with the position.

Survey Parties In Northwest.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Upwards of eighty surveying parties have been sent out this season by the Department of the Interior for the purpose of laying out new townships in the northern portion of the prairie provinces. They will go as far north as Fort McMurray.

There's nothing so gloriously uncertain as a sure thing.

That Weak Back

accompanied by pain here or there—extreme nervousness—sleeplessness—may be faint spells—or spasms—all are signals of distress for a woman. She may be growing from girlhood into womanhood—passing from womanhood to motherhood—or later suffering from that change into middle life which leaves so many wrecks of women. At any or all of these periods of a woman's life she should take a tonic and nervine prescribed for just such cases by a physician of vast experience in the diseases of women.

DR. PIERCE'S

has successfully treated more cases in past forty years than any other known remedy. It can now be had in sugar-coated tablet form as well as in the liquid. Sold by medicine dealers or trial box by mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps.

Miss Elizabeth Lowdahl of Berkeley, Cal., in a recent letter to Dr. Pierce said: "I was completely broken down in health, I was aching and had pains all over my body and was so nervous that I could scream if anyone talked to me, but I had the good fortune to meet a nurse who had been cured by Dr. Pierce's Prescription. I have never had an occasion to consult a physician since—am in excellent health."

POLICY IS REAFFIRMED

Hon. Mr. Hanna Indicates Further Anti-Liquor Legislation.

Legislature Resumes Sittings and Spends Day Debating Mr. Rowell's Resolution to Abolish the Bars—Local Option a Success Says Mr. Hanna, But Anti-treating Laws Will Go Far to Cure Evil.

TORONTO, April 15. — "Abolish-the-bar" day was celebrated in the Legislature yesterday and Mr. Rowell's perennial tirade upon the evils of the saloon and his apology for not wanting shops abolished occupied most of the sitting. Hon. Mr. Hanna, in reply, reaffirmed the policy of the Government and indicated that during the present session legislation will be introduced further checking the liquor evil. Mr. Rowell's resolution was defeated.

Mr. Rowell began by declaring that all in touch with the social problems of the province stood behind the temperance movement. It was recognized that the prohibition of importation or manufatcure was not feasible, but the proposal of abolishing the bar held forth no legal difficulties.

Local option had proved "one of the most valuable instruments for fighting the liquor traffic and would always get the support of the opposition," but it was insufficient in the places where it was needed most.

"Under the local option law as it stands, I venture to say that it would be impossible to carry it in any of the larger cities of the province," he declared, stating in the same connection that in every contest of the kind the measure had been overwhelmed.

The Opposition leader called attention to the excellent work of the Provincial Secretary on the prison farms, but urged that a better thing would be to remove the stumbling block of liquor from the feet of those who populated these institutions.

Mr. Rowell then dealt with the reason why shops are not included in his measure, and explained that his party had gone as far as the organized temperance party asked them to go. He pointed out that his measure left this part of the reform entirely to the community. Under the act it would be possible for each district to abolish the sale of liquor in shops should they think it advisable.

It had been said, and rightly, Mr. Rowell concluded, that some who had hitherto stood by them had now departed, but even so there was more to offset this loss. In all English-speaking countries the tide was running against the open bar and the organized traffic and the vote on the Scott Act in Ontario counties showed the determination of the people.

In his introductory remarks Hon. Mr. Hanna referred to the deputation of young Conservatives and the argument that the Government should accede to their request, and that in such a case the Opposition, with their leader, would walk across the floor to the Government benches. The old Liberal Government had enjoyed a request from 192,000 people in a plebiscite and yet had not hearkened. For long years they had waited and no response came, and yet in all that time not a man in the Government was condemned by the present leader of the Opposition. If to-day there was any moving along in temperance lines the Whitney Government was largely responsible.

The Minister drew a comparison between the actual legislation placed on the statute book by the respective Governments. That of the Ross Government was summed up in the regulating of druggists' licenses, the arranging of brewers' licenses and other minor affairs. They were years of silence, with no progress, and then came Sir James Whitney with a pledge to the province, a pledge which had been steadily redeemed from the first day of power. The licenses had been cut from 2,516 to 1,383 and 81 shop licenses had gone forever.

A recent meeting in a northern county, where a peculiar document, either ballot or funeral notice, had been circulated to a large extent. It bore the words, "Rowell and Reform or Whitney and Whisky."

"Some one is responsible," said the speaker, "and the idea has been carried into politics in a fashion to be regretted."

Mr. Hanna then moved an amendment to the resolution declaring that the House recognized the necessity for curbing the liquor traffic, commending the local option laws and reaffirming belief in the efficacy of abolishing the treating habit.

Albert Grigg (Algoma) moved an amendment to the amendment, complimenting the Government on their administration.

Attacks On Protestants.

LONDON, April 15.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Irish despatches received yesterday tell of a number of outrages that have been committed upon members of the Protestant Church. Two Protestant farmers, Joseph McCartney and Andrew Agnew, of the Ulster volunteer force, were set upon near Ballyguwley on Sunday night and severely beaten by a crowd returning from the Gaelic football match. Agnew was thrown into a ditch, and two men held McCartney while two others beat him unconscious.

Asquith Gets Ovation.

LONDON, April 15.—Premier Asquith was greeted with an inspiring ovation on his return to the House of Commons yesterday. His progress from the entrance of the chamber to the chair of the Speaker was accompanied by volleys of cheers from excited Ministerial and Nationalist members. MUSICAL EVENT AT BAPTIST CHURCH

A Splendid Programme Beautifully Carried Out

A large audience assembled at the Baptist Church last night to listen to the sacred oratorio, "Christ and His Soldiers," as presented by the large choir and assisting singers, under the direction of Mr. W. B. Riggs. The entire performance was very effective and sustained throughout the 25 numbers. The solo voices were in perfect form, the choruses were rendered with enthusiasm and tone, and the splendid orchestra and accompanists combined to make a general ensemble that captivated and delighted the audience during the entire evening. The big chorus, "O come all ye faithful," was sung with power and feeling, while the remainder of the work was rendered in a reverential spirit, both solos and choruses, that was speedily perceived and responded to by the entire audience. Mr. W. B. Riggs directed with his accustomed ability, and with an artistic reading of the music that was an inspiration to both the audience and the singers. Miss Margaret Brown sang with particular sweetness the soprano solo, "Jesus Christ is risen today," as well as her other solos. Miss Marguerite McCormick sang "Our Blest Redeemer," in a clear mezzo-soprano voice. Miss Kate Bawden rendered three numbers with great feeling and finish in her soft, rich contralto voice; the solo, "By Jesus' Grave," made a profound impression upon the audience, and seemed to reproduce the intense sorrow of the world's greatest tragedy.

Mrs. Beecher Doolittle sang "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me," in a strong, true contralto voice that won the favor of the entire audience. Mr. Hyla Redfern sang two tenor solos with fine feeling and power. The audience were particularly taken with his solo, "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," which had a clarion note and a martial swing, that was well portrayed by his high and rich tenor notes. Mr. David Bennett rendered "In token that thou shalt not fear," as a bass solo, with a sonorous voice and a vigor that was very impressive. A quartette composed of Miss Brown, Mrs. Doolittle, Mr. Redfern and Mr. D. Bennett sang "Jesus Died for Us." This number was unaccompanied, and was very effective. Mrs. W. R. Deeton at the organ, and Miss Wanda Riggs at the piano, rendered splendid support throughout the evening. The orchestra was composed of Mr. F. W. Robinson, violin; Mr. David Brown, flute; Mr. Jacob Bennett, 'cello, and Mr. Jack Cookson, trombone. They played in perfect unison and in sympathetic touch with each selection, and no small share of the successful evening is due to their fine performance and careful interpretation of each separate part of the oratorio. Many of Belleville's leading musicians, singers and musical critics were present at the performance, and they expressed themselves as highly pleased with the result of the oratorio, and at the close presented their compliments to Mr. Riggs, his choir, and orchestra. The following is a list of the choir and assisting singers:

Altos—Mrs. Doolittle, Mrs. Blackburn and Miss Bawden.

man, to whom you were engaged. You met Jane Stukely in London, fell in love with her as it seemed, and preferred your suit. You were accepted by her—approved by her father. No alliance could have ben more advantageous. I was never better pleased than when you announced to me your engagement. The influence of a good wife will cure him of all his follies, I thought, and I shall yet have reason to be proud of my nephew."

"Spare me, sir, for pity's sake", murmured Reginald, hoarsely.

"When did you spare others, Mr. Reginald Eversleigh? When did you consider others, if they stood in the way of your base pleasures, your selfish gratifications? Never! Nor will I spare you. As Jane's engaged lover, you were invited to Stukely Park. There you saw Mary Goodwin. Accident threw you across her pathway very often in the course of your visit; but the time came when you ceased to meet by accident. There were secret meetings in the park. The poor, weak, deluded girl couldn't resist the fascinations of the fine gentlemen—who lured her to destruction by means of lying promises. In due time you left Stukely Park, unsuspected. Within a few days of your departure, the girl, Mary Goodwin, disappeared.

THURLOW RESIDENT EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Death came suddenly this morning to Mr. Robert Leslie, a resident of Thurlow Township. Mr. Leslie was at Mr. Lingham's saw mill at Canifton, and was carrying some pieces of lumber when he fell to the ground. Willing hands went to his rescue and he was carried to Mr. J. E. Shorey's house near by, but expired before medical aid could be summoned. Heart disease was no doubt the cause of death. Deceased was a man well known and highly esteemed. A widow and three daughters survive.

As you know, "catching a cold" simply means allowing the germs of a cold to catch you.
Usually these germs, which abound wherever people congregate, gain their first foothold in the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages. Here they multiply if unchecked, and quickly set up an inflammation. Then follows that smarting, burning, stuffed up, "headachy" feeling—that cold in the head that is so depressing and so likely to develop into something more serious.
Fossal Balm goes right to the spot, kills the germs and checks the cold. Fossal Balm is an antiseptic, healing ointment, put up in a collapsible tube with a long, nozzle-shaped opening. This little nozzle, inserted in the nostril, carries the Fossal Balm well up into the passage, where it quickly spreads over the inflamed membrane, destroys the germs that are causing the trouble, soothes the irritation, clears the passages, and gives grateful and lasting relief.
Get a 50c tube of Fossal Balm from your Druggist or write for it direct to us. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 4

He had been in the employ of the C.P.R. for the past twenty-five years, of which the first five were spent in Montreal and the last twenty in Fort William. He is survived by his widow. No arrangement will be made for the funeral until word has been received from his friends in Montreal.—taken from Montreal Herald.

YOUNG MEN CHARGED WITH BURGLARIZING

Edward Snider and William Martin, two young men of this city, who are under arrest on serious charges, namely breaking into two business places and attempting to enter another place of business, were this morning before Magistrate Masson. Through their counsel, Mr. Carnew, they made no election. After some evidence had been given by Mr. Fred Smith, whose place of business it is alleged the accused burglarized at night, an enlargement of the case was made until Friday next. In the meantime Snider and Martin will have to remain in jail.

APPRECIATED ABROAD

Referring to a concert held in the Methodist church at Port Hope on Good Friday, at which our favorite vocalist, Mrs. A. P. Allen, assisted, the Evening Guide says: "Mrs. Allen of Belleville, the soprano, has a powerful, excellently trained voice, well under control, and won unstinted applause from her singing of "These are they" which was rendered with great delicacy of feeling." In quartette work, Mrs. Allen shone with especial brilliancy, and, as is usual wherever she appears, was accorded the honors of the occasion.

WANT MORE POLICE TO PREVENT CRIME

MONTREAL April 14—The occurrence of many crimes during the past few months has led Chief Campeau to insist upon having two hundred additional policeman to bring his force up to effective strength.

He asked for the same increase last year and was given a hundred more men. The medical health department also is asking much more money to carry out reorganization of the department.

This year's paving programme, too, will swallow up $1,500,000, which, owing to the repeal of the paving tax on proprietors, now has to be borne by the city. These are some of the big problems that face the new board of control. The city's budget will reach, it is expected $4,000,000 instead of the usual $2,500,000.

It's easy to tell others how they might have succeeded after they fail.

THE MILITIA FORCE

The expense of the militia to Canada in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1913, was $10,272,000. The establishment of the active militia was approximately 75,000 officers and men. The per capita cost of the militia is, therefore, about $135 annually. The industrial rule that with the enlargement of working forces average costs go down does not seem to hold true as regards the militia. The larger the force to be trained and supported, the higher is the cost per unit. It is well, therefore, to be content that the militia should have steady and consistent growth, in keeping with the country's ability to pay for it, rather than that there should be extravagant attempts to bring about wholesale enlargement.

Ten or twelve years ago three millions was considered quite a heavy annual expense for the militia. The outlay of ten millions would have been regarded with horror. But Canada grows and its people get a wider and more cosmopolitan outlook. They see how immense is their indebtedness to Britain, and they propose to shoulder a larger part of defence responsibilities. The steady enlargement of the militia, which since 1911 has grown from 60,000 to 75,000, is not opposed by any large body of opinion. There is a realization that Canada must in defence affairs begin to play a nation's part, not a weakling dependent's, and so the mandate for militia improvement exists. As Canadian population and wealth increase, and trade interests expand, there will be more at stake to be protected. The need of adequate defence forces will not be denied. Canada may never get launched on a military programme to bring its effective land forces up to a quarter-million of men, but it will insist on better service and higher efficiency from that branch of the defence machine.—Mail and Empire.

BOURASSA ON THE MORALS AND POLITENESS OF HIS RACE

On the evening of April 12th in the presence of an audience that included two hundred priests and many nuns, says a telegram from Montreal, Henri Bourassa said some pointed things on the shortcomings of French-Canadians. He said that during the last fifty years there had been a great decay in the ancient politeness, honesty and morals of the race. Speaking on civic conditions, he said: "An Alderman is offered three thousand dollars to betray his mandate. He takes the money, and counting the bills finds that they are all right. Then he says, 'You will excuse me, as I have to go to Church, as this is the months of Mary, and I never miss the services.' Two candidates for political honors have a meeting before church. They call each other thieves and robbers, and later go into the church, where they are asked by the good parish priest to take up the collection, doing so without a murmur simply because they are the victims of a deadened conscience."

"Speaking to the women, Mr. Bourassa said the ladies of Montreal went to church thinking they were wearing the latest Paris fashions, when as a matter of fact, they were worn only by the questionable class at the French capital. Parisian working girls would be horrified if they were obliged to adorn themselves in the gowns worn in Montreal by the wives of judges, ministers and politicians.

"The politeness of fifty years ago has ceased to exist and we must admit that our children are badly brought up."

Henri, how truthful you are!

THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

The reputation of the Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor General, is now firmly established. The Toronto Globe has begun to abuse him—calls him a lot of naughty names, and tells him as a Manitoban he is a piece of impudence to discuss in the manner he does the report on the construction of the G. T. P. railway. The more it abuses the Solicitor General, the higher he will stand in the estimation of the thinking public.

AFTER SICKNESS

MRS. GARDNER TELLS HOW TO RESTORE ONE'S STRENGTH

So many people are asking how to recover their strength after severe sickness that we are publishing this information for their benefit.

After grippe, pleurisy, pneumonia or any illness what you need is new strength and better blood.

The most certain way to get this is by taking Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation.

Mrs. M. T. Gardner, Chicago, Ill., says: "After a very serious operation I was a total invalid for nearly a year and a convalescent for months thereafter, I gave the remedies of a number of eminent specialists a thorough trial, but without deriving the slightest benefit. Vinol was recommended. Without the least faith in the merits of the medicine I took it faithfully, and it seemed to bring back the old color to my cheeks and the elasticity to my step which I had despaired of ever recovering. I can say, conscientiously, that for nervous, run-down people, Vinol is an excellent remedy."

Try a bottle of Vinol. Your money will be returned if it does not restore your vitality and strength—Red Cross Drug Store—J. S. McKeown, Belleville, Ont.

CURRENT COMMENT

Automobilists, in particular, will welcome the announcement that, weather permitting, there will be an early effort to repair the city streets. Seldom have Belleville's streets been in worse condition than they are this spring.

The women of West Chicago have adopted harsh measures to repay the tradespeople who, they claim, sold them out at election by voting for license. The storekeepers, it is said, agreed to vote for a dry town, and their failure to live up to their agreement swung the election in favor of the "wets". Now the women have started a boycott against the tradesmen and they are also considering the establishment of a community store.

KEPHALDOL

CURES COLDS AND LA GRIPPE IN HALF A DAY

Thank the famous Herr Doctor Stohr, of Vienna, Austria, for allowing his personal prescription for relieving pain, to be sold in Canada. The doctor has used "Kephaldol" in thousands of cases, both in private practice and in hospital clinics. He has proved to the delight of the medical profession, that attacks of La Grippe and Colds could be warded off and broken up in 12 hours, by using "Kephaldol" at the first sneeze or sudden chill. Two or three "Kephaldol" tablets at bedtime and two the first thing in the morning will usually make a complete cure. Although in very severe cases, it may be necessary to continue the treatment for a short time, taking one "Kephaldol" tablet every three hours. "Kephaldol" has the pleasant property of relieving all the distressing symptoms of a "bad cold"—clearing the head—stopping the throbbing headaches—easing the pain in the back and limbs—and enabling one to eat and sleep in comfort.

Keep "Kephaldol" in the house ready to take at the first sign of a cold. If your druggist should not have the 50c tubes of these tablets write Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal.

There is nothing like a "Tea Pot" test at your own table to prove its sterling worth!

Such at least was the fixed idea of those who considered themselves the likely inheritors of the baronet's sitionwealth. The chief of these was Reginald Eversleigh, his favorite nephew, the only son of a younger brother, who had fallen gloriously on an Indian battle-field.

There were two other nephews who had some right to look forward to a share in the baronet's fortune. These were the two sons of Sir Oswald's only sister, who had married a country rector, called Dale. But Lionel and Douglas Dale were not the sort of young men who care to wait for dead men's shoes. They were sincerely attached to their uncle; but they carefully abstained from any demonstration of affection which could seem like worship of wealth. The elder was preparing himself for the Church; the younger was established in chambers in the Temple, reading for the bar.

It was otherwise with Reginald Eversleigh. From his early boyhood this young man had occupied the position of an adopted son rather than a nephew.

There are some who can bear indulgence, some flowers that flourish best with tender rearing; but Reginald Eversleigh was not one of these.

Sir Oswald was too generous a man to require much display of gratitude from the lad on whom he so freely lavished his wealth and his affection. When the boy showed himself proud and imperious, the baronet admired that high and haughty spirit. When the boy showed himself reckless and extravagant in his expenditure of money, the baronet fancied that extravagance was the proof of a generous disposition, overlooking the fact that it was only on his own pleasures that Reginald wasted his kinsman's money. When bad accounts came from the Eton masters and the Oxfor tutors, Sir Oswald deluded himself with the belief that it was only natural for a high-spiried lad to be idle, and that, indeed, youthful idleness was often a proof of genius.

But even the moral blindness of love cannot last forever. The day came when the baronet awoke to the knowledge that his dead brother's only son was unworthy of his affection.

The young man entered the army. His uncle purchased for him a commission in a creck cavalry regiment, and he began his military career under the most brilliant auspices. But from the day of his leaving his military tutor, until the present hour, Sir Oswald had been perpetually subject to the demands of his extravagance, and had of late suffered most bitterly from discoveries which had at last convinced him that his nephew was a villain.

In ordinary matters, Sir Oswald Eversleigh was by no means a patient or long-suffering man; but he had exhibited extraordinary endurance in all his dealings with his nephew. The hour had now come when he could be patient no longer.

He had written to his nephew, desiring him to call upon him at three o'clock on this day.

The idea of this interview was most painful to him, for he had resolved that it should be the last between himself and Reginald Eversleigh. In this matter he had acted with no undue haste; for it had been unspeakably distressing to him to decide upon a step which would separate him for ever from the young man.

As the timepiece struck three, Mr Eversleigh was announced. He was a very handsome man; of a refined and aristocratic type, but of a type rather effeminate than powerful. And pervading his beauty, there was a winning charm of expression which few could resist. It was difficult to believe that Reginald Eversleigh could be mean or base. People liked him, and trusted him, in spite of themselves; and it was only when their confidence had been imposed upon, and their trust betrayed, that they learned to know how despicable the handsome young officer could be. Women did their best to spoil him; and his personal charms of face and manner, added to his brilliant expectations, rendered him an universal favorite in fashionable circles.

He came to Arlington street prepared to receive a lecture, and a severe one, for he knew that some of his late delinquencies had become known to Sir Oswald; but he trusted in the influence which he had always been able to exercise over his uncle, and he was determined to face the difficulty boldly, as he had faced it before.

But Sir Oswald drew back, refusing that proffered hand.

"I shake hands only with gentlemen and honest men", he said, haughtily. "You are neither Mr. Eversleigh."

Reginald had been used to hear his uncle address him in anger, but not before had Sir Oswald spoken to him in that tone of cool contempt. The color faded from the young man's face, and he looked at his uncle with an expression of alarm.

"My dear uncle!" he exclaimed.

"Be pleased to forget that you have ever addressed me by that name, or that any relationship exists between us, Mr. Eversleigh", answered Sir Oswald, with unaltered sternness. "Sit down, if you please. Our interview is likely to be a long one."

The young man seated himself in silence.

"I have sent for you, Mr. Eversleigh", said the baronet, "because I wished to tell you, without passion, that the tie which has hitherto bound us has been completely broken. Heaven knows I have been patient; I have indured your misdoings, hoping that they were the thoughtless errors of youth, and not the deliberate sins of a hardened and wicked nature. I have trusted till I can trust no longer; I have hoped till I can hope no more. Within the past week I have learned to know you. An old friend, whose word I cannot doubt, whose honor is beyond all question, has considered it a duty to acquaint me with certain facts that have reached his knowledge, and has opened my eyes to your real character. I have given much time to reflection before determining on the course I shall pursue with one who has been so dear to me. You know well enough to be aware that when once I do arrive at a decision, that decision is irrevocable. I wish to act with justice, even towards a scoundrel. I have brought you up with the habits of a rich man, and it is my duty to save you from absolute poverty. I have, therefore, ordered my solicitors to prepare a deed by which an income of two hundred a year wil be secured to you for life, unconditionally. After the execution of that deed I shall have no further interest in your fate. You will go your own way, Mr. Eversleigh, and choose your own companions, without remonstrance or interference from the foolish kinsman who has loved you too well."

"But, my dear uncle—Sir Oswald—what have I done that you should treat me so severely?"

The young man was deadly pale. His uncle's manner had taken him by surprise; but even in this desperate moment, when he felt that all was lost, he attempted to assume the aspect of injured innocence.

"What have you done!" cried the baronet, passionately. "Shall I show you two letters, Reginald Eversleigh—two letters which, by a strange combination of circumstances, have reached my hands; and in each of which there is the clue to a shameful story—a cruel and disgraceful story, of which you are the hero?"

"What letters?"

"You shall read them" replied Oswald. "They are addressed to you, and have been in your possession; but to so fine a gentleman such letters were of little importance. Another person, however, thought them worth preserving, and sent them to me."

The baronet took up two envelopes from the table, and handed them to his nephew.

At the sight of the address of the uppermost envelope, Reginald Eversleigh's face grew livid. He looked at the lower, and then returned both documents to his uncle, with a hand that trembled in spite of himself.

"I know nothing of the letters", he faltered, huskily.

"You do not!" said his uncle; "then it will be necessary for me to enlighten you."

Sir Oswald took a letter from one of the envelopes, but before reading it he looked at his nephew with a grave and mournful countenance, from which all traces of scorn had vanished.

"Before I heard the history of this letter, I fully believed that, in spite of all your follies and extravangances you were at least honorbale and generous-hearted. After hearing the story of this letter, I knew you to be base and heartless. You say you know nothing of the letter? Perhaps you will tell me that you have forgotten the name of the writer. And you you can scarcely have so soon forgotten Mary Goodwin."

The young man bent his head. A terrible rage possessed him, for he knew that one of the darkest secrets of his life had been revealed to his uncle.

"I will tell you the history of Mary Goodwin", said the baronet, "since you have so poor a memory. She was the favorite and foster-sister of Jane Stukely, a noble and beautiful wo-

TO-DAY WE CELEBRATE

Historical societies of America, England and Holland will celebrate today the centenary of John Lothrop Motley, who was born in Dorchester, Mass., April 15, 1814, and died in Dorchester England, in 1877. Dutchmen will honor the memory of the American historian and diplomant because the great and monumental work of his life deals with the history of Holland and the long and ultimately successful struggle of its people to maintain national independence. The little country now ruled by Queen Wilhelmina owes a debt of gratitude to Motley, for he clothed the bare bones of its glorious history with flesh and blood, and helped to keep alive the old Dutch ideals of democracy and nationality. Motley's work is more than a mere record of events—it is history of the kind that itself makes history. It is a stirring appeal to the liberty-loving spirit of all mankind. On the little stage of Holland there was acted a drama centuries long that by Motley's genius has been made to serve as a lesson and an inspiration to all the nations of the earth. It is a thrilling story of a small country that triumphed over great and powerful enemies at home and sent forth daring mariners to roam the seven seas and found on the distant shores of the New World its future metropolis.

Motley, whose genius transmuted the dross of dull Dutch records into the pure gold of literature, was educated at Harvard and the University of Gottingen, Germany. He adopted the legal profession and entered politics as a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. Tiring of law and politics, he found his true vocation in the writing of history. From his student days he had been a student of Dutch history and he decided to specialize in that comparatively neglected field. After a labor of ten years, in which he ransacked the libraries and archieves of Europe and America, he published his immortal "History of the Rise of the Dutch Republic." This volume appeared in 1856, and its author was immediately established among the literary elect. He developed and elaborated his first work in his "History of the United Neverlands," and also wrote "The Life and Death of John Borneveld." Motley was of the school of Lord Macaulay, and the equal of that great historian in keen scrutiny of material, literary style, and the vividness of his narration. In 1861 President Lincoln appointed Motley minister to Austria, and in 1869 President Grant made the historian his minister to Great Britain. It is a curious coincidence that Motley was born in Dorchester, Mass., and passed away in the old English city of the same name.

This is an important date in the history of the English language, for it was on April 15, 1755 that Samuel Johnson's dictionary was published. The first English dictionary, compiled three centuries ago, contained but 5,080 words, while Johnson's work included 50,000 words, and was considered a very monument of erudition. Yet Noah Webster's American dictionary, first published in 1828, defined 160,000 words, or over three times as many as Johnson's work. The very latest dictionary of the English Tongue contains 450,000 words, nearly all of them undoubtedly English either by origin or adoption. It is estimated that the English language, which is spoken by more people than any other European tongue, is now growing at the rate of five thousand words a year. The first of the world's dictionaries was—of course—a Chinese compilation, and was perfected about 1100 B.C. by Pa-out-she.

CUT THIS OUT

Famous Specialist's Recipe for Catarrhal deafness and Head Noises.

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferers perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that catarrhal deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause or constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporise with the complaint, and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure. This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a noted specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle, yet effective tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the catarrhal poison from the system. The effective prescription which was eventually formulated, and which has aroused the belief that deafness will soon be extinct, is given below in understandable form, so that anyone can treat themselves in their own home at little expense.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth Take this home, and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of moist or granulater sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose promptly ends the most distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are quickly overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh, therefore there are but few people whose hearing cannot be restored by this simple home treatment. Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Important.—In ordering Parmint always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c to the International Laboratories 74 St. Antoine St. Montreal, P. Q. who make a specialty of it.

For Georgian Bay Canal.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Promising to be larger than ever, the annual delegation of municipal bodies and boards of trade in support of the Georgian Bay Canal scheme are in Ottawa today. They will interview the acting Premier, Hon. Geo. E. Foster, and Cabinet colleagues, and over a thousand delegates are in attendance, the bulk of them from Montreal, Ottawa and the Ottawa Valley. An immediate start on the canal will be asked.

A Severe Sentence.

LINDSAY, April 15. — "Les" McGilvray, found guilty of dropping carbon bisulphide, a poisonous drug, in a glass of beer about to be swallowed by Jim Gostlin, his friend, was sentenced by Judge McMillan to two years. The purpose of the dose was to temporarily "knock out" Gostlin to permit of robbery.

British Laborites Will Not Co-operate With Socialists In Parliament.

BRADFORD, Eng., April 15. — A resolution instructing labor members of Parliament to act independently of the Socialist party was adopted by 293 votes to 78 at the closing session here yesterday of the annual conference of the Independent Labor party. The resolution also denounced the Cabinet rule which involves the suppression of the rights of private members "adequately to voice the policy of his party, besides making impossible the free consideration of proposals which have not received the Cabinet hall mark."

In conclusion the resolution invites members of the Labor party to vote on all bills in accordance with the principles for which the party stands.

Best Liniment of all Destroys Every Pain But Never Burns

"How thankful we are to get hold of such a wonderful household remedy as Nerviline," writes Mrs. E. P. Lamontagne from her home near Wetaskawin, Alberta. "In this far-away section, far away from a doctor or druggist, every family needs a good supply of liniment. Nerviline is the best of all. It destroys every pain, but never burns. We use Nerviline in a score of ways. If it's rheumatism, aching back, pain in the side, sciatica or stiff neck—you can laugh at them if you have lots of Nerviline handy. For earache, toothache or cramps I don't think anything could act more quickly. For a general all-round pain remedy I can thing of nothing more valuable and speedy to cure than Nerviline."

The above letter is convincing—it tells how reliable and trusty this oldtime remedy is. Nerviline for forty years has been a household word in Canada Scarcely a home in Canada you can find without Nerviline. Every community has its living examples of the wonderful curative properties of Nerviline which will cure pains and aches anywhere in the joints or muscles. It's penetrating, soothing, warming and safe for young and old to use. Get the large 50c. family size bottle; it's the most economical. Small trial size 25c. at any dealer's anywhere.

ORDERS FLEET TO ADVANCE ON TAMPICO

U. S. Officials Insist on a Public Apology For Arrest of Marines on Thursday and Fighting Machinery Is Put Into Motion to Secure It—Soldiers on Border Hope for Invasion—London Paper Sees War.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—President Wilson yesterday ordered practically the entire Atlantic fleet to Mexican waters to force a public salute to the American flag from the Huerta Government as an apology for the arrest of American marines at Tampico last Thursday.

No ultimatum has been issued, that is, no specified time has been set within which the Huerta Government must comply, but the naval demonstration has been ordered as a concrete evidence of the fixed determination of the United States to back up Rear-Admiral Mayo's demand for a salute. Up to last night Gen. Huerta had not made satisfactory response to that demand.

"Future developments depend upon Huerta himself," was the way a high administration official close to the President summarized the situation.

Forty-six warships and 21,000 men will comprise the force off Tampico.

Everywhere, at the White House, the State Department and the Navy Department, the hope was expressed that the despatch of the fleet would not lead to serious consequences, and there was a confident prediction among Administration officials that Gen. Huerta would see the wisdom of satisfying the American demand and close the incident.

U. S. Soldiers Eager for Action.

FORT BLISS, Texas, April 15.—Coming at the end of three years of watchful waiting on the sand dunes and cactus clumps of the Mexican border, the Tampico incident renewed hope among the units of the United States army here on the border, and nothing was being discussed at the officers' and men's messes last night but the possibilities of a Mexican invasion at last.

One hour is the estimated time it would require to throw the entire Federal force into Juarez, the first point of contact for the army of invasion.

On Verge of Intervention.

LONDON, April 15.—The Daily Mail in an editorial yesterday morning considers that the United States "is on the verge of armed intervention in Mexico, with all its incalculable consequences."

The Post, asking whether President Wilson has lost faith in his policy of watchful waiting, thinks it more than likely that the naval demonstration is intended as a warning to the constitutionalists as well as to Huerta, but that even if Huerta yields and the constitutionalists desist from the destruction of foreign property, the general problem will be no nearer solution. "It is difficult to see," The Post adds, "how intervention can be avoided."

When a man gets above his business he is bound to fall off.

And the "swat the fly" season is due to open pretty soon also.

The man who is his own worst enemy has a fool to overcome.

Let us rejoice that Dame Nature had better sense than the originator of the green wigs.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

It is understood that Hon. Col. Hughes will personally take charge of this year's camp at Petawawa.

The grand jury have returned a true bill against Isaac Estrene for the murder of Ann Garlock in Toronto.

All trains leaving Rome yesterday were crowded owing to fears that traffic might be suspended by the threatened strike.

Harry L. Smith, a Toronto chauffeur, will do six months in the penitentiary for charging an immigrant girl $12 for carrying her two miles.

The sudden death of Mrs. Dempsey, a nurse, taken ill while attending a patient on the Roseville road at Galt Monday, is attributed to wood alcohol poisoning.

James Burns, engineer of the Grand Central Hotel, St. Thomas, dropped dead in the basement of the hotel just as he was about to finish his work for the day.

That conditions have not improved much in Hamilton with the advent of spring was evident yesterday when 500 unemployed stormed the City Hall and asked for work.

Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor, who has been seriously ill with erysipelas, is still confined to his bed, and is in a weakened condition, though no dangerous results are feared.

The Sarnia City Council Monday night decided to call Sarnia the Imperial City instead of the Beacon City, chosen by the Board of Trade. The city will be duly christened by the Duke of Connaught on May 7.

Exiled Baron Dead at 103.

MONTREAUX, Switzerland, April 15.—Baron Ferdinand De Turckeim, a French Alsatian exile since the Prussian conquest, died here yesterday in his 104th year. He was an intimate friend of Chopin, and celebrated his 103rd birthday on March 31, by playing some manuscript pieces presented to him by the composer.

Baroness De Turckheim, who was born in 1819, and to whom he was married in 1843, was at her husband's bedside when he died.

Two Men Drown.

MIDLAND, Ont., April 15.—Robt. and Frank Paradis, two Frenchmen from here, who had been cutting wood for some weeks up the bay, were drowned while returning home over the ice. The ice is breaking up and the men are supposed to have gone through about three miles from shore. A hand sleigh which they were drawing was found upon the ice.

GETTING BACK TO WORK.

Parliament Will Spend Rest of Week on the Budget.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Members of Parliament have returned from the Easter vacation for the resumption of business by the House to-day.

The Senate also resumes to-day, and its special committee will tackle the Consolidated Railway Act, which will be productive of several weeks' work. The principal features are those extending the powers of the Railway Commission, and particularly vesting in that body complete control over stock issues by railway corporations. It is understood that the companies are preparing vigorous opposition.

Supplementary estimates and railway subsidies have yet to be brought down, but otherwise the Government legislation is nearly all on the table.

KINGSTON STANDARD SUFFERS BY FIRE

Many Thousand Dollars Damage to Plant With Owner Holidaying in Florida

KINGSTON, Ont., April 1.—"The Kingston Standard," newspaper building was damaged to the extent of about $20,000 in a blaze which broke out early to-day. Members of the editorial and mechanical staff had a very narrow escape from being suffocatet. The fire started from the furnace. The smoke poured into the editorial rooms and with the stairway also ablaze the only avenue of escape was the fire escape which was installed one month ago.

Good work by Chief Armstrong and his men confined the fire to the front of the building. Type-setting machines at rear were not damaged and at noon the printers were at work setting up copy for to-day's issue. The big press on the main floor was badly damaged. But the paper was issued to-day from the "British Whig."

The editor and proprietor, Mr. W. R. Givens is holidaying in Florida. The burned building is owned by Mr. H. W. Richardson. The building was entirely new The "Standard" having moved in a little over a year ago.

DEMONSTRATION ORCHARDS FOR NEW BRUNSWICK

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 15.—Special—Three demonstration orchards will be established shortly by the Department of Agriculture in the province of New Brunswick. French Lake, Benton and Havelock have been selected as the sites for the orchards. Work will also be continued at Westfield and St. John's College, where similar undertakings were started two years ago. It is planned by the Department of Agriculture to establish three new orchardsa in fresh sections yearly.

STUDENTS ON STRIKE.

Banishment of Father Fallon Causes Trouble at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Three hundred students of Ottawa University, back from the Easter vacation, paraded the streets of the city yesterday morning and refused to enter their class rooms as a protest against the banishment of Father James Fallon, prefect of studies, by the Oblate Order. None of the English-speaking students, of whom there are over four hundred, resumed their studies, and everything was at a standstill when the strike came to a sudden end, and instead of sending a committee of protest they sent a committee of apology. A probe is in prospect.

It had been announced that Father Fallon was to be succeeded by a French priest, Father Lajeunesse, but the English-speaking students demand a successor of their own nationality, Irish, and one of the cries of the students as they marched through the streets yesterday morning was "We Want Father Murphy." Father Stephen Murphy is a teacher of the college, and one of the objects of the strike was to have him promoted to succeed Father Fallon, who, of course, it is realized, will not be brought back.

Says Policeman Robbed Him.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 15.—That Patrolman McKnight held him up at the point of a revolver and took $23 from him in Portage Road on Sunday night is the complaint made by Andrew Busch, of 331 Thirteenth street. McKnight was recently reinstated in the department after being fined seven days' pay for intoxication.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on glutten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fulness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

MELVILLE NOTES

OSTERHOUT—ADAMS.

A very pretty Easter wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams at high noon on Wednesday, April 8th, when their eldest daughter, Miss Mina, was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Osterhout of Murray, Rev. Mr. Wallace of Ameliasburg officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, was altogether charming in a dress of white duchess satin trimmed with pearls. She wore a bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Mabel Adams, a sister of the bride, wore a gown of blue silk. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Arthur Osterhout. Miss Hazel Lowry of Trenton played the wedding march and at the close of the ceremony Mr. G. M. Weeks sang "In the Garden of My Heart," Mr. Fred Morton accompanying. The drawing room was artistically decorated with Easter lilies and an arch of evergreens in which were twined silver-white bells. After congratulations had been extended to the happy pair, the guests, numbering upwards of one hundred, enjoyed a most elaborate luncheon, served at large tables, the floral decorations of which were white carnations, petunias and hyacinthes. The bridal pair left amid showers of rice and confetti for Belleville, thence taking the train for Ottawa and other eastern points. The bride's going away gown was of blue with hat to match.

Rev. Mr. Wallace of Ameliasburg conducted the Easter service Sunday morning in Melville church. The choir furnished appropriate music and Mrs. Kinnear and Mr. Fred Morton rendered a vocal duet, "He did not die in vain," the sentiment of which was in complete harmony with the service.

THE SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army has as an organization given both to the religious and philanthropic worlds many examples of what great things can be done by fixity of purpose and unity of effort; among them none more striking than its annual week of prayer and self denial.

We understand the period set apart for this purpose for the present year is from April 19th to 25th, and we are not backward in commending the appeal to the generosity of our readers.

In addition to being a great influence for good in this country, the Army is a huge missionary organization, operating in no less than fifty-eight countries and colonies, and preaching the gospel in thirty-four different languages.

From what we can gather, its extensive social scheme for the amelioration of the physical needs of the poor and outcast is being carried on with much success in other lands. Take India, for instance, where its relief operations, savings banks, and co-operative schemes are proving of great blessing, and are exceedingly successful.

LIVE WHITE RAT BY PARCEL POST

Unusual Consignment Caused Official Correspondence as to its Disposal

Government circles were severely disturbed a couple of days ago when the Montreal Post Office discovered that in the parcels post had arrived a shipment consisting of one large white rate, very much alive and very much annoyed at its circumscribed parcelling. The rat was mailed for the sum of five cents, and was sent from a nearby breeder of these animals to a consignee of the city, who wanted it to kill off the common or sewer rats which were bothering his premises, it being alleged that aristocratic white rats are sworn foes of the plebeian brand of rat, and kill them as often as they find them.

When the white rat was encountered at the Post Office fortunately there were no female employees around, so that peace was maintained in the building. But the question immediately arose as to whether live stock of this nature was eligible for a berth in the parcels post. The Postmaster-General wanted to know if the shipment of live white rats was likely to damage the other mail matter in transit or endanger the lives or safety of the post office employees.

After competent experts had examined the rodent the conclusion was reached that both His Majesty's mails and His Majesty' male employees, there being no lady clerks in the parcel post department were in no danger of life, limb or disfigurement from the caged animal.

This being settled the Post Office Department was notified, and after due conideration it was decided that the rat could be passed through the mails matter, with a five-cent stamp affixed to its cage.

In this particular instance the white rat was carefully packed in a metal-lined box, with the end corrugated so that it could secure fresh air as it needed en passant. In fact, the officials at the post office reported to the Post Office Department that they could handle the caged animal without fear, and that the only real danger was to the rat itself, since if its cage happened to be slammed to the bottom of a large package of mail the rat might get hurt or even stifled. Since the Post Office Department under the postal regulations does not assume any risk regarding the lives of its mail matter this phase of the episode was not considered.

Tuesday another live shipment by parcel post also arrived at the city post office in the shape of a box containing a small Pomeranian pup, of undoubted pedigree. The pup was well within the eleven-pound rule as to weight, while its box did not approach the limits of the parcels post regulations, and it had an ample supply of puppy biscuits in its cage to keep it satisfied so far as appetite was concerned. The puppy, however was evidently unhappy, possibly not liking the idea of travelling as a parcels post package, and it made a very noisy piece of mail. It, however, was kindly treated by the post office authorities and was not dumped into a mail bag, but was carefully handed over to a mail carrier, who took it to its destination and delivered it safely.

It was stated at the city post office yesterday that these were but two samples of the curious shipments that are beginning to find their way into the mails under the parcels post system. Both of these live shipments were sent for short distances, so that their was little danger of the animals suffering from thirst or hunger. It was, however, stated that such mail packages of live animals were not popular, since they not only caused excitment among the employes, but the postal facilities were not designed for such work. It is not at all improbable that when the service becomes more established rules will be made excluding live stock from postal facilities.

Outside such unusual consignments, it was stated at the post office Tuesday that there had been a marked increase in the use of the parcels post system since the eleven-pound limit went into live stock from postar facilities. pecially manifest in the demand for mailing packages which came within the 25-cent limit, that being the smallest class handled by express companies. In this line the parcels post service was kept busy, with a growing tendency, and it was considered that if the work went on as it had during the last month the parcels post department would eventually become an important branch of postal work here. These smaller packages, under two pounds are delivered by the regular mail carriers, while in the outlying districts spare men are sent on a route to take the parcels.

PUTS POISON IN BEER

LINDSAY, Ont., April 15.—Lester McGilvary, convicted of having put a poisonous drug in a glass of beer that was being served to a companion while in the bar at the Hotel Grand, also with administering poison for the purpose of committing an indictable offence, robbery, was sentenced to-day by Judge McMillan.

McGilvary protested his innocence of any intent of wrong doing. He said he had not understood the drug was a poison and had put it in the glass merely as a joke on the bar tender.

On the first and more serious charge the judge sentenced the prisoner to two years, less one day, in Central Prison, and on the second charge one year, the sentences to run concurrently.

WEIRD TALE OF ROBBERY TO COVER THEFT OF $3,000

Youth Not Doing Well in Canada, Decided to Pocket Money Instead of Placing it in Bank

TORONTO, April 16.—Special—William Bird, 117½ Spadina Avenue, was arrested last night for the theft of $3,000 from Burns and Sheppard, proprietors of the Repository, Simcoe Street. The money represented the proceeds of yesterday's auction sale, and had been given to the accused to deposit in a branch of the Sterling Bank at the corner of Simcoe and Adelaide streets.

Bird is an Englishman, 20 years old, and has been in Canada two months, during which time he has been employed as a stenographer at the Repository. At the detective office last night he told Inspector Kennedy that he did not think he was doing well in Canada, and had stolen the money for the purpose of returning to England.

Following the close of the sale about 4.30 yesterday afternoon, the bookkeeper gave Bird the money, composed of about $2,000 in bills and the balance in cheques, to deposit. The amount was wrapped in a deposit slip and fastened with several elastic bands. Bird placed the roll in his overcoat pocket and walked out of the office.

Within a few minutes he returned and told the bookkeeper that he had lost the money. He stated that as he was walking down Simcoe Street a man and woman, whom he had never seen before, caught up with him and walked behind him, one on the left and the other on the right. He had kept his hand on the roll until he was forced to take it out to get a handkerchief. When he reached the bank and placed his hand in his pocket again the money had disappeared, as had the mysterious couple.

The bookkeeper notified the police and two detectives took Bird to headquarters and questioned him. He held to his version of the story for more than three hours, until Inspector Kennedy returned from dinner and took charge of the case. Within 10 minutes Bird broke down and confessed.

He stated that as soon as he was handed the money he addressed an envelope to his room-mate, George Campbell. When he got out of view of the office he placed the money in the envelope and posted it. He, however, absolved his room-mate from all blame. The envelope was intercepted at the post office last night and the money recovered.

IMPROVED IN HEALTH

Hon. F. Cochrane is Leaving London for Scotland

LONDON, April 15—Hon. Frank Cochrane, Dominion minister of railways and canals, arrived yesterday from the Continent and joined his wife here. The minister is greatly improved, in health, but had been advised by his physicians to continue the rest cure.e He is now leaving for Scotland and expects to remain on this side for a few weeks longer. He was unable to say anything regarding the order of the Dominion Railway Commission readjusting freight rates, as he had not been apprized of the details, but he was inclined to think that the change would please the western people.

U. S. NAVY OFFICIALS KEEP BIG SECRET.

Bliss Company from revealing to other nations the construction of the Bliss-Leavitt torpedo used by the United States navy, has been rendered permanent.

The Bliss Company was about to demonstrate the operation and construction of this torpedo, which officials say the navy has developed into the finest weapon of the kind in the world, to the Whitehead Torpedo Company of Fiume, Austria, when checked by temporary injunctions sought by the Navy Department.

SEEDING BEGINS THORUGHOUT WEST

Land is in Good Condition for a Fine Start for the Crops

REGINA, Sask., April 15.—So far as the Province of Saskatchewan is concerned, 50 per cent. of the crop acreage is ready for seeding now and has started in parts, but will be general about April 20. The crop acreage will be 5 per cent. larger this year than last. Fifty per cent. of the land is ready for seeding, about 45 per cent. having to be spring-plowed and about 17 per cent. will be put in on stubble land.

Generally speaking, the land is in good condition for a fine start of the crops, in the north and middle east section snow has gone, but in some parts they could do with more moisture. Farmers in the southwest section are the most fortunate in early seeding. There is still some snow in the southeast section of the province, where seeding will be the latest.

HUBBY SULKS, WIFE GETS A DIVORCE

INDIANAPOLIS, April 15.—Continual silence on the part of a husband toward his wife constitutes cruel and inhuman treatment and is sufficient grounds for divorce, according to a decision made by Judge Collier of the Superior Court when he granted Mrs. Eleanor Wilhelm a divorce from John Leonard Wilhelm.

Wilhelm wouldn't speak to his wife. If he desired to convey any information to her he would write terse notes and leave them for her persual.

Mrs. Wilhelm said her husband would come home in the evening, eat his supper, then read the newspaper and retire for the night without speaking one word to her.

"This is the first time in my experience", said one of the attorneys, "that a divorce was granted because a man wouldn't speak to his wife."

TELEPHONE EMPLOYE KILLED BY SHOCK

KINGSVILLE, Ont., April 15.—Roy Corlett, an employee of the Bell Telephone Company, was instantly killed here yesterday. He was at work installing a cable, and above his head higher up on the pole was a 22,000 volt tension wire of the electric light company. By some means the two wires got together, and Mr. Corlett fell about twenty feet. When picked up he was dead.

CAUGHT ON A BRIDGE: CUT ALMOST IN TWO

Young Man Thought to be Frank Lennox of Tweed, Killed at Peterboro

PETERBORO, April 15.—About 9.30 o'clock last evening the mutilated body of a young man, whose name is thought to be Frank Lennox, was found on the middle span of the C.P.R. bridge which crosses the Otonabee River a short distance east of the station here. The body was nearly cut in two by an eastbound freight on which he evidently tried to steal a ride. He had been seen around the station all afternoon and had stated that he intended going east. His home is thought to be in Tweed.

A man supposed to have been with him was arrested by P. C. Reid but declined to say anything about the occurrence. He is believed to have come from Milbrook.

The mangled remains of the unfortunate man was removed to Belleghem's undertaking parlor where an inquest will be held to-morrow by Dr. Greer. He was about twenty-three years of age. In his pockets were found five dollars in cash a pawn ticket, and a railway ticket to Bowmanville.

It is supposed that he was intoxicated, and was too near the track though there is room for a man to stand beside a train on the bridge.

BALL IN WONDERFUL UNDERGROUND ROOM

The Duke of Portland Invites 1,000 Guests to Celebrate Heir's Coming of Age Palace Cost $35,000,000

LONDON, April 15.—Welbeck Abbey, Nottinghamshire, world famous for its underground apartments, was the scene to-night of a memorable ball to celebrate the coming of age of the Marquis Titchfield, eldest son of the Duke and Duchess of Portland. Over 1,000 guests were invited.

The dancing took place in the wonderful underground picture gallery, which has been described as "the largest and most magnificent private room in England."

All the subterranean marvels of Welbeck are due to the eccentric fifth Duke of Portland, who was consumed with a passion for privacy. From his succession to the estate in 1851 to his death in 1879 he spent, it is said $35,000,000 in creating new wonders for Welbeck. Of these the most celebrated is the picture gallery. It is entirely below ground, excavated from solid clay, 180 feet long, 54 feet wide, and 22 feet high. At night eighteen exquisite glass chandeliers reveal the priceless old masters that cover the walls. The roof is level with the garden above, and one can walk on the soft green turf without knowing the beauties below.

Last night pink was the prevailing one. The chairs, divans, and settees were pink and gold, harmonizing with the beautiful flowers from the Welbeck conservatories. Great palms almost hid the orchestra.

The rose corridor, 150 yards long, had been arranged under the supervision of the Duchess of Portland, as a sitting room. Here, too, pink was the prevailing tone. Exotic plants lined the corridor.

Underground apartments ordinarily used as storehouses were converted into comfortable smoking rooms richly decorated and artificially heated.

Supper was served by the Welbeck staff, reinforced by over 100 waiters. It was served in three underground rooms adjoining the picture gallery.

Four hundred persons sat down to supper at a time.

The guests included many well-known society persons and leading residents of the country.

STRATHCONA WINDOW TO BE PLACED IN WESTMINSTER

Dean and Chapter of the Abbey Have Expressed Approval of the Proposal

LONDON, April 16.—Special—A memorial window and tablet to the late Lord Strathcona in Westminster Abbey is a proposal being made by a strong influential committee which during the past three months has been considering the question. The appeal is now made by circular to the Canadians resident in Britain, together with others associated with the Dominion, to contribute to the project.

There is a feeling that such a memorial in the abbey, where the funeral service was held on January 26, would be both suitable and appropriate, says the circular, which adds that the committee have reason to believe that such an offer would be welcomed by the dean and chapter.

The project ot the memorial is in the hands of a general committee headed by Premier Asquith, Lord Chancellor Haldane, the Duke of Argyll, Earl of Aberdeeen, Earl Grey, Right Hon. Lewis Vernon Harcourt, Sir Chas. Tupper, Andrew Bonar Law and other notables, while leading members of the Canadian colony here form the Executive Committee, of which J. G. Colmer and G. C. Cassells are treasurers.

TWELVE HUNDRED LEAVE ON GEORGIAN BAY DELEGATION

Headed by Montreal Mayor-Elect They Take Four Special Trains

MONTREAL, April 15.—Twelve hundred Montreal business men left the City this morning in four special trans for Ottawa where they will wait upon members of the Federal Government and urge the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal. The delegation consisted of prominent citizens, representative of every class in the City, and even the labor organizations rubbed shoulders with the many captains of industry who made up the big crowd.

Two special trains steamed out of the Windsor station at a quarter past nine, and about the same time two other trains left the City, one from Bonaventure and the other from Place Viger station. The two trains from the Windsor station contained the biggest crowd, who were headed by Mayor-elect Mederic Martin. While standing in the middle of a group having their photos taken someone shouted to the Mayor. "Why don't you smile, Mederic?" He answered, "I will smile more when we get the canal." That was the spirit of the delegation. They were going to Ottawa to get the canal, and they did not intend to come back unless they received an assurance from the Hon. Robert Rogers that it was actually going to be constructed, and constructed without delay.

Mr. Adelard Fortier, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which was responsible for the delegation, stated this morning that their only motive was a desire to help the success of an enterprise of national importance. For nearly 20 years the Chambre de Commerce has pleaded for the construction of this great waterway, and they had a strong hope that the present demonstration would not be ignored by the Government. He considered that the construction of the canal was of the utmost moment, owing to the strongly marked preparations which our powerful neighbors in the United States are making to secure the overseas supremacy in trade.

PRETENDED INSULT BUT A PRETEXT

PARIS, April 16.— (Special.)—The Journal Des Debats has an editorial this afternoon on what it calls "The Pretended insults to the American flag as a pretext for naval action." It finds the new manifestation of the Washington Government "in absolute conformity with the traditions of the White House since the middle of the last century." It charges that the United States never allowed Mexico to develop or live in peace. It goes on to say that the United States supported the opposition to Maximillian (the Austrian, who with the soldiers of Napoleon III., tried to establish an empire in Mexico), lest he should establish a strong government, and that it supported Pirfirio Diaz until Diaz welcomed Zelaya, of Nicaragua, when the United States feared that a Nicaraguan canal might be built.

CHILDREN DRINK VODKA

ST. PETERSBURG April 16—(Special)—The Novoe Vremya referring to the Government's anti-alcohol campaign, asserts that 56 per cent. of the boys and 55 per cent. of the girls in the schools of the Veronjsky Government drink habitually vodka, wine and beer in their homes, and that children of six to eight years old have been found drunk.

ALLEGED BURGLAR FED THROUGH NOSTRILS

Buffalo, April 16—Special—Sam Miller, the alleged burglar, who has been on a hunger strike at the Erie county jail the past ten days, was taken to a hospital today in a serious condition. Miller has been forcibly fed by a tube through the nostrils since his arrest. He refused to talk, and for days laid on his cot motionless. When arraigned he was carried into court on a stretcher. Medical experts are divided as to whether the man is shamming or is insane.

BIG CONTEST IS STARTED WITH A BUSY WHIRL

Now is the Opportune Time to Enter and Start Campaigning for Votes McLaughlin Buick Automobile is the First Prize--Beautiful Bell Piano is the Second Prize and Many Other Valuable Prizes

Now is the real starting time for candidates in The Intelligencer's automobile and trip contest. With the publishing the nominations the contest will begin to materialize and the ones who are desirous of winning one of the many valuable prizes will begin to show their strength. However, there is still plenty of time for new entries, but the sooner you start the greater the chances of success. Your name should appear in the next published list. Those of your friends who may be anxious to help you may promise their support to some other candidate before they learn that you are in the race. It is generally said the first come, first served, so if you are first you are almost sure to receive the support of your friends. It will require a little time and energy to secure one of the prizes, but just think of the delightful trips you could have in that handsome touring car, or the delights of a beautiful piano. In fact everyone of the valuable prizes to be given are well worth the small effort required to win them.

Send Letters to Friends

Candidates should send letters to their friends requesting them to help by sending subscriptions to The Intelligencer. Nearly everyone in the campaign has friends at distant points who probably lived in this vicinity at one time, and are interested still in the happenings in this community. Letters to these people will prove effective. The Intelligencer has imitation typewritten letters prepared that are ready for the candidates to address and send out to their friends. A card to the office will bring a supply of these.

Don't Stay Behind

Don't sit back and allow the others to get all the good things of life. Grasp the opportunities that come your way. This is one of the opportunities of a life-time and you will be sorry if you do not take advantage of it.

Keep a cheerful and confident spirit. If it is apparent that you expect to win you will get many interested who would not like to see you disappointed. The average man likes to be of service to someone who will make the most of whatever aid is given.

Deep down in the Canadian soul there is a wholesome regard for a hustler. Everybody will gladly help you if you get busy and keep busy to the end. Even the occasional person who may refuse to help will be forced to admit that at least you deserve to win. You will meet with encouragement all along the line.

Once you have entered the campaign don't drop out. If someone should get a few votes ahead of you put some sand on the tracks and pass the field.

Open Evenings

The contest department of The Inteligencer will be open each evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Write, phone or call for information.

AGED WOMAN DIES OF FEARFUL BURNS

Husband Arrested on Drunkenness Charge May Face Graver Accusation

MONTREAL, April 15.—His wife lying unconscious with her clothing literally burned from her body by a fire which mysteriously started in the bed upon which she was lying, Damase Champagne, 64 years of age, of 1190 Cadieux street, locked the doors of his house, while the fire gained headway in the bedroom and opposed the entrance to the home of a neighbor who had seen the smoke and the flames, and who finally had to break down the door to get in and put out the flames as best as he could.

The woman, aged 68, died in the Royal Victoria hospital, while the husband is being held upon a charge of intoxication at the St. Lawrence boulevard police station, and a more serious charge will probably be laid against him when he appears in court.

No hope was held out by the doctors for her recovery, as she had been burned from head to foot, and it was surprising that she lived as long as she did.

According to statements of neighbors, both Champagne and his wife drank heavily, and both of them smoked pipes. A large bottle of gin was found in the bedroom by the police. The door of the Champagne house was fastened with a police padlock, there being no other occupants and the husband will appear at the inquest.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The schooner which went ashore in the gale near Long Branch, N.J., last night was identified at daybreak today as the Charles K. Buckley from Jacksonville, Fla., for New York. The schooner is a total loss and Capt. Hardy, his wife, and six members of the crew were lost while attempting to launch the life boats. Besides the schooner, the tug Aries, of New London, Conn., sank off Raritan Bay, and two of her crew were drowned, while seven others on vessels are reported missing.

WOULD FORCE GOV'T TO PASS HOME RULE

(Intelligencer Special

LONDON, April 16.—Ex-Premier Balfour and former Irish Secretary, Walter H. Long, are said to be endeavoring to induce the Unionists to force the Government to pass the Home Rule bill without amendment. The idea is that the Covenanters would then be mobilized, and that the Government, unable to face the situation, would be forced to resign and the Unionists would form a ministry and go to the country on the cry: "Will England lend the army to John Redmond to coerce Ulster?"

WOMEN ARE NOT EQUAL TO MEN

LONDON, April 15.—The report of the Royal Commission appointed two years ago to investigate the conditions of employment in the civil service was issued last night. It shows a considerable divergence of views, but the majority of the recommendations will make no drastic changes either in the methods of selection or in conditions. With regard to women the idea of their being treated on an equality with men is rejected, but it is recommended that the employment of women be extended where it is possible at higher rates of pay.

FAVORS CORN TARIFF

Oliver Wilcox, M.P., Urges Protection For New Industry.

House Resumes Sittings and Budget Debate Is Continued With a Prospect of Going on For Ten Days More—Mr. Carroll, of Cape Breton, Wants Free Trade For All Canada Except Own Constituency.

OTTAWA, April 16. — The House of Commons resumed yesterday after its Easter vacation, and despite a slim attendance the budget debate was continued. Three speakers, two Liberal and one Conservative took part and from present indications the debate may go on for ten days more.

Mr. Carroll (Lib., S. Cape Breton) resumed the budget debate. He commended the Laurier Government for the bounties it had extended to the iron and steel industries and intimated that assistance by way of bounty was preferable to high tariff. Increased duties upon iron and steel could be of little benefit to the big industries at Sydney and Hamilton. Wire rods were placed on the dutiable list, but there was a drawback for the benefit of wire fencing, and the Government threatened to remove the duty unless wire rods were sold quite cheaply to the small manufacturers of wire nails. He also condemned the recent change in the tariff which gives a drawback of 99 per cent. upon duties paid on bituminous coal imported for cokeing and smelting purposes.

The people of Canada, Mr. Carroll said, were suffering from the high cost of living partly because of the fact that they paid several millions a year duty on staple food products, and he said that in one ward of Ottawa alone, no less than seven hundred people were in distress.

Mr. Wilcox (Con., N. Essex) said that the member for South Cape Breton (Mr. Carroll), wanted a high protective wall around the city of Sydney, but free trade for all the rest of Canada. That gentleman favored free flour and free agricultural implements and desired to deprive the farmer of his share of the benefit of labor.

"I am not a partisan," the North Essex member said. (Laughter). "But I must say the Liberal party has always been on the wrong side of public questions, and has developed a wonderful talent for sitting up false gods for the Canadian people to worship. They bullyrag the manufacturers from one end of the country to the other, but shake hands with them under the table."

Continuing, Mr. Wilcox declared that the west is more prosperous today than it was prior to 1911, and that he believed that its unparalleled prosperity was due to the protection policy of the present Government. It was due to that policy that the United States steel trust had been forced to establish a Canadian plant. They had purchased over 1,500 acres of land near Windsor and were spending $20,000,000 in building and equipment of a plant which would give employment to thousands of Canadians.

Mr. Wilcox, in conclusion, urged the Government to put import duty upon Indian corn. He could see no reason why the tobacco growers, the fruit growers, and all other agriculturists should benefit by the tariff while no protection at all was given to the farmer who raised corn. He said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had justified the reciprocity pact on the ground that the farmers should get more for their products. But when the farmers refused to follow him he changed his position, and was now clamoring for free food upon the ground that farmers were getting too much.

"The characteristics of the budget speech of the Minister of Finance," said Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, "were certainly reactionary. The speech was a complete surrender to the interests and manufacturers of Canada. The country was waiting anxiously for a downward revision of the tariff, and instead the Finance Minister wards. Minus a five per cent. reduction on certain agricultural implements, a mere sop to the farmers, the Minister ignores the needs and wishes of the farming communities, discards western interests, and bars and bolts the doors upon the consumers.

In the interest of all Canada, that the cost of living might be reduced, declared Mr. Lemieux, the present taxation upon food should not merely be reduced, but entirely abolished. As it was, he argued, the Borden Government was totally ignoring the needs and wishes of the consumers.

The debate was adjourned by J. E. Armstrong (E. Lambton), and the House rose shortly before midnight.

It is evident that the present session of Parliament in drawing rapidly to a close. Yesterday Hon. Geo. E. Foster, who is acting Premier in the absence of Mr. Borden in the south, gave notice that morning sittings of the Commons will begin on Monday next. Prorogation is looked for about June 1st.

FINANCIAL LOCAL

Readers no doubt have noticed the advertisement of Marsh & Henthorn, Ltd., which has been appearing in The Intelligencer during the last few days, offering for sale a small quantity of Second Mortgage 7% Bonds, running 10 years, with interest payable half-yearly. This Company, as is well-known, is a progressive one, its business having grown to such an extent that it became absolutely necessary to build a new and modern plant, which they have done and have now occupied about a year. The original estimate of the cost of this plant and its equipment was $40,000, but the actual cost has over-run that amount many thousand dollars, and the Company has now in operation the finest plant of its size and kind in Canada. Their total assets at last stocktaking were, we are informed, $146,544 and bond liability of $25,000, and other liabilities $40,533. The latter item has been reduced to $30,230 at the end of March. The present bond issue is being made to further reduce the amount and to provide additional capital for the business. They are issued in amounts of $100 and $500, to accommodate the small investor, and bonds of this nature, paying this large interest, and with a security of nearly $150,000 (all of which is mortgaged for the Bondholders to the Guardian Trust Company) should be taken up very quickly.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"THE RED WIDOW"

It is doubtful if there are two men better equipped to write for the stage than are Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf. Both have studied the stage from every angle and today are considered the best posted men on theatricals to be found in America. It was naturally expected than when these two celebreties began writing for the stage something uncommonly good could be expected. When they wrote "The Red Widow" the musical comedy to be seen here at Griffin Opera House on Wed. April 22, those in the know acknowledged that at last consistency and plot had been discovered in this form of entertainmbent.

Mr. Pollock is a graduate of the Politcnic, Prague, Austria, and Mr. Wolf of Cornell. They both began their careers as newspapermen and both drifted into writing dramatic criticisms—today they are both considered experts in this line of writing. The former was dramatic editor of the Washington Post and Washington Times while the latter is still dramatic editor of the New York Morning Telegraph. Both are regular contributers to The Green Book and other magazines. Together they have written the book and lyrics of five successful musical comedies and have three others contracted for. "The Red Widow" is they themselves consider, their best work.

NEW LAWS INTRODUCED

Provincial Government's Reform Legislation Continues.

No Inferior Stallions Will Be Allowed After Five Years by Bill Brought In Yesterday—Boundaries Defined In Mr. Hearst's Measure—Salaries of Compensation Commission Fixed.

TORONTO, April 16.—Important new legislation was introduced in the Legislature yesterday by members of the Ministry.

The aim of the Department of Agriculture to place the horse-breeding of Ontario on a new standard of excelence will be furthered by Hon. James Duff's new measure, which will allow only pure bred stallions to be used after 1918. In addition clauses are added to the Stallion Enrolment Act, which will make the inspection of all animals compulsory and work towards the weeding out of inferior cross-bred animals.

To make the plan work out without undue unfairness the first stage will be enforced in 1916, and the lower class of grade animals will be ruled out of service. Then the total enforcement will follow.

Hon. Mr. Hearst introduced a bill to amend the Territorial Division Act and which will make clear the judicial boundaries of Manitoulin and Sudbury for judicial and other purposes. This was followed by an insurance amendment of Hon. J. J. Foy, which will ask that in future certain forms of insurance companies, especially those operating on a fraternal basis will be required to submit more tabulated returns than usual. The rates now being charged by some are understood to be much lower than those recognized by actuaries and with a view to educating the country in the ways of insurance policy the bill will not be passed this year but printed and distributed.

A special bill, brought into the Legislature yesterday by the Minister of Lands, Forests, and Mines, is designed to elucidate some of the clauses in the Election Act, relating to the exercise of manhood franchise at the polls. A change will be made to enforce the submission of all nominations in writing and signed by at least 50 nominees.

Registration booths will be kept open at noon hereafter.

Before the Legislature in committee of the whole, Hon. Mr. Lucas explained certain amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act, chief among which was the inclusion in the measure of the salaries to be paid to the new board—$10,000 to the chairman, $8,500 to the vice-chairman and $7,500 to the commissioner.

The Opposition probe into the public accounts at the meeting of the committee in the morning was conducted by Chief Liberal Whip C. M. Bowman.

C. H. Sproule, assistant Provincial Treasurer, was a witness in connection with the flotation and application of loans. He said that of the $5,000,000 authorized two years ago for Northern Ontario development, $4,006,000 has been raised. Of this sum $1,300,000 has been expended on New Ontario. The balance, he said, has been used for any general purpose where a vote has been made by the Legislature. When the money is needed in New Ontario new flotations may be required,

J. H. Humphreys, of the Department of Education, was examined with regard to the reduction of rural public school grants. While in 1912 the Treasury had assisted the Department to the extent of $80,000 in meeting the extra grants earned by the schools in 1913 the Department had been forced to cut down the grants to the public schools to 72 per cent. The separate schools had been paid in full.

Miners Will Continue Work.

PITTSBURG, April 16.—Van Bitner, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, announced yesterday that reports from local unions indicated that a majority of the forty-five thousand miners in this district voted to continued work while the negotiations for a settlement of the wage scale are in progress.

RUN TO EARTH

that river which I have crossed so often, seated by your side in a carriage. Once on the bridge, under cover of the blessed darkness, all my troubles will be ended; you will be burdened with me no longer, and I shall not cost you even the ten-pound note which you so generously left for me, and which I shall enclose in this letter. Forgive me if there is some biterness in my heart. I try to forgive you—I do forgive you! May a merciful heaven pardon my sins, as I pardon your desertion of me! "M. G."

There was a pause after the reading of the letter—a silence which Mr. Eversleigh did not attempt to break.

"The second letter I need scarcely read to you", said the baronet; "it is from a young man whom you were pleased to patronize some twelve months back—a young man in a banking office, aspiring and ambitious, whose chief weakness was the desire to penetrate the mystic circle of fashionable society. You were good eonugh to indulge that weakness at your own price, and for your own profit. You initiated the banker's clerk into the mysteries of card-playing and billiards. You won money of him—more than he had to lose; and after being the kindest and most indulgent of friends, you became all at once a stern and pitiless creditor. You threatened the bank-clerk with disgrace if he did not pay his losses. He wrote you pleading leters; but you laughed to scorn his prayers for mercy, and at last, maddened by shame, he helped himself to the money entrusted to him by his employers, in order to pay you. Discovery came, as discovery always does come, sooner or later, in these cases, and your friend and victim was transported. Before leaving England he wrote you a letter, imploring you to have some compassion on his widowed mother, whom his disgrace had deprived of all support. I wonder how much heed you took of that letter, Mr. Eversleigh? I wonder what you did towards the consolation of the helpless and afflicted woman who owed her misfortunes to you?"

The young officer dared not lift his eyes to his uncle's face; the consciousness of guilt rendered him powerless to utter a word in his defence.

"I have little more to say to you", resumed the baronet. "I have loved you as a man rarely loves his nephew. I have loved you for the sake of the brother who died in my arms, and for the sake of one who was even dearer to me than that only brother—for the sake of the woman whom we both loved, and who made her choice between us—choosing the younger and poorer brother; and retaining to her dying day the affection and esteem of the elder. I loved your mother, Reginald Eversleigh, and when she died, within one short year of her husband's death, I swore that her only child should be as dear to me as a son. I have kept that promise. Few parents can find patience to forgive such follies as I have forgiven. But my endurance is exhausted; my affection has been worn out by your heartlessness: henceforward we are strangers."

"You cannot mean this, sir?" murmured Reginald Eversleigh.

There was a terrible fear at his heart—an inward conviction that his uncle was in earnest.

"My solicitors will furnish you with all particulars of the deed I spoke of", said Sir Oswald, without noticing his nephew's appealing tones. "That deed will secure to you two hundred a year. You have a soldier's career before you, and you are young enough to redeem the past—at any rate, in the eyes of the world, if not before the sight of Heaven. If you find your regiment too expensive for your altered means, I would recommend you to exchange onto the line. And now, Mr. Eversleigh, I wish you good morning."

"But, Sir Oswald—uncle—my dear uncle—you cannot surely cast me off this coldly—you——"

The baronet rang the bell.

"The door—for Mr. Eversleigh", he said to the servant who answered the summons.

The young man rose, looking at his kinsman with an incredulous gaze. He could not believe that all his hopes were utterly ruined; that he was, indeed, cast off with a pittance which to him seemed positively despicable.

But there was no hope to be derived from iSr Oswald's face. A mask ed from Sir Oswald's face. A mask of stone couldn't have been more inflexibie.

"Godo morning, sir" said Reginald, in accents that were tremulous with supressed rage.

He could say no more, for the servant was in attendance, and he could not humiliate himself before the man who had been wont to respect him as Sir Oswald's heir. He took up his hat and cane, bowed to the baronet, and left the room.

Once beyond the doors of his uncle's mansion, Reginald Eversleigh abandoned himself to the rage that possessed him.

"He shall repent this", he muttered. "Yes; powerful as he is, he shall repent having used his power. As if I had not suffered enough already; as if I had not been haunted perpetualy by that girl's pale, reproachful face, ever since the fatal hour in which I abandoned her. But those letters; how could they have fallen into my uncle's hands? That scoundrel, Laston, must have stolen them, in revenge for his dismissal."

He went to the loneliest part of the Green Park, and, stretched at full lengh upon a bench, abandoned himself to gloomy reflections, with his face hidden by his folded arms.

For hours he lay thus, while the bleak March winds whistled loud and shrill in the leafless trees above his head—while the cold, gray light of the sunless day faded into the shadows of evening. It was past seven o'clock, and the lamps in Piccadilly shone brightly, when he rose, chilled to the bone, and walked away from the park.

"And I am to consider myself rich—with my pay and fifty pounds a quarter", he muttered, with a bitter laugh; "and if I find a crack cavalry regiment too expensive, I am to exchange into the line—turn foot-soldier, and face the scornful looks of all my old acquaintances. No, no, Sir Oswald Eversleigh; you have brought me up as a gentleman, and a gentleman I will remain to the end of the chapter, let who will pay the cost. It may seem easy to cast me off, Sir Oswald; but we have not done with each other yet."

Out of the Depths

After dismissing his nephew, Sir Oswald Eversleigh abandoned himself for some time to gloomy thought. The trial had been a very bitter one; but at length, arousing himself from that gloomy reverie, he said aloud, "Thank Heaven it is over; my resolution did not break down, and the link is broken."

Sir Oswald had made his arrangements for leaving London that afternoon, on the first stage of his journey to Raynham Castle. There were few railroads six-and-twenty years ago, and the baronet was in the habit of traveling in his own carriage, with post-horses. The journey from London to the far north of Yorkshire was therefore, a long one, occupying two or three days.

The total sales of the "Salada" Tea Co. last year amounted to as much as the total business during the first twelve years they were introducing Ceylon tea into Canada and the United States. Their increase alone in 1913 over 1912 amounted to more than the total business done during the first five years of their existence, and during the first three months of 1913 their ratio of increase is the largest they have ever had.

BIG EXPORT OF COAL PROPHESIED

MONTREAL, P. Q., April 15.—Special—According to P. A. Petrie, of Sydeny, C. B., a visitor to Montreal, the export of coal from Cape Bretoin collieries this year will eclipse that of last year. Cape Breton contains three distinct coal fields, known respectively as the Sydney, the Inverness and the Richmond. Of these the first named is by far the most important, though that of Inverness promises to be very productive. The land areas occupied by the productive coal measures in what is known as the Sydney coalfield have been estimated at two hundred square miles. They extend from Cape Dauphin to Mira Bay, stretching over a territory about thirty-two miles long and six miles wide, which is bounded on three sides by the waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

This magnificent area forms the southern extremity of an extensive basin, the greater part of which lays hidden beneath the waters of the ocean. It has been estimated that the total quantity in the Sydney coalfield, exclusive of seams less than four feet in thickness, is at least one million tons. This coalfield is looked upon as probably the most valuable in the Dominion of Canada. The value of this enormous deposit of coal is greatly increased by its proximity to the fine harbors of Sydney and Louisburg.

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunk folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective and a single tablet with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by J. S. McKeown's Drug Store and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

DID NOT INFRINGE UPON THE BY-LAW

In the case of the City v. A. E. Peake, charged with an infraction of a city bylaw, known as the Transient Traders' Bylaw, Magistrate Masson dismissed the case. The accused took orders here for clothing for a Toronto firm he represented but personally did not deliver the goods. Mr. Carnew, who appeared for the accused, cited to the Magistrate the following authorities in regard to the case:

Biggar's Municipal Manual, page 750.—The occupation of premises in the municipality though only for a temporary period is the essential note of difference between the class of persons herein described as transient traders. In Regina v. Cuthbert, 45 U.C.R. 19, 1980 the defendant who was the agent in Canada for Wm. Thomas Russell & Sons Co. of London, England, had consigned to auctioneer in London, Ont., a large quantity of jewelry to be sold by them on account of Thos. Russell & Sons at specified rates. The goods were placed in the warerooms of the auctioneer and were there sold partly by auction and partly by private sale, some of them by the auctioneer and some of them by the defendant who for that purpose had taken out an auctioneer's license; but all the sale was controlled by and (as between them and purchasery) were made by the auctioneer in whose premises they were carried on. The conviction of the defendant as a transient trader selling without a traders' license was quashed.

Per Osler, J.—The first requisite to jurisdiction over any transient trade is that he shall be an occupant of premises in the municipality. Where goods are consigned (as in the present case) to be sold on commission and they are so sold in the shop or premises of the commission merchant and by him or on his behalf it is impossible to say that the owner of the goods is a transient trader merely because he happens to accompany the goods and assist in their sale.

No evidence was adduced in this case to show that the defendant's name had not been entered on the assessment roll for the current year or on the assessment roll for the first time.

Regina v. Applebee, 30 O.R. 623. May 2, 1899, Boyd.—The bylaw is open to the objection which was dismissed in Regina v. Cuthbert.

Osler J. as before.—The fire requisition is that the defendant shall be an occupant of premises. If he doe not occupy premises he does not come within the section.

Rex v. St. Pierre, 4, O.L.R. 76, 5 Can. C.C. 365. 14 May, 1902, Divisional Court, Boyd C.—There is no power to pass a bylaw or to convict under the transient traders clause of the municipal act in respect to a person being at a hotel and taking orders there for clothing to be made in a place outside of the municipality and of material corresponding with samples exhibited.

Page 81.—The collocation of the words in the statute as to sale or offering for sale by transient traders implies some exhibition and visible presentation of the goods dealt in, such as occurs in sales by auction, the whole trading being carried on by the occupant of fixed premises within the municipality.

Page 81.—In the case in hand no goods are offered for sale. Samples of goods are exhibited suitable for clothing and the transaction is carried out by the choice of some particular pattern in Ottawa (Belleville) notification of which is sent to Montreal (Toronto) whereupon the garment is made and of that material and forwarded to the persons giving the order at Ottawa (Belleville) who then makes payment on delivery.

Neither in terms nor in substance was there according to judicial exposition an offering of goods for sale within the municipality.

Nevertheless the effect of the method of dealing may be to affect prejudicially the business of tax paying tailor and clothier of Ottawa (Belleville).

BOY BURGLARS SENTENCED

LINDSAY, Ont., April 15.—Smith and Wilson, two boy burglars, were sentenced by Magistrate Jackson yesterday morning. Wilson goes to the Guelph farm for six months on each of seven charges, sentences to run concurrently.

Smith receives two years, less one day, at the same institution on the charge of entering and robbing Britton's jewellery store, and six months on each of the other charges, sentences in this case also to run concurrently.

They pleaded guilty to breaking into the G. T. R. station at Penetanguishene on or about March 20, and were given six months on this also, sentence to run concurrently with the others. The young burglars also admitted burglaries and thefts at Gravenhurst, Midland, Orillia, Barrie and Bracebridge. Smith was given the heaviest sentence because of his previous bad record.

GOOD WORK BY SETTLEMENT BOARD

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 15—Special—The New Brunswick Farm Settlement Board during the few months since it was organized purchased 185 farms at a cost of $141,175 and resold 133 of them to prospective farmers. The Government is adopting a scheme for supplying ready-made farms, payable by a deposit of 25 per cent down, and balance in ten yearly instalments, the unpaid balance bearing interest at rate of 5 per cent. per year. These farms will be sold at actual cost, including all improvements made upon them.

When you've ordered Silk do you accept Sateen?

Almost a foolish question, but—not quite!

There are still some people who order Kellogg's Corn Flakes and are given a substitute "just as good"—and accept the imitation.

The difference between Kellogg's CORN FLAKES and the "just as good" kind is even greater than the difference between silk and sateen.

The great difference is in the flavor and the nutriment.

Be sure that you ask for and get Kellogg's. It is the original.

AGAIN A CANDIDATE

Despite his experiences of the past, Ex-Governor Sulzer announces that he will be a candidate for Governor this year, and in furtherance of that scheme a new party is formed called the American party.

The name is not especially fortunate. The last American party expired amid the jeers and sneers of the republic. Millard Fillmore was its last candidate for President. Though he polled a large number of votes, he represented a spirit hostile to real Americanism and, therefore, his party went to pieces as speedily as it arose.

We are not told what the platform of Governor Sulzer is to be, but it is stated that all the candidates for offices large and small will be anti-Tammany, so we may assume that the American party is virtually another Democratic organization created for the purpose of going on with the fight on Tammany.

It is doubtful if the Governor is adopting a sound policy in offering himself as a candidate for popular support. But every citizen has a right to go after any office that he prefers and the primary law as well as the election law, is framed to promote independent tickets.

PULP AND PULP WOOD

The Government of the Province of Quebec is adopting strong protective measures to protect its home pulp and paper enterprises. A telegram from Quebec of the 11th inst. says:

An important protective measure is to be taken by the Quebec Government in order to oblige timber dealers to manufacture pulp and paper in the Province.

The Minister of Crown Lands will sell by auction on the 11th of August next, timber limits in the regions of Ottawa Lakes, St. John, Rimouski, Matane, Bonaventure and Gaspe. Some limits offered have an area of over 2,000 square miles.

A new condition is imposed upon the limit holders along Mistassibi, Ashapmouchonan, and Rat Rivers, who will be obliged within two years to manufacture pulp or paper in the proportion of five tons per day for every hundred miles of limit.

A similar measure will also be enacted for Crown lands given as subsidies to railway companies.

The exportation of pulpwood cut on these lands is prohibited and this pulpwood will have to be converted into pulp or paper in Canada before it is exported. This new regulation is the same as the one ordered a few years ago for all Crown lands.

COPPER STRIKE ENDED

After a strike lasting nearly nine months, the Michigan copper miners by a referendum vote decided to return to work. On July 23, 1913, the miners walked out and since then a desperate warfare has been waged. On Sunday the vote was taken and the returns from four of the five districts show an overwhelming majority in favor of calling off the strike. In only one district, Calumet, did the copper men vote against the proposition. In returning to their places in the mines, the workmen waive their demand for recognition of their union, the chief grievance in the argument between the miners and the Michigan mine owners. The operators have, on the other hand, conceded an eight-hour work day, better working conditions and other conditions demanded by the strikers.

LITERARY NOTES.

FOR SUCCESSFUL FARMING

(Canadian Courier.)

Success in farming in Ontario depends so far as the State is concerned, on three great factors; agricultural education, freedom from communicable disease, and good roads. Given these three, farming should be a pleasant and profitable industry for an industrious people. Yet Ontario is lamentably weak in all these factors.

Ontario has no consolidated rural schools as Manitoba has. It has no text-book on agriculture as have British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia. It is doing nothing to educate the farmer's children for farming life except by a little desultory, narrow-based nature study.

Something has been done to eliminate bovine tuberculosis and to prevent its—but mainly through private effort. The poorer farmers would object to stringent laws on this subject and the department only follows public sentiment, never leads. Such improved methods as are in vogue are due to the teaching in the O.A.C., and the preaching in the farm journals.

As for good roads, the Ontario attempt to produce them are one large joke. No one in Canada ever built a road four feet deep, as they do in the New England States and in Great Britain. Our good roads are only surfaced with iron and go to pieces every spring. We have not overcome the evil influences of Jack Frost. Nor have we learned the art of continuous repair. The Commission which reported last week advises an expenditure in Ontario of thirty million dollars in fifteen years, under a Central Highways department. The advice is excellent, but the method of building, is the thing. If new methods are not adopted, the money would be wasted.

TO-DAY WE CELEBRATE

One of the most interesting and romantic of the year's anniversaries is the tercentenary of the marriage of the beautiful young Indian princess, Pocahontas, to John Rolfe, an Englishman who had settled at Jamestown. Although the exact date of that historic wedding is not certainly known, it was probably 300 years ago today, April 16, 1614, that the dusky princess gave her hand and heart into the keeping of a paleface, who thus became the first "squaw man." Several of the most aristocratic and wealthy families of Virginia boast descent from that lovely April bride of three centuries ago, and very proud of the strain of royal aboriginal blood in their veins.

Pocahontas was the daughter of the powerful Indian chief, Powhatan, and was born about the year 1595. Her real name was Matoaka, and Pocahontas was only a nickname, meaing "Little wanton." Her first appearance in the pages of history relates how a girl of twelve, she intervened and saved the life of Capt. John Smith. Some iconoclastic historians have sought to prove that this was only a pleasant fable, but the evidence seems to favor the truth of the tale. Smith was taken captive and brought before Powhatan, according to the account. "Having feasted him after there best barbarous manner they could, a long consultation was held; but the conclusion was two great stones were brought before Powhatan; then as many as could laid hands on Smith and dragged him to them and thereon laid his head. And, being ready with their clubs to beat out his brains, Pocahontas, the king's dearest daughter, when none entreaty could prevail, got his head in her arms and laid her own upon his to save him from death. Whereat the emperor was contented. Smith should live, to make him hatchets, and her bells, beads and copper; for they thought him as well of all occupations as themselves.

In 1613, while on a visit to a neighboring tribe, Pocahontas was treacherously seized by Capt. S. Argall, and carried prisoner to Jamestown. She was treated well, and only held as a hostage against the hostility of her people. She soon became friendly with the paleface settlers, embraced their religion and was baptised and christened Rebecca. Believing that her hero, Smith was dead, she transferred her ardent affections to John Rolfe, who returned her love, and was thus rescued from obscurity and gained a permanent place in history. The bridegroom was a widower, and an official at Jamestown. He came of an old Norfolk family, and was possessed of considerable wealth. Rolfe and Pocahontas were married by the Rev. Richard Buck, according to the ritual of the Church of England. The little church was transformed into a floral bower for the occasion, and the witnesses of the wedding included the entire population of the settlement.

Two years later John Rolfe took his bride to England. Before her arrival Smith petitioned Queen Anne in her behalf, and gave the first account of his deliverance from death by her intervention. This romantic tale naturally attracted attention to Pocahontas, and she was introduced to court by Lord and Lady Delaware and became the pet of the best society of London.

After a delightful sojourn in England Pocahontas and her husband, with their infant son, emarked on a vessel to return to Virgina, but the ship had barely started when Pocahontas died. The ship returned to Gravesend, which was a "grave's end" in very truth for the Indian princess, for the registry of the church contains this entry.

In this record her husband was referred to as "Thomas," but that was a mistake.

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of
"Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

"For six months nothing was heard of the missing Mary Goodwin; but at the end of that time a gentleman, who remembered her in days of her beauty and innocence at Stukely Park, recognized the features of Miss Stukely's protegee in the face of a suicide, whose body was exhibited in the Morgue at Paris. The girl had been drowned. The Englishman paid the charges of a decent funeral, and took back to the Stukelys the intelligence of their protegee's fate; but no one knew the secret of her destruction. That secret was, however, ssupected by Jane Stukely, who broke her engagement with you on the strength of the dark suspicion.

"It was to you she fled when she left Stukely Park—in your companionship she went abroad, where she passed as your wife, you assuming a false name—under which you were recognized, nevertheless. The day came when you grew weary of your victim. When your funds were exhausted, when the girl's tears and penitence grew troublesome—in the hour when she was most helpless and miserable, and had most need of your pity and protection, you abandoned her, leaving her alone in Paris, with a few pounds to pay for her journey home, if she should have courage to go back to the friends who had sheltered her. In this hour of abandonment and shame, she chose death rather than such an ordeal, and drowned herself."

"I give you my honor, Sir Oswald, I meant to act liberally. I meant—" the young man interrupted; but his uncle did not notice the interruption.

"I will read you this wretched girl's letter", continued the baronet; "it is her last and was left at the hotel where you deserted her, and whence it was forwarded to you. It is a very simple letter, but it bears in every line the testimony of a broken heart:—

" 'You have left me, Reginald, and in so doing have proved to me most fully that the love you once felt for me has indeed perished. For the sake of that love I have sacrificed every principle and broken every tie. I have disgraced the name of an honest family, and have betrayed the dearest and kindest friend who ever protected a por girl. And now you leave me, and tell me to return to my old friends, who will no doubt forgive me, you say, and shelter me in this bitter time of my disgrace. Oh, Reginald, do you know me so little that you think I could go back, could lift my eyes once more to the dear faces that used to smile upon me, but which now would turn from me with loathing and aversion? You know that I cannot go back. You leave me in this great city, so strange and unknown to me, and you do not care to ask yourself any questions as to my probable fate. Shall I tell you what I am going to do, Reginlad? You, who were once so fond and passionate a lover—you, whom I have seen kneeling at my feet, humbly born and penniless though I was—it is only right that you should know the fate of your abandoned mistress. When I have finished this letter it wil be dark—the shadws are closing in already, and I can scarcely see to write. I shall creep quietly from the house and shall make my way over to

WRITING to the agent entrusted with the purchasing of the stores for the forthcoming Imperial Trans-Antarctic Expedition, Sir Ernest Shackleton uses these words:

> "I consider the question of the concentrated beef supply is most important—

> It must be Bovril"

Men who trust their lives to their food take no risks. Sir Ernest Shackleton, planning this expedition with as intimate a knowledge of stores as of ice and snow, has recognized the scientifically proved value of Bovril.

The independent scientific investigation which proved the body-building power of Bovril to be from 10 to 20 times the amount taken was carried out by one of the foremost physiologists of the Kingdom on behalf of the Government Department, and the results obtained applied to Bovril and Bovril alone.

Even were it double the price Bovril would still be an economical and indispensible article in every home.

MUST SALUTE FLAG OR TAKE CONSEQUENCES

Washington Officials Are Unanimously In Favor of Forcing Mexican Dictator to Express Regret For "Offences Against the Rights and Dignity of the United States"—Huerta Dodges Issue.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—With a majority of the ships of the American navy under orders yesterday to proceed at once to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Mexico, the United States Government gave Gen. Huerta final warning that unless a salute was fired to the United States' flag within a reasonable time to atone "for repeated offences against the rights and dignity of the United States," serious eventualities would result.

Gen. Huerta submitted to an executive session of the Mexican Senate yesterday the demands of the American Government for a salute to the flag. No answer has been received by the Washington Government late last night of the result of the deliberations.

It was learned last night that Gen. Huerta when apprized by Charge O'Shaughnessy of the proposed demonstration of the Atlantic fleet, argued that the episode growing out of the arrest of the American bluejackets at Tampico was a fit subject for arbitration at The Hague, and that he would appoint a commission to investigate the incident. President Wilson, in an emphatic reply through Charge O'Shaughnessy, is understood to have told Gen. Huerta that the time for delay and evasion had passed, and that the American Government would temporize no longer. Administration officials hold that insults to the flag and questions of national honor are not subjects for arbitration. All information, official and otherwise, that reached Washington from Mexico City tended to show that Gen. Huerta was unconvinced that the United States was in earnest and thought the Washington Government was bluffing.

Developments of the day here showed clearly that a determined and forceful policy had been adopted by the President, which would be backed up by Congress and enforced, if necessary, by the army and navy.

While the President expressed an earnest hope for peace, he unequivocally told members of the Senate and committees on foreign affairs that the offences of the de facto Government at Mexico City to the dignity of the United States could no longer be tolerated, and that unless Huerta complied with the American demands, the seizure of the customs houses at Tampico and Vera Cruz and even the declaration of a pacific blockade, shutting off commercial intercourse with the United States, would be fully justified by precedents in international law.

It was established that no aggressive act, such as the landing of marines or the shelling of any towns or the seizure of any ports, would be undertaken without authorization from Congress after President Wilson had personally delivered a message on the subject. The practically unanimous approval which Republicans and Democrats alike gave the administration's initial steps made it apparent, however, that should Rear-Admiral Badger find it necessary to act vigorously in an emergency Congress would back up the American navy, without hesitation.

MANIAC SPARED WOMAN.

She Awoke to Find Him Beside Her With an Axe.

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. April 16.—Miss Mary Sammis, who lives with her brother, Frank, on their Long Island farm, awoke early esterday to find a man, with a bloody axe in his hands standing by her bed. In the dim light she recognized Frank Fowler, a young farm hand who slept in the house.

"I've just killed your brother upstairs," said Fowler, "and I'm going to kill you, too."

"I've always been kind to you, Frank," pleaded the woman, "and you have no reason for harming us."

"That's right," answered Fowler, "I guess I won't kill you, but I'll go away," and he walked out of the house, leaving the axe behind him.

Miss Sammis stumbled upstairs and found her brother's body on the bed with the head split in two. The police believe Fowler is insane. They are searching for him.

Japan Apologizes and Pays.

PEKIN, April 16. — The Japanese Government yesterday expressed its regret to the Chinese Government for the Chang-Ti incident, which occurred in September, 1913, when several Chinese soldiers were killed by Japanese troops who were occupying a section of the Mukden Railway. Japan also agreed to pay $26,000 (Mexican), in compensation to the families of the soldiers killed.

Hamilton Unemployed Restless.

HAMILTON, April 16.—Following the action of 500 unemployed men Tuesday in storming the City Hall, another demonstration was made yesterday. Several hundred men swarmed around the City Hall and after being driven out by the police marched to the home of Mayor Allan who advised them to apply to the city works yard. The civic authorities fear trouble.

It is a good thing that a republic is not what the Portuguese and Mexicans think it is.

Mexican politics is distinguished by too much hand of iron and not enough glove of velvet.

Just because a woman indulges in chromatic hair it doesn't necessarily follow that she's a chromo.

BRITISH BUDGET SPEECH.

Week's Delay Likely — Several Reasons Are Advanced.

LONDON, April 16.—It is believed that the introduction of the budget, set for next week, will be delayed for a week for two reasons, one, that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who has been suffering from a severe sore throat, desires to ensure the full recovery of his voice, and the other, that Austen Chamberlain, the financial spokesman of the Opposition, will be unable to attend in the House of Commons on the day originally suggested, the 20th.

The Graphic, however, takes this possibility as the basis for the expression of the opinion that the delay is really due to a desire by the Cabinet to revise Mr. Lloyd George's plans, which are believed to involve an increase of the supertax, relief of income tax on small incomes and an import duty on autos.

Bust of Stead Unveiled.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, April 16.—Solemn ceremonies marked the unveiling yesterday in the palace of peace of the bust of the late W. T. Stead, the English writer and pacifist, who was a victim of the Titanic disaster two years ago. There was a distinguished audience of pacifists and diplomats representing many countries.

Proposals to Tag Minors.

TOPEKA, Kas., April 16.—As a means of enabling them to do their part in enforcing the city ordinance against selling tobacco to minors Topeko tobacco merchants and pool hall owners have suggested the plan of requiring every boy under 18 years to wear a tag with his age printed on it.

VIVISECTIONISTS ON TRIAL.

Six Philadelphia Scientists Charged With Cruelty to Animals.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16. — Advocates and opponents of vivisection, many of whom are medical men and society women, crowded the criminal court here yesterday to hear the testimony in the case of six members of the faculty of the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania who are charged with cruelty to dogs after vivisection had been performed.

Those under indictment are: Drs. Joshua E. Sweet, Alfred N. Richards, Allen J. Smith, Richard Mills Pearce, Alonzo Engleburt Taylor and Dr. Ed. Reichert.

Dr. Sweet was the only one placed on trial yesterday. He pleaded not guilty. He had charge of the housing of animals.

The prosecution of the medical men was brought by the Women's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Counsel for the society said that the prosecution is not necessarily an attempt to deliver a blow at vivisection, but was brought as a means of preventing unnecessary cruelty to animals.

Town Gives Bonus for Babies.

HARRISVILLE, W.Va., April 16—This town of 800 inhabitants, world famous as the "taxless town," is becoming so wealthy through its ownership of industries, the mayor has decided to offer a snug bonus for every baby born, that future generations may participate in the divi-

THE KINGSTON STANDARD FIRE

R.S. Bell Formerly of This City Has Narrow Escape

Referring to the disastrous fire in the office of the Kingston Standard, The Whig says:

Messrs McCammon and O'Neil made their way in safety aftering giving the alarm, but it was stated that Mr. R. S. Bell had the closest shave, as he was the last to come down the fire escape.

As soon as the fire was extinguished, the Standard staff lost no time in getting their men at work on the machines, and as a result the Standard was able to get out its afternoon edition as usual, the Whig gladly giving them the use of its press for printing it, and also providing for other equipment necessary.

NO DECORATIONS ARE ALLOWED

Flags, Streamers or Pennants Must Not Fly From Automobiles

The Motor Vehicles Act has been further amended by the Ontario Legislature by the insertion of the following clause:

"No motor vehicle while travelling upon a highway shall have attached to it and exposed to view, any flag, streamer or similar decoration made of bunting, paper or similar material."

The above clause puts a ban on pennants and other similar decorations that are so often seen flying from the sides of automobiles.

PERILS LURK IN PANAMA.

Expert In Tropical Medicine Fears Epidemics When Canal Opens.

BOSTON, April 16.—Fear that the opening of the Panama Canal may be followed by a world-wide redistribution of yellow fever and cholera, which will threaten very great commercial loss, was expressed yesterday by Dr. Richard P. Strong, head of the Harvard Medical School of Tropical Medicine.

Dr. Strong was formerly at the head of the Government biological laboratory in the Philippines, and later became prominent through his work in combating the pneumonic plague in Manchuria. Last year he led the Harvard Medical School expedition to Peru, where an extensive study of tropical diseases was made.

"The troubles to be feared from the spread of tropical diseases by traffic through the Panama Canal," he said, "are rather heavy financial losses through disturbance of trade than any great loss of life. Modern medicine has so far mastered the ways of checking infectious diseases that in many civilized countries no great mortality is to be feared from the introduction even of plague, yellow fever and cholera. It is necessary, however, to hold up trade in order to check the diseases."

A paraffin wax bath heated to 125 degrees Fahrenheit is a new treatment for rheumatism, sciatica, gout and kindred ailments, as described by Dr. Barthe de Sandfort at the Academy of Medicine in Paris.

Preparations are well advanced for the Imperial Health Conference in London next month. Amongst the Canadian representatives will be Dr. Charles Hodgetts, Frank Beer, Dr. John McCulloch and Dr. Helen McMurchy, of Toronto.

The tone of the market for cattle was steady owing to the small supply, but it was ample to fill all requirements. The demand for milch cows is fair, offerings are increasing and the tone of the market is easy with sales of choice at $80 to $90, and lower grades from $55 to $70 each.

The trade in small meats was more active, there being a good demand for most lines, and as supplies were not large prices ruled steady.

Pains That Make Misery

A Talk With Our Lady Readers

Have you ever noticed how miserable and unhappy the little pains and aches make one? A stinging cut, badly chapped hands, a nasty burn, a sore foot, a poisoned finger—any of them are just sufficient to take the edge off one's temper and give one a "grouch."

Zam-Buk is just the thing at such times. As soon as you put it on to a sore, a cut, a burn, or any skin injury, it stops the pain; and the smarting and starts up healing. Don't make the mistake that because Zam-Buk is widely used by medical men, by nurses, and for serious skin diseases and accidents, that it is only for serious cases. Keep it handy and use it immediately you get some trivial injury or have some little sore.

Mrs. Chas. H. Barrett, Harmony Road Truro, N.S. says: "I had an ingrowing toe nail, which caused me acute agony. Sometimes the pain was so severe I could not sleep. It became so bad that I feared blood-poisoning had set in. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and bound up the sore toe with it. In a few days it was much easier, and I continued the treatment. The result is that to-day the toe is sound and I have no more trouble with it. We always keep Zam-Buk in our house, and I would strongly recommend it to every housewife."

Zam-Buk is just the thing, too, for the little ones. Pure in its composition, and herbal in nature, it is suitable for the most delicate skin. It also cures piles eczema, varicose ulcers, cold sores, abscesses, blood poisoning, ring-worm, and all similar skin diseases. Sold everywhere at 50c a box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

LISTER FINED FOR BEING INTOXICATED

John Potts, a resident of this city, was on Saturday last the 11th inst., placed on the prohibited liquor list, but evidently he soon broke parole. On Monday he was under the influence of liquor, and as a result was to-day summoned to appear before Magistrate Masson on a charge of being intoxicated whilst upon the prohibited list. Potts admitted he had drank liquor on Monday, alleging that he had it in his home. This did not excuse him under the law and a fine of $10 and $2.50 was imposed, or in default 21 days. As John was rather short of funds he was committed to jail.

NEW TRIAL FOR JOHNSON

Pugilist's Attorney Thinks Prison Sentence Now Impossible

CHICAGO, April 15.—Jack Johnson, negro heavyweight champion pugilist, today was granted a new trial on the Mann Act charges under which the negro was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary and $1,000 fine. The United States Court of Appeals reserved the decision of the Lower Court on certain of the counts in Johnson's indictment.

By the decision the case is returned to the lower court for re-sentence on one of the courts in connection with Johnson's transportation from Pittsburg to Chicago of Bella Schreiber a white woman. On the count concerning violation of the commerce clauses of the Mann Act a re-trial is ordered, as the upper court held that Johnson had not been shown to have been guilty of trafficking in vice.

According to United States District Attorney Wilkerson, the situation is unchanged. Date for the re-trial will be set in the Federal Court here thirty days from today, and the pugilist must be present on the new trial date or forfeit his bond.

Johnson's attorney was elated when the opinion was announced. "It is a victory for Jack," he said. "As I read the law, Johnson cannot be sentenced to a year in prison, the punishment must be a fine. And on the commercialising the Government has no more evidence to offer."

The district attorney himself was contented with saying: "It is well settled that if one of the counts of an indictment is held good punishment may be the same as though more had been sustained."

SUGAR REFINERY TO OPEN IN JUNE

WOODSIDE, N. B., April 15.—Special—The new plant of the Acadia Sugar Refining Company at Woodside will be open the first week in June, according to a statement made by Secretary A. W. Davis of the company. Mr. Davis said that part of the new machinery was already in operation and that 3,000 tons of sugar had already been landed. The secretary said that the management would not be content with anything that is nearly first class, but not quite, and that every pan of sugar, which contains over one hundred barrels, that is not up to the standard will have to go into the melting pot again and be don over. Said he: "We are satisfied that we have one of the finest sugar refining plants in the world, and with our facilities for getting supplies of West India cane sugar, it should only require care and attention on the part of ourselves to produce a refined article that is A1 in every particular."

HAD TO STOP WORK FROM THE PAIN

Suffered Ten Years Until "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

ST. THOMAS, ONT., May 22nd. 1913.

"I was troubled for ten years with the most distressing Constipation and Indigestion of the worst form.

No one could have been worse with these troubles than I was for this long time.

The pain from Indigestion was so severe that many times, I have had to stop work and lie down until the acute spasms passed away.

I took a lot of medicine—in fact, I guess I took about everything that was advertised—and gave them all a fair test—but got no relief. About a year ago, however, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives". I am mighty glad I did so for they seem to be made exactly for me.

They gave results in a very short time and I am now free from these diseases and enjoying perfect health.

My wife also used "Fruit-a-tives" and we both think they are the best medicine ever made."

MONTREAL, April 15.—Following the alleged confession of the wife of A. Nonsiatto, who was stabbed in the neck while sleeping in his bed in his house on Latour street, that she herself had plunged the knife into her husband, Malessia Pavello, who was charged with the crime, was released yesterday morning by Judge Leet in the arraignment court. Pavello at once returned to his friends, and was congratulated on all sides. So happy was the released man that when he passed Constable Beaudry, of the Chaboillez street station, who assisted in effecting his arrest, he stooped down and kissed the policeman's hand.

GAS JET WAS OPEN YOUNG MAN DEAD

Sad Discovery Made by a Grange Avenue Lady This Morning

TORONTO, April 16.—Receiving no response to her repeated calls, Mrs. David Carscadden, of 158 Grange avenue, this morning went up to the room of her boarder, William Woods, and found him lying face downwards on the bed while the room was filled with gas fumes which were emerging from an open jet. Dr. Yellowlees, who was called, pronounced life extinct. Mrs. Carscadden told a newspaper representative that Woods, who is about 27 years old, and is a painter by trade, had been staying at her house for about three years. He came home intoxicated last night and her husband had put him to bed. He was heard roaming around the room during the night and as a box of matches was found upset on the floor, it is thought that he got up to light the gas, opened the jet, dropping the matches, and was too much under the influence of liquor to turn the gas off.

The man's body was removed to the Morgue. Woods was single and came from Glasgow four years ago. He has a brother in Toronto, but his address is unknown. It has not yet been decided whether an inquest will be held.

ADOPTS CHILD CONVERSATION IDEA

HALIFAX, N. S., April 16.—Special—Busy little Amherst, at the head of the Cumberland Basin, with its busy industries and large lumber areas, still finds time to give its attention to the human factor, and has placed itself on record by its adoption of the Child-Life Conservation Movement, its initial step in that direction having been the action of its school board in giving the use of a new $60,000 school building each week-night as a social and community center for the neighborhood. The school is located in the centre of the section where the men employed in the factories have their home. Two years ago, a secretary from the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A. came to Amherst and opened a campaign for $5,000 to cover the cost of two years' work, without building, at that time this work was spoken of as a non-equipment work. In one day the amount was raised, and a new secretary installed. Under the direction of the committee's members a careful study of the town was made, the three institutions fundamental to the development of child life being the school, the home and the church, attention was given to all of these, and the result of the findings was a series of lectures and informal talks before citizen's gatherings, church congregations, school boards, parent's meetings, Sunday and day school teachers and workers. A plan of co-operation was evolved and at once things began to move. Social service studies for men's classes soon enrolled over 300 men. The classes were brought together in a Churchman's Federation, and their committees on civic improvements, athletics and clean government are doing valuable work for Amherst.

THROUGH FOUR FIRES

The thrilling experience of Mr. R. S. Bell, the veteran member of the editorial staff of the Kingston Standard, was not the first in his long life. Three times before has Mr. Bell been through printing house fires, but in no case was his experience so exciting as the last.

Twice was he through fires in the office of the Belleville Intelligencer, which were thoroughly destructive, and on another occasion there was a fire in the press room of the same paper which, however, was not so serious. This week's was his first experience with a fire escape, and, as he expressed it, "I do not want another one."

NEW FLYING MACHINE FOR THE MAN-BIRD

Paris, April 17—Special—A new type of flying machine, the object of which is to enable a man to imitate birds in utilizing the wind to the exclusion of other motive power, was described tonight at the Congress of the Society of Savants. The invention is that of Dr. A. Magnan, and the flight it is intended to make is a kind of a continuous volplane.

After the manner of large birds, the apparatus is provided with a spreading in-tail and two tapering wings, the wings being so placed as to enable it to remain motionless. The control of the machine must be acquired by practice, as in the case of a bicycle, but, it is admitted, this will present great difficulty and even danger.

BILINGUALISM IN COURT

CORNWALL, Ont., April 16.—At the Spring Assizes which concluded here today, before Sir Glenholme Falconbridge chief justice, an interesting case concerning the introduction of the French language in a school in Glengarry county occupied the attention of the court.

Donald D. McDonald and other English-speaking ratepayers of Separate School Section No. 11, Green Valley, took action against Mederic Poirrjer, Emerie Ocimet and John Menard, trustees, and Leontine Seneeal to restrain the trustees from employing Miss Seneeal on the ground that she was not a properly qualified teacher, and that she had been illegally engaged; also to restrain the trustees from using the rates of the township to pay Miss Seneeal's salary, and to prohibit the defendants from using or allowing the use of French as the language of communication or instruction in the school.

J. E. Jones, of Ottawa, Separate school inspector, was a witness at the trial and correspondence between Mr. Jones, the trustees, and the department of education for Ontario was placed on record. After hearing the evidence and argument the chief justice reserved judgment.

THE JUDGE'S COMMENT

"If I were to dispose of the case today," he said, "I would hold first that the engagement of Miss Seneeal was quite illegal. She had not the necessary qualification and what qualification she had had not been validated by the minister or the department. I should hold in the second place without any heistation, that the use and teaching of the French language in that section as at present carried on, are also unauthorized; but I shall reserve the whole case for the purpose of considering the legal matters which have been raised; particularly with reference to the question of costs, as to which, of course, the good faith or want of good faith of the trustees has much to do."

COE HILL LOCAL OPTIONISTS BUSY

Coe Hill is in a Local Option district, but there are some thirsty souls down that way who are not content to do a little "Irrigating" on the quiet, but some times openly defy the law. The climax came on Sunday, March 29th, and George Watson's boarding house was the rendezvous where the kindred spirits gathered. From all accounts it was a regular bedlam, and the law-abiding citizens were shocked.

It was brought to the notice of License Inspector Moore, and he had the offenders on the carpet on Thursday last before Police Magistrate Jarman.

Geo. Watson, the proprietor of the boarding house, was fined on two charges—for allowing liquor to be consumed on his premises and for being drunk in a Local Option district. The fines and costs amounted to $115.25. John Dunfor for being drunk in a Local Option district was fined $20 and costs, and Arthur Peacock paid a similar fine for receiving a consignment of liquor under a flictitious name.

It came out at the trial that twenty-one shipments of liquor had been received at Coe Hill during the past three weeks—Bancroft Times.

BASEBALL LEAGUES READY FOR ACTION

Nine Teams Will Start the Season Next Month

OTTAWA, April 16.—The officers of the Civil Service Baseball League held an enthusiastic meeting last night at the Y.M.C.A. At this meeting it was decided what teams should be admitted to the league, and all business for the year transacted.

The league will permit the Immigration team and the nine from the Topographical Surveys to amalgamate. These two teams were somewhat weak last season, and by strengthening them it will make the race for the pennant much closer. The teams from the Railways and Transcontinental will also be permitted to do this.

The teams in the league this year are: West Block, Post Office, Customs, Statistics, Printing Bureau, Interior, Department of Labor, and the Railways and Transcontinental.

President Sims announced that the Two Macs, agents for the Spalding goods, had promised to donate silver watch fobs to the winners, a silver cup or a giant silk pennant.

Mr. Sims was once more elected to fill the chair of president. Mr. T. Doyle was again elected secretary, with Mr. J. Shields vice-president and Mr. H. Hayward treasurer. The delegates present were: H. E. Hayward and J. E. Morris, Surveys; J. E. Laflamme and W. Pinon, Immigration; W. P. Ainsborough, Department of Labor; Joe Dowd and J. S. Stout, Census; H. Merkley, R. P. Drummond and L. Ogden, West Block; R. Bennett, Customs; A. T. Mineau and J. Shields, Transcontinental Railways; T. Hobart, Post Office.

All present looked forward to a big success for the coming year. Their games will be played at Lansdowne Park and at Varsity Oval.

RUSSELL PIONEER DIES AT EIGHTY

RUSSELL, Ont., April 16.—One of the oldest settlers of this township, Mr. John Cherry, was laid to rest here in the Methodist cemetery, today. The late Mr. Cherry had come here over fifty years ago, when a young man. He was a few years ago quite active in municipal and political movements, always of a progressive nature. At one time he was nominated for the Legislature by the Patrons of Industry, but did not stand for election.

Mr. Cherry was within a few months of eighty years of age. He is survived by three sons, Robert, William and Heckett, and two daughters, Mrs. Jas. Adams and Mrs. D. Stearns, all of this place, and one daughter who lives in New York state.

FEDERALS WANT BIG DAMAGES

CHICAGO, April 16—Suits for damages aggregating $65,000 will be begun in a few days by the Federal League against five ball players who, it will be claimed, refused to live up to their contracts with its club. This was announced by President Gilmore on his return from the Eastern cities of the Federal circuit. Blanding, Killifer and Kahler will be sued for $15,000 each, and Williams and Baumgardner for $10,000 each, he said.

Gilmore said that while he was in Baltimore three members of the New York Nationals called on him, and said they were willing to play in the Federal League if offered inducements they liked. He promised to take them on, he said, if any of his clubs wanted men. He refused to make public their names.

CANADA MAY WITHDRAW FROM FISHERIES QUESTION

OTTAWA, April 16.—Canada is likely to withdraw from the International fisheries agreement. After waiting five years for the United States Government to enact concurrent legislation, ratifying the agreement, nothing has been done.

The matter is now before Congress and it had been thought that it would go through this session, but later advices are that the chances of its doing so are slim.

The opposition of the fishing interests to certain parts of the agreement, is proving powerful, and is likely to defeat the measure, or rather to prevent its being ratified.

If nothing is done, Canada will at once withdraw from the treaty.

BOOSTER PERIOD AROUSES INTEREST IN CONTEST

Now is the Time to Send in Your Name—Start at Once, No Time Like the Present

It takes the average candidate a long while to realize the fact that a little vigorous hustling is required to pass the field and step into a five-passenger McLaughlin Buick touring car at the judge's stand.

Don't stay with the averages all your life. Get out of that class if you wish to accomplish anything on this life. Make a start in the right direction now by getting ahead of everbody else in The Intelligencer's campaign and take the car home with you. You can do it. Why not try it?

Do it now! Do not wait until the crowd has surged ahead when you will have no chance. Get into the running while the going is good, so that in a few weeks you can ride about town and country touring in the car that will have cost you nothing but a little honest effort.

Many prospective candidates are withholding their nominations in fear of some other candidate whom they think has a better prospect of winning. To these it can be said that every day they wait they are lessening their chances of winning. In the great race for the automobile and other prizes now going on the chances are even. No one candidate has a better chance of winning than another.

The "Booster Period", which was announced in The Intelligencer has created a widespread interest, and "subscriptions" from now until the close of this great offer will be the main word.

This offer affords the candiates who get busy during the big offer an opportunity to rapidly increase their scores and to secure a good "bunch" of votes for the final days of the contest. It is a good deal easier to secure the free votes now than to wait until later and have to secure a greater number of subscriptions to make up the loss by not taking advantage of the opportunity to get the free votes now. Those who have not entered should do so at once and start at once to secure subscriptions, as this is the medium through which to secure the votes that will win one of the valuable prizes. Enlist the aid of your friends and show them that their subscription will count you more votes now than at any other time during the contest. If you get your friends interested it will make your campaign for votes that much easier.

PRIZES WORTH THE EFFORT

Such a valuable list of prizes as The Intelligencer is giving away, headed by a McLaughlin Buick automobile and a Bell piano, makes it worth any effort that candidates can put forth, and the feature that you are sure to be paid for any effort that is expended, so that if you are awake to the situation and have the desire and ambition to win a touring car of your own, there is no reason to hesitate, but get busy at once in your campaign for votes.

OPEN EVENINGS

The Contest Department of The Intelligencer is open each evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Phone 36.

A WOMAN'S DOLLAR IS BIGGER

Women are the best readers of advertising we have.

Is there not a direct connection of cause and effect between these two facts?

Woman has proved for herself that it pays to know what is being offered before she buys

She knows what her dollar is worth and she means to get the most for it.

TOO MANY OIL FLOTATIONS

LONDON, April 17.—Special—That the Dominion Government should attempt a censorship on the exploitation of oil companies was the opinion expressed by Matthew Lodge, of Moncton, who is interested in shale fields in New Brunswick. He declared that the indiscriminate flotation of Alberta oil companies bade fair to discredit Canada in Great Britain as a home of such wildcat schemes. Eastern ventures, he said, were along much more conservative lines, and he hoped to enlist British interest in New Brunswick shale fields.

ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE GRADUATE MURDERD

Word has been received that Capt. George B. Brown, of the 58th Vaughan Rifles, Frontier Force, Indian army, who graduated from the Royal Military College, Kingston, in 1897, was murdered by natives at Hill Post, on the Afghan frontier. He was one of three who were shot down. Capt. Brown had been doing service in India for some years, and saw much active work. His headquarters were at Quetta.

Two days ago, Major Perreau, adjutant of the Royal Military College, received a letter from him, in which he told of the killing of a colonel of another British regiment not far away. Capt. Brown made the remark that one never know what might happen, or who would be next.

The late Capt. Brown was born in Ingersoll, Ont., and had been stationed in India for eighteen years. He was in Toronto during 1913 on furlough, and was thirty-six years old. Capt. Brown met death at the hands of a crazed orderly.

CANADA WILL MAKE GOOD SHOWING AT PANAMA EXPOSITION.

Mr. H. R. Charlton, General Advertising Agent of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways, has returned to his headquarters in Montreal after a business trip to San Francisco. While in California Mr. Charlton arranged for an early start to be made on the construction of the handsome pavilion which is to house the exhibits of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways at the Panama-Pacific Exposition next year.

Mr. Charlton has visited most of the big exhibitions of the past twenty-five years and he states that for beauty of situation, grandeur of buildings and general scheme the San Francisco Exposition will mark a new world standard.

Five of the great main exhibit palaces are nearing completion and individual exhibitors will begin the installation of their show pieces this Fall so that everything should be ready for the opening in February next. A distinct note of architectural beauty marks these tructures They are delicate and white and gleaming, giving the expostion grounds a fairy like appearance when lit up at night. The Canadian Government building is making headway and it will compare well with those of the thirty-four other nations, who have accepted the invitations to take part in the celebration marking the opening of the Panama Canal.

Speaking of the Grand Trunk exhibit Mr. Charlton says. "We have one of the finest sites in the Expsition Grounds. This is right opposite the ferry landing where the boats will come in from across the bay. Our building, which will cover about ten thousand square feet, will thus be one of the first to catch the eye of thousands of visitors as they enter the Exposition. The exhibits will show through which the Grand Trunk and the wonderful resources of the country Grand Trunk Pacific pass, while prominence will also be given to the attractions Canada offers to tourists in the Algonquin National Park of Ontario, Muskoka Lakes and the new alpine wonderland opened up in British Columbia by the Grand Trunk Pacific. Thousands of travellers will pass along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific going to or returning from San Francisco. The attraction of the most modern of transcontinental railroads is likely to prove very stong and the journey along the Pacific Coast between Prince Rupert and San Francisco is also a delightful one.

ENGAGE IN DEADLY BATTLE

LONDON, April 17.—Special—The Milan correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says there was a desperate battle to-day between people living in the villages of Umito and Vallecchia. Several hundred people were engaged in the battle and they used as weapons shovels, rakes, scythes, axes and guns. Two persons were killed and fifty wounded. Ten of the latter are dying.

BIBLE CLASS HELD SUCCESSFUL BANQUET

The Belleville Business Men's Bible Class held one of their social evenings in the Bridge Street Methodist Church parlors last evening. About fifty were present. The tables were tastefully arranged, decorated with flowers, and the catering was in charge of Mr. Claude Wallace.

Through the kindness of J. J. B. Flint, Esq., a splendid musical programme was furnished by his Victrola and mammoth music box. The chair was occupied by the teacher, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn and the officers of the class and past presidents sat at the head of the table. The addresses were all short and the programme was of a delightful and informal character. Short addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Osborne, Messrs. Hess, Snider, Price, Deacon, Flint and A. M. Chapman, the president of the class.

The parlors have been repainted, redecorated and furnished with new carpet and were beautifully lighted. The music was of a high order and very much enjoyed. A vote of thanks was heartily tendered to Mr. J. J. B. Flint for his kindness and the interest he has taken in the class. The addresses were to the point and very much enjoyed. This class is doing a great work in the city and is one of the premier adult Bible classes in this province. The splendid success of the arrangements was due to the faithful work of the committee and of Mr. Claude Wallace.

BLACKSMITH CURED BY HORSE'S KICK

SHARON, Pa., April 16.—The kick from a horse which he was shoeing has relieved Jon Brooks, a blacksmith of Hickory township from a deformity with which he was afflicted. Several years ago he slipped on an icy walk and his left knee was dislocated. When the horse kicked him the bones snapped back into place and the knee, formerly mis-shapen, is normal again.

METHODIST REPORT DECREASE

LONDON, April 17.—Special—For the eighth consecutive year the membership of Wesleyan Methodist Church has shown a decrease this year. The figures for the May synod show an adult membership of 481,120, a decrease for the year of 1,282; juniors, 104,383, an increase of 2,788. There are also 875 persons less on trial membership.

A PESSIMISTIC VIEW

Liquidation in Canada Has Not Yet Been Thoroughly Accomplished

Pessimism regarding Canada's financial position is not confined to critics in England, it seems. The Wall Street Journal reports an instance of pessimism in New York. It says:

A member of one of Americas' richest families has recently been buying back Canadian Pacific, which he sold when the stock was more than 60 points higher than at present. He says he doubts if the decline is over, but that there may be a large short interest in the stock, and that operations on the short side might easily be over-done.

From his point of view it is not so much the reduction of rates in the western provinces, or the new competition in that portion of its territory which has caused Canadian Pacific's decline, but the financial situation in Canada, where liquidation has not been accomplished with the thoroughness that has been effected here. There is an instability in Canada comparable to that familiar in the western portion of the United States a generation ago, and last year Canada was at the crest of a wave of prosperity. That wave is now passing, but the country has not yet reached the trough of it.

OHIO OFFICIALS ARE DOUBTING DICTIONARY

COLUMBUS, O., April 16.—Is a frog an animal?

Several high salaried state officials have spent many hours delving into musty volumes the last few in an attempt to solve this question and up to-day law books had not disclosed whether a frog is an animal or what it is. The dictionary says a frog is an animal, but the dictionary definition does not satisfy state officials.

Whether men who shoot frogs and sell their legs must get a hunter's license is the question that produced the quandary State Fish and Game Warden John C. Speaks referred the query to the Attorney-General's Department.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Probably the best known business woman in New York city is Miss A. E. Amend, private secretary to Charles Tarbell, the oil magnate.

Mrs. Julius S. Walsh, Jr., of St. Louis is the largest woman holder of stock in the United Railways of that city. She is the owner of 900 shares of the preferred stock.

Mlle. de la Ruelle, an inspector of labor for the French government, has just concluded a year's investigation of labor problems in America. She is the first woman ever sent abroad on such a mission by France.

Dr. Rachel Hirsch, a woman physicial of Berlin, recently appointed a professor in the Medical college of Berlin, is the first woman to be so honored in Germany. She is forty-three years old, unmarried and for ten years has been a surgeon at the Charity hospital, Berlin.

Mrs. A. A. Adams, whose appointment has been recommended, will have the distinction of being the first woman assistant United States district attorney, it is said. She is a graduate of the University of California and was admitted to practice last year. She is engaged in legal practice in San Francisco.

OLD NIAGARA.

Its History Is the History of Early Upper Canada.

"It has been said that to know the history of Niagara is to know much of the history of Upper Canada. Niagara was at different times a legislative, military, literary, commercial, naval, educational and social centre; the centre, too, of the Indian trade and the refuge of escaped slaves. A town that has been the scene of a battle, that had the first Parliament, two of the first churches, the first library, the first newspaper, the first agricultural society in Ontario, may lay claim to the interest of the historian, says Miss Janet Carnochan in her new book, "The History of Niagara." Here lived for a time two Governors—Simcoe and Brock—who, if not possessed of the eloquence or literary skill of a Dufferin or a Lorne, showed much zeal, wisdom, courage and ability in the trying hour of need. A town that has been in the hands of the enemy, and again a heap of smoking ruins, and phoenix-like rising from its own ashes, a [illegible] the quiet beauty of lake and river, forest and plain, rich vineyards and orchards of luscious fruit, may surely justify us, like St. Paul, who boasted that he was an inhabitant of "no mean city," in rejoicing that we have a goodly heritage of which we may justly feel proud.

Generations to come will flock to Niagara as one of the shrines of Canada. It is inseparably connected with the political, military and social history of the country. Its seed of settlement was sown by the Loyalist in 1777. It was the first capital of Upper Canada and a considerable hamlet before Toronto was founded. Under its elms and in its rude Navy Hall the first Legislature of the Province gathered and made laws for a very crude pioneer territory. A little later it was constantly, for three years, in the danger zone during the war of 1812. Its streets resounded to the tread of Simcoe, law-maker, and of Brock, administrator and soldier. Out of its barracks rode Brock on his last and lone, but spectacular, dash to Queenston Heights and death.

Nearly a century and a half earlier La Salle, an adventurer of high and romantic courage, passed this way en route to the centre of the continent. As early as 1725 old Fort Niagara, on the American side, was founded by the French, and at different periods flew the same flag as the defences on what is now the Canadian side. At times the two towns have engaged in deadly conflict, as during the battle of Queenston Heights, and in 1813, when the Canadian town was under American occupation for seven months. During the war it suffered severely, its principal buildings being nearly all burned. Here have tarried likewise men of peace, such as the poet, Thomas Moore, and Addison, the first missionary, for 37 years the rector of St. Mark's. The Duke of Kent, Joseph Brant, Col. Butler and other men of action with important niches in history have also lived for a time at Niagara. William Kirby, the author of "The Golden Dog," an imperishable story of French Canada, also made Niagara his home, dying there a few years ago.

It will not do to speak of Niagara as being celebrated solely for history-making in the past nor peach culture in the present. Many of its early residents were men and women of culture and refinement, as well as patriotism and daring. Miss Carnochan relates with pride the vicissitudes of the lamp of knowledge during the war of 1812, when the flickering flame was all but extinguished by the gusts of passion and revenge that swept the land. An old yellow book which the patient author has unearthed is a record of the Niagara Library from 1800 to 1820. Here is revealed the fine taste of these early settlers for good reading, and here may be found an echo of the gusto with which they greeted each new volume from the pen of Sir Walter Scott, fresh from the press.

Closed for Good.

In the Province of Nova Scotia the right of cattle to run at large depends on whether the district is an "open" or "closed" one, which is determined by a vote of the inhabitants.

A few years ago a rather trivial case was tried in that province where the claim was for damages by trespassing cattle, and the question was whether Smith's Point was an "open" or "closed" district.

Although the damages amounted to only $8 the case was carried to the Supreme Court of the province, where the judgment was delivered by Judge Graham, who closed his decision with the following words:

"The appeal must be allowed. The defendant will have to pay the female plaintiff the damages assessed contingently by the judge, viz., eight dollars, and I suppose all the costs. The appeal book contains thirty pages, and I fear that the costs will make Smith's Point to him, as in Swiveller's case, a 'closed district,' as it was never closed before."—Saturday Night.

One Way to Pay.

"Has Owen ever paid back that $10 you loaned him a year ago?"

"Oh, yes; he borrowed twenty-five more from me last week and only took fifteen."—Boston Transcript.

WEST IS NOT HARD UP

Sufferings of Prairie Farmers Not Shown In Census.

J. A. M. Armstrong, of North York, In Budget Debate Analyzes the Appeals of Opposition on Behalf of Distressed Western Graingrowers—Mr. Burnham Compliments Minister on Stand In C.N.R. Case.

OTTAWA, April 17.—Five more speeches were contributed to the budget debate in the Commons yesterday afternoon and evening. Most interest centred in the first references on the floor of the House to the C. N. R. aid proposals. They were made by Mr. McColg (Lib., W. Kent) and Mr. Burnham (Con., W. Peterboro).

J. A. M. Armstrong (Con., North York), resuming the budget debate, said that the Liberals were apparently appealing for support to the farmers on the prairie. These farmers were represented as being in a most distressed condition, yet the census returns showed that they were better off than any other class in the Dominion. If this western country is such a plague-ridden place, if men, women and children are starving because they cannot have free wheat and free agricultural implements, why do they not come back to Ontario and return to the United States? Mr. Armstrong went on to criticize the Senate for vetoing the navy bill, but was called to order by the Speaker.

A. B. McColg (Lib., W. Kent), who followed, declared that a reduction of duty to be a benefit to the farmers should have been on plows, spreaders, barrows and corn implements. It was upon these implements that the farmer spent most.

Mr. McColg said that he believed in free wheat. Canada produced 181,717,000 bushels of wheat over and above what she consumed. If the farmers were not allowed to dispose of their wheat to the United States, the result would be that the farmers of Western Canada would take up mixed farming, which would prove a serious blow to the farmers of Ontario.

He criticized the Minister of Militia, for having rented 65,000 acres of crown lands in the west at two cents an acre to a concern for raising remounts for the Canadian militia. This, said Mr. McColg, was dealing a hard blow to horse-breeders.

In conclusion, he denounced the proposed aid to the C. N. R. He declared that the Opposition would oppose the giving of any more money out of the Treasury to Mackenzie and Mann. Personally, he would vote against aid of any kind being granted them.

At the evening sitting Dr. Edwards discussed the subject of agricultural implements. He said that Mr. McColg was the agent of the McCormack Harvester Co. of Chicago, and was therefore interested in having American implements brought into Canada free of duty.

In conclusion, the member for Frontenac expressed the hope that Canada would soon do her share in imperial naval defence.

"I wish no harm to any member of the Senate," he protested, "but I would like to see the Conservatives in control of that body at an early date."

Dr. Edwards was followed by Edward Devlin (Lib., Wright) who said that the Conservative party had abandoned the national policy of Sir John Macdonald and substituted therefore a policy of high protection. Sir John, he said, in 1878 had advocated not raising the tariff but readjusting it with a view to bringing about reciprocity between Canada and the United States.

Mr. Devlin advocated increased Government aid to the farmers. He said this should take the form of more experimental farms, free agricultural colleges, free books on agriculture and a fund out of which money would be loaned to farmers at two per cent., to enable them to build houses, barns, etc. He maintained that it would also be feasible for the Government to establish a fund for loans at two per cent. to laborers, so as to enable them to build their own homes, and thus relieve them of rent, which was an important factor in the present high cost of living.

Mr. Burnham (Con., W. Peterboro) following Mr. Devlin, took occasion to compliment Finance Minister White on the firm stand which he has taken regarding Government aid to the Canadian Northern. The Government of Canada had already given too much to the C. N. R. and similar enterprises.

"Anything that is done for the C. N. R.," declared Mr. Burnham, "will be done by way of salvage."

Mr. Burnham said the people who were crying for cheaper food did not seem to realize that great quantities of staple products were being brought into Canada in spite of the duty. Only a short time ago New Zealand sent a shipment of butter to Montreal, which immediately brought the price of butter down two cents per pound. He believed it was better to build up Canada than to build up the Antipodes.

British Immigrants Preponderate.

WINNIPEG, April 17.—The following are the immigration figures of Winnipeg for the week ending April 14: British 1,615, Italians 45, Russians 25, Germans 95, Norwegians 70, Galacians 375, Swiss 65, Roumanians 12. These figures constitute a record for one week's arrivals from all quarters this season.

The preponderance of the British over all other nationalities, which has been pronounced since the opening of immigration, is still very marked. The returns compare favorably with the same week last year.

THE BRITISH LABOR REVOLT

In addition to the all-sufficient trouble which the British Government is having with the question of home rule a new difficulty, not yet serious but distinctly threatening, appears in the action of the annual conference of the Independent Labor Party at Bradford. By a very heavy majority the conference voted instructions to Labor members of Parliament to act independently of the Liberal party, condemning the domination of the Cabinet to the injury of the private members and inviting the Labor members to vote on all issues only in accordance with the principles of their party.

There are at present forty Labor members in the House of Commons. These are not sufficient to hold the balance of power so long as the Irish party votes with the Government, but there have been occasions within the past few months when the solid opposition of the Laborites would have come perilously near overthrowing the Ministry. The Labor leaders have been very impatient under the domination of the Irish party, which is strong enough to dictate to the Government as to the disposition of time and the precedence of measures. And curiously enough, this feeling of impatience has been shown in some degree in Ireland, where the beginnings of a labor party not especially interested in home rule are to be noted. As a general election this summer seems to be certain, whatever the immediate fate of the Home Rule Bill, Mr. Asquith may find the discontent of the labor men an [illegible]portant element in the situation.

A TENDENCY TO FRIENDINESS

The New York Times notes a curious incident in the fight over home rule. A nephew of John Redmond and a son of Edward Carson, leaders on the respective sides, joined in an article in a foreign paper in which they declared that the older generation must lay aside their quarrel, because the younger ones, they say, have already shaken hands. Politics and religion alike must suffer from racial distrust and personal expressions that are merely the survival of ancient controversies and even of grievances long since remedied.

Of course the last phrase is a reference to the working of the act of 1904, by which the grievances of the Irish people have been partly remedied by the plan of land purchase, backed by the government, that was embodied in that law. A large proportion of Ireland has now become the property of those who work it. Land ownership has become common even to a greater extent than is the case in England itself, where most of the soil is entailed.

The attitude of the young men throws some light on the relations between the northern, and the central and southern parts of the island, leading one to conclude that there is really much less of the spirit of hostility between citizens of differing religions in Ireland than is sought to be conveyed by the statements of those who are most active and most strenuous in declaration of Ulster's mind to fight if home rule is carried.

One of the great truths of humanity is that where people know each other animosities are apt to decline.

A SEMBLANCE OF INDUSTRY

The Mexican Congress goes right on legislating, as if the country behind it were in a state of peace and prosperity as the rule. It is dealing with citizens of foreign countries, granting concessions for a price and making contracts for public work, ordering supplies of various kinds, including military and naval material, and yet the news of the day indicates the advance of the rebels toward the capital city with little effort on the part of Huerta to put down the rebellion, as he calls it.

It is so rare that it is hard to find a case with so great a gap between the public command of the President of Mexico and the course taken by his army. He even announced not long ago that he would have 200,000 men in the field within a short time, but, apparently, nothing to speak of has been done to get any such force in the field, and it must be for lack of funds that he is putting up so poor a fight against Villa as he has done thus far.

Perhaps the most surprising thing in the affair is the patience with which foreign governments wait on the United States while the subjects of those governments are jailed and robbed, despoiled of their property, deported and sometimes killed.

CURRENT COMMENT

The decision in the Thaw case merely facilitates the final appeal to the United States supreme court. It does not materially change the status of Thaw, since he is neither released from custody nor even admitted to bail.

They reckon over 5,000 killed and wounded at Torreon out of about 18,000 engaged. Peace advocates would gain more respect as practical people if they concentrated their efforts on trying to stop this butchery which is actually going on at the present time, instead of developing plans for world federations in the distant future.

Peterborough is among the cities which have adopted a general "clean up day." May 1st having been fixed upon. The system has its advantages. The enthusiasm begotten of a general effort will stir some who might otherwise be inclined to be negligent. The necessity of cleaning up is asserting itself more with the advent of warmer weather. The work should now be attended in Belleville without delay.

Woodstock Review: "The Hamilton Times says there were more drunken men to be seen in that city on Good Friday than on any other holiday for years. It's a hard saying. Has the significance of Good Friday as a holy day been lost? One might think that the day set apart to commemorate the death of the Saviour would be the last day a man in a Christian community would select for a drunken carousal."

Mail and Empire: "Mr. Rowell keeps calling upon the Government to abolish the bar by one stroke of legislative power, but he would not advise it to measure its strength against the liquor shop. He appears to be of the opinion that any present attempt to sweep the liquor shops out of existence would be vain, because it would be premature. Evidently in his judgment they are too strongly entrenched in public favor to be dislodged now or in the early future."

Buffalo Express: "Henry White, who as secretary of legation at London was familiar with all the correspondence leading to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, says there was no suggestion at any time that the provision for the equal treatment of shipping did not apply to American ships. In court, when a contract is under dispute, it is customary to call witnesses to show exactly what was in the minds of the parties at the time the contract was made. Applying that rule to the interpretation of the treaty, Mr. White's evidence becomes very important.

Toronto Globe, April 15.—Some people are unnecessarily exercising themselves about the question of Ireland's relation to the British Empire after the Home Rule Bill becomes law. Ireland will be then, just as much as she is now, a part not only of the "British Empire," but of the "United Kingdom"; just as much as Ontario is part of Canada.

To a certain extent The Globe is correct. Redmond and his followers will never rest until entire independence of Ireland is secured, and Sir Wilfrid has already told his followers that independence of Canada from England is his "day dream." In that respect they are and will remain alike. It is for those who desire a united Empire to decide this important question.

Some persons pray for a little of everything but gratitude, the very quality that would make them feel good.

London society is now reported to be ruled by spooks, each member doubtless furnishing his own family skeleton.

A Chicago woman says she would like to vote every day. That sort of woman probably wants ice cream at every meal.

Doubtless it will be perfectly splendid to use an aeroplane in arctic work but most of us would prefer to use a steam radiator.

A Swedish law says a girl who cannot bake bread must not have a sweetheart. This is what might be called culinary eugenics.

TO-DAY WE CELERATE

Clarence Hungerford Mackay, the telegraph and cable magnate whose domestic difficulties recently ended in a Paris divorce court, was born in San Francisco forty years ago to-day. The president of the Postal Telegraph Company, the Commercial Cable Company and other giant corporations is the son of the late John W. Mackay, a native of Dublin, who was attracted to America by the reports of fabulous finds in the California gold fields. After working for some time as a miner in the Golden State, the elder Mackay went to Nevada, where he was one of the discoverers of the rich Bonanza mines. Two years after this memorable find, which put the Mackays on the street called Easy, a son was born to inherit the new family fortune. John W. Mackay sought investment for some of his weath by joining James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald, in a company which laid two Atlantic cables. He died in 1902, and since then the estate he established has prospered greatly under the management of Clarence H. Mackay. Mrs. Mackay was Katherine Duer before she married the telegraph magnate, with whom she had become acquainted on an Atlantic liner. She comes of an old Knickerbocker family, and is a woman of culture and literary tastes, the author of "The Stone of Destiny" and other books. Last year the wife of Dr. Joseph A. Blake, a leading New York surgeon, brought a million-dollar damage action against Mrs. Mackay, alleging alienation of the doctor's affections, but later this suit was dropped. About two months ago Mr. and Mrs. Mackay received a mutual divorce in Paris. Mr. Mackay's country estate, Harbor Hill on Long Island, is one of the finest in America, and is valued at six million dollars.

Vance Thompson, author, playwright and newspaper and magazine writer, will be fifty-one years old today. Graduating in 1883 from Princeton, he went to Jena to complete his education, and since then has divided his time principally between Paris and New York. Few journalists have had a wider acquaintance with the celebrities of the last quarter of a century than Mr. Thompson, and few can write more entertainingly. Of the last days of Oscar Wilde, the misguided genius who fled to Paris after his release from an English prison, Mr. Thompson recently wrote: "He was a monstrous, fat, soft man, looking like something white, unwholesome, bloated, that had floated and been washed ashore in a storm. His brain was dead. He tried to waken it with alcohol. I remember his coming into Henry's bar one evenig—a slow moving, bloated phantom, an enormous caricature. The barman drove him away. Tears were runnig out of his pale eyes and his thick mouth was quivering as he drifted away into the night." Mr. Thompson has written many dramas and books, but it is as a keen commentator on contemporary men and events that he has gained his greatest fame.

Dr. Charles Henry Parkhurst, vice crusader and one of the best known of American clergymen, was born seventy-two years ago to-day on a little farm at Framingham, Mass. When his parents left the farm and settled in the town of Clinton, he went to work in a dry goods store at $3 per week. Business was not suited to his tastes, and, with the aid of a brother, he went to Amherst to fit himself for the ministry. Later he earned as a teacher the money that enabled him to continue his theological studies at Halle and Leipzig. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1872. Two years later he became pastor of a fashionable church in Lenox, Mass., and in 1880 was called to New York, where he became famous as the foe of vice and crime.

How To Take Good Care Of Your Hair

Nothing spoils your good looks so much as homely hair—stringy, dull-colored, harsh. Nothing adds to good looks so much as beautiful hair—soft, silky, wavy and glossy. No matter how beautiful your hair is now, you can improve its good looks by using Harmony Hair Beautifier. If your hair is homely and ugly now, Harmony Hair Beautifier will make it softer, silkier, glossier, more beautiful in every way, and easier to put up and "stay put." Its rich rose odor hides the unpleasant oily smell of hair. It is rightly named; it beautifies the hair.

Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. It contains no oil, and will not change the color of the hair, nor darken gray hair. To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick and thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness.

CHURCH GOERS ARE REBELLIOUS

Defying the Priests—Rows in the Churches

CANADA.

Ottawa, April 15—The bitter feeling aroused over the removal of Father James Fallon from Ottawa University was shown in the Easter collection at St. Joseph's church Sunday. The collection is usually a large one, but there was a marked falling off in Sunday's returns. It is understood that some of the envelopes simply contained cards with such remarks as "Nothing doing until Father Fallon comes back," though the church authorities are very reticent about the matter.

The size of the collection has a direct bearing on the situation because the proceeds of all collections, in excess of the needs for upkeep of the church, go to the Oblate Order for the support of Ottawa University.

MILAN.

Milan, April 15.—An extraordinary series of religious disturbances spoiled the Easter festivities in various parts of Italy.

At Pagnano, in the province of Treviso, the parish priest and acolytes were shot at and wounded while carrying a sacred image in a public procession. One of the canopies was riddled with bullets.

In Porto Ferrajo Cathedral, where about 3,000 worshippers were present, a dispute between rival religious fraternities for precedence in a procession developed into a riot. According to the Corriere Della Sera, many women, children and old men were injured in a panic stricken rush for the doors of the cathedral.

Similar disgraceful scenes occurred at Santo Stefano, near Messina. The peasantry of two adjacent Sicilian villages fought for precedence in an open air cortege. Sticks and stones and hay rakes were freely used, and the clergy and monks were put to flight. All the sacred images were smashed to pieces, and scores of persons were injured. Reinforcements of carabinieri had to be summoned by telegraph.

Catanzaro Cathedral, in Calabria, was also the scene of amazing riots. The new archbishop attempted to suppress certain popular local customs involving the use of pagan symbols, and, owing to his instructions being openly disobeyed, had laid a neighboring church under a three days' interdict. When the archbishop appeared in the cathedral to celebrate Easter high mass an infuriated throng shrieked curses at him. As it was feared that he would be assaulted, the clergy hurried him away by a private exit. Troops were sent to drive the mob out of the cathedral.

FRANCE.

Hirson, France, April 15.—Jean Richepin, a member of the French Academy and a candidate for the Chamber of Deputies against the Radical Socialist, Pascal Ceccaldi, recently challenged the latter to a public debate, which was set for Monday. The supporters of Ceccaldi arrived first at the hall and took possession of it. M. Richepin was unable to enter and took a position on the staircase outside, where he was joined by his opponent.

The rival partisans created such an uproar that neither of the candidates could be heard. The Richepin supporters clamored against M. Ceccaldi because of his friendship for M. Caillaux. Suddenly a section of the staircase collapsed and thirty persons were precipitated on top of the manifestants, who by this time were fighting furiously among themselves.

A handkerchief stained with blood from the wounded head of a Richepin supporter was handed up to the poet, who flourished it in his opponent's face. Then abandoning the idea of making a speech M. Richepin sang the Marseillaise and withdrew.

GENEVA.

Geneva, April 15.—Threats of partial ex-communication for all who fail to satisfy certain self-appointed religious censors of dress have been thundered from the pulpits of Besancon, France. Recently the archbishop of that diocese, which touches nearly the whole of the Swiss western frontier, has been denouncing present day feminine fashions. His latest move is to have read in all the churches under his control the following:

"Young girls must not have their arms bare, and, above all, must not come to church in decollete.

"If the present ridiculous fashions continue we shall be obliged to make examples by refusing to admit for Confirmation and Holy Communion girls dressed according to these modes."

TURKEY AS AN EXAMPLE.

Only Prohibition Country In World the Poorest Says Geo. Wright.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Addressing the American Hotel Protective Association here yesterday George Wright of the Walker House, Toronto, read a clipping from a Canadian paper in which it was said that the Turkish Government had solicited German brewers to establish breweries in Turkey and had favored the abolition of prohibition in the country as the best means of overcoming the drug evil. Mr. Wright added:

"The Ottoman Empire is the only prohibition nation in the world, and it is the poorest. The nations that lead the world — England, France, Germany, and the United States—have always been consumers of alcohol."

Aviation Notes.

A number of gas companies in France have arranged to paint direction and geographical signs on the roofs of their gasometers for the guidance of aeronauts.

Instead of the rigid planes used on most aeroplanes two Austrian inventors have equipped their air craft with circular planes revolving in opposite directions 300 or more times a minute.

A series of hangars for the British army's dirigible balloons is proposed that will radiate from a central turntable, like a railroad roundhouse, the turntable being provided to receive a balloon from any angle.

Britain Will Study Canada.

LONDON, April 17.—(C. A. P. Cable.) — Manufacturers here having shown such a lukewarm attitude, towards the proposed British exhibition train to tour Canada, the Canadian Associated Press learns that subscriptions are now being sought to send a British commissioner to Canada to study the opportunities for trade with the Dominion, especially in view of the opening of the Panama Canal. It is hoped a hundred firms at least will be willing to subscribe £25 each toward this object.

To Get Cape Breton Ore.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 17.—The Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that a steamship company operating a large fleet of iron ore carriers from Sydney, C.B., will make this city its principal terminus for the distribution of the ore in the Eastern States. The steamers will use the pier recently built by the state. The service is expected to begin July 1.

OLD TRINITY CUSTOMS

"FATHER EPISCOPON" UNIQUE TRADITION OF COLLEGE.

Recent Visit of Venerable Personage Is an Annual Event In the Life of Toronto's Historic Seat of Learning — Freshmen Are Called "Worms" and Need a Great Deal of Keeping In Order.

Unique amongst all the customs and usages of the universities of the world stands the annual visit paid to Trinity College, Toronto, by the Venerable Father Episcopon, which took place this year a few days ago. Few people have heard of the Venerable Father. He never really existed. But as a mythical personage of great importance, his coming is looked forward to by the students of Trinity with something of awe, a little of fear, and a very great deal of interest.

The Venerable Father Episcopon is said to dwell in the main tower of the college, and there, amid the oaken rafters and the dust and the cobwebs, to look down through windowpanes coated with the grime of ages, upon the life that passes in the cloistered halls, below, to note everything which he thinks deserving of adverse criticism, to store it up against the coming of the ninth of March. He has been doing this ever since 1858, when the futile imagination of P. E. Stewart, an undergraduate, brought him into being. Each year a certain undergrad. known as The Scribe, and chosen by his predecessor in office, prepares in his name a manuscript volume of comment made by one man concerning another, compiles an introduction which is more or less a resume of the events of the college year, and his own criticism thereon, and gives notice that it will be read on a certain day, usually March 9, the birth-day of the Mr. Stewart aforementioned. On this occasion the student body assembles in the dining hall, and after a glorous repast, the lights are turned out, two candles are brought and placed one on each side of a reading desk on the dais, and the Scribe produces a skull, the symbol of Episcopon, and his powers and prerogatives. With the premonitory motto: "Notandi Sunt Tibi Mores" (Publicity to Your Peculiarities!) he proceeds to read. And the quavering student, seated in the darkness and gazing at the skull and the head and shoulders of the Scribe, faintly illuminated by the flickering candle flames, gets a very fair impression of what his fellows think of him. Episcopan is just, but when it is advisable, he is also stern, not a little caustic in tone, and very emphatic.

Naturally none of the college authorities are admitted to this hallowed rite. It is necessarily private and confidential, and although there is a possibility of injustice, complaints which may be made later will secure the insertion of the material, to which objection has been taken, in the final bound volume, which goes to swell a collection kept by the Scribe that dates back to the middle of the last century. Old dog-eared volumes with yellowed pages exhibiting the handwriting of men who have passed away, and of others, too, who have since attained success in every walk of life; and with here and there a more or less expert drawing of begowned men and bccrinolined women in the style of draughtsmanship long since discarded, lie in the bottom of an ancient heavily-locked chest, which the Scribe is sworn to guard jealously.

Episcopon is a tradition now. It links the past with the present in a way in which nothing else would do; it is perhaps the highest-valued institution of the college, and when each new Scribe adds his volume to the collection, he feels that he has added another chapter to an honorable history.

Trinity College has a reputation for conservatism and Anglicism. In every possible respect it is modelled after the great universities of England. The student of Trinity must wear an academic gown to lectures, meals, and to chapel, except on Sundays and holy days, when surplices are the order of the day.

The student body is divided into two great sections, the arts men and the divinity students, who used to be known as "tugs," a corruption of the appellation "theologs"; and the former confidently boast that their freer deportment is the only thing that saves the latter from absolute stagnation and narrow-mindedness. Undoubtedly the arts men have a very vivifying influence.

Freshmen are known as "worms," and are put through a series of initiations from which hazing as a feature is only debarred by the strict orders of the governing officers, and an oath which every one must take on entering. To keep the unruly young gentlemen of the first year from feeling too greatly their release from the pressure of home-ties, skilful and painstaking measures are necessary, and in most cases the second-year men, to whom the task is relegated, perform their office well. The "worms" dwell not in the college proper; their habitation is at a distance of about 150 yards in college grounds, and is known as the "Jag House," because it was at one time a private residence devoted to the cure of inebriates. The "worms" are usually a hale and hearty crew whose bill for damages at the end of their period of residence in the Jag House amounts to about two dollars a man. They break a lot of furniture in a cheerful way.

Besides the "Trinity University Review," the Literary Institute, the Glee Club, and the various theological organizations, which are of less moment, the student may amuse himself in the gymnasium or by "feeding" in his rooms, a practice for the accommodation of which the steward runs a miniature groceryshop in the basement.—S. M. Adams in Toronto Star Weekly.

The older a man gets the better he remembers things that never happened.

MONK'S REPARTEE.

Ex-Member For Jacques Cartier Has a Biting Wit.

The retirement of Hon. F. D. Monk from Parliament leaves a distinct gap in the public life of Canada. From the year 1896 he represented the County of Jacques Cartier in the House of Commons, and no more courtly or kindly man ever sat in the green chamber. A student, orator, famed for his skill in drafting legislation, a man of strong and high principles, he filled a niche in Parliament distinctly his own. As a fighter in the Opposition days of the Conservative party—those lean years stretching from 1896 to 1911—he quickly won his spurs, and when the Borden administration came into office on Oct. 10, 1911, Frederick Debartzch Monk was chosen to carry the heavy portfolio of Public Works. From the very day he stepped into the office formerly filled by Hon. William Pugsley, he was plunged into the fog of patronage. The job-hunters made his life miserable. They camped in droves outside his office, followed him on cars, accosted him in the streets, waylaid him on his doorstep, in fact worried him to death. Many a good story is told of the attitude of Mr. Monk towards these importunates. On one occasion a man rang him up at one o'clock in the morning asking for a position. Mr. Monk told him to come round to the office the following morning. Sure enough the man was one of the throng outside the Minister's room in the Public Works Department, before nine o'clock. All the morning he waited, and when Mr. Monk came out at noon to attend a meeting of council the man tackled him.

"What is your occupation?" asked the Minister, kindly.

"I am a waiter, sir," rejoined the job-hunter.

"Then you will have an excellent opportunity of showing your proficiency," was the prompt reply, as Mr. Monk strode council-wards.

Mr. Monk's somewhat ponderous style of oratory in both English and French, was enlivened by many flashes of wit and repartee. On one occasion in Opposition days, while making an attacking speech, he stumbled in the gangway, and came within an ace of falling. One of the rank and file of the then Government party, who is out of public life at the present time, and whose private life was supposed popularly to be not above suspicion, jeered and laughed as the man from Jacques Cartier just saved himself from falling. "You see, Mr. Speaker," put in Mr. Monk, "the difference between me and my honorable friend is this: my lapses are physical ones." And a roar of laughter went up from both sides of the House, much to the discomfiture of the jeerer.

In the House, after he became Minister of Public Works, Mr. Monk bore his share of the criticism for dismissals. On one occasion he was accused of dismissing a laborer who had only one leg.

"What was this man with the wooden leg dismissed for?" put in George Kyte of Richmond.

"I suppose my honorable friend will admit that he must have been guilty of 'stumping,'" retorted Monk, amid a peal of laughter.

At a campaign meeting at Three Rivers in the campaign of 1904 Mr. Monk, and Hon. L. P. Pelletier, now the Postmaster-General, were the chief speakers. One man on the fringe of the crowd, in order to embarrass Mr. Monk, kept yelling out "louder, louder." Now Monk's stentorian tones could be heard blocks away, and the audience began to be amused at the yells of the heckler. Mr. Monk paused in his speech and told the audience of how Sir John A. Macdonald had once been interrupted in a similar manner. Sir John had said: "I really believe when on the Day of Judgment the angel Gabriel blows his horn, some fool will cry out 'louder, louder'." The little story was inimitably told in French, and the next thing seen of the heckler he was being lugged down the main street by several loyal and youthful adherents of the Monk Club.

Slides Blocking Sockeye.

In consequence of construction work of the C.N.R. along the side of Hell's Gate canyon on the Fraser River, slides of rock and gravel have gone into the river at three different places, forming obstructions which have seriously interfered with the ascent of salmon to the spawning beds. In fact at one of the places sockeye salmon cannot negotiate the fall of 15 feet which has been created by the slide.

Unless the obstruction is cleared away the sockeye, the most valuable species of salmon, would not this year reach the spawning beds, with the result that the run of 1918 would be largely wiped out as well as beds for the succeeding four year period thereafter.

Hon. Mr. Hazen has decided to place a sum in the estimates to clear away the obstructions.

Wild Sheep Died of Cold.

Among the wild creatures that suffered most during the recent cold weather were the hardy sheep that swarm on the coasts in the eastern part of Nova Scotia on the archipelago of the thousand islands upon which these inhabitants of the sea coast live. Hundreds of the wild sheep were found upon the shores of the rocky and wooded coasts where they had perished in their attempts to obtain their daily food of seaweed, dulce, eel grass and kelp, their shaggy coats a mass of solid ice from the spray that had dashed over them from the sea.

B. C.'s Apple Trade.

ONTARIO'S NEW PALACE

KING'S REPRESENTATIVE TO BE WELL HOUSED.

The Government House Over Which So Much Debate Has Occurred Is a Magnificent Structure Both Outside and In—Royal Suite, State Dining Hall, Reception Hall and Balconies Are Splendid.

A great, rambling palace, set on the side of a hill in the northern part of Toronto, where one may wander and dream strange dreams—that is the future home of the King's first officer in the Province of Ontario.

The design of the French chateau is what is followed in architecture with a parapet from which one might leap down into the valley of the Don. Though three storeys in height, this grey stone building, with its gothics and its turrets, and its red-capped roof, seems to hug close to the ground. Perhaps that is because it is sprawled over a large area, but on the whole, if you do not view it from a distance, the impression it creates is one of majesty, a dignity and isolation which befits the rank of kings, and it is safe to say that this edifice will soon find its place on the list of the curious sight-seers.

Without, the impression is majestic. Within, it is one of splendor, with its high ceilings, its corridors, its massive reception hall, which reaches the full three-storeys in height and over-reigning it a double tier of balconies, with its ball-room which for grandeur will not be equaled anywhere in the whole city and which for the brilliance of the gatherings it must shelter through the future years will be rivaled only by a Rideau Hall or a Windsor Castle. Beneath that red-shingled roof there will be harbored all the outward expression of the French instinct for magnificence.

As one enters by way of the porte-cochere he finds himself in a spacious reception room, with three ways to turn. To the left is that mysterious chain of offices with its brass-buttoned lackeys, through which one must pass before he can finally gain audience with his Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor, whose business office will be located in the extreme southwest wing. A large, airy room, flooded with sunlight, is that official domain, and scarcely less pretentious is the apartment of the secretary. If one turned to the right, he would find the suite for official receptions, three large rooms, any one of which might accommodate a moderate family, but if the sight-seer went straight ahead, into the main corridor, which runs traverse of the building from north to south, he would find facing him the chief reception hall, large as the pit of a theatre, capable of accommodating hundreds.

From this hall, which is to be draped in the most modern manner, lead spacious steps which end in the tangle of rooms above, or open upon the corridors from which doubtless thousands of curious folk will some day look down upon gay scenes. Immediately behind the reception hall and separated from it by folding doors, is the ball-room with its alcoves, its double balcony, and its palm room, the latter sixty by forty feet in dimension, the main room seventy by fifty. On the ground floor, immediately adjoining the reception rooms, is the living suite of the Lieutenant-Governor, composed of writing room, living room, and library, all of which are designed upon the same generous scale. The living room is forty by thirty feet. To reach the dining department, one must cross the main reception hall, and there he will find either the private dining room of the Lieutenant-Governor's family, or the state dining hall, built upon a scale to accommodate a hundred guests or more. The private dining room differs little from that enjoyed by the ordinary family, being only large enough to seat a dozen or more. Immediately at the back of this department is the culinary establishment, and the quarters of the servants.

Above, which one may reach by way of elevator, are the various sleeping suites. To the southwest, above the Lieutenant-Governor's office, is the royal suite, consisting three sleeping rooms, a reception room, and baths, looking out upon a flat roof. In the northern wing is a series of suites, a dozen chambers or more, for the private family or for guests, rooms high and brilliant, with their French casements, their balconettes, and their view of the world, on the other are the balconies, looking down upon the grand receiving hall, while above all these rooms is another series of bedrooms, with individual bathrooms, a veritable tangle, endless rooms to a number which will be used only upon state occasions, when the home of the Lieutenant-Governor becomes the scintillating centre of the social world.

Back, in the servant's wing, this is all duplicated—rooms, rooms, rooms for men, and women, for butler, and underling, for sleeping, for receiving, for dining, for linen, for silver, for china, and for the dozen and other things which go to make up the cast of royalty. It is all there, the accoutrement which leaves the brain dazed. Verandahs are massive and spacious, with pillars hewn from the rocks of the Credit Valley, weighing many tons each, there is a billiard room where one may while away the hour, and behind there will be the conservatories and the equipment of locomotion—the home of the lodgekeeper, of the coachman, of the chauffeurs, of the gardener, of the landscape artist—a veritable village in itself.

Then should one, in curiosity, pry down into the cellars below, he will find the same intricate series of dark, gloomy rooms, for the hundred and one things required to run such an establishment.

There must have been at least 50 per cent. exaggeration in the stories of the battle of Torreon or this new series of battles at San Pedro would not have been possible so soon.

MIXED MARRIAGES.

Canadians Have Received Advice Regarding Weddings With Foreigners.

The following important statement regarding the marriage of British women with Hindus, Moslems, African negroes, etc., has been sent from Downing street to the Canadian Government. It has been prepared by the registrar-general of Great Britain:

The marriage of a woman of British nationality professing the Christian faith with a Hindu or Mohammedan even in a case when it is valid in all respects in this country, is not necessarily so when the husband returns to India or his own Mohammedan country. In India he is subject to what is known as his "personal" law of a Hindu; this law would probably not recognize the marriage at all, and in the case of a Mohammedan the fact that the marriage took place under forms prescribed by British law only, might give rise to doubts in a Mohammedan country as to the validity of the marriage, or at least place the parties in a position of some difficulty. The Indian courts would in such cases be able to offer very inadequate, if any, protection to the wife of such British marriage, while her position under a foreign court would be presumably worse.

In neither case is the marriage one that necessarily implies (outside Great Britain) the voluntary union for life of one man and one woman to the exclusion of all others, for under his "personal" law the Hindu and under Mohammedan law the Mohammedan husband may, if he desires, take other wives in addition to the first without consulting his Christian wife in any way. Even if the Hindu or Mohammedan husband had entered into a covenant with his Christian wife, such a covenant could not prevent him from taking another wife in India or a Mohammedan country if he so desired.

The forms observed at a marriage under English law before a registrar are not necessarily recognized by Mohammedan law as giving any legal effect or validity to the marriage relationship, and afford no protection to the wife in a country where Mohammedan law is observed. Where a marriage relationship is constituted which the Mohammedan law will recognize a Mohammedan husband may, under Mohammedan law, divorce his wife at will without any legal formality beyond that of repudiating her, while should he return to his own country, leaving his Christian wife, the difference of domestic domicile might be equivalent to divorce under Mohammedan law. In either case such divorce, while not dissolving the marriage in Great Britain under British law, would be operative in the Mohammedan country.

In the case of a woman of British nationality professing the Christian faith who marries a Mohammedan who is not a British subject, but is a subject or citizen of a Mohammedan state, she loses her British nationality on the marriage, and when the husband and wife land in any Mohammedan country (not being in the dominions or under the protectorate of his Britannic Majesty), they both become subject to the Mohammedan law. Further, the wife, having lost her British nationality would appear to have become disentitled to the protection or assistance of any British authority, consular or otherwise.

African negroes are in many cases in their own countries subject in certain particulars to native law and custom which may permit of polygamy.

Canada Slips Behind.

Canadian marine engine manufacturers are losing ground in New Zealand. The Canadian trade commissioner states that the reason is the high price, the ancient standard and the inapt construction. Great Britain sells the most internal combustion marine engines in New Zealand, being nearly seven to one American engine. The total importation was 5,421 engines at $897,553, of which 738 were United States engines at $109,795 and 49 Canadian engines at $6,165. Canadian manufacturers, says the report to the Trade and Commerce Department, have an advantage over American manufacturers, yet their engines are more expensive. British-made engines are landed in New Zealand as cheaply as Canadian engines, and in some cases are very little dearer than those from the United States.

Largest Concrete Pole In World.

The largest concrete pole installation at present in the world is that of 25,000 concrete poles set up in connection with the municipal street lighting and general light and power distribution of the Hydro-Electric system in Toronto, says The Electrical World.

Although re-inforced concrete poles have been the subject of experiment from time to time for a great many years, it is comparatively recently that they have been employed or even seriously considered. The high and constantly increasing cost of wooden poles, their comparatively short life, with consequent prospective renewal at greater expense, is making Toronto experiment a matter of interest the world over.

Ringing the Bells.

The late Sir John A. Macdonald was ever known for his ready wit and gift of repartee.

On one election campaign he was staying over night with a family by the name of "Bell" where there was a bevy of bright, charming young daughters. The father proudly introduced his girls to Sir John, who laughingly rejoined that he would like the pleasure of being present when they were "Ringing the Bells."

That bandit who crept through a six-inch grating and escaped from a Pennsylvania jail must have been trained by going on a hunger strike.

HUERTA YIELDS POINT TO U.S. DEMANDS

Salute to American Flag Will Be Made and a Return Given by the Fleet—Return of Salute Does Not Involve Recognition of Government—Strong Pressure Brought to Bear on Gen. Huerta.

WASHINGTON, April 17. — The United States Government last night accepted Gen. Huerta's offer to salute the Stars and Stripes as an apology for the arrest of American marines at Tampico a week ago yesterday. The Huerta Government salute to the American flag will be answered with a salute to the tri-color of the Mexican nation.

This arrangement, the details of which were being finally arranged last night in an exchange of official messages between Washington and Mexico City, ended, in the view of all high administration officials, the crisis that had arisen in the last few days, resulting in the despatch of American war fleets to Mexican waters. Executive quarters and congressional circles breathed a sigh of relief that the tension had passed.

No time has been set for the firing of the salute, and until the details are arranged no further orders will be sent to the American fleets now proceeding south. It is practically certain, however, that while many of the vessels will be turned back, others will continue south and a substantially increased naval force will be maintained in Mexican waters.

Huerta's offer and request for a return salute caused President Wilson to ask for an opinion from the counsellor of the State Department and Navy Department officials. All reported that it was the invariable custom in naval practice to return a salute and cited precedents. The President was also informed that Rear Admiral Mayo, in making his original demand for a salute, agreed to return the courtesy.

Mr. Wilson said a return of a salute under the circumstances did not involve recognition of the Huerta Government, but was merely an act of the same character as grasping the hand of an individual who was apologizing as he extended it. Secretary Bryan, too, took the view that the American salute would be given to the flag of the Mexican nation, just as much respected by the Constitutionalists as the Huerta Government, and no technical recognition was involved.

Enquiry as to the character of pressure which had been brought on Gen. Huerta to yield brought out the fact that foreign Governments had an active interest in the events of the last twenty-four hours. Both the French and German ambassadors, after conferences at the State Department, were in communication, it is understood, with their representatives in Mexico City. Another phase of the situation was a well authenticated report that the last instalment of a loan due by Huerta was about to be held up by foreign bankers if he did not comply with the American demands.

Eager To Avenge Insult.

LONDON, April 17.—Contrasting the action of President Wilson in connection with the arrest of American marines at Tampico, with what was done when Wm. S. Benton, the British ranch owner, was killed at Juarez, The Manchester Guardian, one of the leading Liberal newspapers, said yesterday:

"Intervention which murder and robbery failed to bring about is apparently to be the punishment for a mere symbolic slight on American dignity."

"Why should Villa murder with impunity and Gen. Huerta be chastised with the whole strength of the right arm of the United States for a mere breach of international politeness?"

NEW ONTARIO AFFAIRS

Mr. Sam Clarke Thinks Publicity Campaign Would Help.

In Reply to Resolution Urging the Appointment of a Commissioner of Lands, Hon. Mr. Hearst Expresses Belief That Present Policy Is Keeping Pace With Development of the Country.

TORONTO, April 17.—Yesterday's principal discussion in the Legislature was devoted to the affairs of New Ontario and Sam Clarke (Lib., Northumberland) offered a resolution favoring the appointment of a commissioner of lands and a staff to make a more aggressive campaign for settlers.

Hon. Mr. Hearst, in reply, declared his belief that the present policy of the Government was keeping pace with the development of the country and reviewed the work of his Department.

In opening his address Mr. Clarke said he was not doing it in a spirit of censure but of suggestion for the agricultural prospects of the north. The Minister of Lands and Mines had too much work on his hands properly to look after northern farm lands. The Government should appoint a commissioner and a group of assistants—the best men that could be engaged—to take prospective settlers out and show them the land and help them to decide what locations they would take. The grant of two million acres to the Canadian Northern, who he said had not brought in one single settler up to this time had kept these lands "tied up." He enlarged upon the favorable opportunities which New Ontario offered for settlement and declared that 5,000 people in the city of Toronto would locate there if the proper inducements were offered. In addition there were hundreds of hardy, honest men in the rural portions of Old Ontario who would be far better off on the new land than on the sandhill farms which they now occupied. He believed it was a mistake to encourage immigration of mechanics and laborers to Ontario. What New Ontario needed was settlers, who would do for the new territory what the forefathers of the present generation had done for the older parts of the province. "When we have the settlers," he said, "on the land, like the father to the child, look after him until he is strong enough to look after himself.

Mr. Hearst, in replying, said he appreciated the manner in which the resolution was put and the kindly manner in which the subject had been treated. On a great many points he was in thorough accord with the West Northumberland member, but he took exception to some of his statements on the score of his limited knowledge of north country conditions. He maintained that practically every one of the suggestions mentioned by Mr. Clarke had been put into effect by the Government and were being carried out. Referring to a suggestion as to colonization along the Ontario route of the Grand Trunk Pacific, he pointed out that the line was still in the hands of the contractors. He had taken the matter up with officials of the road on his trip through the country last summer, and they promised to co-operate with the provincial authorities to bring in settlers as soon as the line came under their control. He declared that Mr. Clarke was wrong in his statement that vast quantities of land were tied up against settlement. He compared the present Government expenditures for bridges and public works with that of the former administration, and found the former 408 per cent. greater in the same period of time, while the road expenditure showed a like growth of 293 per cent.

In moving an amendment to Mr. Clarke's motion Albert Grigg (Con., Algoma) eulogized the work of the Government in the north but suggested that it might prove a good policy to check the large departmental stores which were being established in all parts and corralling the retail trade. The influence was felt in the north.

A further amendment was moved by Mr. Elliott (W. Middlesex), approving, in turn, of the $5,000,000 grant, and more if necessary, but expressing regret that the funds from this loan had been applied for other purposes than those set out in the act.

Mr. Grigg's amendment was adopted on division.

Owned City Save One Lot.

LONDON, Eng., April 17. — The death is announced at Huddersfield of Sir J. W. Ramsden. He owned all the city of Huddersfield except one house and plot.

He often tried to buy that, but in vain. On one occasion he offered to cover the site with sovereigns as a purchase price, but the Quaker owner demanded that the sovereigns should be placed edgeways, and then the negotiations were broken off.

Whenever we see a man who says he was "driven to drink" we always feel pretty sure that if we were to interview the driver we should find the driver had had the bit in his teeth through most of the drive.

DRIVES TEAM OF EIGHT TURTLES

He Has Name for Each of His Strange Pets

DELAVAN, Wis., April 16.—One of the most unique pictures presented here almost daily is that of Rex Bassler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bassler, of Darlem and grandson of Mr. and Mrs J. B. Bassler, leading residents of the county, driving a team of eight turtles.

The turtles are large in size and were caught by the grandfather and son, who make a business of shipping turtles to market during the winter. Little Rex has taken a fancy to some of the larger specimens and it playing with them found that they could be trained.

He has selected names for each one of the pets which are: Curley, Dago, Diamon, Tortie, Reggy, Snapper, Jennie and Sue.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, April 16. — Immense sales of corn today broke the market. There were many defections from the bull side, and it looked as if a large number of heretofore stubborn holders had decided to stand out no longer against Argentine competition. After a fall that amounted in some cases to as much as 2¼c to ⅜c a bushel, prices closed heavy at a decline of ⅝c to 1⅝c to ⅝c net. Other speculative articles all showed a setback—wheat ⅜c to ½c to 1c, oats ½c to ⅝c to ½c, and provisions 10 to 12½c to 42½c.

Wants Modern Methods.

The interest of the Province of Saskatchewan in the welfare of its schools is indicated by the fact that the Department of Education gives all teachers the right to attend the annual convention, and makes provision for the payment of the grants for the day on which school is necessarily closed. A large number of boards encourage their teachers to attend by giving them an allowance for expenses.

RILEY IS CONVICTED.

Slayer of George Blackburn is Guilty of Manslaughter.

LONDON, Ont., April 17.—Thomas Riley, who shot and killed George Blackburn, bartender of the Hotel Cecil on the evening of Oct. 3 last, was last night convicted of manslaughter. Riley was charged with murder, and an effort was made by the crown to prove that Riley's deed was premeditated. The prisoner will be sentenced by Mr. Justice Kelly to-day.

The verdict was received with mixed feelings by Riley's mother and wife, who were among the relatives present, and who were accompanied here from Kansas by friends who yesterday testified to the good character of Riley before he came to this country.

Riley was the twenty-first person in as many years to be tried in the London court house for homicide; only one was hanged, "Peg Leg" Brown, who paid the death penalty in 1899, though there were others convicted and sent to asylums. Riley's trial was perhaps the shortest of any, the evidence being commenced yesterday morning and being ended late in the afternoon.

William Burrows, a bartender at the Cecil Hotel, Howard Beattie, Wm. H. Morgan and Chas. Holliday were the chief witnesses for the crown, along with Henry Andrews, who had been Riley's mate braking on the Grand Trunk for a short time before the shooting.

WINNIPEG, April 17. — On the toast list of the Western Canada Catholic banquet last night, the Pope was placed at the head, His Majesty the King was placed second. Because of this Sir D. C. Cameron, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba; T. R. Deacon, mayor of Winnipeg, and other prominent men, refused to attend. Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, was also absent. Mr. Doherty's message of regret stated that under ordinary circumstances he would have been most happy to attend.

The affair created considerable discussion in religious, state and civic quarters yesterday, and the matter has not been improved by a mixup at the opening of the banquet. The Pope was duly placed first, and, replying, His Grace Archbishop Langevin, referring to the matter, said:

"We will render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." Following the toast to the Pope, the toastmaster rose, and toasted "Canada," the third toast on the list, that of the King, being second. The banqueters rose, but the orchestra for some reason, struck up "God Save the King." There was some slight confusion and then the anthem was taken up generally.

MELLEN TO LEAD WORKERS?

Railway Brotherhoods Want Him to Be President of New Federation.

BOSTON, April 17. — Charles E. Mellen, formerly president of the New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co., may become the active head of a federated body, supreme among the various organizations of the United States, with 2,000,000 railroad employes affiliated.

It became known yesterday that Mr. Mellen had been approached on the subject, and that he was giving it favorable consideration. The new organization is to be known as the Federal Council of Railroad Brotherhoods, and will be formed at a meeting of delegates in this city on April 26, and the former director of the New Haven Railroad System will be nominated for the presidency. The idea of the council has been promoted by the Order of Railroad Station Agents, which met here in January and appointed a committee to invite the many independent societies of railroad men to send delegations to the forthcoming meeting. It is stated that favorable responses were received and 100 delegates have been elected.

TO STOP CONTRIBUTIONS.

New Zealand Thinks It Can Take Care of Its Own Protection.

LONDON, April 17.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Col. Allan, New Zealand's Minister of Defence, in a speech yesterday, said that the Government conceived that its duty in the future was not to contribute five hundred thousand dollars a year to the Admiralty, but instead to utilize the money in training New Zealanders to serve both New Zealand and England. Was New Zealand, he asked, to rely for protection on a trade alliance with Japan? Was she to have no voice in the expenditure of her contribution and representation in questions of peace and war and also diplomatic relations The thing was unthinkable to people grown to manhood.

Vancouver May Be "Wide Open."

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 17.—Mayor Baxter, of this city, told a delegation of the Lord's Day Alliance that he was not in favor of closing up the refreshment stands absolutely on Sunday. "If you insist on carrying this thing too far," said the mayor, "you will have the pendulum swing back to the other extreme, and next year the people will elect a mayor and council who will throw the town wide open."

Italians Routed Natives.

BENGHAZI, Africa, April 17. — A severe engagement was recently fought between the Italian forces and 2,000 rebels, near Cedebia. The Italians routed the enemy after hard fighting, killing 154 of them and wounding many. The Italian loss was slight.

There's nothing so gloriously uncertain as a sure thing.

It's easy to tell others how they might have succeeded after they fail.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"THE RED WIDOW".

The authors and composers of "The Red Widow", the musical comedy which will be seen at Griffin's Opera House, Wednesday evening, April 22, have done more than their share toward making theatrical history in America. Pollock and Wolf are both newspaper and magazine writers who have long been considered dramatic authorities. Together they are considered the foremost American librettists and have often been referred to as the American W. H. Gilbert.

Before joining pens with Rennold Wolf, Channing Pollock was known as an author of high repute. His first successful effort was the dramatization of William Norris' famous novel "The Pit" in which Wilton Lackaye was seen for several years. Other of his plays were "In The Bishop's Carriage", "The Little Gray Lady", "Such a Little Queen", "The Secret Orchard." "Clothes". "The Inner Shrine" and "The Emperor Napoleon." He and Rennold Wolf have besides "The Red Widow" written the book and lyrics of "The Beauty Shop", "Her Little Higiness" and "My Best Girl" and of the travesty which opened the oddity of New York's amusement places "The Folies Bergere."

Charles Gebest is known as a composer only through "The Red Widow" and "The Beauty Shop". He has however for years arranged all of the music written by George M. Cohan and is considered one of the best contemporary musicians.

In these days when art is usually judged from a financial standpoint some idea may be gained of the esteem in which Messrs. Pollock and Wolf are held by the fact that they are the highest paid librettists writing for the stage in his country to-day.

With all their works as with "The Red Widow" there is a consistent story to be told and this is carried out in the musical numbers as well as in the dialogue. "The Red Widow" is at present playing in London and Berlin and is shortly to be produced in Australia.

NAPANEE MAN IS KILLED

NAPANEE, Ont., April 16.—A telegram received here to-day announced the death in California of George I. Ham, formerly of Napanee. He was instantly killed while auto riding with his son near San Francisco. Mr. Ham was the manager of the Mexican banking house which failed about five years ago with large liabilities and was imprisoned by the Mexican Government. About fourteen months ago he secured his liberty and after spending some months in Napanee returned to California, where he had a large ranch.

Why Are You So Tired

THE WEATHER IS NOT TO BLAME FOR THAT 'DRAGGED OUT' FEELING.

"This weather simply takes the life right out of me, I can hardy drag one foot after the other," said a run-down, tired-out woman, the other day.

We want to say to every such person in this vicinity. Don't blame the weather, it's your condition. You need a strengthening tonic and the very best we know is Vinol which is a combination of the two most world-famed tonics, namely, the medicinal, curative elements of cod liver oil and tonic iron, for the blood.

A case has just come to our attention from Milford, Mich. "Mrs. Julia Barber says: "I was run-down and hardly able to drag about; my appetite was very poor and I was not able to work. My druggist asked me to try Vinol. The first bottle helped me and after taking the second bottle I was able to work and felt well and strong. Vinol is the best medicine I have ever taken."

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you—Red Cross Drug Store—J. S. McKeown, Belle-

INTERCEPTED WIRELESS.

Express Train's Mechanism Broke Communication With Fleet.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The ships of the Atlantic fleet on their way to Mexican waters were cut off from all official communication by wireless unintentionally yesterday by a passenger train speeding through the meadows of New Jersey. The official messages to the battleships which were interrupted were being sent from the wireless station at the navy yard in Brooklyn. The wireless waves of the Government's apparatus were confused and blurred by the waves sent out by the wireless telephone apparatus of the Lackawanna Railroad station at Hoboken, which communicated for the first time successfully to the Lackawanna Limited ten miles away. On further inquiry Supt. Phillips of the Lackawanna was informed by the Brooklyn Navy Yard that the wave length of the Government wireless apparatus installed on the battleships and at fixed stations was 600 metres. That is exactly the length of the waves sent out by the wireless telephone apparatus installed on the Lackawanna Limited.

The Lackawanna superintendent was requested to stop sending messages until the length of the wave used by the Lackawanna was changed, and this Supt. Phillips readily said he would do. Further tests of the wireless telephone on moving trains will be suspended until the apparatus can be overhauled for changing the wave length.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Northwestern Connecticut yesterday was in the grip of a sleet storm.

Regular Chinese troops severely defeated "White Wolf", and his brigands yesterday and several hundred of the bandits were killed.

The Merchants' Shipping Act, which has been revised, consolidated and amended, will not be passed until next session of the Dominion Parliament.

Rev. W. M. Rochester and Prof. Richard Davidson, Toronto, received the honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Presbyterian College, Montreal, last night.

The bylaw for the granting of a loan of $25,000 to the Canada Casket Co. was carried by a sweeping majority, 325 votes for and 40 against in Wiarton yesterday.

Goods stolen in transit from C. P. R. cars at Chapleau have been recovered to the value of $25,000. It is supposed that a gang has been operating there for some months.

Plans for the erection of a new city hall in Galt have been accepted from a Galt firm of architects in competition and work on the $25,000 building will be commenced at once.

Artesian wells which promise to solve the problem of supplying the town of Steelton, Ont., with pure water have been discovered by an Italian named Augusto Biagini, in the western portion of the town.

A rumor has reached the Montreal detective department that Bourret and Foucault, the two bandits sought for the murder of Constable Bourdon, were sent to Ottawa or Hull in crates on Friday or Saturday last.

SOCIETY WOMEN SMOKE.

W. L. Scott Says Habit Is Prevalent In Best Circles In Ottawa.

OTTAWA, April 17.—If girls and young women in high society at Ottawa and elsewhere did not feel their ears tingling yesterday, it was not because they were not the ones referred to. Before the Government special committee dealing with the cigarette evil, W. L. Scott, president of the Ontario Union of Children's Aid Societies, said the habit was increasing rapidly among society women.

"It has been introduced within the last six years," he said, "and the majority, perhaps, of the girls in highest society, now smoke cigarettes."

Also Judge Choquette of the Montreal juvenile court, said of the 3,000 delinquent children he had dealt with 95 per cent. of them smoked cigarettes. "The pictures in packages are a great incentive for children to buy, and I have known parents who gave money to their children to buy cigarettes with."

Eight Perish In Wreck.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The identity of the schooner which went ashore in a northeast gale near Long Branch, L.I., Wednesday night was established by life-savers at daybreak yesterday as the Charles E. Buckley, from Jacksonville, Fla., for New York. The schooner is a total loss, and Capt. Hardy, his wife and all members of the crew, except one seaman named Atchison, were lost while attempting to launch a lifeboat.

Besides Captain Hardy and his wife, it is believed that at least six members of the crew went down when the lifeboat failed to weather the waves.

To Offset Roosevelt's Visit.

PARIS, April 17.—The contest for influence in Argentina between the United States and Germany is the subject of a despatch yesterday from Buenos Ayres to The Temps. The correspondent attributes the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia to South America to Germany's desire to counteract the effect of Col. Roosevelt's presence there. He avers that the raising of the United States legation to Argentina to the rank of an embassy was another episode in American-German rivalry.

AYLMER, April 17.—The mayor has received a complaint regarding a picture shown at a local moving picture theatre, and as a result has written to the Ontario Board of Censors to have the film banished. The film complained of showed a young woman more or less scantily dressed doing the tango, and it is alleged the pictures caused a great deal of comment.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-west Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Aerial Flights.

A $5,000,000 appropriation for aviation in the British army estimates gives a hint of the altitudes to which the aeroplane is flying. — New York World.

The aviator who commands public respect is the one who frankly considers the dangers of flying as well as the spectacular possibilities. — Washington Star.

This thing of flying across the Atlantic seems to whittle itself down to a proposition similar to what Josh Billings said about killing a flea, "It is ezy 2 kil a fle if you kan."—Indianapolis Star.

The Cookbook.

Always put a slice of bread into the kettle when cooking pea soup. It prevents the peas from sinking to the bottom and burning.

Add a teaspoonful of baking powder to old potatoes when mashing them and beat briskly. This will make them light and creamy.

If cooking anything with milk in it and salt is required, do not put it in until the last moment, for salt curdles milk if boiled with it. Puddings made with milk and eggs should be cooked gently; a strong heat will inevitably curdle them.

House Noises at Night That Sound Like Ghostly Footfalls.

In old houses the boards and joists forming the floors are often in a somewhat unstable condition. Many floors are permanently bent with the traffic of generations. Others are still undergoing the warping process. It is easy to imagine a floor which is in a perfectly ripe condition for the production of ghostly sounds.

During the daytime the timbers get bent with the weight of the various inmates of the house walking to and fro, but the noise and bustle of the day drowns the starting and creaking which goes on until the floor has recovered its natural position, as it is bound to do in time, wood being of an elastic nature.

When, however, the stillness of night comes on, these little intermittent movements may become magnified into mysterious footsteps, according to the imagination of the hearer. I myself live in a house the landing of which exactly illustrates my argument. Some hours after all are in bed the sound as of one stealthily creeping along the landing is heard—loud enough to startle a light sleeper into wakefulness. "Who's that?" has often been the exclamation, but by good sense the natural explanation has as often been accepted.—London Times.

Didn't Need the Hoe.

Some time ago a hobo meekly tapped on the back door of a suburban home and asked for something to eat. The good housewife responded that she would feed him on the back step along with Fido provided he was willing to earn the meal by cleaning out the gutter.

The tramp agreed, and when he had eaten his way through several sandwiches the housewife came out with a reliable looking hoe.

"You needn't have gone to that trouble, madam," said the hobo. "I never use a hoe in cleaning out a gutter."

"Never use a hoe!" said the woman. "What do you use, then, a shovel?"

"No, madam," sweetly replied the hobo, starting for the back gate, "my method is to pray for rain."—Boston Advertiser.

Colony of Celery Growers.

For a long time what is now the fruitful irrigated land of Canada was given a wide berth. Then southern farmers, who had been accustomed to such soil and conditions, came along with results to themselves and the land that were little short of phenomenal. Now another tract of so-called "worthless land" is about to be taken up. Four hundred settlers, who have been living in the Kalamazoo district of Michigan, the great celery-raising country, are migrating to the township of Dunwich, in East Elgin, Ontario, to start a similar industry there. They have secured some 2,000 acres of low and swampy lands, suitable to celery culture, and plan to start business on an extensive scale.

TO CONSERVE NOVA SCOTIA FORESTS

FREDERICTON, N.S., April 16.—Special—Dr. Fernow, the great authority on forestry, says that with proper care, the forests of Nova Scotia would produce in perpetuity twice as much timber as is now being taken out, and in line with this warning, the Novia Scotia government is taking the necessary measures. The aim of the Forestry Association is also to find out what part of the Province is fitted for field agriculture and to have that part turned into farmland as rapidly as possibly can be done. The object of the Association is to cut the trees on these areas as quickly as market conditions will allow, and to suitably work the remaining areas so as to ensure a steady growth of timber. This benefits both lumbermen and the agriculturist as well as the farmer.

Fredericton is the pivot of the great lumbering industry of New Brunswick; it is the lumberman's headquarters, and several large mills are located in the city. The fact that this staple is one of the most valuable assets of the province will ensure greater precautions in the conservation of this valuable gift of nature. The turning of the woods into mercantile timber is in itself a great industry, and employs thousands of men, but the real future for the lumbering industry in this section will come when the present crude methods of manufacture are abandoned, and the finished article is put on the market. Within easy reach of Fredericton, on the St. John and Nashwaak Rivers, are valuable hard and soft wood areas of almost inexhaustible extent, including spruce, pine, hemlock, maple and birch. This wood can be brought to this city by either rail or steamboat at a very low cost. The openings are particularly bright for the making of furniture and for industries employing the higher grades of lumber.

GERMAN BUSINESS MEN START ENGLISH PAPER

BERLIN, Germany, April 15.—The growth of Germany's interest in America and the consequent necessity for spreading the knowledge of the English language is chiefly responsible for the founding of the Anglo-American Journal, a new weekly, just started at Frankfort-on-theMain. German business men are keenly aware of the advantages to be gained from a mastery of the languages of the countries with which they are doing business and the avowed object of the new publication is to give them an opportunity to familiarize themselves with contemporary English as actually used in the newspapers of the day. The journal publishes news reports like ordinary papers, but has a vocabulary on the last page giving translations of the more difficult words.

MORGANS BUY NEW YORK CENTRAL BONDS

NEW YORK, April 15.—Following the announcement that more than 75 per cent. of the holders of the New York Central's 3 1-2 per cent. gold bonds, Lake Shore collateral, have consented to the consolidation of those two lines upon the terms made public, J. P. Morgan and Co., announced yesterday the purchase of $40,000,000 4 1-2 per cent. refunding and improvement 100-year bonds of the company. The firm also has a six months' option on the remaining $30,000,000 of the issue, which will be sufficent to provide for the company's requirements for the current year.

Of the $40,000,000 just taken by the bankers $15,000,000 has been sold privately and the balance will be offered for public subscription soon. The Morgan firm is forming an underwriting syndicate, and an official announcement, regarding its formation may be made to-day. The offspring price of the bonds is expected to be around 96.

The purpose of the mortgage covering the bonds is to provide means for future financing by the New York Central. After $500,000 shall have been issued no additional bonds can be sold without consent of stockholders.

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of
"Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

It was ten o'clock when he alighted for the first time in a large, bustling town on the great northern road. He had changed horses several times since leaving London, and had accomplished a considerable distance within the five hours. He put up at the principal hotel, where he intended to remain for the night. From the windows of his rooms was to be seen the broad open market-place, which to-night was brilliantly lighted, and thronged with people. Sir Oswald looked with surprise at the bustling scene, as one of the waiters drew the curtains before the long windows.

"Your town seems busy to-night," he said.

"Yes, sir; there has been a fair, sir—our spring fair, sir—a cattle fair, sir. Perhaps you'd rather not have the curtains drawn, sir. You may like to look out of the window after dinner, sir."

"Look out of the window?—oh, dear no! Close the curtains by all means."

he waiter wondered at the gentleman's bad taste, and withdrew to hasten the well-known guest's dinner.

It was long past eleven, and Sir Oswald was sitting brooding before the fire, when he was startled from his reverie by the sound of a woman's voice singing in the market-place below. The streets had been for some time deserted, the shops closed, the lights extinguished, except a few street-lamps, flickering feebly here and there. All was quiet, and the voice of the street ballad-singer sounded full and clear in the stillness.

Sir Oswald Eversleigh was in no humor to listen to street singers. It must needs be some voice very far removed from common voices which could awaken him from his gloomy abstraction.

It was, indeed, an uncommon voice, such a voice as one rarely hears beyond the walls of the Italian opera-house—such a voice as is not often heard even within those walls. Full, clear, and rich, the melodious accents sent a thrill to the innermost heart of the listener.

The song which the vagrant was singing was the simplest of ballads. It was "Auld Robin Gray."

While he sat by the fire, listening to that familiar ballad, Sir Oswald Eversleigh forgot his sorrow and indignation—forgot his nephew's baseness, forgot everything, except the voice of the woman singing in the deserted market-place below the windows.

He went to one of the windows and drew back the curtain. The night was cold and boisterous; but a full moon was shining in a clear sky, and every object in the broad street was visible in that penetrating light.

The windows of Sir Oswald's sitting room opened upon a balcony. He lifted the sash, and stepped out into th echill night air. He saw the figure of a woman moving away from the pavement before the hotel very slowly, with a languid, uncertain step. Presently he saw her totter and pause, as if scarcely able to proceed. Then she moved unsteadily onwards for a few paces, and at lst sank down upon a door-step, with the helpless motion of utter exhaustion.

He did not stop to watch longer from the balcony. He went back to his room, snatched up his hat, and hurried down stairs. They were beginning to close the establishment for the night, and the wafters stared as Sir Oswald passed them on his way to the street.

In the market-place nothing was stirring. The baronet could see the dark figure of the woman still in the same attitude into which he had seen her sink when she fell exhausted on the doorstep, half sitting, half lying on the stone.

Sir Oswald hurried to the spot where the woman had sunk down, and bent over her. Her arms were folded on the stone, her head lying on her folded arms.

"Why are you lying there, my good girl?" asked Sir Oswald, gently.

Something in the slended figure told him that the ballad-singer was young, though he could not see her face.

She lifted her head slowly, with a languid action, and looked up at the speaker.

"Where else should I go?" she asked, in bitter tones.

"Have you no home?"

"Home!" echoed the girl. "I have never had what gentlemen like you call a home."

"But where are you going tonight?"

"To the fields—to some empty barn, if I can find one with a door unfastened, into which I may creep. I have been singing all day, and have not earned enough money to pay for a lodging."

The full moon shone broad and clear upon the girl's face. Looking at her by that silvery light, Sir Oswald saw that she was very beautiful.

"Have you been long leading this miserable life?" Sir Oswald asked her presently.

"My life has been one ling misery", answered the ballad-singer.

"How long hvae you been singing in the streets?"

"I have been singing about the country for two years; not always in the streets. For some time I was in a company of show people, but the mistress of the show treated me badly, and I left her. Since then I have been wandering from place to place, singing in the streets on market days and singing at fairs."

The girl said all this in a dull, mechanical way, as if she were accustomed to be called on to render an account of herself.

"And before you took to this kind of life", said the baronet, strangely interested in this vagrant girl; "how did you get your living then?"

"I lived with my father", answered the girl, in an altered tone. "Have you finished your questions?"

She shuddered slightly, and rose from her crouching attitude. The moon still shone upon her face, intensifying its deathlike pallor.

"See", said her unknown questioner, "here are a couple of sovereigns. You need not wander into the open country to look for an empty barn. You can secure shelter at some respectable inn. Or stay, it is close upon midnight; you might find it difficult to get admitted to any respectable house at such an hour. You had better come with me to my hotel yonder, the 'Star'—the lady is a kindhearted creature and, will see you comfortably lodged. Come!"

The girl stood before Sir Oswald, shivering in the bleak wind, with a thin black shawl wrapped tightly around her, and her dark brown hair blown away from her face by that bitter March wind. She looked at him with unutterable surprise in her countenance.

"You are very good", she said; "no one of your class ever before stepped out of his way to help me. Poor people have been kind to me—often—very often. You are very good."

There was more of astonishment than pleasure in the girl's tone. It seemed as if she cared very little about her own fate, and that her chief feeling was surprise at the goodness of this fine gentleman.

"Do not speak of that", said Sir Oswald, gently; "I am anxious to get you a decent shelter for the night, but that is a very small favor. I happen to be something of a musician, and I have been much struck by the beauty of your voice. I may be able to put you in the way of making good of your voice."

"Of my voice!"

The girl echoed the phrase as if it had no meaning to her.

"Come", said her benefactor, "you are weary, and ill, perhaps. You look terribly pale. Come to the hotel, and I will place you in the landlady's charge."

He walked on, and the girl walked by his side, very slowly, as is she had scarcely sufficient strength to carry her even that short distance.

There was something strange in the circumstance of Sir Oswald's meeting with this girl. There was something strange in the sudden interest which she had aroused in him—the eager desire which he felt to learn her previous history.

The mistress of the "Star Hotel" was somewhat surprised when one of the waiters summoned her to the hall, where the street singer was standing by Sir Oswald's side; but she was too clever a woman to express her astonishment. Sir Oswald was one of her most influential patrons, and Sir Oswald's custom was worth a great deal. It was, therefore, scarcely possible that such a man could do wrong.

"I found this poor girl in an exhausted state in the street just now", said Sir Oswald. "She is quite friendless, and has no shelter for the night, though she seems above the mendicant class. Will you put her somewhere, and see that she is taken good care of, my dear Mrs. Willet? In th morning I may be able to think of some plan for placing her in a more respectable position."

Mrs. Willet promised that the girl should be taken care of, and made thoroughly comfortable.

"Poor young thing", said the landlady, "she looks dreadfully pale and ill, and I'm sure she'll be none the worse for a nice little bit of supper. Come with me, my dear."

The girl obeyed; but on the threshold of the hall she turned and spoke to Sir Oswald.

"Ithank you," she said; "I thank you with all my heart and soul for your goodness. I have never met with such kindness before."

"The world must have been very hard for you, my poor child," he replied, "if such small kindness touches you so deeply. Come to me tomorrow morning, and we will talk of your future life. Good night!"

"Good night, sir, and God bless you!"

The baronet went slowly and thoughtfully up the staircase, on his way to his rooms.

Sir Oswald Eversleigh passed the night of his sojourn at the 'Star' in broken slumbers. The events of the preceding day haunted him perpetually in his sleep, acting themselves over and over again in his brain. Sometimes he was with his nephew, and the young man was pleading with him in an agony of selfish terror; sometimes he was standing in the market-place, with the ghost-like figure of the vagrant ballad-singer by his side.

Revolutionizing Dishwashing.

A household expert says that it is not the time spent in washing dishes, but the time spent in drying them, that makes long the period of every dishwashing.

The same expert tells us that it is not sanitary to rub each piece of china with a dish towel of doubtful cleanliness. For many years hotels have been using the steam drying method with dishes, which unfortunately is not yet available to the modern housewife. A good and inexpensive substitute is to be found in a dish drainer, which consists of a twenty inch square galvanized drain pan and a removable wire rack into which the dishes are placed and which allows them to stand upright. The rack is of various sizes—large for plates, smaller for saucers, with "loops" on which to hang each cup.

When the dishes are washed they are to be placed in the drainer and scalded by pouring over them boiling water. They will then dry of themselves and thus save the housekeeper twelve or fifteen minutes' time on every dishwashing.

New Dustless Broom Covers.

Many housewives do not possess the so called "string" long handled mops for hardwood floors and still cling to the old fashioned method of fastening a more or less disreputable duster over the broom when they use it on the floor, or they may use the broom for cleaning walls in the same fashion. For such women the new broom cover would be of especial interest. It is made of heavy unbleached muslin, while the lower part is made of a good firm quality of cotton plush. The bag is shaped to exactly fit the broom, tied with tapes and slips on and off very easily, and tests have proved that it is much more efficient than the use of the ordinary dustless bag or the common one of canton flannel, especially for cleaning wall surfaces.

Violets For the Table.

Of the value of violets for table decoration on certain occasions nothing need be said, but with all their charm they must be used with great discretion, else the effect is likely to be strangely disappointing. It must never be forgotten that the electric light is extremely trying to all purple flowers, so much so that some of the finest and most expensive violets take on a dull, inky appearance when exposed to it and require very special and difficult combinations to make the best of them. On the other hand, with the right choice of colors and forms, most beautiful and artistic results can be obtained by means of the simplest designs.

HAS LIND DONE IT?

London Paper Sees Link Between His Return and Present Action.

LONDON, April 16.—Most London morning papers, in their editorial comment on the Mexican situation, display sympathy with President Wilson in the difficulties which have arisen with Mexico, while at the same time contending that those difficulties were largely brought about by his idealistic policy.

The Daily Telegraph cannot believe that President Wilson intends to put into effect a resolute military intervention, and sees no hope of putting an end "to the anarchy which has resulted from the Wilson policy of moral intervention."

The Chronicle argues that any sovereign state might, without loss of dignity, have condoned the Tampico affront on receipt of the apology which Huerta has already tendered, and says:

"It is, therefore, difficult to disconnect the President's action entirely from the return of Mr. Lind. It is evident that Mr. Lind went home to urge stronger measures, and stronger measures have followed forthwith. They need not involve war. The Americans need only to sit tight at Tampico and Vera Cruz and collect the customs."

A settlement of the, Yorkshire coal miners' strike was reached yesterday when a ballot of the 17,000 involved resulted in favor of the resumption of work.

Pending hearing of the charges preferred against him, Premier Flemming of New Brunswick has been granted leave of absence, and Attorney-General Clark will be acting Premier.

Fireman Killed By Car.

TORONTO, April 16.—Another fatal accident occurred on the Metropolitan Railway at York Mills last night, when Thomas Connolly of 75 O'Hara avenue, a fireman at Cowan avenue hall, was run down and killed, near Stop 29.

Halifax Gets Next One.

OTTAWA, April 16—The directors of the Canadian Forestry Association decided upon the invitation of the Government and lumbermen of Nova Scotia to hold the next annual forestry convention in Halifax, Sept. 1-4 next.

THEY WANT CANAL.

Delegates Are Told That Government Must Wait For Report.

OTTAWA, April 16.—Upwards of 1,000 delegates, of whom 700 were from Montreal and the immediate vicinity, yesterday afternoon waited on the Government and urged the early construction of the Georgian Bay Canal. A resolution calling for this action was presented.

Mr. Adelard Fortier, president of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce, which was primarily responsible for the organization of the delegation, said his organization was actuated solely by an earnest desire to help an enterprise of national importance and in carrying out the project the Government would have the support of the great majority of the people of Canada.

Hon. Robert Rogers, in reply to the resolution, said he regretted the Prime Minister was unable to be present. He agreed with the mayor of Montreal that the work of linking up the western lake ports with the sea is of the deepest importance to every good Canadian citizen.

"We have had no report yet as to the commercial feasibility of the scheme, and we consider the time would be well spent to take advantage of having a commission to enquire into the feasibility of it," he said.

$1,000,000 FOR PEACE.

U. S. Centenary Committee Tentatively Approves Memorials.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Memorials marking the centennial of peace between this country and Great Britain in 1915, at an aggregate cost of $1,000,000, were tentatively approved yesterday by a sub-committee of the American Centenary organization, meeting in this city. The organisation's finance committee must yet ratify the appropriations and conditional contracts made.

Sums of from $35,000 to $75,000 each were set apart for statues of Lincoln in London; Francis Parkman the historian, in Ottawa, and Queen Victoria in Washington, D.C. Free educational trips abroad for newspaper men of all countries are to be instituted with the proceeds of one of the funds available for the committee's use, it was announced. Ignorance of foreign countries causes writing which engenders friction, while foreign travel for newspaper men would promote peace, in the opinion of the committee. To writers of poems, hymns and essays extolling peace and the Centenary celebration $10,000 in prizes will be distributed. A gift of $10,000 was voted to the city of Ghent, Belgium, where the treaty of 1815 was signed.

SUPERANNUATION COMING.

Important Measure For Teachers Is Announced For Next Year.

TORONTO, April 15. — Deputy Minister of Education, Dr. A. H. U. Colquhoun, made an announcement last night at Convocation Hall to the members of the Ontario Educational Association to the effect that a measure dealing with the superannuation of teachers would be introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

The Deputy Minister, in welcoming the association, said that the Minister had been detained in the Legislature, but he had been asked to convey a message to them. It said:

"I have consulted my colleagues, and we have definitely decided to offer a measure dealing with superannuation of teachers at the next session of the Legislature. This measure will necessarily be affected by three considerations at least.

"(1) A certain amount of public indifference on the subject.

"(2) Hostility on the part of a portion of the teaching profession itself.

"(3) The existence upon the statute books of the old fund. Subject to the limitations imposed by these conditions, we shall try to frame a measure just to the teachers and acceptable to the public. Any legislation of this kind must necessarily receive the endorsation of the great body of the parties affected."

"I have nothing further to add," concluded Dr. Colquhoun, "but I regard that as a binding promise, which must be fulfilled."

NEW ASSOCIATION FORMED.

Technical Education Advocates Organize In Toronto.

TORONTO, April 15.—The Dominion Government will be asked to give the sum of $33,000,000 for technical education in Canada. This was practically decided yesterday, when the Ontario Technical Education Association was organized in Toronto. Ten annual installments of $3,300,000 will be suggested, it is understood, and the grants will be divided among the provinces, according to population. Ontario, for instance, would receive slightly less than a million per year under the proposed plan.

For the purpose of organization the Ontario Technical Education Association met at the Royal Canadian Institute, College street, Mr. R. D. Fairbairn in the chair. Delegates were present from manufacturing associations, Boards of Trade, the National Council of Women, the Trades and Labor Council, Provincial Technical Schools and other organizations. It was decided by the gathering to form a provincial association for the Promotion of Technical Education, with the ultimate object of having a Dominion association as the other provinces organize. A committee, representing each organization, was appointed to draft a constitution, which will be submitted to the various organizations for their official endorsement.

Amundsen Polar Trip Off.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, April 15.—Official announcement is made of the postponement for a year of Capt. Roald Amundsen's expedition to the North Polar regions. The Fram has been recalled to Christiania, and explorers are inclined to believe the expedition will never be carried out, as considerable difficulty is experienced in raising the extra $200,000 necessitated by the delay.

The postponement is due to the inability of the Fram to get through the Panama Canal, it having reached Colon in December l at, to have the honor of being the first vessel through the canal. Because of the foul condition of the hull it could not make the long journey around the Horn in time.

Must Give Evidence.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Unless there is an overnight change in the attitude of witnesses in the New Haven Railroad investigation, who refused to tell the Interstate Commerce Commission about the operation of the Billard Company, to which millions of dollars' worth of New Haven securities are alleged to have illegally diverted, proceedings under the criminal statutes will be instituted here to-day by the Government to compel them to testify. This was announced last night by Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Chinese Plot Revealed.

LONDON, April 16.—Chinese Government officials in Shanghai yesterday arrested a number of revolutionaries who had come from Japan, according to a despatch. They were charged with spreading sedition among the regular soldiers.

At the same time documents were seized, alleged to be signed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former Provisional President. They are said to contain instructions for a widespread uprising and the massacre of officials this month.

ANOTHER CHINESE REVOLT.

Despatch From Shanghai Indicates That Situation Is Grave.

LONDON, April 15.—Another revolt is threatened in China, according to an Exchange Telegraph Co.'s despatch from Shanghai yesterday. It adds that feverish excitement exists in official quarters at Nanking, where there is a reign of terror among the populace.

The regular troops at Sianfu, capital of the Province of Shen-Si, are said to have mutinied, and are believed to be in league with the brigand White Wolf, who with his followers has captured and looted many towns in the vicinity, killing hundreds.

Indications of grave unrest are reported from Wu Chang and Canton, says the despatch, and six provinces are said to be affected.

Points for Mothers

Care of the Nose and Throat.

"Improper conditions of the nose and throat are not only dangerous to health, but stunt the physical and mental development of the child," says a well known physician. "Colds in the head, catarrh, adenoids and enlarged tonsils are the most frequent of these improper conditions found in little children.

"Adenoids are small masses of soft tissue normally found in every child's nasal passages between the back of the nose and the throat, which through catarrh or other causes may become enlarged and block up the air passages, interfering with breathing through the nose and forcing the child to breathe through the mouth, preventing proper inflation of the lungs and stunting the development of the chest. They keep up a constant catarrhal condition near the ventilating tube leading from the throat to the ear and in this way impair the hearing of the child.

"Another common throat disease is enlarged tonsils. The tonsils are small, almond shaped bodies situated on each side of the throat. They have a certain purpose, and I do not believe in the indiscriminate removal of all enlarged tonsils. In fact, I condemn what I unhesitatingly call the 'massacre of the tonsils' so often chosen as the treatment of enlarged tonsils. The cause is in many cases not in the tonsils, but in the general condition of the patient. Proper medicine and hygienic treatment will cure many cases without an operation. Only when the tonsils are enlarged, hard and fibrous, seriously interfering with speech and swallowing, should they be removed.

"Prevention is better than a cure. If a child catches a cold, do not let the cold 'wear itself away.' Treat it at once or it may lay the foundation for adenoids and enlarged tonsils."

Cover For Baby's Feet.

Children who are too small to walk out of doors nearly always suffer from cold feet, but this will never happen if mothers will wrap the plump little limbs of their youngest in a bag cover, which may be made as follows:

The size of the cover must vary according to the shape of mail or push cart which baby uses. Take careful measurements and then cut an oblong piece of cloth, making it twice the length you require the bag.

For lining you will need a piece of satin or sateen cut two inches smaller each way than the cloth and wadded with a thickness of cotton wool. This must be stitched firmly to the cloth. Then double the whole thing and sew up the sides so as to form a bag.

Cut a piece of cloth two and a half inches larger all the way round than one side of the bag, scallop it with silk to match the cloth and lay it on the front of the bag, stitching it firmly. If you like you can also work baby's initials in the corner, surrounded by some simple floral decoration.

Last of all add a small brass ring to each upper corner, sewing it on very firmly. When baby's legs are snug between the layers of cotton wool and the rings are slipped over two hooks screwed at the back of the cart you will have good cause to feel satisfied with your handiwork.

A Nerve Soother.

Fractiousness and restlessness on the baby's part are frequent results of cutting back teeth, and often the child is given to starting and screaming during the night. Try the following plan before putting the little one to bed: Get a bath ready with the water deep enough to reach to the child's waist when sitting down. Fasten a shawl or small blanket around the neck to keep the top of the body warm. Neither shawl nor hands should be wet. Keep the baby in the water five minutes. A board may be fixed across the bath at one end to hold a few toys to amuse the child. The temperature of the water should be 104 degrees. The lower part of the little body will be quite red when taken out. Give it a good brisk rubbing and pop the child into a warm bed. It should sleep quietly and soundly till morning.

Rainproof Hood.

My children never carry umbrellas, writes a friend. Instead each one is provided with a rainproof hood, which when not needed is buttoned into an inside pocket of the overcoat.

If rain comes on the hood is buttoned on to the buttons sewed under the collar of the coat. When the collar is turned up and the hood drawn over the head the little one is as cozy as possible and takes no harm from the rain.

The hood can be quickly dried afterward. I find it a far better plan than providing umbrellas, which are always getting damaged.

CHECKED FABRICS.

They Are to Be Very Popular For Spring Wear.

NEW BLACK AND WHITE GOWN.

The common sense costume shown here is a Poiret creation. It is intended to be worn under a spring coat, and its lines particularly adapt it for youthful figures. Black and white checked serge is combined with plain black cloth. It is ornamented with ball buttons in black and white. The vogue of checks is foreshadowed in this as in many other spring models.

Much attention may be given to buttons, as on all the well made tailor mades the buttons are a striking note. The lesser precious stones are being used for these trimmings, so we see buttons in jade, amber, lapus lazuli, cornaline, agate, etc.

Moreover, it is not an extravagance to pay a good price for a set of buttons, as they can always be used on something if they have intrinsic value, no matter what the fashions. And just now they have a very obvious value, for it is in details chiefly that the marks of good dressing are to be found.

NECKWEAR A LA MODE.

High Collars Are Favored For the Coming Season.

The neckwear fashions of the present season are designed to please women who have thin necks. The high medici and the Mary Stuart collars are favorable to the concealment of gaunt neck lines.

The butterfly bow is used in every conceivable way by spring fashion designers. A bow in wired black tulle is also illustrated here.

At present the lavish display of beautiful neckwear in the shops indicates a continuance of the styles of the midwinter season and the introduction of many new novelties. Designs vary from the small, trim roll back collars to the full, lace edged, quaintly fashioned berthas.

SPRING NECKWEAR.

The distinguishing feature about these new collars is their extreme sheerness. Even the Platten collars are lacier than ever and some very prettily designed. These show up particularly well on a dress of dark serge.

Collar and cuff sets of dainty embroidered batiste are so sheer that they have the appearance of gauze.

That the parcel post is filling a long-felt want is evident from the reports at the postoffices in general, where a substantial gain in the parcel post business is recorded.

USE DOGS AS BLANKETS.

How French Knife Grinders Keep Warm While at Work.

Every visitor to one of the great Paris stores will have noticed counters covered with table cutlery of the characteristic French pattern—broad, curved blades and horn or black bone handles, excellent steel and very cheap. Almost all this is made at Thiers and by hand. But there is no external sign of manufacture, and a traveler might pass through the town without suspecting a great industry.

The swift flowing Durolle supplies power at the bottom of a deep and narrow gorge, on the steep side of which the apparently sleepy town is built. At one story below street level we came to the forges of the chief firm. Here, with extraordinary quickness and skill the knives are hand forged—blade, hilt and tang—from steel bar, then tempered one by one, and two stories lower down, at river level, in a long, dark, damp cellar, they are ground, and it is the method of this process, unique so far as I know, that makes the industry of Thiers worth a moment's description.

The river turns a score of emery wheels about a yard in diameter, and above each of these is a narrow, sloping platform six feet long and two wide. Along each of these, flat and face downward, lay a grinder, man or woman, grasping a blade by the two ends and pressing it by the whole weight of the body against the revolving wheel just below. The long row of stretched out bodies gave a grim impression of something between a field hospital and a mortuary.

The foreman assured us that it was much easier work thus to press against the wheel by one's weight than to sit and press by the force of one's arms. But to lie thus almost motionless all day long in a dank cellar, far below the ground level, is about as dreary and unhealthy a way for a human being to pass his life as can be imagined. The place itself cannot be warmed, but to keep at least a little heat in their bodies and stave off rheumatism as long as possible the grinders have adopted the extraordinary expedient of training dogs to lie all day upon them—dogs of all sorts and sizes. There they lay, curled up on the backs of their owners' thighs, living hot bottles.—Sir Henry Norman in Scribner's.

BEAU FIELDING A PUZZLE.

He Was the Enigma of English Social Life In His Day.

Beau Fielding was a young man of fashion in the reign of William III. His house was sumptuously furnished, his hunters, hacks and racers were of great value, and "he kept a table of princely hospitality." He had no ostensible source of income, yet appeared to be rolling in wealth. All that was known of him was that he was the fifth son of Thomas Wilson, an impoverished gentleman of Leicestershire. Evelyn describes him as a very young man, "civil and good natured, but of no great force of character," and "very sober and of good fame." All attempts to discover his secret were vain. "In his most careless hours of amusement he kept a strict guard over his tongue and left gossip to conjecture what it pleased."

He redeemed his father's estate and portioned off his sisters and when remonstrated with on his extravagance replied that, however long his life should last, he would always have enough to live in the same way. Some said it was he who had robbed the Holland mail, for which another man had suffered; others that he depended upon the gambling table, though he never played for large sums. He was the enigma of social life till his career was cut short by a duel. His adversary was at that time a young man about town like himself, John Law, who afterward became the founder of the famous Mississippi scheme by which half of France was ruined. When the mysterious Beau died he left only a few pounds behind him and not a scrap of evidence to enlighten public curiosity.

Vegetable Ivory.

Vegetable ivory is the product of the plant known among botanists as Phytelephas macrocarpo. It is a native of South America, found chiefly on the banks of the Magdalena, Colombia. It is mostly found in separate groves, in damp localities and upon ground that bears no other form of plant life. The seeds contain a milky juice which, as it ages, hardens until it becomes a valuable substitute for animal ivory.

Wintergreen Wafers.

Wintergreen wafers are delicious. To make them soak one-half box of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water until soft; then dissolve in one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water and strain. Add confectioner's sugar until stiff, then a few drops of wintergreen essence. Roll out on a board dusted with powdered sugar. Cut in rounds as large as a quarter and lay on oiled paper and you have wholesome homemade candies.

HELD BY BABOONS

A Rash Adventure Wherein the Hunter Was Hunted.

CLIMAX OF A CURIOUS BATTLE

The Conflict, Which Was Forced Upon the Jabbering Brutes, Resolved Itself Into a Living Avalanche That Swept Down the Hill—A Lucky Escape.

When I was in South Africa, a correspondent writes, I left Mangwe one afternoon in company with a couple of men who were traveling up country. We rode at a slow canter through the long grass, for grass grows long in Africa, over your head very often. None of us carried a gun or even a revolver. All we had were sjamboks, whips made of a single strip of hippopotamus hide and stout enough to maim a man if the blow were well directed.

We were about a mile below the only pass in the south of the Matoppo hills that leads through to Bulawayo. Suddenly we saw that the grass on our left was being disturbed over a pretty wide area, and out of curiosity we rode over. We found out that the grass was simply alive with hundreds of baboons marching toward the hill.

There were brown baboons and gray baboons and baboons almost black, little baboons, big baboons, mamma baboons, pickaninny baboons and old granddads almost white with age. We reined in our horses and watched. They showed no fear and no desire to get acquainted with us. They looked at us over their shoulders, the mammas hugged their babies tighter, and they quickened their pace.

We ought to have let them pass, but one of the fellows suggested in a spirit of mischief that we should help them along. Before you could say "knife" the three of us were in among them and began to slash with our sjamboks in all directions. The baboons jabbered and showed their teeth, but never attempted to attack us. We were safe so long as we were mounted. Pretty soon they came to a clump of trees, which they tried to climb. But the trees were thorny and they had to give it up. Then they started for the hills again.

We drove them right to the foot of the hills, but there we had to stop, for we could not take our horses over the rocks. The baboons swarmed up like acrobats. I didn't stop to think, but was off my horse and after them. My friends called to me to stay where I was, but I was up that hill almost as quickly as the baboons were.

A black old man baboon was nearest, and I made a rush for him. He didn't run. I cut at him with the whip. He only bared his teeth and snarled. I looked round. On every side were big men baboons, and each bared his teeth as I caught his eye. They had no intention to run away from me or to let me get away from them.

I lost my nerve and couldn't even think of a way out. All I could do was to back up to a rock, keep the baboons at bay with my sjambok and wait there until my companions could come to my rescue. Before I'd gone two steps stones began to fly—stones of no small size, either. Luckily a baboon is not a good marksman. He makes a jump as he throws. Those baboons hit one another as often as they hit me.

Very slowly I backed for the rock; very slowly the baboons followed. They were waiting for something. That gave me hope. If they didn't mean to rush me, why not back down the hill until my companions could reach me?

So I changed my direction and, amid the fusillade of stones, approached the brink of the declivity. I reached it at last and began carefully to back down. The stones fell thicker than ever. In protection I had to hold my arms over my head. All the time there was a hideous jabbering and screaming.

Presently I was virtually underneath some of them. The old black fellow who had first faced me picked up a rock as big as himself and dropped it. I dodged, stumbled over a rock behind me and fell.

Then I knew what they were waiting for. A score of them were on me in a moment. They tore and bit me fiercely. If there had not been so many they would have got me at once, but they got in each other's way and damaged themselves as much as they did me.

I tried to keep their nails away from my eyes and face and throat, and together we rolled over and over and down the slope of the hill. I was scratched and bleeding in a dozen places and my clothes were torn to shreds, but somehow I was not bitten very badly. Perhaps the pace was too great for any accurate work!

So we bumped and rolled downhill—first I on top, then the baboons on top, then at last a rolling ball of baboons with me inside. I was too scared even to think of death, although if I had been alone death was certain. All at once I heard the sound of hoofs that scrambled over the rocks, shouts in the English tongue and sjamboks that whistled as they lashed round. Baboons turned to filmy things and took wing. [illegible], saved, I fainted.—Youth's Companion.

Memory's Pleasure.

From the crushed flower of gladness on the road of life a sweet perfume is wafted over to the present hour.—Richter.

If a man would learn to pray, let him go to sea.—French proverb.

Mr. Norman Angell contends that we shall not have peace until we deserve peace, and we shall not deserve the fundamental basis on which war is founded and rise to a condition of clearer outlook on what the life of men means.

AN UGLY VISITOR.

His Unwelcome Call Brought About a Dramatic Situation.

The London representative of an East Indian firm was working late at the warehouse. A large consignment of goods, newly arrived, lay in the room that adjoined his office. The room was a simple affair of four chart covered walls. There was a desk in the middle, a few chairs, and a large fireproof safe. It was nearly midnight, when a sound from the next room induced the man to go to the door to investigate. Nothing seemed wrong and he returned to his work, but left the door ajar.

Presently a faint, harsh sound came from the next room. He sprang up to behold the head of a snake protruding through the doorway.

When the reptile saw him it stopped for a second, reared its head until it was almost on a level with the man's and began to dart its tongue angrily in and out of its mouth.

No novelist ever imagined a more desperate situation. The man was unarmed and apparently without means of escape. The moment he withdrew his eyes from those of the snake, it lowered its head and moved toward him.

But he had already determined on his course. The great safe stood open. He sprang into it and closed the door behind him, although he did not shut it completely. That would have meant slow but certain suffocation. He slipped a small cashbook into the aperture and held the ponderous door open about half an inch.

Meanwhile the python—for such it was—in a paroxysm of fury, had flung its coils twice round the safe, which stood some distance out from the wall. The creature drew its coils to the utmost tension in an angry effort to crush the iron safe.

By an effort the desperate prisoner collected his wits. He remembered that a case, slightly damaged and marked, "to be kept in a moderately warm place," had been put in the adjoining room, and doubtless accounted for his horrible visitor. But the explanation, although simple, offered no consolation. Something must be done. The captive racked his brain sorely until an idea struck him. Earlier in the evening he had put one of the ledgers in the safe with a long, black eraser inside to mark a special entry. Cramped and almost doubled as he was, he found it no easy matter to reach the slender weapon, the blade of which was as sharp as a razor. Taking his courage in both hands he plunged the knife again and again into the folds of the snake, where they crossed the small aperture. There followed a horrible, tearing sound, and the massive safe rocked ominously for some moments. Then suddenly the folds seemed to relax and go writhing to the floor.

Owing to the extreme tension of the coils the keen blade had almost severed the body in half. From head to tail it measured nearly forty feet.

Eased His Mind.

Having suffered mental anguish, to say nothing of damage to my reputation as a poet, from typographical disarrangements, transpositions and other accidents incidental to the careless handling of verse, I submit herewith a form of stanza which I believe to be proof against such vicissitudes. It reads the same backward and forward, up and down and standing on your head:

WE SHOULD WORRY.
Should we all worry?
We should worry, all.
All worry, should we?
Worry all we should.

A Famous Old Paper.

It would be difficult to find a paper with a more romantic history than La Gazette de Hollande. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries statesmen of the first rank were her contributors—Lord Chesterfield and Frederick the Great, king of Prussia, to name but two of an illustrious roll. During the war of independence Washington sought the sympathy of Europe through its columns. In 1810 it was temporarily suppressed by Napoleon. In its modern form La Gazette has accomplished good work in making the Netherlands and her colonies better known beyond their own boundaries.

Pompeii.

Pompeii was destroyed by an eruption of Vesuvius on the night of Aug. 24, A. D. 79. The ashes buried the whole city and covered the surrounding country. After a lapse of 1,500 years a countryman as he was turning up the ground found a bronze figure, and this discovery led to further search, which brought various objects to light, and at length the city was uncovered.

George Ade on Matrimony.

George Ade, discussing matrimony in an after dinner speech at the Chicago Athletic club, said:

"Marriage has the effect of giving a man a swelled head.

"Many a time, looking at this husband or that, I say to myself:

"'Ah, if that man were only as wise as he thinks his wife thinks he is!'"

For the Children

Merry Song of the Snowflakes.

A LITTLE SNOW GIRL.

We hurry forth
From the icy north,
A swift and silent band,
And ride the blast
In numbers vast
When the storm king gives command.

We flutter down
From the mountain's crown
And haste o'er the frozen plains,
And we dance and leap
To the winds that sweep
Through the city streets and lanes.

We bring fresh joys
To the girls and boys
Who laugh at the winter's chill,
And we make a bed
For the flying sled
As we pile on the coasting hill.

Point For Boy Scouts.

When visiting my former regiment the other day, says Baden-Powell, I found that several novel ideas were in force in the physical training of the young soldiers. One was that of teaching them to walk along a plank set up on edge at a height of about five feet above the ground. To walk along this for about fifteen feet was the test of balance, and after a little practice there was not one who could not do it, although at first trial it looked hopeless.

It might be thought to be rather a waste of time to instruct soldiers in walking the tight rope, but most curious results have been obtained from it. Not only does a lad become more well balanced, confident and plucky, but it has been found that he also develops very rapidly into a good shot. One old soldier, who was a particularly bad shot, was sent through a course of tight rope walking, and he soon gained thereby the power of controlling his nerves.

Making Sleighbells.

The sleighbells we see are round with an iron "jingle" in them. Now, you know that this little jingle could not have been put through the holes of the bell, so perhaps you would like to know how the bell is made. It is made by a man called an iron founder. First he puts the jingle inside a little ball of mud, which is just the shape and size of the metal ball. Then he makes a mold the shape of the outside of the ball. The ball of mud with the jingle in it is put inside the mold; then hot metal is poured in and fills the space between the ball and the mold. But, when the mold is taken off the bell will not ring. As soon as the dirt inside the mold is shaken out the jingle is still in the bell and it will ring now. It took many years to think how to make a sleighbell.

Cerberus.

In Greek fable Cerberus is the three headed dog that watches outside the entrance to hades. Some writers assert that he has fifty heads, but generally he is said to have three, and three snakes are twined about his neck. His cave is on the farther side of the dark river Styx, where Charon, the ferryman of the dead, lands the shades. Cerberus is supposed to welcome all entering hades but to seize all those seeking to escape.

A Joke on John.

"I can't do this example," pouted John.

"You can do anything you want to do," replied his pa. "Even water may be carried in a sieve, if you only wait."

"How long must I wait?" asked John.

"Till it freezes," coolly answered Pa.

Much Unclaimed Money.

Sums lying in Canadian banks to the credit of individuals who have not claimed them amount to well over three quarters of a million dollars. The statement to the end of the year 1913, as made to the Government by Canadian banks, was issued in Ottawa recently, and shows the following unclaimed sums: Unpaid dividends $2,921, unclaimed balances $775,164, unpaid drafts or bills of exchange $53,184.

The largest unclaimed balances are in the hands of the Montreal City and District Savings Bank, which is credited with $124,813. The Bank of Montreal comes next with $112,642. Others are: Bank of British North America, $84,837; Union Bank, $71,228; Bank of Hamilton, $55,971; Canadian Bank of Commerce, $50,440; Royal Bank, $47,501; Bank of Nova Scotia, $25,243; Banque Nationale, $25,298; Quebec Bank, $20,057; Merchants Bank, $19,125; Imperial Bank, $18,431; Bank of Ottawa, $16,930; Caisse D'Economie, $13,794; Molsons Bank, $12,300; Bank of New Brunswick, $9,672; Banque d'Hochelaga, $8,640; Home Bank, $8,683; Dominion Bank, $7,163; Bank of Toronto, $4,669; Standard Bank, $4,345; Banque Provinciale, $4,004; Northern Crown, $3,043.

Clark's Earthquake.

Up on Parliament Hill, Ottawa, by reason of the rock foundation to the massive legislative buildings, the shock of the recent earthquakes was most severely felt. And they blamed it all on Dr. Michael Clark, the apostle of British Liberalism from Red Deer. The Alberta farmer-physician had just marched out of the Railway Committee Room and was discussing with characteristic vigor the lethargic inaction of the Borden Administration.

"It would take an earthquake to arouse this Government," he exclaimed. "What is needed is an earthquake."

Scarcely thirty seconds had elapsed before alarmed and excited members were rushing into the corridors, while the buildings throbbed, shook and trembled.

"It's an earthquake!" cried Mr. Cockshutt, as he hurried out, hat in hand.

Has Valuable Fiddle.

An old violin purchased by Charles Rundle of Tempo, Ont., many years ago for a nominal sum and now believed to be a Stradivarius was submitted recently to the judgment of Jan Kubelik, the violinist, who was giving a recital in London, Ont., and the latter, after playing on it, declared it was one of the finest he had ever handled. While he would not put a value on it, he thought it possibly might be worth as high a figure as $3,500. The owner of the instrument was advised to send it for examination to Hill of London, Eng., whose judgment in such matters is considered to be unequaled.

Guelph Mercury: "Hon. George Perley says that the French Canadian people, when the Borden naval policy was explained to them, "immediately saw its wisdom." Perhaps George would not object to telling what the Borden navy policy really is." If the Mercury man was anything but a lunkhead he would know by this time. The policy has been explained clearly and often enough for a child to understand it.

The Gull's Home.

To view the Canadian lake gulls in their ideal breeding-grounds, one should visit the Georgian Bay about the middle of May when the first eggs are laid. Three go to a nest; and the latter being the roughest, crudest little circle of matted twigs and grass hidden around the granite crevices, or among some driftwood tangle shorewards. If a patch of moss is there for padding, it is by the caprice of an over-luxurious parent-gull, looking forward to the second week in June when the first grey chick breaks its way through the shell, downy-feathered already; and able clumsily to walk, after a fashion even to swim. The parents, however, of necessity bring them food till well in August, about which time the uninitiated are wont to think them two different species—the white and the grey. If you are curious, you will stalk the young chicks to their nest; so confiding is their nature that they will even let you fondle them. Do not harm one, or a flashing-eyed, muscular fisherman may stalk you. Also, never shoot a grown gull on any pretext, or that lone fisherman may become a dozen. The laws prohibit the dumping of fish offal in our rivers and lakes; and the fishermen, after each night's "clean-up," deposit their leavings on any handy flat rock close to their shanties.

Mormon Agents Busy.

New Brunswick is very much exercised over the activity of the Mormon propaganda throughout the province and there are many reports of Mormon missionaries or agents at work in St. John. The reports indicate a house-to-house visitation in the interests of Mormonism. In one case the agent rang the door bell and a maid responded. He sought to sell a book on Mormonism, but the purchase was declined by the mistress of the house. However, that did not end the matter for a small booklet containing pamphlets was left with the maid.

In another case more persistence was reported. Entrance to the house was gained and a book sold. The family are Methodists. It happened that the birthday of the master of the house was approaching and his wife bought the book to give him as a birthday present, not scanning it sufficiently close to know that it was a Mormon publication.

The recipient was rather surprised, and the giver equally so when she learned the nature of her present.

Irish In Canada's Parliament.

By the way, this is a peculiarity of this Parliament. In every Parliament hitherto men of Scottish ancestry outnumbered all others, even the French-Canadians. At present there are 49 of Irish descent and 46 Scots. But if the North of Ireland men be called Scots there would be 21 more of the latter or 67 Scots in all. There are 53 French-Canadians in this Parliament. —Ottawa Journal.

It Was For the Purpose of Spending a Fortune

By SADIE OLCOTT

George Underhill on coming of age had everything to live for. He stepped into a fortune of half a million, or $25,000 a year, was in excellent health, a favorite with his friends, especially attractive to girls, and the management of his estate was likely to give him enough to do to put an edge on his leisure moments. This was the outlook before the young man the day he was twenty-one years old.

But on that same day he noticed a swelling in his neck about the size of a hazelnut. He had never had an excrescence of any kind on his body and could not understand the sudden appearance of this one. He stood before a mirror looking at it wonderingly. He pinched it, and it hurt a little, though not much. He thought he would show it to a doctor and get his opinion upon it, but since he expected to be busy with his guardian and the lawyers nearly all day, passing the papers in receiving his estate, he deferred the matter till the morrow.

During his birthday he was so taken up with affairs pertaining to his property that he forgot all about the swelling in his neck till preparing for bed, when he noticed it again. He was a the first thing he would do in the morning would be to show it to his physician, Dr. Franklin. So as soon as the office hour of the physician came round George was admitted to his consulting room.

George did not leave Dr. Franklin's office for nearly an hour, and when he did he was in a very different mental condition from when he entered it. The lump indicated an incurable disease. The doctor tried in every way to avoid telling him this, for the double reason that his patient would suffer in mind as well as in body and his knowing that he had not long to live would hasten the end. George, however, gathered from him that he had anywhere from a few months to a few years on earth. As to how much he would suffer the doctor did not tell him. Possibly he did not know himself. He convinced his patient that he had better remain ignorant of what the disease was.

George was a philosophic fellow, and when he had recovered, so far as recovery was possible from the shock, he began to lay plans for spending the brief unexpired term of his life in a way to alleviate the condition to the best advantage. Miss Alice Woodbridge was his favorite among his girl acquaintances, and he thought he would like to have her companionship for the brief season of life left to him. He called upon her, stated the case and asked her to be his wife, agreeing to settle half his fortune upon her, the other half to be spent in such comforts or pleasures or journeys as would help him to forget his coming demise.

Miss Woodbridge asked for a few days to consider the proposition, but, being a girl with an eye to improving her condition, when she gave her answer insisted that the whole amount of his estate be settled on her except the income during his life, which she considered ample for his purses. Whether or no she was right he did not stop to consider, but broke off the negotiations.

George tried several other girls. One who had no especial affection for him refused him on the ground that she did not care to tie herself up for a money consideration to a man who would be in a dying condition during their married life. Others balked at this or at that till at last George had well nigh gone the rounds of the girls he would care to marry. One he had not tried. She was Lucy Ellis, an amiable, happy-go-lucky girl, from whose shoulders trouble rolled off easily and whose financial necessities were such that she was quite familiar with the pawnshop.

To Miss Ellis George concluded to make a proposal, but, being somewhat discouraged in his quest for a companion in his trouble, offered her much better terms than any he had yet proposed. After modestly telling her that he thought his income would suffice as well as a larger amount for the purpose of making him forget what was coming he promised to settle his whole estate upon her if she would marry him.

To his surprise, she threw her arms about his neck and said, with tears in her eyes: "We'll spend it all. And what will a lot of money be compared with the remembrance that we shall have at least a short time together?"

"But," he protested, "what will you live on when I am gone?"

"Why, I won't be any worse off for money than I am now, will I?"

She looked up at him from a pair of ingenuous, childlike eyes through her tears, and then and there his heart was won.

"Very well," he said. "Be it as you say."

Nevertheless it was not as she said, for George on the day of the wedding, unknown to her, placed $100,000 in trust for her. He did not give it to her direct, for he had no confidence in her holding on to it. Since she took no part whatsoever in the management of his affairs, he was enabled to do this without her discovering that it had been done.

George found in Lucy Ellis just what he needed. Perhaps she was too sympathetic, but sympathy in dealing with a sufferer is a good fault, and George would have rather had her sympathetic than cold. But his swelling grew larger and pained him, and he needed devotion as an invalid rather than a spender of money. For awhile after their marriage they spent money like water. In this George found his wife all that was to be desired. But his sufferings gradually increased, and he was obliged to give up pleasure seeking.

We can never tell for what persons are fitted until they are tried. Lucy, of whom her husband had expected nothing as a nurse, rose to the occasion. Her sunny disposition proved a great comfort to him. When he was much cast down, instead of speaking words of encouragement which she did not feel she wept with him. This did him more good than telling him what he knew was false, and he would say to himself: "Poor little girl! She suffers for me more than I suffer. I must brace up for her sake."

George's condition grew gradually worse. He would not have doctors to visit him, because he had been told that they could do him no good. Dr. Franklin came to see him occasionally and was now and then called in to effect some temporary relief. George asked him one day to tell him the nature of his disease, but the doctor convinced him that it was better for him to remain in ignorance of it.

One day Mrs. Underhill received a note from Dr. Franklin asking her to bring her husband to his office. Many cures were being announced for different diseases by investigators, but most of them excited wild hopes only to be crushed. A cure for her husband's disease had been discovered which—at any rate, in certain cases—gave temporary relief. She might tell this to the invalid, giving him to understand that the relief was expected to be only temporary. Any relief was acceptable, and, ordering a car, George was carried to the physician's office.

Dr. Franklin covered his neck with sheet lead with a hole in it large enough to admit the swelling. What else he did George could not see, and, as for Lucy, she did not understand what it meant. The doctor was bringing to bear upon the swelling some invisible current, but what it was she could not know without an altogether uncommon scientific knowledge.

Several visits were made to Dr. Franklin's office, and the swelling on the patient's neck began to recede, and after awhile it became diminutive. Then one day Lucy took up a morning newspaper and read to her husband an item of news. It was an announcement that the radium rays had been brought to bear on cancer and that the disease had been in certain cases undoubtedly interrupted. Whether or not radium would permanently cure it the operators had not considered themselves prepared to announce.

"Lucy," said George, looking at his wife with hope lighting his eye, "I shouldn't wonder if that's what my trouble is, and Dr. Franklin is applying radium in my case."

"I'm sure it is!" cried the wife with that impulsive embrace which was her treatment for both good and bad conditions.

George was to visit the doctor that morning. When he and his wife reached the office Lucy said to the physician:

"Doctor, my husband has cancer, and a cure has been found."

"Who told you that?"

"The newspapers."

"Well," replied the doctor thoughtfully, "we are not yet ready to announce that we have found a cure, but we feel very hopeful."

"You mean you are certain, but you won't say so for fear of raising false expectations."

"We're pretty well satisfied that radium is death to the cancer scourge."

The Underhills left the doctor's office a happy couple. Their visits to the doctor were continued, and with the continuance of the treatment the swelling returned to its original size. When it had almost entirely disappeared Lucy said to her husband one day:

"George, don't you think it time we were beginning to get rid of some of this property that I married you to help spend? We haven't used half the income."

"That's just what I was thinking about. I fancy I can keep up the treatment as well in one city as another. Suppose we go abroad?"

"It's just the time of year to go, especially to Italy."

"We'll do it. By the bye, sweetheart, this discovery of radium as a cure for my trouble just came in time to prevent you having to spend our fortune alone."

"It wouldn't have been half the fun, would it?"

"I don't suppose it would."

She gave him a kiss, after which he wrote a note to a steamship company asking for room on the vessel to sail that day two weeks and to his banker for a letter of credit.

They sailed in February for a trip to Naples and other Italian cities, and before their departure so great had become the confidence by the medical profession that efforts were being made to preserve the radium producing grounds in the United States for the benefit of the sufferers of the dread disease, which has always been one of the scourges of humanity.

And now George and Lucy Underhill are touring in Europe, but the money they were married purposely to devote to keeping up the husband's spirits is not needed. They have all the comforts and luxuries they require without encroaching on their capital.

There must have been at least 50 per cent. exaggeration in the stories of the battle of Torreon or this new series of battles at San Pedro would not have been possible so soon.

Woman's World

MRS. LINDLEY M. GARRISON.

Mrs. Lindley M. Garrison, the handsome and talented wife of the secretary of war, is, like most of the cabinet ladies, a fine cook.

Among the many elegant wedding gifts presented to Miss Jessie Wilson when she became the bride recently of Francis B. Sayre was a cookery book consisting of recipes contributed by prominent women of the official Washington set.

Mrs. Garrison, whose culinary taste runs to desserts, contributed the following formula for plum pudding, which appears frequently during the year upon the Garrison table:

One pound of stoned raisins, one pound of currants, one-half pound of chopped suet, one pound of sugar, one-quarter pound of almonds chopped fine, one-half pound each of lemon and orange peel, two five cent loaves of stale bread crumbed fine, one nutmeg grated, one-half teaspoonful of allspice, two carrots grated fine, two apples chopped fine, four eggs, one-quarter pint of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of best brandy. Boil seven hours, putting the puddings in small tin pails well greased and fastening lids tight. Set away until wanted; then boil two hours before using. Serve with hard sauce.

Mrs. Garrison, too, takes a keen interest in the affairs connected with her husband's official position as well as in her household and social duties, and she is following with much concern the Mexican situation.

Speaking of this turbulent country, one is reminded of the self sacrifice which has been demanded for the past few months of the American woman in Mexico. If she is not possessed of a goodly income life is a constant struggle against fearful odds, all phases of living having become frightfully expensive. Clothing, which has always been ridiculously high, has become almost prohibitive in price, and with the precarious condition of the postal mail service she cannot hope to receive articles from the United States either by mail or express safely and within a reasonable time, if at all.

In short, the American woman in Mexico, says a traveler who has spent many years in the country, under the existing conditions is not an object of envy.

Smart New Blouses.

There has been no abatement in the vogue for lace and net waists during the past year, and record breaking sales are indicated for the coming season, particularly on the medium and the popular priced numbers, says the Dry Goods Economist.

With sheerness such an important item, many of the new spring models have the sleeves unlined, but the body of the waist shows a low cut lining both back and front. This leaves the neck and the arms partially uncovered, the tint of the flesh showing through the lace.

When entire linings are used pale pink chiffon or net is particularly desirable, as this suggests the flesh tint. The tea shades are also becoming popular, especially those that have the tinge of yellow.

The front finish of the neck is changing somewhat from the sharp V outline. It is being widened at the sides and finished in a shallow point in the center.

Frosting Glass.

A frosting that is a very good imitation of machine work may be applied to glass. The process is as follows: Make a saturated solution of boiling water, epsom salts and pounded alum. Put in all the salts and alum the water will dissolve. When it is cold strain through coarse cheesecloth to get rid of sediment. Wash the windows and wipe dry; then apply the solution with a brush or sponge. Several applications may be necessary. Allow each to dry before putting on a second coat.

Visible Molecules.

The year 1913 recorded the first demonstration visible to the eye that all matter is composed of molecules, built up of atoms in crystalline forms. By passing X rays through a crystal an "interference photograph" resulted, showing the so called space lattice of the crystal and giving conclusive ocular proof of Dalton's atomic theory.—New York Times.

SOCIETY WOMEN ARE CIGARETTE SLAVES

Now a Fashionable Accomplishment Both in Ottawa and Montreal

OTTAWA, April 17.—That a majority of Ottawa society women smoke cigarettes and that this weakness is shared by Montreal's Four Hundred as well was the striking statement made before the special committee of the House of Commons on the cigarette evil today. Mr. W. L. Scott, president of the Ottawa Children's Aid Society and of the Ontario Union of Children's Aid Societies, was the chief witness. As a well known local lawyer and one who might be considered a member himself of what is termed in the vernacular the "upper crust," Mr. Scott's words were not lacking in authority. They were supported as far as Montreal was concerned, by the testimony of Judge Choquet, of the Montreal Juvenile Court, and the statements of both witnesses were listened to with great attention by the committee.

Mr. Scott stated that the practise of cigarette smoking among women prevailed to a large extent in the capital, the centre of Canadian social life. Many of these were mothers of families and it was women of what were called the best class who had adopted it and among women it was spreading in alarming fashion.

Cigarette smoking as a feminine accomplishment had been introduced in Ottawa during the last six or seven years, said Mr. Scott. The practise had long been common on the Continent and in English society and now it had arrived in the heart of social Canada.

In reply to a query as to whether the W.C.T.U. was doing nothing to stop this practise, Mr. Scott stated that it was a matter of fashion and being among the fashionable or exclusive set it was scarcely within the province of W.C.T.U. activities. It was comparatively new in Ottawa, but already a majority, almost, of society women had become addicted to the habit. Unquestionably the younger members of the Four Hundred, so-called, smoked cigarettes. As a layman he could not say whether it affected their health.

The habit had not taken root among what were called the middle and lower classes, continued Mr. Scott, and he did not expect that women would ever be so foolish as to adopt it, since cigarette smoking the world over was for the greater part confined to those who considered themselves their betters.

SIR JAMES INSISTS ON PAYING OWN WAY

But He Appreciates Spirit Which Prompts Suggestion of Help

TORONTO, April 17.—While the Ontario Legislature was in committee on supply, considering the question of gratitudes, before adjournment early this morning, Mr. George Pattinson Conservative member for South Waterloo, asked Hon. J. J. Foy, acting Prime Minister, whether the case of Sir James Whitney was being considered by the Government. Mr. Pattinson reviewed the circumstances of Sir James' illness, pointing out that while seeking a respite from his strenuous work in the interest of the Province, the Premier had been stricken in New York, and very heavy expenses had been incurred. The South Waterloo member did not offer any motion, but stated the belief that any consideration which the Cabinet might propose would meet with general approbation in view of Sir James' services and his devotion to the interests of the Province.

Mr. Rowell and Mr. Allan Studholme expressed their hearty endorsation of what Mr. Pattinson had said.

Hon. Dr. Pyne replied that Sir James would not accept anything of the kind from the Province. The Premier had insisted, when such a suggestion had been hinted at to him that he would pay his own way, although expressing his gratification at the spirit of appreciation which prompted the suggestion.

THREW COWITCH AT CUSTOMER

MONTREAL, April 17.—Sam Wee, a proprietor of a lunch room on Chaboillez Square, made strenuous objections to Joe Bagg, a carter, arguing the price of a pork chop, and as a result of the language used by the disputants, Wee, it was claimed by Bagg threw a box of cowitch with sufficient accuracy to land the contents squarely on his neck. Bagg didn't hang around very long in full attire, the powder getting in its work with such rapidity that he had to pull off his collar to stay the irritation. He remonstrated with the proprietor, at the same time removing his clothing piece by piece. His coat followed the collar and was in turn followed by his vest and outside shirt. When it came to his undergarment, he scuttled and ran for home, vowing vengeance. He got it this morning, when Wee, who had been arrested for throwing the itching powder on him, was fined $40 and costs by Mr. Recorder Semple.

THE DEATH OF GEORGE I. HAM

Fatal Automobile Accident Ends the Career of Former Napaneean

(Napanee Beaver)

The many friends of Mr. George I. Ham will be grieved to learn that he met with a fatal automobile accident near his home at Whittier in California on Monday, the 13th intant. Mr. Ham was an expert motorist, but the full particulars of the sad occurrence are not yet to hand. He spent four months last summer in Napanee, as the guest of his friend, Mr. W. S. Herrington, and his smiling face was familiar to everyone in town. He has had a most remarkable career. Twenty-four years ago he went to Mexico, and first engaged in railroading and for five years was engineer upon one of the roads running into Mexico City. By his thrift and industry he accumulated a few thousand dollars and set up as a private banker. So successful was he in this new vocation that his friends urged him to organize a chartered bank with a small capital. His success was so phenomenal that the capital stock was increased to $2,000,000, and Mr Ham was estimated to be worth several millions. There was no more popular man in Mexico. In 1909 he was unanimously chosen President of the Mexico City Country Club, the membership of which included all the English speaking people of note in the city. His home was open to all distinguished visitors, and no Canadian in need of assistance was ever turned away from his door.

In February of 1910 the bank of which he was President, failed, through its efforts to finance a huge packing concern and Mr. Ham was chosen as the victim to figure as the black sheep in the unfortunate failure. He was thrown into prison and thirteen charges of more or less serious character were preferred against him. One by one these were dismissed, although he was never given a trial as we regard it in this country. No counsel was allowed to cross-examine the witnesses called against him, and he was not allowed to hear the evidence upon which it was sought to convict him. He steadfastly protested his innocense and declared that he was not responsible for the failure of the bank, and that the prosecution against him was carried on maliciously to enable the officials and others to fatten upon his private estates which were practically confiscated. Subsequent events as to how justice is administered in Mexico have opened the eyes of outsiders, and those who were disposed to question Mr. Ham's statements as to the manner in which he was prosecuted are now ready to accept his story without any qualification.

In February, 1913, when Felix Diaz was in control of Mexico city in the uprising against Madero the military authorities disregarded the procedure of the courts and gave Mr. Ham his freedom.

He leaves a wife and a son and daughter to mourn his loss. Mrs. Ham has fought heroically for her husband's rights, going to Mexico, passing through the rebel line at the risk of her own life. On her last trip she was robbed and could only escape by crossing the country on horseback to the Pacific Coast, and catch a steamer to her California home. Harry, his only son, is in the automobile business in Los Angeles, and his daughter is the wife of the United States Consular Agent at Paris, and it is believed, was at the time of her father's death on her way to America to visit her parents.

WANT EXECUTIONS PUBLIC

NEWARK, N. J., April 17.—Strong objections to the execution of the four New York gunmen were made in a sermon preached by the Rev. Warren Patten Coon, pastor of the Union Street Methodist Episcopal church. Discussing "Is Capital Punishment Wrong?" he contended that two or more men, organized under a form of government, have no more right to take life than one man has.

"It is argued that the death penalty serves as a warning and example to deter imitators. Then, why make it such a private affair. Let us make executions more public to get the full benefit of the lesson. Let the governor push the electric button, or turn the switch.

REGISTRAR DENIES THERE IS FRICTION

KINGSTON, April 17.—A strong denial is given the story that there is friction among the governing body of Queen's University regarding the control of the military training school, over the offer made by Major R. W. Leonard, and that a new principal may be appointed. When G. Y. Chown, Registrar, heard of the statement, he declared that it was "absolute tommyrot". Principal Gordon is ill, and no statement could be secured from him, but leading members of the University Senate declared that there was no foundation for the report. The offer of Major Leonard is still under consideration, but the Senate is agreed that Queen's must be given control of military training. A settlement of the matter is shortly expected.

BOOSTER PERIOD IN INTELLIGENCER'S BIG CONTEST AFFORDS CANDIDATES GREAT OPPORTUNITIES NOW

Subscriptions Count Most Now—Every Effort Expended Now Will Count More Than at Any Other Time During the Contest

EACH YEARLY SUBSCRIPTION COUNTS 50,000 VOTES

Plenty of Time for New Entries, But Delays are Dangerous—Send in a Nomination To-Day and Win One of the Big Prizes—Contest Department Open Evenings

The special "Booster" period in The Intelligencer's great contest has created widespread interest, not only in Belleville, but in all the territory in this vicinity where The Intelligencer circulates. Now is the time for candidates to exert their best efforts in securing subscriptions, as never again during the contest will the subscriptions count as many votes as they will in "Booster" period.

NOW IS THE TIME

Those who have not entered the contest or who have not selected a favorite in the race should do so at once as there is still plenty of time for new entries and all that is necessary is getting started, as that is half the battle. Once you get started and your friends find that you are anxious to win the automobile or any one of the many valuable prizes that are to be awarded, you will find that you will receive unsolicited support from every direction, as running in this contest is just the same as in any other competition—every one likes to vote for a winner, and if you are anxious to win your friends will feel the same way.

BOOSTER OFFER.

Every six months subscription will count 25,000 votes, each yearly subscription, 50,000, and each two years, 130,000 votes, which are turned in this office before 9 p.m., Wednesday, April 29th. Subscriptions can be reported any time and in any amounts, and the votes will be issued for every subscription you secure. Don't be satisfied as soon as you secure one subscription; keep right on going, as each one you secure will put you that much closer to the automobile or one of the other prizes. All subscriptions must be in this office by 9 p.m., Wednesday, April 29th.

KEEP YOUR FRIENDS IN MIND.

Do not forget any of your friends. There is a chance that you might forget some of them until it is too late. It is an excellent plan to make a list of all those whom you think might help you, and when a fresh name occurs to you, jot it down on this list, so that no opportunity will be lost.

ANXIOUS TO HELP.

Quite a number of people have written the Contest Department that they are willing to subscribe for The Intelligencer, but that they prefer to wait until candidates from their sections enter the campaign. Here is an opportunity for candidates all over the campaign territory.

This shows that there are votes to be had, not only for the asking, but simply by registering in the circulation campaign. These votes will come not only from friends, but from strangers as well, who are interested and want to see some neighbor win a prize.

OPEN EVENINGS.

The Contest Department of The Intelligencer is open each evening from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Annual Vestry Meeting at St. Thos.

The annual vestry meeting of St. Thomas' Church was held in the Parish House on the evening of April 16th, 1914. The Rector took the chair, and as the vestry clerk, Mr. Arthur Jones, was called away from the meeting, Mrs. Ernest Wheatley was appointed pro tem, to take down the minutes. The attendance was much larger than on former occasions. Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, People's Warden, presented the statement for the past year, which was very satisfactory, showing a credit balance of $16.65 after every liability had been fully met. He also commented on Prof. Wheatley's organ recitals, which have created a choir fund showing a balance of $68.41. The statement was duly certified by the official auditors and was received and adopted. The total income for the year, exclusive of the Building Fund, exceeded $5000.00, being an increase on last year of over $800.00. Over $1000.00 was given to missions and other objects in the church outside the parish.

Moved by Mr. J. Elliott, seconded by Mr. J. A. Kerr, that Mr. H. F. Ketcheson be appointed People's Warden.—Carried unanimously with applause.

The following gentlemen were appointed to serve on the Envelope and Missionary Committee along with the Wardens: Messrs. J. A. Kerr, Arthur Jones, J. D. Clarke, W. O. Adams, J. E. Elliott, Dr. Ackerill, W. Dixon, Percy Ketcheson, F. C. Schriven, J. W. Davison.

It was moved by Mr. J. A. Kerr and seconded by Mr. J. Elliott, that the Rector should be given a six weeks' leave of absence from the parish, from Sept. 1st, to allow him to attend the General Synod to be held in Vancouver, and that the Vestry provide for the services in his absence.—Carried.

The following were appointed sidesmen for ensuing year: Messrs. Albert Jones, J. D. Clarke, H. Thompson, T. Nightingale, S. A. Lockwood, J. Johnson, J. Elliott, J. A. Kerr, J. W. Davison, G. Pearson, H. Sneyd, W. O. Adams.

It was unanimously carried that the Rectory taxes and phone rent be paid by the Vestry for the ensuing year.

The auditors, Messrs. J. Elliott and Mr. J. D. Clarke, were re-appointed.

Moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Davison, that the thanks of the vestry be extended to the Rector, Prof. Wheatley and the choir, the Sunday School Teachers, Women's Guild, etc., and all who have assisted in church work during the past year.—Carried.

Mr. John Elliott, Superintendent, gave a report of the Sunday School, which showed that the work has greatly advanced, the attendance being nearly doubled in the year past.

He also gave the statement as chairman of the building fund of the Parish House. The total cost of building and furnishing amounted to nearly $14,500.00.

At the congregational meeting which followed Mr John Elliott was elected delegate to Synod for the term of three years.

The meeting closed with the benediction by the Rector, Rev. Canon Beamish.

COBEQUID HERO IS GIVEN A GOLD WATCH

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 17.—At noon to-day in the presence of a gathering of prominent citizens, Mayor Frink, on behalf of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company presented a gold watch and chain to Captain A. Gurns of the Government steamer Lansdowne, in recognition of his part in life-saving, when the company's steamer Cobequid was wrecked on Trinity Ledges.

CAPTAIN WEESE OF ROSSMORE DEAD

Death came very suddenly in the early part of last evening to Mr. Wesley Weese, of Rossmore, Prince Edward County, who was known as "Captain" Weese. Deceased, in company with his son, was in a rowboat and came across the bay. They were in the vicinity of the Ontario School for the Deaf dock when he fell forward in the boat and expired immediately. The son made an effort to arouse his father, little thinking that the vital spark had fled. The body was conveyed to Thompson's undertaking establishment, in this city, and prepared for burial.

Mr. Weese was a son of the late Mr. Henry Weese, and was born in Ameliasburg Township 52 years ago. All his life was spent in that township. He was a man well known and much respected. Deceased was a member of Lake Lodge, A. F. & A. M., a member of Maiden City Lodge, 'Prentice Boys, of this city, an Orangeman, and a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters. For years Mr. Weese was identified with the 16th Regiment of Prince Edward county. In politics he was a Conservative and in religion a Methodist. A wife and one son, Cyrus, survive. The remains were conveyed to his late home at Rossmore today.

STEAMER LE MONDE SOLD

Messrs. Martin, of Glenora, and Collier, of Picton, purchased the steamer La Monde from the Union Bank through Mr. Charlebois, of Toronto. This vessel has been in the harbor at Kingston for some time and was formerly used for excursions. She is undergoing extensive repairs at the hands of the Davis Company. The vessel will be used in the passenger and freight trade between Picton and Napanee and will make two daily trips.

ALBERT COLLEGE MUST HAVE $100,000

Reunion of Old Pupils Reveals Acute Financial Crisis

TORONTO, April 18.—Special—A happy company of Albert College Old Boys and Girls banqueted last evening at Bathurst Methodist Church, but heard with regret of the financial needs of the college. The gathering was an informal one. The older and younger ex-students recounted incidents and exploits in connection with their sojourn in Belleville.

Dr. Carman was the oldest boy present and rejoiced in recalling the old days when he was Principal of the college and wished it a glorious future. He told of how the college was first built with the money raised by mortgages on three farms in the district. These farms were owned by Mr. Caleb Gilbert, Mr. Vanderwater and Mr. Burns, "and," said the doctor, "Albert College is a monument to these men."

Mr. Davies, who occupied the chair, said if Albert College had fulfilled its mission it ought to be perpetuated. He urged the old students to take up the interests of the college with enthusiasm.

Rev. Byron H. Stauffer told of some humorous happenings during his course at Belleville. He still remembered the cod they had on Monday, and said they had plenty of porridge.

Dr. Baker, the new Principal, spoke of "the needs and outlook of the college," and said that while Albert College was doing the same work as the high schools, it was doing a work the high schools could not do. He said he wanted half a million dollars, and he believed he would get it; he must have $100,000 or close the college.

A committee was appointed and an organization was formed for creating an interest in the upkeep of the institution. Letters were read from Dr. Dyer, Rev. Amos Campbell and Robert Carswell.

DRESNER WAS PAID TO SAVE GUNMEN

Tailor's Cutter Who Almost Secured Them Retrial Has Confessed

NEW YORK, April 16.—Karl Dresner, the tailor's cutter who confessed that he perjured himself in an effort to save the four gunmen put to death for the Rosenthal murder, acknowledged to-day that he had received money for his false testimony. Dresner was a witness before Justice Goff on Saturday last in the hearing of the application for a new trial for the gunmen on the ground of newly-discovered evidence.

Dresner, who had spent a sleepless night in the Tombs, had heard himself denounced by the prisoners on his tier as a "squealer", and when he was taken to the District Attorney's office to-day he was much weaker than he was yesterday. He asked the District attorney for protection. After a long conference with Assistant District Attorney Groehl, it was arranged to give Dresner a cell on the top tier of the Tombs with a score of prisoners of the so-called "higher class". Dresner's admission that some money passed in the negotiations by which he became a witness for the gunmen is regarded as an indication that he eventually will weaken and tell the whole plot behind his testimony.

MUST DEEPEN THE ST. LAWRENCE CANAL

OTTAWA, April 17.—"The deepening of the St. Lawrence channel is a work which will have to be done sooner or later," said Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, when asked if the fact that the two new Allan steamers will be unable to proceed to Montreal would have any effect upon the Government's policy with regard to this channel.

"Of course," Mr Rogers added, with a smile, "it is a big undertaking and some people think we are moving too fast now."

"Meanwhile," said the Minister, "there is a very good harbor at Quebec, and we are spending a lot of money there to develop the port. In any case the landing of passengers and freight at Quebec will help the people there.

WOMEN DOCTORS MUSTN'T MARRY

LONDON, April 17.—The London County Council decided by 70 to 30 votes to insist on the resignation of three women doctors appointed as assistants in the Public Health Department should they marry.

One member argued that the facts showed that the best women workers were married, and that the motherly instinct was a very great asset to a professional woman.

Another member said that where a wife worked as well as her husband lower wages resulted.

Lady St. Helier said there were grave objections to the employment of married women. It was true that the council employed married women teachers, but she was convinced that no woman could do her duty to her home and family if she went to work.

CHARGED WITH BEATING LAD NEAR TO DEATH

KINGSTON, April 17.—Melville Ritchie, a prominent farmer in Storrington township will be arraigned before County Magistrate George Hunter on a charge of ill-using a small boy, a ward of the Children's Aid Society.

Rev. A. E. Smart, Inspector of the Children's Aid Society, is conducting the prosecution. It is alleged that for some trifling offence, Ritchie beat the youngster and that the beating almost cost him his life.

Medical evidence will be given regarding the punishment the boy received.

OLD MAN WITH A GRIEVANCE SHOOTS AT NEW YORK MAYOR

Bullet Hit Corporation Counsel Who Was With Mayor Wounding Him in Face

NEW YORK, April 18.—Special—A shabbily dressed old man named Michael B. Mahoney, with fancied grievances against the city administration, fired one shot early yesterday afternoon at Mayor Mitchel, as the Mayor Corporation Counsel Frank Polk—whom the bullet struck—Police Commissioner Arthur Woods and Tax Commissioner G. V. Mullen were on the point of starting in an automobile from the City Hall for luncheon.

The bullet entered the left cheek of Mr. Polk, knocked a tooth to the floor of the automobile and came out of his right cheek. Powder from the revolver slightly burned the Mayor's left ear and Commissioner Mullen's right cheek.

The mouth wound received by Mr. Polk, although very painful, will not prove dangerous unless infection sets in.

Police Commissioner Woods, who was standing beside the automobile when Mahoney fired, slammed Mahoney to the street and held tightly to the old man's pistol hand while he tried to fire again.

A HELPLESS DRUNK

Some excitement occurred on Front street this morning, when a man, who is a stranger in the city, fell upon the walk, presumably from a fit, but it transpired to be a whiskey fit. NEED LOOKING AFTER

A GOOD MUSTER

The muster parade of the Fifteenth Regiment last night was an excellent one. The parade statement showed that upwards of 275 turned out, which is most creditable. After the regiment had been drawn up and put through various manoeuvres a tug of war between members representing different companies and boxing bouts took place. The large number of spectators present enjoyed the programme given. The regimental band under the leadership of bandmaster Hinchey, rendered a number of selections in an admirable manner.

FIFTEEN YEARS' JAIL FOR LONDON SLAYER

LONDON, Ont., April 17.—Thomas Riley, of Kansas, ex-brakeman, who on November 3rd last, shot and killed George Blackburn, bartender of the Cecil Hotel, was to-day sentenced by Judge Kelly to fifteen years in Kingston Penitentiary. Judge Kelly, in passing sentence, said that Riley's exemplary life previous to coming to Canada saved him from getting the maximum term for manslaughter.

Childhood Constipation

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of childhood and no child suffering from it thrives well. To banish no other medicine acts so promptly and surely as Baby's Own Tablets. They never fail to bring relief. Concerning them Mrs. Dominique Ferland, St. Michel, Que., writes: "I consider Baby's Own Tablets a marvelous remedy for little ones. I gave them to my baby for constipation and they soon made him well again." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The committee recommended that chairmen of all committees have their estimates prepared for the next meeting of the Board.

The Printing and Supplies Committee recommended that ten cadet uniforms be purchased.

On motion the Board went into committee on reports, etc., Mr. F. C. Sharpe in the chair.

The Finance committee's report was adopted without discussion.

The School Management committee's report in reference to procuring a classics teacher in the High School was on motion, after some discussion, referred back to the committee with power to act.

The Printing and Supplies committee's report re purchasing ten cadet uniforms was adopted after Mr. F. S. Deacon had spoken in reference to the matter, stating that the suits would cost a little over $2 each.

The matter of a grant of $100 to the Woman's Institute of the High School towards medical inspection of the school was on motion referred to the next meeting of the Board as a reply had not been received from the Minister of Education.

The report of the Inspector of the High School was adopted and referred to the School Management committee.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

BOARD MEETINGS

Mr. C. M. Reid spoke in favor of the Board meetings being held in the High School.

Mr. Mallory spoke in favor of the proposition.

Col. Ponton said the actions of the Board of Education were open to the public and from the municipal centre the business of the Board should be transacted. This was his idea of the matter.

Mr. C. M. Reid gave notice that at the next meeting of the Board he would move that the Board meetings be held in the High School.

A motion prevailed that Mr. James, a teacher, be requested to engross the names of the successful pupils who won the Governor-General's medal in the space on a picture reserved for them.

Col. Ponton and Mr. Deacon were named a committee to look after the procuring of the Governor-General's medal at the proper time.

The chairman stated that the architect of the new school had been in the city recently, but Mr. Bennett, the contractor, was not there. In consequence, the work was not progressing as it should.

After a brief discussion the secretary was authorized to wire or write Mr. Bennett.

PLAY GROUNDS.

Mr. McGie referred to the fact that during the summer months, especially after dark, the playground in East Belleville was a rendezvous for many and at times considerable noise was created. In fact, at times, it was an abominable nuisance.

Mr. C. M. Reid thought the grounds should be lighted at night, and this would obviate the nuisance.

After Col. Ponton and others spoke in reference to having the grounds lighted during the summer evenings, the matter was referred to the Sites, Buildings and Repairs committee.

Chairman Ponton said the co-operation of the Board was asked in the demonstration to be held here on June 3rd. It was anticipated that the Duke of Connaught, the Duchess and Princess Patricia might be here on that day.

Board adjourned.

WEDDING BELLS

SIMONDS—LEWIS

A very quiet wedding took place on April 15th, at the home of Mrs. R. Lewis, Havelock, when her daughter, Myrtle, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Bentley Simonds of Rossmore, by the Rev. J. R. Real, of the Methodist church, Havelock. The bride's dress was of white satin with pearl and crystal trimmings, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and ferns. The couple were unattended. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful pearl pendant and chain. After the ceremony and congratulations all adjourned to the dining room where a dainty luncheon was served. The bride's travelling costume was of old rose silk ratine, with coat of navy blue serge, and hat with white plume. The young couple left on the 3.35 train for Toronto and other western points amid showers of confetti and rice. After their return they will reside in Rossmore. The bride is well known in Havelock and will be greatly missed, especially in the choir.

HUERTA'S DECISION

While it cannot be said, just yet, that the unfortunate Tampico incident is closed, there are gratifying indications that Gen. Huerta has come to his senses and that the present complications will soon be adjusted by the firing of the salute to our flag originally demanded by Admiral Mayo, who, it Admiral Mayo. The Admiral, it ap-appears, in presenting the demand, offered to return the salute. This is in accordance with the custom in such cases. It is equivalent to the formal handshake on the acceptance of an apology. Meanwhile, there is no indication that the assembling of American vessels at Tampico will be checked. There will be no haste in this matter, and it is not unlikely that the naval guard in Mexican waters will be larger hereafter than it has been, in view of the increased peril to American lives and property.

The question as to whether the return of the salute by American guns will imply recognition of Huerta's Government does not require much debate. Obviously, the Mexican salute is to the flag, and the return is a mere matter of formal recognition of the act, with no other significance whatever. Vessels of foreign Kings, for example, might have saluted the British flag in the era of the Commonwealth with no intentional recognition Cromwell.

It will not be sufficient, however, for Huerta to order this one salute by way of apology and then continue his offensive behavior towards the United States. In commanding the assembling of a formidable fleet at Tampico, President Wilson has acted after mature deliberation. The attitude of the de facto Government at the Mexican capital must be changed. The bombastic spirit which has been generated in Mexico in relation to the United States, which, by the way, was picturesquely expressed in the voluble utterances of the retiring Mexican Consul at this port, is utterly uncalled for. Mexico has been treated with patience and forbearance. Demands for indemnity for lives and property sacrificed have even been deferred until the country shall be at peace. But there is a limit to forbearance not only on the part of the United States Government, but other countries as well.

Judge Barhorst was Relieved of Rheumatism After Doctors Failed

If you have tried many other remedies and doctors' treatments for Rheumatism and found they failed, no not be skeptical about trying RHEUMA. Read the testimony of Judge John Barhorst of Fort Loramie O.:

"After treatments by three doctors without result, I have been cured of a very bad case of Rheumatism by using two bottles of RHEUMA. It is now two years since I used the remedy and I am still as well as ever. Previously, I was a cripple, walking with crutches."

Such testimony should be convincing. 50 cents of W. H. Lattimer guaranteed.

INDIRECT SUBSIDIZING

Were it not for the appeal to anti-British sentiment there would be very little support in the States to the exemption of American coastwise vessels from Panama canal tolls, says the Hamilton Herald. The proposition is so palpably and grossly wrong. It amounts simply to a gift of some $1,250,000 a year to a privileged and enormously wealthy interest which does not need it, and there would be no compensating advantage to be obtained for the annual grant. Not for a quarter of a century, probably, will the revenue from the canal be sufficient to meet the interest on the capital outlay and operating expenses; and yet it is proposed to take a large slice of the much-needed revenue and hand it over to a powerful and well organized monopoly which is absolutely protected by the coasting law from foreign competition. The gift would have no effect on transportation rates: the vessel owners would just pocket the money and continue to charge "all the traffic will bear." If there is any American citizen who more than another is inclined to regard this question on its merits, uninfluenced by partizan bias, that citizen is Colonel Goethals, the great engineer who directed the construction of the canal and who is now governor of the canal zone. Colonel Goethals views the matter solely from the viewpoint of national interests and the interests of the canal which he built. And his opinion, very frankly expressed, is that apart from any treaty obligations, all American vessels—those engaged in the coastwise trade as well as those in foreign trade—should be required to pay regular tolls. His opinion should carry some weight with his fellow citizens who are proud of his achievement.

If the American people desire to subsidize the owners of the vessels engaged in the coastwise trade, they can do so openly and directly. There is no law or treaty to prevent the payment to these vessel owners of subsidies equal to the tolls charged on their vessels in the Panama canal. If they must be subsidized, why not do it in that way? But no champion of exemption dare propose such a plan.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-tenths of all Stomach Trouble Said to be Due to Acidity.

A Physician's Advice on Cause and Cure

A famous physician whose successful researches into the cause and cure of stomach and intestinal diseases have earned for him an international reputation, said in the course of a recent lecture that nearly all intestinal troubles, as well as many diseases of the vital organs, were directly traceable to a deranged condition of the stomach which in turn was due nine times out of ten to excessive acidity, commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn, which not only irritated and inflamed the delicate lining of the stomach, but also set up gastritis and stomach ulcers. It is interesting to note that he condemns the use of patent medicines as well as of medical treatment for the stomach, stating that he and his colleagues have secured demarkable results by the use of ordinary bisurated magnesia, which, by neutralizing the acidity of the food, removes the source of the trouble. He contends that it is as foolish to treat the stomach itself as it would be for a man who stepped on a tack to rub liniment on the foot without first removing the tack. Remove the tack and the foot will heal itself—neutralize the acid and the stomach troubles will disappear. Irritating medicines and medical treatments are useless, so long as the contents of the stomach remain acid; remove the acidity, and there will be no need-fod medicine—the inflamed lining of the stomach will then heal itself. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or heartburn should get a small bottle of bisurated magnesia from their druggist, and take a teaspoonful in a quarter of a glass of a glass of hot or cold water after meals, repeating in fifteen minutes, if necessary this being the dose which th edoctor has found most efficacious in all cases.

In spite of the stand of the college paper of Purdue university, which defended the seven senior co-eds accused of hazing Miss Mabel Rogers, college student, sentiment is divided. The paper declared the hazing, if the complaint was true, was only a form of "horseplay" practiced in every university, and expressed regret that the case should go into court. Miss Rogers has entered suit against the seven seniors for $7,000 damages. She charges that the co-eds stripped her of all her clothing, painted her body with red ink, poured mucilage down her back, submitted her to indignities, and after sticking her with pins, threw her into a tub of cold water. There should be a limit to such work, and in this case each of the miscreants should be heavily fined as a warning to future hazing, which should be eternally banished.

TO-DAY WE CELEBRATE

Maitre Fernand Labori, the French "avocat" who gained an international reputation by his conduct of the Zola and Humbert cases and the Dryfus appeal, and who was recently engaged as counsel for Mme. Caillaux, the assassin of M. Calmette, was born at Rheims fifty-four years ago today. M. Labori has been the recognized head of the French bar ever since his masterly defence of Zola and Captain Dreyfus. He was a friend of the murdered editor of the Figaro, and consented to defend his slayer only on condition that no reflections were to be cast on the memory of M. Calmette. M. Labori began his legal career thirty years ago, and in addition to his labors in that field, he has made a remarkable literary record. He founded the Revue du Palais and the Grande Revue, and compiled an encyclopedia of French laws. Mme. Labori was Marguerite Okey, a Montreal girl, and won wide fame as a pianist before she married Vladimir de Pachmann, an eccentric musician, who had been her teacher in London and Vienna. The musical pair were very unhappy, and when Mme. de Pachmann fell in love with Fernand Labori, then a struggling lawyer, her husband permitted her to obtain a divorce, that she might be freed to wed the young Frenchman who had captured her heart. Since her marriage in 1893, Mme. Labori has composed several noteworthy musical works, including an opera, "Yato," based on the Chinese revolution.

That idol of novel-reading youth, Richard Harding Davis, will pass the half-century mark today, having been born in Philadelphia on April 18, 1864. The famous author and war correspondent is the son of the late Rebecca Harding Davis, a popular novelist, and the brother of Charles Belmont Davis, a writer of some eminence. Mr. Davis was the hero of a youthful romance as picturesque as any in the pages of his books. In 1899 he proposed by cable to Cecil Clark, the daughter of a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, and upon her acceptance he sent a messenger boy across the Atlantic with an engagement ring. They did not "live happy ever after," however, for the first Mrs. Davis, the heroine of the cabled proposal, secured a divorce, and the novelist married Bessie McCoy, known on the stage as "the Yama Yama Girl."

Clarence S. Darrow, lawyer, author, philosopher and friend of labor, was born fifty-seven years ago today at Kinsman, O. In his younger days he was a partner of Gov. Altgeld, the radical chief executive of Illinois. He was counsel for the miners in the anthracite coal strike arbitration, led the defence in the Debs railroad strike case, and secured the acquittal of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, leaders of the Western Federation of Miners, after a memorable trial at Boise. Later he was attorney for the McNamara brothers, and, as an outgrowth of this trial, had to defend himself against a charge of bribery. As a philosopher and writer Mr. Darrow has been described as "the American Tolstoi," and he preaches many of the doctrines of the great Russian.

Booker Taliaferro Washington, the celebrated negro educator, was born a slave at Hale's Ford, Va., fifty-six years ago today. In his youth he worked as a miner in West Virginia and as a domestic servant in New England. After working his way through the negro school at Hampton, Va., he became a teacher of his race, and in 1880 he took charge of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. He found it "a small church and a shanty," and has converted it into the world's foremost institution for the mental and manual training of colored youths. In his great work Dr. Washington has had the support of many wealthy and influential white men, and has won their admiration and respect.

I OWE MY LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

They Did Me More Good Than All Other Treatments Combined

MRS. H. S. WILLIAMS

PALMERSTON, ONT., June 20th. 1913

"I really believe that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives". Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctors' bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old stomach trouble and distressing headaches nearly drove me wild. Some time ago I got a box of "Fruit-a-tives" and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use. "Fruit-a-tives" completely cured me.

Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked me the reason. I replied, "I am taking Fruit-a-tives". He said, "Well, if "Fruit-a-tives" are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can".

Mrs. H. S. WILLIAMS.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

MAJOR LEONARD QUIZZED.

Opposition Seeks Irregularities In N. T. R. Contract Payments.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The public accounts committee of the Commons yesterday morning continued its enquiry into the matter of the terms of settlement arranged between the present National Transcontinental Railway Commission and J. S. McArthur & Co. for work done on contract No. 21. The total contract was for upwards of $18,000,000. The board of arbitrators, after going over the contract, decided that there was an overcharge of $383,000, and recommended a reduction of payment of that amount. Under the settlement finally made the amount deducted from the McArthur account was $150,000.

W. C. King of the Auditor-General's Department, said the settlement had been agreed to on the part of the G. T. P. by Mr. Kelliher.

Major Leonard, the present N.T.R. commissioner, was then examined by Mr. German.

Major Leonard said that he had read and understood the report of the commission relating to deductions. It was a matter which was adjudicated upon by the arbitrators and the engineers before his time.

The chief engineer of the commission, he said, is responsible for the estimates and the classification. If they change their minds from time to time, he assumed that they have a right to do so.

Mr. German proceeded to ask Major Leonard to verify various documents. The major said they related to happenings before his day, and the examination was useless.

Mr. German persisted in the examination, and was upheld by the chairman.

Bradford's Bull.

S. H. Bradford, K.C., the well-known Toronto barrister and lecturer at the Law School, claims Ireland as the land of his forefatehrs. The other day he was guilty of a bull, which more than establishes his claim. He was lecturing to the first year on Common Law and gave utterance to a sentence which some of the embryonic lawyers evidently failed to understand. At least they indicated as much by tapping gently on the floor with the heels of their shoes. "Well," said Mr. Bradford, with a characteristic turn of his hand, "before we go any further we might as well get as far as we have got."

HAVE PRETTY HAIR

SOFT, FLUFFY, ABUNDANT—USE PARISIAN SAGE. IT STOPS FALLING HAIR AND ITCHING SCALP.

If your hair is not as soft and heavy as that of some friend, do not despair—do as she does—give it daily attention. Beautiful hair is largely a matter of care. If it is too thin, make it grow. If it is harsh and brittle, soften it — lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshens up the scalp with Parisian Sage and all dandruff disappears.

Parisian Sage, sold in fifty cent bottles at drug and toilet counters, is just what you need. It quickly stops itching head, cleanses the hair of dust and excessive oil; takes away the dryness and brittleness, makes it seem twice as abundant, and beautifies it until it is soft, fluffy and lustrous.

You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage. Always sold by W. H. Lattimer on money back if not satisfied plan.

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

When he arose in the morning, Sir Oswald resolved to dismiss all thought of his nephew. His strange adventure of the previous night had exercised a very powerful influence upon his mind, and it was upon that adventure he meditated while he breakfasted.

"I have seen a landscape, which had no special charm in broad daylight, transformed into a glimpse of paradise by the magic of the moon", he mused as he lingered over his breakfast. "Perhaps this girl is a very ordinary creature after all—a mere street wanderer, coarse and vulgar."

But Sir Oswald stopped himself, remembering the refined tones of the voice which he had heard last night—the perfect self-possession of the girl's manner.

"No", he exclaimed, "she is neither coarse nor vulgar; she is no common street ballad singer. Whatever she is, whoever she is, there is a mystery around and about her—a mystery which it shall be my business to fathom."

When he had breakfasted, Sir Oswald Eversleigh sent for the ballad-singer.

"Be good enough to tell the young person that if she feels herself sufficiently rested and refreshed, I should like much to have a few minutes' conversation with her", said the baronet to the head-waiter.

In a few minutes the waiter returned, and ushered in the girl. Sir Oswald turned to look at her, possessed by a curiosity which was utterly unwarranted by the circumstances. It was not the first time in his life that he had stepped aside from his pathway to perform an act of charity; but it certainly was the first time he had ever felt so absorbing an interest in the object of his benevolence.

The girl's beauty had been no delusion engendered of the moonlight Standing before him, in the broad sunlight, she seemed even yet more beautiful, for her loveliness was more fully visible.

The ballad singer betrayed no signs of embarrassment under Sir Oswald's searching gaze. She stood before her benefactor with calm grace; and there was something almost akin to pride in her attitude. Her garments were threadbare and shabby: yet on her they did not appear the garments of a vagrant. Her dress was of some rusty black stuff, patched and mended in a dozen places; but it fitted her neatly, and a clean linen collar surrounded her slender throat, which was almost as white as the linen. Her waving brown hair was drawn away from her face in thick bands, revealing the small, rosy-tinted ear. The dark brown of that magnificent hair contrasted with the ivory white of a complexion which was only relieved by transient blushes of faint rose-color, that came and went with emotion or excitement.

"Be good enough to take a seat", said Sir Oswald: "I wish to have a little conversation with you. I want to help you, if I can. You do not seem fitted for the life you are leading; and I am convinced that you possess talent which would elevate you to a far higher sphere. But before we talk of the future, I must ask you to tell me something of the past."

"Tell me", he continued gently, "how it is that you are so friendless? How is it that your father and mother allow you to lead such an existence?"

"My mother died when I was a child", answered the girl.

"And your father?"

"My father is dead also."

"You did not tell me that last night," replied the baronet, with some touch of suspicion in his tone, for he fancied the girl's manner had changed when she spoke of her father.

"Did I not?" she said, quietly. "I do not think you asked me any question about my father; but if you did, I may have answered at random; I was confused last night from exhaustion and want of rest, and I scarcely knew what I said."

"What was your father?"

"He was a sailor."

"There is something that is scarcely English in your face", Said Sir Oswald; "were you born in England?"

"No, I was born in Florence; my mother was a Florentine."

"Indeed."

There was a pause. It seemed evident that this girl did not care to tell the story of her past life, and that whatever information the baronet wanted to obtain, must be extorted from her little by little. A common vagrant would have been eager to pour out some tale of misery, true or false, in the hearing of the man who promised to be her benefactor; but this girl maintained a reserve which Sir Oswald found it very difficult to penetrate.

"I fear there is something of a painful nature in your past history", he said, at last; "something which you do not care to reveal."

"There is much that is painful, much that I cannot tell."

"And yet you must be aware that it will be very difficult for me to give you assistance if I do not know of whom I am giving it. I wish to place you in a position very different from that which you now occupy; but it would be folly to interest myself in a person of whose history I positively know nothing."

"Then dismiss from your mind all thoughts of me, and let me go on my own way", answered the girl, with that calm pride of manner which imparted a singular charm to her beauty. "I shall leave this house grateful and contented; I have asked nothing from you, nor did I intend to ask anything. You have been very good to me; you took compassion upon me in my misery, and I have been accustomed to see people of your class pass me by. Let me thank you for your goodness, and go on my way." So saying, she rose, and turned as if to leave the room.

"No!" cried Sir Oswald, impetuously; "I cannot let you go. I must help you in some manner—even if you will not throw light upon your past existence; even if I must act entirely in the dark."

"You are too good, sir", replied the girl, deeply touched; "but remember that I do not ask your help. My history is a terrible one. I have suffered from crimes of others; but neither crime nor dishonor have sullied my own life. I have lived amongst people I despised, holding myself aloof as far as was possible. I have been laughed at, hated, ill-used for that which has been called pride; but I have at least preserved myself unpolluted by the corruption that surrounded me. If you can believe this, if you can take me on trust, and stretch forth your hand to help me, konwing no more of me than I have now told you. I shall accept your assistance proudly and gratefully. But if you cannot believe, let me go my own way."

"I will trust you," he said; "I will help you blindly, since it must be so. Let me ask you two or three questions, then all questioning between us shall be at an end."

"Your name?"

"My name is Honoria Milford."

"Your age?"

"Eighteen."

"Tell me, how is it that your manner of speaking, your tones of voice, are those of a person who has received a superior education?"

"I am not entirely uneducated. An Italian priest, a cousin of my poor mother's, bestowed some care upon me when I was in Florenc. He was a very learned man, and taught me much that is rarely taught to a girl of fourteen or fifteen. His house was my refuge in days of cruel misery, and his teaching was the only happiness of my life. And now, sir, question me no further, I entreat you."

"Very well, then, I will ask no more; and I will trust you."

"I thank you, sir, for your generous confidence."

"And now I will tell you my plans for your future welfare," Sir Oswald continued, kindly. "I was thinking much of you while I breakfasted. You have a magnificent voice; and it is upon that voice you must depend for the future. Are you fond of music?"

"I am very fond of music."

There was little in the girl's words

SUGGESTS ALTERNATIVE FOR FREE WHEAT

Brandon Conservative Contributes Speech to Budget Debate Proposing Aid For Western Mill Men—Laurier Government Did Little For the West—Eastern Members Express Impatience With West.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The budget debate was continued in the House of Commons yesterday with six speakers taking part. J. A. M. Aikins, Conservative member for Brandon, a stronghold of the Grain Growers, expressed himself in favor of free wheat or as an alternative to that, aid for the western millers. Mr. Morris of Chateauguay had little sympathy for the demands of the western farmers who were, he said, soil exploiters and must sooner or later be replaced by real farmers.

Mr. Robb (Lib., Huntingdon) in resuming the budget debate, said that the Borden Government had no remedy for hard times except to build drillsheds and give away Dreadnoughts. The Finance Minister had stated that the Government could not hope to borrow money for years to come at less than 4 per cent. If that were the case why did it not pay 4 per cent. to depositors in the postal savings and Government savings banks? If money was worth 4 per cent. why pay our own people less? The Conservatives believed in taxing everything. The Liberals favored giving the farmers a wider market.

Mr. Aikins (Con., Brandon) said there was no effective argument, in his opinion, against the demand of the western farmers for free wheat.

"If the interest of the west," Mr. Aikins continued, "are to be sacrificed to the interests of the eastern millers and the railways, then it is the duty of the Government to bonus the flour milling industry in the western provinces. For this purpose milling machinery should be admitted free of duty, and power be furnished the millers at reduced rates by the Dominion Government.

The Laurier Government, the member for Brandon continued, had neglected the west, while endeavoring to make the eastern people believe that they were making great sacrifices for the benefit of the country west of Lake Superior. That Government had only expended about $1,000,000 all told in railway construction in western Canada, including the few miles of the National Transcontinental which ran through the Province of Manitoba. True, it had loaned ten million dollars to the Grand Trunk Pacific, but that money would be repaid.

Mr. Buchanan (Lib., Medicine Hat) spoke earnestly in favor of free wheat. He said the population of Southern Alberta had become stationery and that settlers were leaving the land and returning to Ontario and the United States.

Mr. Buchanan declared himself against any further aid to the Canadian Northern. Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann, he said, should sell out their interests in street car companies and other enterprises at home and abroad and complete the Canadian Northern with their own money. If they could not or would not do this, the road should be taken over by the Dominion Government.

Mr. Webster (Con., Brockville) ridiculed the statement made by Liberal speakers that the western farmers were not getting fair treatment from the Government. He pointed out that pioneer conditions in the west to-day were not as half so strenuous as pioneer conditions in Ontario and Quebec fifty years ago. The west up until a short time ago had been given the pick of the immigrants, while Ontario farmers had a hard time to get farm help.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson said the impending contest between the two political parties in Canada would be a contest between the big interests and the plain people. Protection he denounced as the breeder of corruption. Its votaries, like the heathen of old, made idols of gold and silver, the works of the hands of men. Protectionism was frankly materialistic and held up material success as the national ideal, with demoralizing effect upon the social, moral and intellectual conditions of the people.

Mr. Morris (Con., Cateauguay) opposed free wheat and believed too much attention was being given to complaints from the west. Many of the wheat growers in the prairie provinces were not farmers at all, but were exploiters of the soil. Before long real farmers would have to go into that part of Canada and build up the soil.

FOSSAL BALM
Goes Right to the Spot

If you have a cold in the head—if your nasal passages are inflamed, stuffed up, smarting—or if you suffer from chronic nasal catarrh—you can get quick relief by using Fossal Balm.

This is an antiseptic, healing salve put up in a collapsible tube so formed as to make it remarkably easy to use. When the elongated cap is removed it uncovers the nozzle-shaped end of the tube, about half an inch long. This is inserted in the nose and the tube squeezed gently, depositing a little of the Balm well up in the nasal passages. A little rubbing of the nose, and the indrawn breath, distribute the Fossal Balm throughout the passages, where it comes directly into contact with the inflamed membranes and the germs of disease. The latter it kills—the former it soothes and heals. The smarting irritation disappears—the nostrils are cleared, making breathing easy—and the catarrhal conditions, if they exist, are corrected.

Get a 50c tube of Fossal Balm from your Druggist, or write for it direct to us. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal.

Siberian Wolves Won.

NOME, Alaska, April 18. — John Johnson, holder of the record for the 412-mile all-Alaska sweepstakes dog team race, became the winner in the 1914 classic when he drove his eighteen Siberian wolves into Nome at three minutes after six o'clock Thursday night, having covered the 412 miles over the snow trail from Nome to Candle and return in 61 hours and 3 minutes. A. A. (Scotty) Allan, driver of the Allan-Darling team of eighteen Malamutes is still on the trail, but will finish second. Fred. Ayer with his team of fourteen foxhounds will finish third.

Suggests His Resignation.

WINNIPEG, April 18.—The Winnipeg Tribune yesterday editorially commends Lieut.-Governor Cameron for his refusal to attend the Catholic banquet where the Pope was to be toasted before the King, and suggests that the Lieutenant-Governor might almost be justified in asking for the resignation of Hon. Joseph Bernier, Provincial Secretary, who spake to one toast.

I like the meekest man. He's meek.
You seldom hear his din.
But when a man has lots of cheek
He has a lot of chin.

INVADING THE STATES

Manufacturers Complain They are Hard Hit by Working Underwood Tariff

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 18.—Manufacturers of pig iron in the south are suffering, and there is no denying that imported iron is doing harm to the southern product. Canadian iron is being placed along the Atlantic coast under what Birmingham iron, some of the cheapest made in the world, can be carried to that portion of the country.

Among the companies which are feeling the effects is the Woodward Iron Company, of which J. H. Woodward is president, and A. H. Woodward, his son, is general manager. J. H. Woodward is father-in-law of Congressman Oscar W. Underwood, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee in Congress and father of the tariff bills.

To Fight Cost of Living.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Recommendations for the establishment of a nation-wide organization to reduce the cost of living by improving methods of farm production, marketing and co-operation, were presented yesterday to the second national conference on marketing and farm credits.

Establishment of a school of instruction to train managers of co-operative organizations and an expert service corps to advise with farmers were recommended in the committee's report.

Quebec Bars To Open Later.

QUEBEC, March 18.—From May 1 next the bars will be compelled to keep closed until 7.30 o'clock in the morning, instead of opening at 7 a.m. as at present.

The main object of the change is to prevent the workingmen of the province from making it a habit to drop into the saloon for a "bracer" while on their way to work.

RENDERS DRINK NAUSEOUS

THROUGH RESTORING NATURAL PHYSICAL CONDITION

Drunkenness is coming to be regarded in its true light. It is a disease—a diseased condition of the stomach membranes, and sufferers should be pitied and helped instead of blamed or punished.

The drink habit takes hold quickly. Alcohol inflames the stomach and quickly brings about a diseased condition of the nerves and membranes of the stomach that creates an unbearable craving, and unless the patient is helped, his desire to stop is powerless.

BEACHY AND OLDFIELD WILL BE ATTACTION FOR KING'S BIRTHDAY

Arrangements Under Way for Creditable Demonstration This Year

Yesterday afternoon, in response to a notice, a goodly number assembled at the city hall for the purpose of considering and formulating a programme of events for the celebration to be held here on the 3rd of June, the King's birthday.

Amongst those present were: Lieut.-Col. Marsh, Mayor Wills, A. Jones, Col. Ponton, Ald. McFee, C. J. Bowell, J. E. Parks, L. R. Terwilligar, S. R. Burrows, B. L. Hyman, J. A. Kerr, W. Rogers, W. B. Deacon, Ald. O'Flynn, W. Doyle, T. P. J. Power, D. W. M. Shorey, J. N. Doyle and others.

Col. Marsh occupied the chair, and briefly stated the object of the meeting, namely, to arrange a city celebration on June 3rd. He referred to the success of last year's celebration, and the fact that there was in the bank a surplus fund.

Mr. Samuel E. Tuck, who is vice-president of an amusement corporation, being called upon said he was prepared to furnish a great attraction, namely, Lincoln Beachy, the most daring and fearless loop-the-loop aviator, and Barney Oldfield, the world renowned auto driver. Their performances were not only of a high order, but sensational. He stipulated the prices they could be secured for on that day.

Col. Ponton spoke of the exhibition grounds and the purchasing of them if it could be done, and the building of a new grandstand. In regard to the celebration, he referred to the fact that on June 2nd, the Duke of Connaught, the King's representative in Canada, the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia would be passing through the Bay of Quinte after being entertained at Cobourg on June 1st. He suggested that an effort be made to secure their presence here on that day.

Mayor Wills was in hearty accord with the committee's idea of a great attraction for the day, and also the procuring of the Governor-General, the Duchess and Princess Patricia for that day. He personally would do all he could.

After some further discussion the matter of procuring the distinguished guests was left with Mayor Wills and Col. Ponton, who were asked to communicate with His Excellency.

As to the attractions, a motion moved by Mr. S. R. Burrows and seconded by Mr. L. R. Terwilligar that Lincoln Beachy and Barney Oldfield be procured, was unanimously carried, and the motion also embraced the procuring through Mr. Tuck of 800 sheets of lithographs as part of the contract.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected, being the same as last year.

Hon. Pres.—Mayor Wills.
President—Col. Marsh.
Vice-Pres.—W. B. Deacon.
Secretary—A. Jones.
Treasurer—W. Carnew.
Publicity Managers—W. Doyle and R. H. Ketcheson.

The appointing of the executive committee and the chairmen of the various committees was left in abeyance to an adjourned meeting, which is to be held in a few days.

RUN TO EARTH

but the tone in which they were spoken, the look of inspiration which lighted up the speaker's face, convinced Sir Oswald that she was an enthusiast.

"Do you play the piano?"

"A little; by ear."

"And you know nothing of the science of music?"

"Nothing."

"Then you will have a great deal to learn before you can make any profitable use of your voice. And now I will tell you what I shall do. I shall make immediate arrangements for placing you in a first-class boarding school in London, or the neighborhood of London. There you will complete your education and singing, and devote the greater part of your time to the cultivation of your voice. It will be known that you are intended for the career of a professional singer, and every facility will be afforded you for study. You will remain in this establishment for two years, and at the end of that time I shall place you under the tuition of some eminent singer, who will complete your musical education, and enable you to appear as a public singer. All the rest will depend on your own industry and perseverance."

"And I should be a worthless creature if I were not more industrious than ever any woman was before!" exclaimed Honoria. "Oh, sir, how can I find words to thank you?"

"You have no need to thank me. I am a rich man, with neither wife nor child upon whom to waste my money. Besides, if you find the obligation too heavy to bear, you can repay me when you become a distinguished singer."

"I will work hard to hasten that day, sir", answered the girl, earnestly.

Sir Oswald had spoken thus lightly, in order to set his protegee more at her ease. He saw that her eyes were filled with tears and moving to the window to give her time to recover herself, stood for some minutes looking out into the market-place. Then he came back to his easy chair by the fire, and addressed her once more

KEPHALDOL

CURES PAIN, BUT DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

First of all it may be well to mention that "Kephaldol" is the prescription of one of the world's greatest nerve specialists—the famous Herr Doctor Stohr of Vienna, Austria.

He had used "Kephaldol in his private practise and hospital clinics, in thousands of cases of Headaches, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuritis, La Grippe and other forms of Nerve Exhaustion.

The mere fact that Dr. Stohr originated "Kephaldol" is the only recommendation needed by most physicians and surgeons to commend the formula to their attention.

"Kephaldol" is the only pain-relieving remedy used by Dr. Stohr because it is the only one that does not affect the heart or other organs and may be taken with perfect safety until a complete cure results.

"Kephaldol" Tablets may be obtained at most drug stores in 50c tubes or they will be sent on receipt of price by Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour St., Montreal.

BELLEVILLE BI-PLANE FOR PANAMA FAIR

First Product of Canadian Aviation School is now on View in Toronto

TORONTO, April 17.—The first aeroplane built in Canada is now on exhibition on the fourth floor of Simpson's store. It has been built by Pollay Brothers, whose school of aviation and factory for the manufacture of aeroplanes was opened in Belleville on October 6, 1913. The school and factory are to be transferred to Toronto, and will be opened here shortly.

The machine will remain on view at Simpson's store during the coming week and will doubtless be viewed with considerable interest. It is a Pollay military bi-plane and was designed by F. Davidson, who has had over eight years experience and has built over 200 machines in different places. He was formerly of the Glen H. Curtiss Company of Hammond's Port, New York. The bi-plane is 35 feet wide and 30 inches long. The total weight of the machine ready to fly is 900 pounds. It is driven by a 90-100 horse-power Max-motor engine. A speed of 80 miles an hour can be obtained and with a gasolene supply of 50 gallons the machine can travel a distance of over 500 miles before landing. It is capable of carrying three passengers beside the driver. The machine is valued at $8000.

If sufficient public support can be obtained the Pollay School of Aviation proposes to build an aeroplane to compete in the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in 1915. This will be the only machine to represent Canada, as this is the only factory in the Dominion. The aeroplane will be fitted with two 150 or 200 horse-power engines. It will be twice as big as the bi-plane now on view and will cost about $50,000.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"THE RED WIDOW"

"The Red Widow", the delightful musical comedy that was one of the past season's marvelous metropolitan successes, is to be the attraction at the local playhouse. It comes to us with a cast of cosmopolitan favorites who in the several song numbers and in the dance advertisements are said to be most pleasing. All the original Astor Theatre, New York scenic embellisments, stage effects and sartorial appointments, the latter of a high and pleasing order, will be brought along. The company numbers nearly three score people, Frank Shea, Edna Mason, Theodore Martin and Lillian Ludlowe, enacting and singing the several leading roles. At Griffin's Opera House, Wednesday evening, April 22.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With The Othine Prescription

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

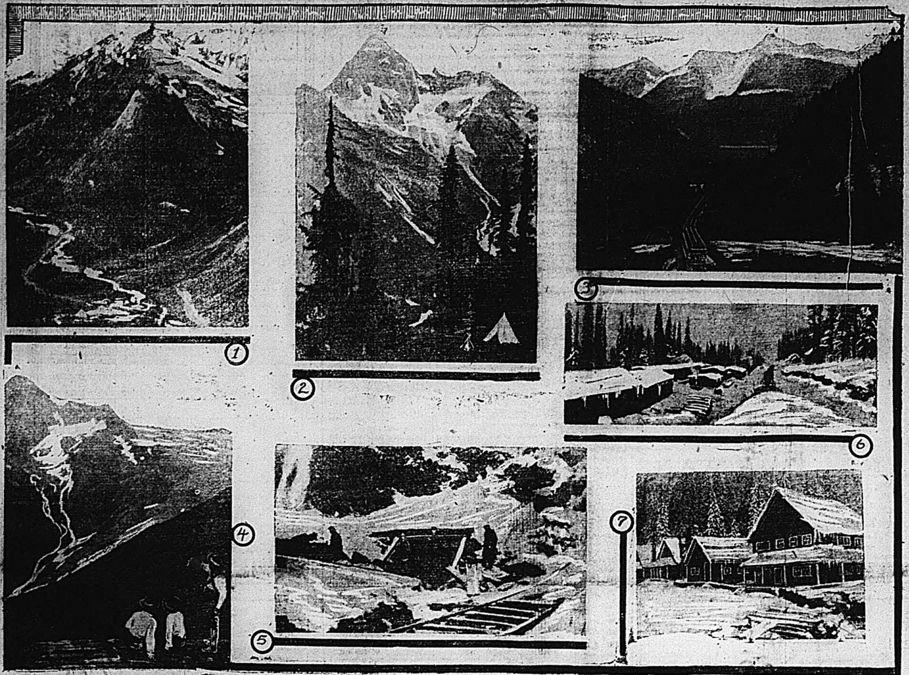
LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 47 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1914. NO. 293



Selkirk Tunnel—1, Ilecillewaet. 2, Mt. McDonald. 3, The Loops. 4, Another view of Mt. McDonald. 5, Entrance to Pioneer Bore. 6, Entrance Portal. 7, Construction Camp.

In the vast amphitheatres formed by the ranges of perpetually snow-clad mountains which surround the pass of the Selkirks, modern science to-day is pitting its wits against the titanic forces of nature. A tremendous conflict is being waged in the valleys on either side of the summit where the primordial has held sway for countless ages.

Brains and brawn, backed by modern machinery, modern methods and scientific organizations, are combining to circumvent the elements. Hugo iron mammoths are scooping out earth rock in hundred-ton mouthfuls, and powerful explosives are rending the innermost recesses of the hills to serve the needs of a transcontinental railway system and to permit of the onward march of progress.

Coping with physical handicaps which for many years baffled some of the world's greatest engineers, the Canadian Pacific Railway is now projecting a scheme of greater magnitude than anything of its kind previously attempted on this continent—the boring of a five-mile, double-track tunnel through Mount Macdonald, one of the peaks of the Selkirk range. The passage will obviate the present necessity of using two long spiral "loops" on the western slope and many miles of snow sheds, the improvements being designed to effect a big grade of reduction and the abandonment of one of the most costly sections of railway from an operating standpoint of view, on the entire system.

The new location for the line will shorten the route by four miles. The enterprise is officially known as the Rogers Pass tunnelling scheme and the work and related improvements will involve the expenditure of more than $10,000,000. The tunnel will take rank as the longest railway bore in America. The Hoosac tunnel on the New York Central line is the longest at present being just four and three-quarters miles through.

From time to time reference has been made in the Province to the Rogers Pass tunnel project but up to the present a detailed description of the big undertaking has not been published in this or any other journal. A staff representative recently visited the scene of the operations to obtain data and material for an outline of the undertaking and through the courtesy of the C.P.R. and the contracts was enabled to inspect the work already accomplished.

The accompanying sketch and the views reproduced on this page will convey an idea of the general nature of the enterprise.

Since the Canadian Pacific Railway first opened its trans-continental line through the mountains of British Columbia it has expended millions of dollars in protecting and renewing its tracks on extra locomotives used to haul trains up the heavy grades and in coping with snowfalls and other physical handicaps which keep a large amount of expensive equipment busy nearly all the year. At Rogers Pass, close to the summit of the Selkirks, the company maintains large engine sheds, shops, snow ploughs and outfits ready for service on both sides of the Selkirk range.

For many years the railway company have been gradually effecting a reduction of its gradients and improving its main line generally in preparation for a big expansion of business and the development of the grain traffic westward from the prairies. In connection with this progressive policy the C.P.R. four years ago bored two spiral tunnels through Mount Cathedral and Mount Ogden in the Rocky Mountain range, eliminating what was known in railway circles as the "big hill" between Field and Hector.

The engineer who had charge of the tunnel undertaking which reduced the grade to normal on the "big hill" spent two years seeking a favorable location for a tunnel through the Selkirks. He discovered a route six and a quarter miles long and later improved on his first plan and developed the tunnel scheme which is now being projected—a bore five miles in length.

The C.P.R. decided on the Rogers Pass tunnel undertaking and relating double-tracking work last spring, preliminary operations being started last June. Before the work could be commenced on the excavation for the approaches, sidings had to be installed on either side of the mountains, camps had to be established, trails and roads had to be built and a thousand and one other organization details had to be given attention. When the Province representative visited the scene of operations late last month 40 per cent. of the excavation for the right of way on the western section of the work had been done and 35 per cent. at the eastern side. Boring operations on the "pioneer" bore, which will be decribed later in this article were commenced last autumn and a start was made a short time ago on the main tunnel from the eastern portal.

Before proceeding with the description of the big improvement project, a trip along the portion of the transcontinental route which will be affected by the new location will enable the reader to more readily grasp the significance of the changes now in progress. Attention is drawn to the views despicted on this page showing the Beaver River valley, the Illecillewaet Valley, the "Loops" and Mounts, Sir Donald and Macdonald, and also to the sketch plan. The Beaver Valley lies east of the Selkirk range and Illecillewaet Valley to the west. On the westbound trip through the pass trains start the ascent of the Selkirks at Beavermouth, 28 miles west of Golden, which is at an altitude of 2435 feet and is the most northerly station on the transcontinental route. The summit of the range is 4351 feet above sea level.

Before reaching Beavermouth the railway crosses the Columbia River to the base of the Selkirks, which, in direct contrast to the slopes of the Rockies, are always wooded. The line gradually climbs upward and enters the Selkirks through the Gate of the Beaver River, a picturesque spot where a natural bridge spans a raging torrent.

Six Mile Creek, five miles west of Beavermouth, is the junction point for the new location which leaves the present route, notched into the mountainside and rising at an average rate of 116 feet in the mile, and descends into the Beaver Valley following the river to the eastern portal of the tunnel under Mount Macdonald. The scene of the operations is more than 1600 feet below the present track level and is about twelve miles west of Six Mile Creek. Only the pres-fleat upward from the valley gives indication that a stupendous scheme is in course of development below.

The scenery here is superb. Rugged lines of mountain peaks are to be discerned towering skywards like steeples raised by the hand of nature, their lofty crests crowned with perpetual snow presenting a scene of magnificence that eclipses even majestic grandeur of the Rockies and the Swiss Alps. Against the background of blue sky each snow-capped spire stands out in wondrous perfection of detail, the cloudbanks which often hover around the peaks only serving to accentuate the clear outline of each lofty crest. Nature has worked here on so gigantic a scale and spread her marvels with such a lavish hand that the observer, taking his first glimpse of the Selkirks, finds difficulty in framing words to express his wonderment; adjectives fail, superlatives seem totally inadequate. Even the most prosaic of individuals cannot fail to be impressed by the glorious panorama which greets the eye.

Of the many peaks which form a seemingly impassable rock-bound barrier to the west, Mount Sir Donald, named after the late Lord Strathcona when he was Sir Donald Smith, forms the culminating pinnacle, its altitude being 10,808 feet (nearly two miles). Mount Macdonald, which is 9,860 feet in height, also looms out prominently with rugged and precipitous slopes.

The gorge of Bear Creek leads into a vast ravine between Mount Macdonald on the right and Mount Tupper on the left, entering Rogers Pass through a narrow defile. Mount Macdonald is to be seen rearing its proud head from a lofty height more than a mile above the level of the tracks, as if serenly unconscious of the fact that modern science and the onward march of progress is gnawing at its vitals and piercing its rugged sides, and that the iron mammoths are scooping out masses of earth preparing for the drillers who like gnomes of legend will toil in its innermost recesses.

The base of Mount MacDonald appears but a stone's throw from the railway, the peak arising almost vertically to its stupendous height among the clouds. One feels a great sense of the immensity of Nature's works when gazing at this stately summit and its surrounding pinnacles. The line skirts Mount Tupper when approaching Rogers Pass, clinging to the precipitous sides of that rugged slope.

The pass derives its name from Major A. B. Rogers, the adventurous and indefatigable explorer who first penetrated the mountain fastnesses of the Selkirks in 1881, and discovered the narrow rocky defile.

Passing between two serrated lines of peaks the railway proceeds to the actual summit, 4351 feet above sea level, and thent starts the descent into the Illecillewaet Valley. Glacier, where there is a fine hotel and summer resort, is a descent of 258 feet in the two miles of the summit.

Rounding the curve after emerging from another line of snowsheds which are not used during the summer months, an alternative route being provided by an outer track the traveller catches his first glimpse at close range of the Illecillewaet Valley, extending westward in a glorious vista flanked by majestic peaks. The world renowned "loops" can be seen far down below on the way down from the summit, the railway passing immediately above one of the spirals which is several miles distant by actual measurement of track. Between the summit and Gladier House the line follows a course notched out on the sides of the Axial range of mountains, part of the Selkirks, of which Mount Sir Donald is one of the principal peaks, Mount Macdonald adjoins its mighty namesake.

Leaving Glacier the train pursues a tortuous path, following the natural curvature of the mountain side and descending to the valley by a series of startling turns and twists known as the "loops" which roughly describe the letter "S." During the course the line first crosses the valley leading down from the Mount Romney glacier, skirts the base of Ross Peak, on the opposite side of the valley to the range of the mountains just negotiated, then doubles back upon itself to the right. Another sweeping turn in them made in the direction of the Cougar Mountain, on the other side of the Illecillewaet the railway again crosses to the left and, doubling once more, resumes the westward parallel again with its former course. Gazing back over the route just traversed one sees three gashes on the slope of the mountain which mark the railway's circuitous route.

The new location for the line under the Selkirks branches off from the present route near Cambie, three miles west of Glacier, and at a point close to the commencement of the "loops" going commencement of the "loops" going west. A sign announces that a siding at Cambie leads to the western portal of the tunnel now being projected through the Selkirks. No other inkling is given the passing traveller of the immensity of the task which is proceeding in one of nature's strongholds only a short distance from the main track. The shrill tooting of whistles on the steam shovels and the reverberating echo of heavy blasts may be heard at intervals but the actual operations can not be seen without leaving the beaten path.

The camp at the western end of the work is gained by two routes—by following the siding or by an excellent road built by the Provincial Government which leads from Glacier House down the valley and passes near the scene of the work. Following an even grade from Cambie the appraaches to the tunnel run in an almost straight line to the base of Mount Macdonald. A tremendous amount of excavation which has been done, the material originally intended for dump filling has been found necessary for the roadbed.

The western portal will be located about 1700 feet below and a short distance west of Glacier House. The main passage will provide for double tracks and the approaches from both ends will also have parallel lines. The tunnel will be fully 29 feet wide and 23 feet high, space for lining the walls where necessary being provided by extra excavation. The inside of the tunnel will be timbered and reinforced with concrete where required. The exact material in the heart of the mountain will only be determined as the boring proceeds although it is expected that stratas of different kinds of rock and earth encountred on the way through.

The visitor to the scene of operations is at once struck by the fact that some wonderful organization work has been effected to make possible the projection of a task of such magnitude as the Roger Pass improvement scheme. The physical handicaps are tremendous—it does not require a technical mind to grasp that essential. Masses of snow banked on either side of the working tracts and the steam shovels, the steep mountains which flank and face the observer offer convincing evidence of the fact that here nature is ranged in her might only to be conquered by science supplemented by brains, brawn and indomitable energy.

The huge peaks appear to be frowning down upon the intruders who have evaded their domains, inviolate from the descrating hand of man for countless centuries, angry at the pigmies who are disturbing the silence and marking the virgin snow with smoke and ashes and other evidences of their activities. Two big steam shovels, one of them scooping up as much as 10 tons at once in its hungry maw are to be seen at work in the cutting which will lead up to the portal of the passage through the bowels of the earth.

The tunnel will follow a straight line under Mount Macdonald emerging in the Beaver Valley at a point about 1000 feet below the present line, which, as described previously, reaches the summit by a gradual incline on a route notched out on the eastern slopes. The eastern entrance is situated almost immediately below Hermit, a flag station east of Rogers Pass and nearly 17 miles west of Golden.

Gazing up the rugged sides of Mount Macdonald from the Illecillewaet Valley the course to be followed by the big bore can be plainly traced. Up the timber line a space has been cleared between the trees, posts being planted to mark the path which will be taken inside the mountain. A centre line has been mapped out right up to the top of the peak on the apex of which is a pole with a signal flag from which observations may be taken from both the Illecilewaet and Beaver valleys.

Mount Macdonald can only be climbed from the west side as it drops down practically sheer on the eastern slope. When the signal flag was being planted on the extreme summit last August, the staffs of engineers at the eastern and western camps sighted their instruments from both valleys and checked up their previous calculations in order to ensure perfect accuracy in projecting their respective bores. The pole at the summit indilates the alignment of the tunnel while a route surveyed around the slopes of the mountain gives the basis for the triangulation. The exact location of the tunnel will be determined by the two courses mapped out over and around Mount Macdonald and by mathematical processes too technical for detailed description here. The highest point reached by the proposed tunnel will be 3795 feet above sea level, or 4065 feet from the extreme height of the peak. The passage through the mountain will have a gradual rise of one per cent. to the "interior summit."

The railway after passing through the tunnel will cross Bear Creek on the eastern portal and follow the course of the Beaver River, extending to Six Mile Creek, the junction point ten miles east by an easy grade. Stoney Creek and other mountain streams being forded close to the base of the slopes.

The contractors, who have in hand the tunnel scheme are applying an entirely new method in tunnel piercing—they are projecting what is known as a "pioneer bore." This is a small preliminary shaft, seven feet by nine which will parallel the course of the main tunnel fifty feet distant and will be bored from both ends at the same time. The idea is quite in the nature of an experiment and was decided upon only after careful calculation and mature consideration.

With the "pioneer bore," the work will be greatly facilitated. Side drifts will be excavated leading into the course of the main tunnel and drillers will thus be enabled to attack a number of points at once. While blasting is proceeding in one part of the shaft the workers will be able to continue their activities in another instead of having to cease work each time a shot is fired as would be the case with the one heading. The same applies to the excavation part of the work. Lines of cars loaded with material can be kept continually in motion from the various drifts which would not be possible were the operations concentrated all at one part.

Another great advantage is the fact that the "pioneer" bore will act as a ventilating shaft, enabling the passage of a current of air through two bores and the connecting passages. It will also serve a permanent purpose in the same connection on the completion of the main tunnel.

The tunnel operations have a decidedly human interest side. With perspiration dripping from their lightly-clad bodies, the drill men may be seen calmly proceeding with their allotted tasks, paying little heed to the signficance of their work. To many of them it is merely a "job"—some, so many daily hours of hard toil in the bowels of the mountains, so many hours of rest and sleep and so much remuneration. They give little thought if any to the fact that they are engaged in one of the greatest projects undertaken on the American continent.

One of the difficult engineering feats carried out in connection with the tunnel undertaking was the diversion of the course of the Illecilewaet River. The stream which during the spring freshets assumes the dimensions of a raging torrent, presented a great handicap as its original channel crossed the location for the approaches at a point where a deep cutting had to be excavated to secure the necessary grade for the entrance of the tunnel, and then skirted the route for a considerable distance. While measures could have been taken effectively for carrying the tracks on trestles or bridges there would still have been a danger of the river entroaching on the line or undermining the roadbed, and so it was decided to change the course of the stream.

To accomplish this purpose and to prevent future trouble, a deep trench nearly a mile long was dug on the left side of the approaches. This will act as a continuation of the original channel of the river and will divert the stream past the cutting to a point where an arched culvert will turn the waters under the tracks again into the old creek bed on the right side of the railway.

The tunnel contract covers eight miles of the improvement scheme which will extend to Six Mile Creek, and includes the construction of the line from the junction point at Cambie to a point about a mile on the other side of the eastern portal. A contract will be let later for the double track connections further east.

Work on the cutting is being pressed night and day, two shifts a day being employed outside. A force of 500 men is now engaged, 300 of whom are at the western end and 200 at the eastern section. Special gangs are engaged constantly during the winter months keeping the working tracks clear of snow. A large amount of machinery is used by the contractors, among the equipment being compressor plants for the air drills, large steam shovels, lighting plants and motors of various kinds.

Model villages have been established by the contractors on both sides of the mountain. The buildings are all equipped with electric light, hot and cold running water, sanitary plumbing and other conveniences not usually found in the ordinary railway camp. Roomy dining-rooms and sleeping quarters are provided for the men, the houses being connected with covered passage ways raised above the level of the snow. The kitchens are well laid and splendidly appointed, having concrete floors among other aids to cleanliness.

Comfortable quarters for the clerical and engineering staffs of the contractors and the C.P.R. are provided in separate buildings. Several apartment houses and small dwelling are reserved for married men. There are well stocked stores at both camps, comfortable lounging rooms, post-office and other institutions found in small towns.

Emergency hospitals and surgeons are maintained at both villages and there is a regular police force. The constables are kept constantly on the alert to prevent "bootleggers" from plying their nefarious trade around the camps. Liquor selling is rigorously suppressed for no one knows better than the railway contractor the troubles that is caused by the smuggling into camp of large quantities of fiery spirit.

Gangs of drillmen will be employed in three continuous shifts on the tunnel excavation work which will be prosecuted from both ends at the same time. Work on the "pioneer" bore has been advanced at the eastern portal nearly a thousand feet into the base of the mountain and a start has also been made on the main bore from the east end. Operations will be commenced on the preliminary shaft and the large tunnel at the western end at an early date. The excavations for the approaches at both sides, as already mentioned, are almost half completed

The vast undertaking is being carried out for the C.P.R. by Messrs Foley Bros Welsh and Stewart, the big railway contracting firm. Mr. A. C. Dennis is the superintendent in charge of the operations, while Mr. J. D. Shepperd, officially designated assistant engineer, in charge of the Rogers Pass project is the railway company's head official representative on the ground. He makes his headquarters at the western camp which is connected by telephone with the eastern camp and points along the line on both sides of the summit. Under Mr. Shepperd are two resident engineers, Mr. H. R. Phipps at the eastern end and Mr. D. Macgilp at the west. The executive offices are located at the western portal camp and two entirely separate staffs are maintained by both the C.P.R. and the contractors.

Boy Shoots Huge Eagle.

Master John Fleming, 13 years old, son of Mr. Peter Fleming, Larkins, Ont., proved himself a hero recently by coming to the rescue of one of his father's geese which was doing battle in the barnyard with a giant eagle. The young lad was attracted to the scene by the squaking of the geese, and seeing the peril of one of them held firmly in the talons of a monster bird, he hurriedly made for the house and returning with a musket shot the intruder before it had time to make away with its prey. Several farmers in the district had seen the eagle at times throughout the winter, but never at close range. From tip to tip of wings it measured 6 feet 9 inches.

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrh, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them and you will be the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double strength), about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one teaspoonful four times a day.

The first dose promptly ends the most distressing head noises, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns and the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are quickly overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh; therefore, there are but few people whose hearing cannot be restored by this simple home treatment. Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness or catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Important:—In ordering Parmint always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c to the International Laboratories 74 St Antoine street, Montreal, P. Q., who make a speciality of it.

[illegible]

Put in the center of a dish a pineapple, pared, cored and sliced thin, yet retaining as near as possible its original shape. Peel, quarter and remove the seeds from three oranges, arrange them around the pineapple. Take three bananas, peel and cut into slices crosswise. Arrange these wreath fashion around the oranges and over this strew a few strawberries. Put one pint of pulverized sugar over the fruit and serve.

Russian Salad Dressing.

To make salad dressing in the Russian style take four tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise; add half a pimento, chopped rather finely. To this add half a dozen sprigs of chives, chopped fine and stir. Take two tablespoonfuls of chili sauce and a dash of tarragon vinegar. Add to this mixture one tablespoonful of whipped cream. Whip again thoroughly and serve. This will be enough for four people.

Water Biscuit.

One light quart of flour, one large kitchen spoonful of lard, two teaspoonfuls of yeast powder and one even teaspoonful of salt. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and mix thoroughly with the lard. Add cold water to make a dough of the right consistency. Roll out and bake immediately. If you want them successful you must be sure to use enough lard or shortening.

CROOKS GO BY CLASSES

AND EACH ONE STICKS TO HIS OWN SPECIAL TRADE.

The "Artist" In Criminal Circles Is Not a "Bad Man" But Trusts to His Wits — "Yegg" or "Strong-Arm" Is Desperado Who Fights Arrest — Petty Thief Is Almost Too Small to Catch.

Criminals, in the opinion of the police, are divided into three classes. To the experienced Toronto detective or police officer each class has its different peculiarities which are readily identified by the work of the criminal. It is just this work which furnishes the detectives with the clues which lead to the detection of the criminal and upon which the police base their hope of securing convictions. Contrary to popular opinion, the real criminal, the artist in his profession, is not a "bad" man. That is, he is not the one to resist the police at the time of his arrest. Very rarely does he carry a gun or a "black-jack," but depends upon his wits, his knowledge of the law, and the ability of a clever criminal lawyer to get him out of his difficulties.

This class of criminal, as a rule, is the kind who floats bogus insurance companies, stock and mining concerns, and is a hard man to prove anything against. His operations are skillfully covered up by means of technicalities in the law and his victims are of the class who desire to obtain easy money, something for nothing, or as near nothing as possible. Cleverly-worded advertisements, personal letters, and alluring circulars are the tools of his trade, and, counting upon the fear of ridicule that the average man who has been swindled possesses, he operates boldly and with little fear of detection.

When the police do round up one of these characters they depend largely upon the evidence of one who has been victimized to secure a conviction. The fact that the plan to obtain this easy money has never been clearly or fully explained to the victim makes the task of convicting the "get-rich-quick artist" more difficult for the police. The kind of men that are usually selected are the gullible confiding class not overburdened with brains, and what a real clever lawyer does to a man of this kind when he gets him in the witness-box is pitiable.

Possessed with a winning personality, a prosperous appearance, and a smooth line of palaver, the swindler has the appearance of an up-to-the-minute business man, and for every one that the police convict there are a score who continue their nefarious operation undisturbed.

The criminal who is probably of the most dangerous type is the "yegg" or "strong-arm" man — the one who enters your house with the intention of stealing. Always armed, he realizes that he may be shot if detected, and takes no chances. It is your life or his, and if he sees you first it is generally yours. These men work in pairs, as a rule. And very seldom do they remain in one town for any length of time. The first thing they do on reaching a city is to locate others of their ilk. A place is determined upon where the spoils will be worthy of the risk. The house is studied; the habits of the occupants closely observed, and a general knowledge of the interior of the dwelling obtained. A night is selected and if conditions are favorable an entry is made.

"These men are desperate characters," said a Toronto detective interviewed on the subject recently. "They know that if they are captured it will be a long term in prison for them, especially if they have a record. If it comes to a chase the first thing they do is to dispose of their booty, if they have obtained any; next come the firearms, for they realize that if caught with either their chance of getting off scot free is slight indeed."

Wealthy homes, small banks, and warehouses are selected by these men as worthy of their attention. The much-exploited burglar kit so well described in cheap novels is now practically relegated to the age of muzzle-loading cannon. Science has done a great deal to help the modern burglar, and his tools take up but little more space than those of the ordinary physician. About six inches of thin, tempered steel, a diamond glass cutter, an electric drill, and a bottle of "soup," or nitro-glycerine, and the crook is ready for his work. The thin steel is used to obtain an entrance. The electric drill bores a small hole in the safe, the use of the "soup" follows, and his work is practically completed.

About two years ago, Detective Wallace of Toronto walked into a pawnshop in York street. Inside were three men making arrangements to dispose of some goods. At first the men talked readily, but upon cross-examination they became uneasy, and one of them attempted to leave. The detective sought to detain him. Realizing that they had not been successful in allaying the officer's suspicions the three saw that their only chance was in making their escape. Turning upon the officer they knocked him down, broke his jaw, and left him badly battered in the store. But before three hours had elapsed they were all in custody, and two of them are now serving a three-year sentence.

The third type which causes the police considerable trouble is the petty thief, pickpocket, and small criminal. His thefts are so small, his methods so mean, that their very pettiness makes him a hard man to put safely away. This class of crook works, as a rule, in crowded street cars, public gatherings, departmental stores, and railway stations. It is the keen-eyed detective who knows and understands their methods that is responsible for their downfall.

Marvelous Balsamic Essences Cure Catarrh
No Drugs to Take--A Direct Breathing Cure

STATISTICS PROVE NINETY-SEVEN PER CENT. OF CANADA POPULATION IS INFESTED WITH THE GERMS OF CATARRH.

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national curse. Science is advancing every day, and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhozone" has sufficent power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don't take Catarrhozone like cough mixture—you inhale its healing vapor at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing whether Catarrh exists. This is nature's way of supplying the richest balsams, the purest antiseptics known to science..

A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system.

For Asthma and Bronchial irritation nothing can equal Catarrhozone—every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering from a winter ill. The complete outfit costs $1.00, medium size 50c, at all dealers.

FUN TO THE AUDIENCE.

But to the Actors Such Mistakes as These Spell Tragedy.

Among the amusing misadventures of the stage—that is amusing to the people "in front"—is that which concerns a very promising but exceedingly nervous young actor who since has become one of the brightest ornaments of the stage. He was playing the first actor in Hamlet and proceeded quite bravely until he reached these lines:

"Anon he finds him
Striking too short at Greeks."

Here, for the first time, his nerve or memory failed him; and, to the great amusement of the house, he delivered himself thus:

"Anon he finds them

with the result that, instead of speaking at least another 30 lines he incontinently stopped short, quite unable to utter a word. His companions tried to prompt him, but to no purpose whatever; and when "Polonius"—after giving him a full two minutes to pull himself together—was compelled to go on with his next line:

"This is too long,"

the audience shrieked and held its sides with laughter.

Such a very seasoned actor as the late Thomas Mead, one of the leading members of Sir Henry Irving's company, was often a victim to verbal lapses, as when, in Macbeth, instead of saying, "Cool it with a baboon's blood," he convulsed the audience by saying, "Cool it with a dragoon's blood," and one of our greatest actresses once converted an idyllic love scene into farce by changing, "Let us seek some cosy nook," into "Let us seek some nosey cook."

Even dead men on the stage have their embarrassing moments, as a certain actor who recently played the role of a poacher in a melodrama discovered. The poacher had been shot by a rival at the end of the second act, and the curtain should have fallen as he dropped dead. As ill-luck would have it, however, it stopped short when a few feet from the stage, and opposed all efforts to lower it further. The audience began to titter; the situation became tense and painful, when the dead man saved it. Rising wearily, he said, in a sepulchral voice: "Alas! there is no rest even in the grave," and glided spectrally off the stage.

At a performance of Julius Caesar, some time ago, "Marc Antony" made a ludicrous mistake when "Caesar's" dead body was brought in. Apostrophising the fallen hero in passionate eloquence, while the onlooking citizens were overwhelmed with grief, he grasped, as he thought, the face cloth and began slowly to draw it back. At this moment a sepulchral whisper came from the other end of the corpse, "This end, you idiot!" But "Antony" was too grief-stricken to pay any heed. He pulled away at the cloth and disclosed, to the startled audience, "Julius Caesar's" boots.

The Tango.

The tango mystery grows all the time. It is asserted upon every hand that nobody dances it. Still, the furor continues. Ask a dancing master if he teaches the tango and he will tell you no. He knows what it is—he has seen it done by experts—but he doesn't teach it. It is not a popular dance.

There seems to be two tangoes. One is the tango which comes to us from the Argentine Republic—a dance for experts—a slow, difficult thing that is not worth doing at all unless one can do it very well, indeed. The other tango is any new dance—the Castle walk, the hesitation waltz, or anything our fathers did not dance. This latter is the popular tango danced all over the country. It is the one at which the people who do not care about dancing continually thunder. It is not the tango at all. The tango is a myth, and they are knocking the daylights out of it every day.

Limitations as to Time.

A well known preacher was making a pedestrian excursion in a wild rural district. Feeling rather hungry, he looked at his watch to see if it was nearly dinner time, but found the watch was stopped. Just then, happening to meet with a country boy, he asked, "What time is it, my lad?" The boy replied, "Just 12, sir." "Only 12?" said the minister. "I thought it was more." "It never is more round these parts," said the boy simply. "It begins at 1."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Gluck Devotees Organize.

A Gluck association for the propagation of the works of that master has just been formed in Dresden. The society calls itself "Gluck community," and intends, little by little, to bring out in print all the literary and musical works of the composer of "Orfeo" and to foster a wider love of and understanding for the great man's music.

In Debt to the Tailor.

Dutton—You should pay more attention to your personal appearance, old chap. Remember that clothes make the man.

De Broke—Yes, but for me the man refuses to make any more clothes.

The Chaser.

His Wife—George, I heard you and Mr. Fullup talking about a "chaser" a little while ago. A chaser is an animal of some kind, isn't it?

Mr. Drysome—Yes. It's a kind of —er—water animal.

What He Was Told.

Mother—Willie, put away those drumsticks. Don't you know your father has a headache?

Willie—But, ma, when I was going into the parlor with my drum he told me to beat it.

There must have been at least 50 per cent. exaggeration in the stories of the battle of Torreon or this new series of battles at San Pedro would not have been possible so soon.

THE SUCKING FISH.

It Rides A-horseback Around the Seven Seas.

You have all heard of fishes that fly, but how many know of fishes that ride? The riding fish, known as the sucking fish, most often uses a shark for his sea-horse. He chooses the shark because where the shark goes there is sure to be plenty of food and the sucking fish can gulp down all he wants without dismounting from his steed.

But why does a great, fierce creature like the shark, allow a comparatively small fellow like this to use him for a horse? you wonder. For the very good reason that he can't help himself. The sucking fish has a long, powerful suction apparatus extending back from his head and when he grabs hold the shark has no choice as to whether he will carry a rider or no.

Sometimes the sucking fish mistakes a ship for a shark and grips the side like a barnacle, and then he has a most gorgeous time, for he rides around the seven seas with so much to eat that he can't gobble half of it down.

Sometimes, too, when there is no other "horse" at hand, the sucking fish goes a-hunting on a turtle's back. But he does not like it very well, for the poor old turtle travels so slowly that the sucking fish fares poorly as to meals.

The sucking fish never lets go of anything he once gets a grip upon. So the natives of Zanzibar and other places have learned that they can play a great trick on the turtle with his help. When their mouths are watering for turtle titbits they catch a sucking fish and paddle out into deep, clear water where they can see the turtles crawling over the bottom. Then they let down the sucking fish, who, once more in his own elements, sees a steed and gets astride.

Jerk! Plop! Up comes the sucking fish with the turtle attached. And by and by somebody has nice turtle soup for dinner.

Hospital Of a Nation.

In the near future Switzerland very likely will present to the powers a request that in the event of a great European war all of Switzerland be constituted into a Red Cross camp for the care of the wounded of all the nations involved. That, Switzerland is now convinced, it is the only way that not only its neutrality, but its very existence could be preserved.

Although the neutrality of Switzerland is guaranteed by the leading powers, the Swiss Government has recently become convinced that unless it has some actual way of insisting on the respecting of that neutrality, that in a war between any of the four great powers surrounding it this guarantee would amount to very little.

In addition it is also convinced that the first step in any European war would be the prohibition by all the powers involved of the exports of coal and provisions which they would need for their own armies. As Switzerland is entirely dependent upon the surrounding powers not only for coal, but for its grain and practically all its food supply, the cutting off of these imports would reduce the entire country to starvation within a few weeks.

It is in the hopes of exacting a guarantee from all of the four powers surrounding it not to interrupt these imports in case of war that Switzerland is considering the project of having the entire country declared a great international Red Cross camp, and to undertake the care of the wounded of all nations in the event of any general European war.

His Chance at Last.

The busybody was circulating a petition calling upon the powers that be to abolish something or other.

"It will be presented at the next meeting," he said, "and a copy of it will be printed in all the papers."

The struggling young author made haste to sign.

"What's it all about?" asked a friend.

"Oh, I don't know," said the struggling young author, "but I couldn't resist the temptation to see my name signed to something that will appear in print."

The Moors of To-day.

The Moors of to-day are the descendants of those who conquered Spain, who were practically paramount in the southern portion for two centuries and relics of whose wonderful buildings are to be found at the present day in that country. Indeed, it is strange to consider the position of the Moors of to-day when we see the work of their hands in past centuries, and the only explanation lies in the fact that they are unable to adapt themselves to modern conditions.—Strand Magazine.

"Do you think Charley is still attached to you?"

"Oh, yes! But of course I have to 'string' him now and then."

THE INFORMAL TEA.

How to Dispense Gracefully the Cup That Cheers.

The gentle art of impromptu hospitality is gradually dying out. No hostess of the present day seems to be prepared for unexpected guests. Even impromptu teas have been discarded for formal afternoon receptions, and only in a few old fashioned houses is the quaint old custom of serving 5 o'clock tea every day preserved. It is a most attractive custom, and it is a decided disparagement of the modern housekeepers that it should be allowed to die out. In England it is religiously observed, and visitors may always be sure of tea and crumpets if they call at 5 o'clock.

In most families of moderate means the woman of the house is seldom prepared to serve tea at a moment's notice. She seems to consider that she is very lucky if she and her home are sufficiently tidy to receive the guests at all.

Serving tea can always be quite simple and easy if the tea things are kept in good condition, ready to use. If the tea napkins and tray scarf are always placed near at hand and are laundered after each use, there will be no difficulty in fixing the tray in two minutes. Of course, if the hostess must stop and look for clean tea linen and polished tea silver, besides setting the tray and preparing the food, naturally 5 o'clock tea will assume bigger proportions than the average meal.

It is always a good idea to keep two or three tea tray sets of linen in use at the same time, so that a clean one may replace the soiled one instantly, but where only one can be afforded it may easily be washed out in a few moments. In such a case as this it is best to remove the tea linen immediately when the guests are gone and wash and iron it at once. In this way the set is clean for the next tea, whether it be tomorrow or next week.

Perhaps the housewives will urge as an excuse that it is impossible to prepare the food for tea at the last moment. But this is really very simple if the proper food is kept on hand. There are all kinds of delicious sweetened biscuits, crackers and cakes which come in moisture proof packages, and these may be kept indefinitely.

If sandwiches are desired there are pressed meats in tins, sardines, cheese, almost everything to be bought all cooked.

A most delicious sandwich and one which takes only a minute to prepare is made with crackers, pimento and cream cheese. The pimento and cheese may be bought already mixed in little glass jars. The crackers should be the plain, unsweetened, unsalted variety. This mixture may be spread on the crackers (with or without butter, to suit personal tastes) in a couple of minutes, and they are quite delicious.

Chinese Humor.

Two Chinamen, Chung and Kung, were warming themselves before an open stove. Chung, who was remarkable for his coolness and loquacity, said to Kung, who was an exceedingly hot-headed person: "My dear Kung, there is something that I should like very much to say to you. It relates to a circumstance I have observed for a little time past and have desired to mention to you; but, bearing in mind the somewhat fiery and quarrelsome disposition that is commonly attributed to you, I have hesitated to express myself. However, I have at last resolved that if I do not mention the matter to you I shall do wrong, and I have consequently determined to ask your permission to speak to you about it." "Well, what is it?" "Your coat, my dear Kung," said Chung quietly, "is on fire." "For pity's sake!" exclaimed Kung angrily, jumping up and finding his coat nearly burned off. "Why in the world didn't you tell me before?" "There it goes. What a frightful temper!" Chung murmured as he moved away. "Folk told me quite right about you."

Paper Fishes In Japan.

Outside the houses of any town in Japan you will see one or more paper fishes dangling and blowing in the wind. On making inquiry you are informed that the paper fishes represent the boys of the household. Every new boy means another fish. These imitations of the koi are decorated with colored silk and are thought a great deal of. The fish which the Japanese call koi is noted for its courage and tenacity and is therefore regarded as a fitting representation of the coming man.

A Cement River.

Extraordinary qualities are possessed by the River Tinto in Spain. It hardens and petrifies the sand of its bed, and if a stone falls in the stream and alights upon another, in a few months the two join and become one stone. Fish cannot live in its waters.

A Sure Way.

Jones—Hey! Ain't there any way to make that dog of yours stop barking?

Neighbor—Sure, if you don't mind sticking one of your legs through the fence and letting him grab hold of it.

A Doubtful Answer.

"Would you love me just as much if I were a poor girl?"

"Every bit as much," he said, congratulating himself that the dear girl didn't ask him if he would still want to marry her.

Spring Impurities In The Blood

A TONIC MEDICINE IS A NECESSITY AT THIS SEASON

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all year round tonic, blood-builder and nerve-restorer. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills help to make new, rich, red blood. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions, and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anamia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, erysipelas and many other troubles are most persistant because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood must seriously need attention. Some people dose themselves with purgatives at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels, but it does not cure anything. On the other hand Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood which reaches every nerve and organ in the body, bringing new strength, new health and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring—they will not disappoint you.

PRIMITIVE RAILROADING.

The Toronto, Grey and Bruce Was a Quaint Little Line.

The farmer's wife stood in the clearing where the Third Concession line crossed the railway track. In hand she carried a basket, full of eggs. With the other she waved a large handkerchief. The train, puffing slowly up the grade, came to a stop in front of her. The engineer called out a friendly greeting, the farmer's wife clambered aboard and the train went on. It was a strange looking train. The engine was a short, low-wheeled affair with an enormous smokestack. The tender was piled high with cordwood. Six flat cars, each rather less than half the size of modern flat cars, tagged on behind. At the end of the train was the passenger coach, not very much larger than a coach of the old stage coach days. On the side of the engine the following words appeared: "McMaster, Toronto, Grey, and Bruce Railway."

The Toronto, Grey, and Bruce was one of the most useful and interesting of the little lines which spread out from Toronto 40 years ago before the G. T. R. commenced to absorb the other lines, and before the C. P. R. was started, or the C. N. R. even dreamed of. Everybody between Toronto and Owen Sound knew the Toronto, Grey, and Bruce, and most of its officials. The relationship between the railway and the public was intimate and personal to a degree unknown in these days of vast and soulless corporations. The capital to build the line was put up by a group of Toronto merchants headed by John Gordon and George Gooderham. The City of Toronto, and the counties through which the line passed, were represented on the board of directors.

For the first few years of its existence, the T., G. and B. had three engines. They were of British manufacture and enduringly sound construction. They were short, light, little machines in comparison with the monsters of the present day, but very powerful for their size. They all burned wood, and the big hood on top of the smokestack was a distinctive feature. The driving wheels were small, in order that the engine might get a good grip on the rails and develop plenty of power on heavy grades. The eccentrics and driving rods were inside the wheels. The materials used were of the best. The boiler tubes were of copper, the rest of the engine of the best steel.

The engines all bore names. One was called the "John Gordon," one the "McMaster," and one the "Mono." They were built to go 15 miles an hour, but the T., G. and B. engineers used to get 25 or 30 miles an hour out of them at a pinch in the summertime. It was not easy to get up steam. "Many's the time I've sweated and got my hands full of slivers keeping up steam on the way up Caledon Mountain," one old fireman of those days, now an engineer on the C.P.R., told The Toronto Star. The engines used to "wood up" three times between Toronto and Owen Sound, at Woodbridge, at Orangeville, and at Shelburne. The country was just being opened up and timber was plentiful. Many a farmer got his start by selling wood to the railway.

The rolling stock consisted of curious little box cars and flat cars, resembling the "goods vans" of British railways. The first flat cars were not mounted on trucks, but on three pairs of single wheels, one at each end and one in the middle. When the train went round a curve the middle pair of wheels would leave the rails. All the cars had hand brakes, of course.

The snowdrifts 40 years ago were worse even than they are to-day. One winter, by official records, it snowed every day for seventy days. But the old double-header bucked through the drifts in a way that would put most modern engines to shame. The roadmaster of the northern section of the line, Mr. Alexander Gordon, described one of her feats. "She had a snowplow built into her," he said, "and she could go through a great deal. One day we came to a place where the snow lay at an average depth of three feet six inches for a mile and a half. I walked on ahead trying the depth and would signal back to the engineer of the double-header. He had all the wood in the firepot that he could get, and the double-header came up the grade like a ball of fire, throwing out sparks and snow in all directions. She had small driving wheels and could keep going where a bigger engine would be stalled."

Land of Long Livers.

If race suicide and race degeneration applies to the more settled centers of the North American continent, its effects do not seem to have penetrated across the Straits of Northumberland to Prince Edward Island, where, according to a recent census, it is shown that the largest per thousand of people over seventy years of age are to be found than in any other province of Canada.

In most countries a fourth generation is rare, but Prince Edward Island can boast of a fifth, in the Poirier family, of Tignish, the men of which are fishermen, and men of robust health. The head of the family, great-great-grandfather Poirier, has 202 living descendants, and at 99 years of age gets up at daybreak, turns his fish on the "flakes" to dry and chops his wood.

Has Wealth of Furs.

Colin Fraser, who has been trading in the north country the last twenty-six years, arrived in Edmonton, a few days ago with a catch of furs which, he said, is the largest he has made in ten years. His pack included pelts of 17 silver, 70 cross and 45 white foxes, 56 otter, 30 lynx, 460 marten, 21 wolverines and several bear skins. He made the trip south from Fort Chippewayan to Fort McMurray with four dog teams, and from the last named point to Athabasca with horses.

The difference between pride and vanity depends upon whether it is ours or another's.

This would be a mighty fine sort world if we were all as good as we expect others to be.

Milady's Mirror

Going Up and Down Stairs.

Going up and down stairs properly is one of the best physical exercises. It strengthens the heart, expands the lungs by inducing deep breathing, strengthens muscles of the back, shoulder and abdomen. It promotes elasticity of the foot and leg muscles and, above all, brings about poise of the body.

The correct, healthful way to mount stairs is as follows:

First.—Place the ball of one foot on the step, raise the heel of the other foot, carrying it inward so that it is in line with the heel of the foot in front.

Second.—At the same time raise the body by transferring the weight to the ball of the foot already on the stair. The relative positions of the different parts of the body are precisely the same as in walking on a level surface—head up, chest up and out, arms hanging free from the shoulder blades.

To descend stairs the following are the correct positions:

First.—Body erect, point the toe downward, heel turned inward.

Second.—Touch the step, sinking gradually, lightly upon the ball of that foot, at the same time carrying the weight to it by raising the heel of the foot on the stair above, swinging the heel inward on the toe as a pivot, as in mounting stairs.

Keep the heels in line all the time. Spreading the feet is not only awkward, but unrefined. Swaying also is awkward and unnecessary. Practice rising on the toes and sinking on the knees, slowing rising again. It will help make the ankle muscles flexible so that the little pivot movement can be done freely.

A Valuable Cream.

One of the most delightful creams to use on the face is the orange flower cream. It will soften and whiten the skin and is also good for massaging. It is not as greasy as most creams. It may be prepared as follows:

Take spermaceti, six drams; oil of sweet almonds, four ounces; white wax, six drams; glycerin, one and one-half ounces; borax, two drams; orange flower water, two ounces; oil of olives, fifteen drops; the oil of neroli, fifteen drops; oil of bigarade (orange skin), fifteen drops. Warm the spermaceti, wax and almond oil in a double boiler until they become creamy; then add the glycerin to the orange flower water and let the borax dissolve in this. Pour this mixture into the first one, stirring constantly. Just before the cream congeals pour in the perfumed oils drop by drop.

For Oily Skin.

Oily skins are often caused by indigestion. If your skin is oily pay strict attention to your diet, eating only the simplest foods at regular hours and absolutely avoiding all greasy foods. A couple of times a day sponge the following witch hazel lotion on the face: Take four ounces of distilled witch hazel and one dram of boric acid and mix together.

Do not use any cream on the face, but protect it as much as possible from all sudden changes of temperature and any undue irritation. Build up the general health, paying particular attention to the circulation. Once the blood is in perfect condition it will remedy the shriveled skin of which you complain.

To Reduce Waist Line.

To reduce the size of the waist and hips stand with the feet eighteen inches apart. Raise arms above head and bend body from waist only until the finger tips touch the floor. Raise the body and repeat. Practice this for five minutes and then put the feet together and go through the same movements for another five minutes. At first you will not be able to touch the floor, but the necessary flexibility will come in time. Repeat the exercise frequently at first.

Two Kinds of Powder.

If you are up to date in the use of face powder you should have two sorts of powder—one to use in the daytime and one to use in the evening. The evening powder, because of the fact that it will be shown under artificial light, is colored slightly mauve. This sort of powder must be expensive to be delicately and naturally colored and for a good quality. The daylight powder has a pinker tinge.

To Clean the Face.

Japanese tissue paper is convenient in cleansing the face. It may be used instead of a face cloth. It possesses the big advantage that it can be thrown away after it is used and therefore appeals to the fastidious woman as cleaner than any cloth. These little sheets of tissue paper can be used to apply lotions, cold cream or water to the skin. It is thin, soft and at the same time firm.

Hand Lotion.

A formula for a hand lotion that has proved to be a delightful toilet article is as follows: Take thirty grains of gum tragacanth, soak in seven ounces of rosewater for three days, stirring occasionally with a wooden spoon. At the end of that time strain and add one ounce of glycerin and one of alcohol.

It's a well-trained conscience that can't be made to speak only when it is spoken to.

A couple of drinks will make a fellow feel like a bird, much more than being tarred and feathered.

For the Children

Leopold of Belgium Would Be an Air Man.

Prince Leopold, heir to the throne of Belgium, doesn't care very much about his prospects as a ruler; he would much rather be an aeronaut. The young prince, who is besides, Duke of Brabant, was thirteen last November and is a very robust and handsome lad. For some time he has taken the keenest interest in flying, but as yet his father, King Albert, has refused to gratify his heart's desire. Before he was set on being an aviator he was a poet. But his younger brother Charles, Count of Flanders, and his little sister, Princess Marie, made so much sport of his productions that he gave up writing verse. Perhaps in a few more years, if some new fad does not catch him, he may have an aeroplane of his own.

If the Shoe Fits.

For this game have each child remove his shoes and place them in a big box having a lid that can be partially removed. When all are in mix them thoroughly and then have the children each draw two shoes from the box. These he must put on whether they fit him or not, and thus shod he is to follow the leader wherever he may go. Some will be wearing two rights, some two lefts, some shoes in which they can only get their toes and some shoes much too large for them. The leader may go up or downstairs through a darkened cellar or over chairs and stools with his ever lessening band of followers, for many will fall by the way. When time is called the one nearest him wins the prize.

The Wearing of Hats.

Jews wear their hats in the synagogues. The Friends also sit covered during the offering of prayers, which are said aloud.

Formerly it appears that the custom in the Church of England was for the men to sit covered during sermon time.

In an old book it is asserted that when Richard Cox, bishop of Ely, died in 1581 and was buried in Ely cathedral the congregation, a very great one, sitting in the choir to hear the funeral sermon, all covered.

Evelyn in 1661 mentions in his diary that he had caught a severe cold by flinging off his hat at dinner.

The hat, therefore, was very much more popular in ancient times than it is now.

Trick With Numbers.

Tell your friends to think of a number, multiply by 6, divide by 3, add 40, divide by 2; then let him name the result and you can tell him the number he thought of. The method is: Multiplying by 6 and dividing by 3 gives twice the number. Add 40 and you have twice the number plus 40. Divide by 2 and you have once the number plus 20; hence, if you subtract 20 from the result he gives you, you will have the number he first thought of.

Saved by Boy Scouts.

A recent fire in the Stoddard Baptist home at Garfield Heights, near Washington, D. C., endangered the lives of the seventeen aged inmates. A party of boy scouts from Anacostia, on a march in the neighborhood, carried out those who were ill, crippled and infirm from age. All the inmates were negroes.

A Vacuum Abhorred.

What is that which a young girl looks for, but does not wish to find?

A hole in her stocking.

The Frost Fairy.

I wonder who sits up all night,
All night in the cold and rain,
To make the little stars of ice
That stick to the window pane,
The stars of ice and tiny ferns,
Just like all the ferns that grow
Down by the summer wood, except
That these are made out of snow.

I've blown on them until they melt
Right down the long window pane,
Next morning when I come to look
They are shining there again!
Some fairy with her scissors comes
When I am asleep, I know,
And clips the little stars of ice
And the tiny ferns of snow.
I don't see how she cuts them out
So straight in the dark—do you?—
And never nips a single leaf
Or cuts any star in two.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol 47 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, APRIL 20, 1914. No. 294

ONCE LIBERAL BUT NOW CONSERVATIVE

Mr A. C. Ross, ex-M.P., Thinks Borden Government Best Since 1867—Many Liberals Nervous

MONTREAL, April 18.—"It matters very little who rules Canada if the administration of the Dominion is based on broad and patriotic lines, and in my opinion the Borden Government has come nearer than any other political organization in power since Confederation in its conception of a really national transportation programme," was the statement made by Mr. A. C. Ross, whose recent transition from the Liberal to the Conservative ranks created some interest at the Capital, and a real sensation throughout eastern Nova Scotia, where Mr. Ross has resided the greater part of his life, having been the Federal representative for one of the Cape Breton seats on the Liberal side for an entire Parliament during the Laurier regime.

Mr. Ross is quite as prominent in eastern as Sir Melvin Jones is in middle Canada and has been a lifelong personal friend and supporter of Premier Murray of Nova Scotia and the ex-Finance Minister, Hon. W. S. Fielding.

Mr. Ross said he had just arrived from New York and had not seen the papers since he announced his change of heart previous to his departure. It was Mr. Robert Bickerdike, M.P. for St. Lawrence, who coined the word "Liberal protectionist," and the ex-M.P. for Cape Breton probably belongs to that rapidly growing category of public men and captains of industry who have spent the greater part of their lives in promoting Canadian industries and are naturally apprehensive in hearing the leading men of their own party advocating free trade or indulging in the advocacy of a policy so fatal to the industries of this Dominion.

Mr. Ross, who had more to do than any other man living in the formation and the first development of the Dominion Steel Corporation, is naturally gratified at the recent tariff changes, and he expressed himself as well pleased with the recently announced policy of the company in exporting surplus ore from the Wabana deposits in Newfoundland. He had advocated such exportation for years past and was glad to see that this was going to take place, since the tremendous deposits at Wabana belonging to the Dominion Steel Corporation had been proved by the development of the sister company, the Nova Scotia Steel Company, whose deposits are at the same locality.

HOPEFUL FOR I. C. R.

Mr. Ross expressed himself as pleased that the Intercolonial Railway, which he considers a valuable asset to the people of Canada, has been placed in the hands of so experienced and able a man as Mr. Gutelius. He has seen the present head of the I. C. R. at work, and believes him to be the rigt man in the right place, if the politicians will give him a free hand in carrying out the improvements announced by the Ministers of Railways. While believing that the Government railway will not be impaired in its efficiency and earning power, Mr. Ross looks forward with interest to the advent of the Canadian Pacific to the lower provinces. He had nothing to say as to the Canadian Northern's intentions regarding the lower provinces, but he believes that when the intentions of the Ottawa Government are made known in the coming legislation there will be good news in it for the I. C. R. as well as the people of Nova Scotia.

As Mr. Ross was once the largest holder of real estate in Sydney and has yet very large interests in that section of the province, he naturally follows very closely the trend of events in that direction. It was Mr. Ross while a member of the Commons, who induced the then Minister of Trade and Commerce, Sir Richard Cartwright, to have the ocean liners call at North Sydney in summer when, he alleges, the mails were landed in Montreal twelve hours earlier than by any other route, and he is convinced of the feasibility and wisdom of the project that he thinks that any arrangement with the C. N. R. should include a clause to this effect. He is also assured that, with the improved roadbed and the enhanced speed of future railway trains on the I. C. R., and with running rights assured to the C. P. R. the new idea would be thoroughly vindicated by experience.

AN A B C THOUGHT FOR THE MERCHANT.

Advertising creates a desire to see the goods advertised.

Advertising of a nationally distributed product in the local newspapers which are read by the people with whom you do business every day, will lead "that desire to see' right to your store.

It is simply business horse-sense to show the people what they want to see.

In other words, when you display and push goods advertised in your local newspapers, you are making your store a Public Service Store in the best sense of the word.

That's the A. B. C. of the whole situation.

M'KEE RANKIN IS DEAD

Veteran Canadian Actor Spent Fifty Years on Stage

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Mc-Rakin, the veteran actor, who was identified with Nance O'Neill for years in Shakespearean productions; died here today.

First and last Rankin probably made a large fortune, but his big earnings were lost in one theatrical adventure or another. He began his stage career in the Civil War period and continued it actively for fifty years.

Rankin was a Canadian, born at Sandwich, Ont., in 1841, the son of a member of Parliament. While at Upper Canada College he had a disagreement with his father over his association with the dramatic society there, and ran away to New York with an actor. His father found him and made him return to a Government clerkship.

"About two years later," Rankin has said, in reminiscence, "the great Sir John A. Macdonald, who was then Premier, told me what he thought of the Government service. 'You keep on and on, and in the end you are only an old hack,' he said. 'I've heard that once you were an actor. Why don't you go back on the stage'?"

Rankin was quick to follow his advice. At 21 he was leading man for Mrs. John Drew. All of his three daughters married into branches of the Drew family—one is Mrs. Sydney Drew, one Mrs. Lionel Barrymore and a third, Phyllis, married a brother of Fanny Davenport.

Rankin bought "The Danites" from Joaquin Miller, and made a tremendous hit in it as Alexander McGee at the Broadway Theatre, New York, in 1877. For more than a decade he was famous in this part, and later distinguished himself in a play written by his brother, the late George Rankin called "The Canuck," and in a play written by himself, "True to Life." Others of his productions were "A Kentucky Colonel," "The Golden Giant," "A Bachelor's Baby," and "Captain Imprudence."

In 1898 he became manager for Nance O'Neill. Together Rankin and Miss O"Neill toured all of the English speaking world in Shakespearean and other repertoires. Later, at the age of 70, he was appearing in duologues with his daughter, Phyllis Rankin (Mrs. Harry Davenport) in vaudeville houses.

SWEPT BY TORNADO

TULSA, Okla., April 18.—A tornado swept southern Oklahoma last night and early to-day caused the death of one person, injuries to several others and took many houses from their foundations. Two oil refining plants were damaged at Chickasaw and a 35-000 barrel oil tank near Sands Springs was struck by lightning. The oil still was burning early to-day, and several other tanks were endangered.

RICH BOY STUDENT HELD FOR MURDER

ALBANY, April 18.—Malcolm Gifford, Jr., 19 years of age, son of a wealthy manufacturer of Hudson, N.Y., is under indictment and in jail here charged with having murdered Frank J. Chute a chauffeur, who was shot to death near Waterville, on the night of April 1, 1913 The murder baffled the local police and county officers, and only the recent discovery of some papers that had belonged to the chauffeur furnished the final clue that led to the arrest and indictment of young Gifford.

SPECULATION ON ORDER IN COUNCIL BARRING CHINAMEN

New Interpretation of Recent Regulation Likely to be Tried—Will Keep Out Hindus

OTTAWA, April 20.—Special—A close study of the legal aspect of immigration restrictions and treaties considered with reference to the recent order-in-Council prohibiting the entry of artisans and laborers to British Columbia reveals the fact that the Government if it so desires may exclude all newcomers from China as well as from other countries except Japan. It was at first thought that owing to the Chinese Act the order-in-Council passed last December and renewed a few weeks ago did not affect the entrance of Chinamen, but upon fuller enquiry this view of the recent difficulties in British Columbia the Government may apply the regulation as against Chinese. The treaty arrangement with Japan excludes from the operation of the restrictive order immigrants from that Empire, but such immigration is limited and controlled under an understanding with the Japanese Government.

Following the announcement by Hon. Dr. Roche in the House on Friday that the 400 Hindus en route from Shanghai and Hong Kong to Vancouver would not be permitted to land, there is considerable speculation here as to the situation which will develop. The steamer is expected to arrive about May 1, and the Hindus doubtless will endeavor through representatives in Vancouver to test the legality of the order-in-Council by which they are to be excluded.

REPAIRED HER BACKBONE

Remarkable Operation Performed at Montreal General Hospital

MONTREAL, April 18.—The staff at the General Hospital has been informed that Mrs. Leonardo Maffel of 18 Parker street, who recently had her back broken when the wall of a house on Emery street fell upon her, is now able to walk

This completes the success of one of the most remarkable operations ever performed in Montreal. It was in the high wind of March 1 that Mrs. Maffel, who is of Swiss nationality, received her injuries. When taken out of the mass of bricks which had fallen on her she was unconscious, and her nervous system was paralyzed by the broken pieces of her backbone pressing upon the spinal cord. She was taken to the General Hospital, where Dr. J. M. Elder performed an operation that not only removed the pressure and with it the paralysis, but also repaired the broken bones. Mrs. Maffel remained two weeks in the hospital and was then well enough to be taken home.

Today, though naturally somewhat weak, she is able to walk, and there is every reason to believe that she will completely recover from the terrible injury. Many remarkably successful operations have been carried out at the General Hospital, but it is admitted that this complete renovation of a broken backbone is without a parallel.

As the firm desires to begin manufacturing at once in Canada premises were rented to-day pending construction of their own factory building.

PRESIDENT WILSON RETURNS TO CAPITAL

(Intelligencer Special)

WASHOINGTON, April 20—President Wilson returned to the Capitol this morning and was driven at once to the White House for a conference with officials on the Mexican situation, and a Cabinet meeting. The President will read his message to Congress at 3 p.m. He told the newspaper correspondents this morning to disabuse themselves of the idea that the United States was going to have war with Mexico. "Under no circumstances would we fight the Mexican people," said he, "we are their friends." The issue, he added, was only between the U. S. Government and a person calling himself the President of Mexico, and all the Government wanted was justice. This might not eventuate in war if Huerta took wise counsel.

Arrested on Charge of Arson

NAPANEE, April 20.—Special—Frank Tibbett of Fredericksburg township, was arrested yesterday on a charge of arson. He appeared before Magistrate Rankin of Napanee later in the day and was remanded until April 24.

He is accused of setting fire on March 29 to an unoccupied cottage owned by Henry Cooper in the township of Fredericksburg, some twenty miles from Napanee. Inspector Reburn was put on the case, and after visiting Trenton, where he made an arrest in connection with a recent fire there, he went to Fredericksburg. and the arrest of Tibbet followed.

LOCAL BAPTIST CHRUCH GETS ONE THOUSAND FROM CARNEGIE

At the close of the service in the Baptist Church last night the congregation met to hear the report of the organ committee, who have had the matter of installing a pipe organ in hand. The chairman, Mr. Albert Blackburn, in making his report, stated that he had received a letter from Mr. Carnegie's secretary in New York, making a grant of one thousand dollars towards a pipe-organ; also that the committee had received sufficient subscriptions from the congregation and friends to warrant the purchase of an organ. The church voted to accept with thanks the gift of Mr. Carnegie, and the kind help of other friends, and instructed the committee to proceed to secure the balance of the fund and to install the organ. The building of the organ will necessitate some structural alterations and improvements to the church interior, and it is hoped to have it completed this summer. The committee is composed of Messrs. Albert Blackburn, W. B. Riggs, P. C. McLaurin and C. A. Hart.

COLLINGWOOD BOAT FOR ESKIMO MISSION.

Collingwood, April 20—Special—Yesterday Messrs. Watts & Son shipped from here a boat to be engaged in missionary work at Herschel Island, near the mouth of the Mackenzie River. It will be known as the "Atkoon" (the torch), and will be used by Rev. C. E. Whittaker in his missionary work among the Eskimo. The boat will go by rail to Athabasca Landing, and at that point will commence its long water journey to the missionary station.

YACHTSMEN PREPARING FOR THE SEASON

SYDNEY, Cape Breton, April 20.—Special—The crack yachts of the Royal Cape Breton Yacht club are being overhauled by their owners who are looking forward with keen anticipation to long summer sails upon the blue waters and under the bluer skies that form the mangnificent ampitheatre of the scenery of the Bras d'Or Lakes. The Cape Breton yachtsmen are justly proud of their beautiful inland waters, of which Charles Dudley Warner said: "The Bras d'Or is the most beautiful salt water lake I have ever seen, and more beautiful than we imagined a body of salt water could be." If the map is consulted, it will be seen that two narrow estuaries, the Great and Little Bras d'Or enter the island of Cape Breton on the rugged northeast coast, above the town of Sydney, and flow in, at length widening out and occupying the interior; running away into lovely bays and lagoons, leaving slender tongues of land and picturesque islands, and bringing into the recesses of the land, to the remote farms and settlement, the flavor of salt, and the fish and mollusks of the briny sea.

To the majority of tourists the scenery of the Bras d'Or Lakes has been the chief attraction to Cape Breton. Here, amid the cool breezes, delightful scenery, and the quiet charm of country life, hundreds wearied with the rush and turmoil of the city, have found the much needed rest they sought, and derived fresh vigor for the battle of life.

To the followers of Isaac Walton, Cape Breton offers every inducement, and first in favor stands the salmon. The best salmon rivers are the Margaree and Little River, Cheticamp. The latter, which is now owned by a Halifax company, is strictly preserved. The Margaree, which flows through a wide and fertile intervale beautifully situated between two ranges of hills, is an ideal salmon resort. Sea trout may be found in every river and brook in the island. Among the best of these may be mentioned the Mira and Endeck Rivers, River Denys, the Middle and North Rivers, St. Ann's, Grand River and Catalone. In May the sea trout fishing in the Mira is excellent. A driving expedition from the Sydneys over the Bras d'Or, across the New Campbellton ferry, then over the beautiful slopes of St. Ann's Mountain; through Englishtown, and on to the North River, followed by a day's fishing in the trout streams ere the return journey is made, affords an interesting spring outing for the jaded man of business. The roads, indeed are rough, but the beauty of the scenery of lake and sea and mountain, the exhilaration of the air and the number of speckled beauties that nibble for an acquaintance, are ample for the discomforts of the trip. Every lake in the inland abounds with fresh water trout, often of quite large size. Black bass are found in several streams on the southern coast, especially near Pourchu. They are in every way well worthy of the sportsmen's attention, and when captured are excellent for the table.

BATTLEFORD, Sask., April 18.—Brought into court in the arms of two burly mounted policemen, John Peter Hanson, a semi-paralyzed farmer, was tried for the murder of his brother-in-law, Edward Gustav Warren, found guilty, and sentenced to be hanged at Prince Albert jail on July 16. AGED TORONTO MAN ADMITS BIGAMY

As Crime Was Committed in England Officers Could Not Hold Him

TORONTO, April 18.—William A. Douglas, aged 79, entered the morality department offices yesterday afternoon and said he wished to surrender himself.

He said that he was a bigamist and as he had just got converted, he wanted to clear his conscience of his crime and pay the penalty.

He declared that 30 years ago he married a woman in Oakville with whom he lived for fifteen years and by whom he had four children. Seventeen years ago he went to England and there married another woman from whom he soon parted.

As the crime was committed in England, the officers of the department could not hold him here.

PLAN TO LOWER HIGH LIVING COST

MONTREAL, April 18.—The Association of Market Gardeners have an interesting proposition having for its aim the reduction of the cost of living.

The propose to establish a depot in the north end of the city, and provide them with warehouse facilities where the railway companies might hold open trucks at their disposition.

The city, private individuals and companies which today are paying to have their stables cleaned could have manure loaded onto these open trucks, taken out to Laval county and there discharged in depots specially constructed for the purpose.

The Market Garden Association would undertake to arrange the cost with the railways. From the association's point of view it is a question of economy of transport and the sufficiency of material of an indispensable requirement.

Collected in these depots the manure would be easily accessible to members of the association and they could take all they wanted as they needed it.

All that is asked of the city is to furnish the manure in open trucks at no more cost than is charged at present.

CHILD FATALLY BURNED

HAMILTON, April 18.—Ellen Smith, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Dundas road, while playing around a bonfire in the back yard of her home about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, ran too close to the flames and her clothing caught fire. She ran screaming toward the house and was met by her mother who in trying to extinguish the flames, was also quite badly burned about the hands. Before the mother succeeded in tearing the burning clothing away, the child's body was terribly burned. The little victim was hurried to the city hospital, arriving there about 6 o'clock. Despite all efforts to save her life, she died at 11.40 p.m., fortunately suffering no pain, as she never regained consciousness.

The parents are nearly heartbroken over the sad affair, and the mother is suffering considerably from her burns.

CANAL IS READY FOR WARSHIPS

PANAMA, April 18.— A prominent canal official, when asked today to describe the present condition of the canal as to passage of warships through the Culebra slide district, said:

"Even the largest vessel of the navy could be passed on three days' notice to the dredging force. Vessels of ordinary draught may pass the channel now, and an absolutely adequate passage and keep the dredges at work to-day could open an open waterway, so that the whole navy, if needed, could cross to the Pacific side."

Work on the fortifications and terminals is being rushed to the limit more than 30,000 men being still on the payrolls.

The acquisition of Hearne will be of immense benefit to the Leaf pitching staff. It has not yet been decided what use will be made of Thorpe.

Hearing of Charges of Thefts From Cars Begins at North Bay.

NORTH BAY, April 18.—Preliminary hearing of the charges of theft of merchandise from freight cars in transit by employes of the C.P.R. began in Sudbury yesterday before Magistrate Brodie. Five men are charged, but only one case was taken up yesterday, that preferred against Martin, a brakeman of North Bay, who is being tried on five counts. He was committed for trial on each of four counts, and the fifth charge was held over to await the arrival of a witness from Vancouver. Fifty-five witnesses are already on hand for the trials, representing shipping firms of Fredericton, Point Levis, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, London and Winnipeg, and consignees from Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Crown Attorney McKessock of Sudbury is prosecuting and C. P. R. interests are represented by W. Williams of Pembroke. Martin is defended by G. L. T. Bull of North Bay.

Should Know Better.

TORONTO, April 18—Past seventy years of age, William A. Douglass entered the morality department offices yesterday and said he wished to surrender himself to the authorities. The old man stated he was a bigamist, and as he had just got converted he wanted to clear his conscience of his crime and pay the penalty.

The old man's story was to the effect that 30 years ago he married a woman in Oakville. Seventeen years ago he went to England and there married another woman. As the crime was committed in England the officers could not hold him here.

Landslide in Quebec.

QUEBEC, April 18.—Almost without warning an avalanche of rock and rubble, loosened by yesterday's thaw, crashed down the steep slope of Cape Diamond last night, narrowly missing a carter's rig and two occupants, and blocking Champlain street. The place where the fall took place is close to the spot where the terrible landslide of 1889 killed fifty-four residents of this street and crushed in a row of houses under the cliff as if they had been egg shells.

Conductor Lefebvre who made the complaint was trying to explain the law about drunken men on street cars and Paten struck him. Before the car had been stopped the conductor received a punch in the mouth which knocked three of his teeth down his throat. The penalty for his offence was fixed at $20 the maximum fine $20 or two months was imposed for the assault and $10 or one month for causing a disturbance, the damages to come out of the fine.

UERTA TRIES AGAIN

His Attempt to Get a Simultaneous Salute Fails.

Latest Proposal of Mexican Dictator to Evade Ceremonial Apology to U. S. Fleet Is Flatly Rejected by President Wilson Who Insists on Unconditional Compliance With Admiral Mayo's Demands.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—President Wilson yesterday flatly rejected Gen. Huerta's suggestion for a simultaneous salute to the American and Mexican flags.

The Washington Government informed Huerta that his wish for simultaneous firing of the salutes was untenable, and that as demanded by Rear Admiral Mayo a salute of 21 guns would be insisted upon, the manner of returning the salute to be left to the American admiral, who agreed to fire one to the Mexican flag. Naval precedents showed no "simultaneous salute" had ever been fired in apology for an offence.

No reply to the last American note transmitted through Charge O'Shaughnessy had been received up to late yesterday and no orders to the American warships to slow down or turn back had been issued. Administration officials consider, however, the main point at issue — the exchange of salutes—had been settled, and they regarded Huerta's "haggling over details," as one official expressed it, as not likely to prevent an adjustment of the controversy. They believed the crisis was over, but on the other hand, in view of the kaleidoscopic changes of the last three days, said they would not be surprised if the hitch over details became serious again.

The American Government has taken the position that when a salute of 21 guns is fired to the Stars and Stripes the salute in acknowledgment would be fired to the flag of the Mexican people—and not to the Huerta administration or any Government or individual.

Commenting on the original demand for a salute to the flag, Secretary Daniels said a few days ago Rear Admiral Mayo himself modified his demand somewhat, saying he would not insist on having the salute fired while the American flag was hoisted on Mexican territory, and would be satisfied if the salute was to the flag "in a conspicuous place," either on the mast of the Dolphin or a Mexican gunboat.

There was much discussion in official circles not only about the propriety of returning Huerta's salute in view of the peculiar diplomatic relations between the Mexico City administration and the Washington Government, but because of a navy regulation, No. 1194, which reads:

"No salute shall be fired in honor of any nation, or of any official of any nation not formally recognized by the Government of the United States."

Conflagration In New York Costs Lives of Eleven Persons.

Eleven Burned To Death.

NEW YORK, April 18.—A fire that swept through the five-storey apartment house at 741 Eighth avenue early yesterday claimed eleven victims and resulted in the injury of five others, one of whom, a woman, probably will die. Only four of the ten bodies taken from a theatrical boarding-house that occupied half of the building could be identified, the others being charred beyond recognition. The identified are:

William Wallace, 46 years of age; Mrs. Nellie Wallace, his wife, 32 years of age; Mrs. Nellie Spencer, 25 years of age, a cloak model; Muriel Davis, three years old, and Mrs. G. C. Davis.

The injured are: Joseph Messer, Martin Welsh and Charles Burke.

BODIES ARE BOUND.

Corpses In Fire Ruins Bear Signs of Foul Play.

GEDDES, S.D., April 18.—What appears to be a double murder was disclosed here yesterday, when the bodies of W. H. Menzie, manager of the Farmers' Lumber Yard here, which was burned Thursday night, and his bookkeeper, Miss Blanche Signal, were found in the debris of the lumber office. Both bodies were badly charred.

The feet of Miss Signal were tied with a wire and her hands wired behind her. Her skull had been crushed with a hammer, found nearby. Mr. Menzie's feet also were wired together and a wire was found on one wrist, the other end was broken. His skull also had been fractured.

There is doubt expressed as to the sanity of the man, who gained considerable notoriety through the investigation into his wife's death recently. Should he refuse to leave the country immediately he will be arrested.

ROUNDUP STOLEN AUTOS

NEW YORK, April 18.—Two detectives from police headquarters, a representative from the District Attorney office, an insurance adjuster who specialzes in hunting stolen automobiles, and an agent from the Secretary of State office in Albany, were out to-night rounding up the biggest collection of stolen automobiles ever gathered in a single haul. The trail led through Brooklyn, Harlem and the Bronx. Owners of lost cars were taken along, and were able to identify their property. It was stated at midnight that at a conference to be held in the office of Assistant District Attorney Deuel tomorrow morning, a full confession of one notorious automobile thief would be submitted and announcement made of the arrest of three to five thieves hitherto unknown to the police.

The surprising development of tonight was the fact that men well known in the community had been buying automobiles for from $500 to $800 that were known to be worth from $5,000 to $5,300. For stealing an automobile, it came out in looking over the check book and account books of those engaged in the business, the usual amount of profit to the thief was $250. In no case among those examined did the thief obtain more than $500 for his work, while the car he passed on was almost invariably of the highest priced type.

One of the persons implicated as a buyer of a high-priced automobile paid the original thief only $700 for it, and of this $700 the thief had to pay $200 to the go-between who arranged the sale and $250 on an agreement to split "fifty-fifty" with the man who helped him to steal the car.

The purchaser turned out to be a well known resident of Brooklyn. It was even found that he had personally paid the "go-between" in the case $15 to pay for a new license number, and had also given him a check for $3 to pay for paint used in changing the color of the automobile chassis. A general sessions grand jury is now considering the case of the car's purchaser.

Chas Brush, a young chauffer, who walked into the office of E. B. Hopwood an insurance adjuster, on Tuesday, told Mr. Hopwood that he understood he had been indicted, and wanted to give himself up and turn state's evidence. It was on information furnished by him after he had been arrested, that last night's raids were made.

$25,000 BID FOR EXCHANGE SEAT

A bid of $24,000 for a Montreal Stock Exchange seat was made on the floor of the Exchange yesterday. None was offered firm, but it is understood that there is now a seat in the market which is being used by the owner at around $26,000. The last sale was at $26,250, about two months or so ago.

Considering the long and severe depression experienced by the security markets since the summer of 1912, Exchange seats here have held remarkably well. Until the slight lowering of the price in the last transaction eight seats, six from the treasury and two owned by members, had changed hands at $30,000, the high record price. Some of these transactions were recorded when the market slump was in full swing. Relatively to the great depreciation in securities and the declining volume of business, the quotation for seats has therefore made a good showing and one which indicates confidence of better times coming.

Apart from seats which may be offered for sale by members, the Exchange holds four treasury seats on which a price of $30,000 has been fixed.

HELP FOR UNIVERSITY

Whole Subject Will Be Investigated, Says Hon. I. B. Lucas.

Many Bills Are Given Third Reading In Legislature and Are Ready for Lieutenant-Governor's Assent—Co-operation Between Universities Necessary Says Mr. Lucas—Hydro Estimates Are Explained.

TORONTO, April 18. — A large number of bills were given a third reading and put through the final stage in the Legislature yesterday. Most of these were private bills, but as many matters of importance are affected by the enactment of these laws it is likely that the Lieutenant-Governor will come to the House on Monday and give the royal assent to as much of the legislation as has passed through the House so far.

The Ontario Government is about to examine either by commission or otherwise the basis of university support in the province, in an effort to reach some systematic and just method of granting yearly assistance. One thing to be borne specially in mind will be the overlapping of grants to the universities at Toronto, Kingston, and London. This was the nature of an amendment made by Hon. I. B. Lucas yesterday when the grants were passing through committee of supply.

The anticipated increase of revenue from succession duties, Mr. Lucas thought, should be so adjusted that the university would receive a fixed amount from that source, while the whole matter of financial aid from the Government was under consideration, and there should be a limit placed in the meantime on what the University should receive from that source. Speaking as an outsider, he could not view with favor a proposal to place upon the finances of the province the burden of maintaining two other universities. The University of Toronto might be relieved by transferring students to Queen's and the Western University.

In the absence of Hon. Adam Beck, Hon. Col. Hendrie made a statement of distribution in connection with the proposed five-million-dollar expenditure for Hydro-Electric development during the consideration of the supplementary estimates. Mr. Rowell asked why there was no mention of Hydro radial railway development.

"Can the hon. gentleman tell us the position of the commission on this question?" was Mr. Rowell's query.

"The Government will have an announcement to make in due time," replied Col. Hendrie.

Mr. Rowell thought the matter was of such importance that a statement should be forthcoming. He wondered whether it was the result of lack of harmony on the commission. He referred to the recent controversy when representatives of the press were excluded from a meeting. "Many people thought that was due to the extreme and acute conditions," said Mr. Rowell and a sharp skirmish occurred across the floor of the House.

Mr. Lucas explained that there was no proposal that the Government should build Hydro-radial railways. The request was that the Government should pass legislation enabling the municipalities to build the lines and certain guarantees should be given by the province.

To guard the interests of the individual shareholder in small companies which have been gobbled up by larger and more prosperous concerns is the intention of a bill standing in the name of J. I. Hartt of Simcoe. It comes as an amendment to the Companies Act, and allows anyone who suspects that his rights are being trespassed upon to apply to the county judge for an enquiry.

When the vote of $75,000 to continue the work of the Public Roads and Highways Commission was going through committee in the Legislature yesterday, Hon. W. H. Hearst stated that no sum was included for the remuneration of the members of the commission beyond their out-of-pocket traveling expenses. Mr. C. A. Magrath, chairman of the commission, had declined to take any allowance for his services, Mr. A. M. Rankin was a member of the House, and Mr. W. A. MacLean an official of the Government.

REPORT OF HIGH SCHOOL INSPECTOR

The report of Mr. J. A. Houston, who recently inspected the High School, is without doubt the best report ever given for that school. A synopsis of the report is herewith given:

"Many improvements have been made since my last visit. A steam heating system has been installed, the wall and ceilings cleaned, flushed closets placed in basement. Principal's office and teachers' rroom provided, the library improved and a room equipped for classes in household science. The accommodations now are about as satisfactory as they can be made in the old building. The equipment generally is satisfactory, except for physical training. The staff is legally qualified, the discipline good, attendance of pupils—boys 120, girls 129. The text books all authorized, register properly kept; reading writing and spelling good, the former especially so. Work of arts very good in quality, the amount, however, not large."

In view of improvements made in the last two years the Inspector had pleasure in giving grade 2 of approval for current year. In concluding the report the Inspector said:

"I may be allowed to congratulate the Board and the staff upon the generally satisfactory condition of the school, the improvements made since last visit have added much to the comfort of the staff and pupils. The Board is to be complimented upon the many changes made for the better in the last few years, but I trust the members will not lose sight of the necessity of a new modern building upon a suitable site. I am pleased to find a beginning made towards organizing a regular commercial course, as in a school of this size there would appear to be room for such classes, and they should prove a source of strength to the school.

"The Principal should not be compelled to spend all his time in teaching as he does at present. Another member should be added to the staff to secure ideal organization."

MAJOR S. W. VERMILYEA HAS PASSED AWAY

Many were the expressions of regret heard upon the streets today when it became known that Mr. Sidney Walton Vermilyea had passed away at the family residence on Ann street. For some weeks deceased had been ill from internal troubles, and despite the best medical assistance obtainable there appeared to be no remedy for the malady from which he was suffering. "Sid", as he was familiarly called, was the eldest son of Mr. A. W. Vermilyea of this city, and was born in the township of Thurlow 53 years ago. Since a comparatively young man he had resided in this city, where he was not only well known but extremely popular, owing to his genial disposition. For some years he had been a member of the firm of Vermilyea & Son, shoe merchants, and was also connected with the Belleville Shoe Company, being at the head of that concern. Deceased was a member of Moira Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and was a member of the Chapter and King Baldwin Preceptory. Mr. Vermilyea, during his life, took a decided interest in military matters, and at the time of his demise was a major of the Fifteenth Regiment and Quartermaster. He was also recognized as one of the crack rifle shots in this district. In all of his military and business careers he was regarded as one who was above reproach and ever ready to do all in his power to promote harmony and good-will. In this respect his demise is keenly felt by those who were associated. His death forms a gap which will be difficult to fill. In religion he was a Methodist, being a member of Bridge street church. In addition to the widow, one son, Edgar, and two daughters, Helena and Thelma, all of this city, survive; also one brother, C. H. Vermilyea, of this city. To those who have been called upon to mourn will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of a host of friends.

Excellent Exhibition at Local Y.M.C.A.

On Saturday night in the local Y.M.C.A. Gym the Senior Leaders Corp of the Toronto Y.M.C.A. demonstrated the high standard of skill that is possible to obtain in physical and gymnastic ability and the high grade of manhood that is found in the Physical Department of the Y.M.C.A.'s of our country where a healthy interest is taken in that branch of Y.M.CA. activity

The following programme was given: Free hand drill; Spring and box horse; Pyramids; Indian clubs; Gymnastic games; Wand drill, (Belleville Y.M.C.A. Juniors); Sailors' Hornpipe; Flambeaux Drill (Belleville Y.M.C.A. Juniors); Highland fling; Two basket-ball games.

The gymnasts gave a very finished performance and a great deal of credit is due them for the hard work they must have put in practise. Mr. Fred Smith, Physical Director and Mr. Seymor Collings the assistant took an active part in the Exhibition and their careful training was very much in evidence.

The performance throughout was of such a character that it is almost impossible to pick out one event that would be more deserving of praise than another. The two dances in costume and the Free hand drill and Pyramids were perhaps the most spectacular.

The Wand Drill and the Flambeaux Drill by the local boys compared well with the work of their more experienced visitors and was well received by the audience.

WONDERFUL EGG

If all eggs were as big as one laid recently by a hen belonging to Mr. Harry Brown, of Portsmouth, it is likely that they would be worth about four times as much as at present. This egg was a large one and no mistake. It measured 7 3-4 inches in circumstances at the centre; 9 1-2 inches from end to end and weighed 6 1-2 ounces.

SHADES OF J. WESLEY

Great-Great-Grand Nephew is Charged With Theft

LONDON, April 18.—A descendent of John Wesley, the cebrated hymn writer and brother of John Wesley, appeared in the prisoner's dock at Clerkenwell Police Court today. He was Lawrence Wesley, aged 46, described as a baker's "roundsman," and was charged with stealing, forging, and uttering a cheque for £3 11s; the property of Rosa Burgess.

The prisoner had already served a sentence for theft lately and had lived a dissolute life. The magistrate committed him to jail. It was stated in court that the prisoner was a grandson of Samuel Sebastian Wesley, a celebrated composer, who was the grandson of Charles Wesley. He would thus be the great-great-grand nephew of John Wesley.

Beachy, Who Comes Here June Third, Talks

NEW YORK, April 18.—Lincoln Beachey, the exhibition aviator, who arrived here yesterday on board the Lusitania is determined to give New York chance to see aerial loop the loop.

In an interview Beachey said:

"I am tired of hearing people say that the exhibitions of flying are reckless and foolish. I am going to show New York that it is foolish to say such a thing. I am going to loop the loop over the Woolworth building, just to show people how easy it is. I don't care for all the pilot's licenses in the world. I am interested in aviation, and I know that New York will be glad to see a real aviator."

GENERAL COTTON IS SUPERANNUATED

OTTAWA, April 18.—The retirement on superannuation of Major-General W. H. Cotton, Inspector-General of the Canadian militia forces, is announced in militia orders. For the present, at least, no successor will be appointed. The duties of annual inspection will be performed as last year by the Minister of Militia himself.

TO AID SUFFERERS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Anglican Churches to Set Aside Sunday, May 3, for Purpose

MONTREAL, April 18—It is expected that the attendance to-night at the meeting of the Newfoundland Society to be held in the Central Y.M.C.A. for the purpose of discussing what can be done to aid the widows and orphans of the sealers who perished in the recent Newfoundland tragedy, will be very large. There are many Newfoundlanders of note in the city and they will be out in force at the mass meeting to-night.

The Right Rev. Bishop Farthing has issued an appeal to the Anglican churches of this city to render what aid they can to the sufferers, and has set aside Sunday, May 3rd, as Newfoundland disaster day. All collections taken in the Anglican churches of the diocese on that day will be added to the fund being raised in Montreal for the sufferers.

SALVATION ARMY BALKED BY POLICE

COBALT April 20.—(Special.)—Captain Snowden, of the local branch of the Savlation army, appeared at the Police Court on Friday to answer a summons served on him by Chief of Police Burke alleging that the army on April 15th contravened the by-law dealing with the obstruction of the sidewalk. City Solicitor George Ross appeared for the police, the army conducting its own case. The court was crowded. The hearing was adjourned till Saturday morning, when Brigadier Adby of Hamilton, divisional commander, attended. The result is that the case will be put before the Town Council, the army in the meantime undertaking to appeal to their followers to stand on the road, and not on the sidewalk of the square, which is the scene of the alleged sidewalk blocking.

This is the climax of what seems to be many months of strained relations between the police and the army here in Cobalt. On Thursday morning Captain Snowden refused to adopt Chief Burke's suggestion that they in person lay the case before the Town Council instead of taking legal proceedings.

GEORGIAN BAY CANAL SCHEME

The large delegation of business men from Montreal and vicinity who went to Ottawa last week to urge upon the Government the necessity for the early construction of the Georgian Bay Canal has aroused fresh attention in this important project. For a great many years there has been an agitation in favor of the building of this canal, especially by the people of Montreal, Ottawa and of the Ottawa River and French River Valleys. Briefly summarized the points in favor of the building of the canal are: That it would provide a shorter and more direct route between the head of the Great Lakes and ocean navigation: that the canal would be entirely within Canadian territory and, perhaps greatest of all, that it would prevent the large proportion of Canadian grain from going via Buffalo and the Erie Canal. Other arguments in favor of its construction relate to the fact that it would open up a vast new country, that the development of the water powers adjacent to the route would mean much for industry and commerce, and that the farming, lumbering and mining areas in the vicinity would receive a new impetus. Those against the undertaking argue that the cost would be almost prohibitive, especially at the present time, as Canada has heavy commitments in connection with railways. It is also urged that the Government's first duty is towards the deepening and improving of the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals.

The Government recently appointed a commission of three business men to study the whole question and to investigate the commercial possibilities of the route. It is probable that something tangible will result from their investigations, and it is only reasonable to expect that as soon as the Government completes its present obligations in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern Railways that something will be undertaken on behalf of the Georgian Bay Canal.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONER

The London correspondent of the Ottawa Free Press of the 17th inst., cables as follows:

The London correspondent of the Birmingham Daily Post, who is usually well informed, states today that it is as good as arranged that Hon. Geo. E. Perley, Minister without portfolio in the Borden Cabinet, will be Lord Strathcona's successor as Canada's High Commissioner in London.

—Upon which the Free Press comments as follows:

It is understood here that no arrangement has been reached by which Hon. George E. Perley will succeed to the vacant Canadian High Commissionership.

The men most frequently mentioned for the post are Premier Borden, Hon. Robert Rogers and Sir Richard McBride.

There is a growing belief that the place will not be filled until after the next general election, and if the Conservatives win, that Hon. Mr. Borden will go to London while Hon. George E. Foster or Hon. Robert Rogers will become Premier.

THE OTHER SIDE.

A telegram to the Toronto News (Conservative) of the 17th inst., says:

A rumor which was current here today that the position of High Commissioner at London had been filled, and that Hon. George Perley, Minister without portfolio, was the choice, was denied in high quarters. It was also stated that no appointment would likely be made until after the close of the session as the Cabinet is too much tied up with the sessional programme to deal with such an important matter.

The two names most prominently mentioned at present in Ottawa are those of Hon. George Perley and Hon. Robert Rogers. Both of these have, of course, been prominent from the time that the position became vacant by the death of Lord Strathcona. It is believed that the position will be linked up with that of Canadian resident Minister in London. It will be recalled that during the naval debate last year Premier Borden put forward the proposal that a Canadian Minister should be sent to London to sit on the Imperial defence committee.

The appointment of either Mr. Perley or Mr. Rogers would make this dual position a fact. Either of the two Ministers now so prominently mentioned would be well equipped for the important position at the seat of the Empire.

Magic Nerviline Ends Stiff neck, Lumbago

ANY CURABLE MUSCULAR OR JOINT PAIN IS INSTANTLY RELIEVED BY NERVILINE.

GET TRIAL BOTTLE TO-DAY

You don't have to wait all day to get the kink out of a stiff neck if you rub on Nerviline. And you don't need to go around complaining about lumbago any more. You can rub such things away very quickly with Nerviline. It's the grandest, the speediest to ease muscular pain of any kind.

One twenty-five cent trial bottle of Nerviline will cure any attack of lumbago or lame back. This has been proved a thousand times, just as it was in the case of Mr. E. J. Grayden, of Caledonia, who writes:—"I wouldn't think of going to bed without knowing we had Nerviline in the house. I have used it for twenty odd years and appreciate its value as a family remedy more and more every day. If any of the children get a stiff neck, Nerviline cures quickly. If it is earache, toothache, cold on the chest, sore throat, Nerviline is always my standby. My husband once cured himself of a frightful attack of lumbago by Nerviline, and for a hundred ailments that turn up in a large family Nerviline is by far the best thing to have about you."

Notice was given on the 15th inst. that "on and from Monday next, the 20th inst., and until the end of the session, the House of Commons shall meet at 11 o'clock in the morning." The notice of morning sessions means that the House is almost certain to wind up its work by May 24th.

Publishers, be careful what you say if you want to keep out of trouble. Following an article appearing in the Halifax Evening Mail of the 15th inst., inferring that if the Legislature passed the bill to incorporate the Nova Scotia Power Company, the conclusion to be drawn would be that the members had been bought, it was reported that W. H. Dennis, Jr., manager of The Mail, would be called to the bar of the House and be asked to explain.

"HOME" CLEANING TIME

The housewife who doesn't "house clean" at least twice a year is not classed as a good housekeeper by her more careful neighbors. And don't we admire the spirit of our women folks which makes dirt and disorder such a hateful thing to them! But would not a "home" cleaning time be preferable? "Home" cleaning involves not only the inside of the house, but the outside as well. Does it ever occur to you that it must be discouraging to the good wife to make such a thorough cleaning inside twice a year, while right near the back door and perhaps in full view of the road is a disorderly wood-pile and dirty door yard. Perhaps the cattle graze in front of the house where there should be a well-kept lawn and shrubbery.

Let us men folks encourage the ladies by looking after our end of the "home" cleaning. Here are a few of the jobs that might be attended to: Clean out the cellar, removing all decaying vegetables and such litter. Remove that disorderly wood-pile to where it will be less in evidence. Clean up the litter around the dooryard. Repair the fences and set the lawns and flower beds in order. Spend a pleasant evening with your wife studying a seed or nursery catalogue and making out an order for the vines or shrubs that she has coveted so long. When both get interested in the "home" cleaning there will be less complaint of irregular meals during "house" cleaning.—Farm and Dairy.

BIG CROP OF P.E.I. OYSTERS PROMISED

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., April 18—Special—The year's production of Malpeque, or native oysters, will reach 20,000 barrels, according to oyster men, who say that only ten per cent of this number will be transplanted Cape Cods, or others varieties of American oysters. The trade understands by Malpeques, not only the oysters which are raked off the beds of a certain part of Richmond Bay, near the town called Malpeque, but all the good oysters that are fished in this bay and adjacent bays, either north or south of the Island. The beds around Cape Curtain Island in Richmond Bay are supposed to contain the standard oysters, that is, genuine and true Malpeques, though every oyster caught in any part of Prince Edward Island, is called by that name.

Some few years ago, owing to the increasing demand for Malpeques, not only in this market, but from the United States and Europe and to the scarcity of supply through depletion of the beds, the producers of these oysters raised the price until Malpeques became a luxury and the demand was curtailed. This led to the introduction into Canada of oysters from Massachusetts waters, and the Cape Cod variety was chosen because these oysters are fished in bays and have the salty taste, which is a feature of the Malpeques, and so became a near substitute for the native product. Two years ago the producers of the native oyster, seeing a growing trade in the imported substitutes, readjusted their prices to existing conditions, and since that time the Malpeques have again recovered ground, and this season have been more plentiful and of a better quality.

To grow and flourish, oysters require certain conditions. The water must be neither too salt or too fresh. The bottom must be hard, and the water must not be too deep or too cold. There must also be lime present so that shells can be built, and too much mud will choke the oysters.

When one speaks of good native oysters in this country, it has reference to the shape and fleshy part of the oysters only. The flavor is always good, and even in the poorest specie far superior to any oysters grown in public beds.

Even the oysters produced on the beds of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia coasts, though not so succulent, so pleasing to the taste as those of Prince Edward Island, still, are, as a rule, much superior to any of the specie known as Cape Cods, Blue Points, Cotuits, Buzzard's Bay and other sobriquets. At one time Caraquet oysters had a reputation second only to Malpeques, but these beds are now nearly extinct.

Oyster fishing, which removes the full grown, breeding oysters, stirs up mud and salt, and interferes with the young oysters, and unless methods of artificial propagation are adopted, and restriction placed on oyster fishing, they will soon become extinct. Such measures are being used in Europe. In those countries lime and sand cemented tiles are placed down in the oyster beds, and these afford places for the "spats" or young oysters, to develop. In the United States, masses of spats are taken from crowded beds and placed in cultch made of old oyster shells. The young oysters sell at prices varying from ten cents to $1.00 a bushel. Dr. J. Stafford, M.A., Ph.D., of the Conservation Commission, recommends a campaign of education for the preservation of the oyster.

UNCLE SAM'S "SWAGGER"

Daily News' Correspondent Writes of Tampico Incident

LONDON, April 18.—Cunningham Graham, in a letter to the Daily News says: "No doubt a certain class of newspaper will be almost lyric in its joy that President Wilson is going to teach the "greasers" a lesson. Yet I do not see that President Wilson is rising in his majesty to read a lesson to those "greasers". His naval demonstration, his massing of the whole Atlantic fleet, his landing of a party of fifteen thousand men, all to be directed against the wretched little port of Tampico, is the poorest, cheapest swagger imaginable.

"Some American marines were arrested in that town by a foolish officer. They were released and an apology was tendered by General Huerta's Government. What more could be asked for? Had the incident occurred at Kiel, Yokohama or Cherbourg, would the American fleet have been sent there to demand that their flag should be saluted? I trow not. The Japanese would have laughed such a demand to scorn. The French or German would have treated it with well-merited contempt.

"Americans have inherited from ourselves the propensities to swagger with the weak and make terms with the strong. This is a case of the grosset abuse of force. It can be of no possible benefit to anyone, and if the Mexicans have any patriotism at all left in them they should unite all parties against the foreign invaders.

TO PROTECT WHITE GLOVES

To appear in town either in the evening, or for daylight affairs, with spotless white gloves, has always been one of the troubles of the suburban women. Of course, you may say she need not put on her white gloves till she arrives at the place for which she is bound, but it is not always practical to do this. Besides, she would rather be all ready, the same as the city woman is.

One suburban woman has found a way—there always is a way out of every predicament—and she has kindly passed the idea on for the benefit of others. In the fall she purchases, usual at bargain sales, one or two pairs of white gloves, one-quarter size larger than the size of gloves she wears, these she draws over her white kind gloves, and does not remove them until she reaches her destination. Silk gloves fit snugly over the kids ones, and do not look so bulky as cotton ones would. They are easily stored away in her muff or coat pocket until needed again.

There must have been at least 50 per cent. exaggeration in the stories of the battle of Torreon or this new series of battles at San Pedro would not have been possible so soon.

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of
"Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

"I shall post up to town this afternoon to make the arrangements of which I have spoken", he said; "you, in the meantime, will remain under the care of Mrs. Willet, to whom I shall entrust the purchase of your wardrobe. When that has been prepared, you will come straight to my house in Arlington Street, whence I will myself conduct you to the school I may have chosen as your residence. Remember, that from to-day you will begin a new life. Ah, by the bye, there is one other question I must ask. You have no relations, no associates of the past who are likely to torment you in the future?"

"None. I have no relations who would dare approach me, and I have always held myself aloof from all associates."

"Good, then the future lies clear before you. And now you can return to Mrs. Willet. I will see her presently, and make all arrangements for your comfort."

Honoria courtseyed to her benefactor, and left the room in silence. Her very gesture and her every tone were those of a lady. Sir Oswald looked after her with wonder, as she disappeared from the apartment.

The landlady of the "Star" was very much surprised when Sir Oswald Eversleigh requested her to keep the ballad-singer in her charge for a week, and to purchase for her a simple but horoughly complete wardrobe.

"And now", said Sir Oswald, "I confide her to you for a week, Mrs. Willet, at the end of which time I hope her wardrobe will be ready. I will write you a cheque for—say fifty pounds. If that is not enough, you can have more."

"Lor' bless you, Sir Oswald, it's more than enough to set her up like a duchess, in a manner of speaking", answered the landlady; and then, seeing Sir Oswald had no more to say to her, she curtseyed and withdrew.

Sir Oswald Eversleigh's carriage was at the door of the "Star" at noon; and at ten minutes after twelve the baronet was on his way back to town.

He visited a great many West-end barding schools before he found one that satisfied him in every particularlar. Had his protegee been his daughter or his affianced wife, he could not have been more difficult to please. He wondered at his own fastidiousness.

"I am like a child with a new toy" he thought, almost ashamed of the intense interest he felt in this unknown girl.

At last he found an astablishment that pleased him; a noble old mansion at Fulham, surrounded by splendid grounds, and presided over by two maiden sisters. It was thoroughly an aristocratic seminary, and the ladies who kept it knew how to charge for the advantages of their establishment. Sir Oswald assented immediately to the Misses Beaumonts' terms and promised to bring the expected pupil in less than a week's time.

"The young lady is a relation, I presume, Sir Oswald?" said the elder Beaumont.

"Yes", answered the baronet; "she is—a distant relative."

If he had not been standing with his back to the light, the two ladies might have seen a dusky flush suffuse his face as he pronounced these words. Never before had he told so deliberate a falsehod. But he had feared to tell the truth.

"They will never guess her secret from her manner", he thought; "and if they question her, she will know how to baffle their curiosity."

On the very day that ended the stipulated week, Honoria Milford made her appearance in Arlington street. Sir Oswald was in his library, seated in an easy chair before the fire-place, with a book in his hand, but with no powers to concentrate his attention to its pages. He was sitting thus when the door was opened, and a servant announced—

"Miss Milford!"

Sir Oswald rose from his chair, and beheld an elegant young lady, who approached him with a graceful timidity of manner. She was simply dressed in grey merino, a black silk mantle, and a straw bonnet, trimmed with white ribbon. Nothing could have been more Quaker-like than the simplicity of this costume, and yet there was an elegance about the wearer which the baronet had seldom seen surpassed.

He rose to welcome her.

"You have just arrived in town?" he said.

"Yes, Sir Oswald; a hackney coach brought me here from the coach-office."

"I am very glad to see you", said the baronet, holding out his hand, which Honoria Milford touched lightly with her now neatly gloved fingers, "and I am happy to tell you that I have secured you a home which I think you will like."

"Oh, Sir Oswald, you are only too good to me. I shall never know how to thank you."

"Then do not thank me at all. Believe me, I desire no thanks. I have done nothing worthy of gratitude. An influence stronger than my own will has drawn me towards you; and in doing what I can to befriend you, I am only giving way to an impulse which I am powerless to resist."

The girl looked at her beenfactor with a bewildered expression, and Sir Oswald interpreted the look.

"Yes", he said, "you may well be astonished by what I tell you. I am astonished myself. There is something mysterious in the interest which you have inspired in my mind."

Although the baronet had thought continually of his protegee during the past week, he had never asked himself if there might no be some simple and easy solution possible for this bewildering enigma. He had never asked himself if it were not just within the limits of possibility that a man of fifty might fall a victim to that fatal fever called love.

He looked at the girl's beautiful face with the admiration which every man feels for the perfection of beauty—the pure, calm, reverential feeling of an artist, or a poet—and he never supposed it possible that the day might not be far distant when he would contemplate that lovely countenace with altered sentiments, with a deeper emotion.

"Come to the dining-room, Miss Milford," he said; "I expected you to-day——I have made all arrangements accordingly. You must be hungry after your journey; as I have not yet lunched, I hope you will share my luncheon?"

Honoria assented. Her manner towards her benefactor was charming in its quiet grace, deferential without being sycophantic—the manner of a daughter rather than a dependent. Before leaving the library, she looked round at the books, the bronzes, the pictures, with beaming eyes. Never before had she seen so splendid an apartment; and she possessed that intuitive love of beautiful objects which is the attribute of all refined and richly endowed natures.

The baronet placed his ward on one side of the table, and seated himself opposite to her.

No servants waited upon them Sir Oswald himself attended to the wants of his guest. He heaped her plate with dainties; he filled her glass with rare old wine; but she ate only a few mouthfuls, and she drank nothing. The novelty of her present position was too full of excitement.

During the whole of the repast the baronet asked her no questions. He talked as if they had long been known to each other, explaining to her the merits of the different pictures and statues which she admired, pleased to find her intelligence always on a level with his own.

"She is a wonderful creature", he thought; "a wonderful creature—a priceless pearl picked up out of the gutter."

After luncheon Sir Oswald rang for his carriage, and presntly Honoria Milford found herself on her way to her new home.

The mansion inhabited by the Misses Beaumont was called "The Beeches." It had of old been the seat of a nobleman, and the grounds which encircled it were such as are rarely to be found within a few miles of the metropolis; and they would in vain be sought for now. Shabby little streets and terraces cover the ground where gradn old cedars of Lebanon cast their dark shadows on the smooth turf seven-and-twenty years ago.

Hoonria Milford was enraptured with the beauty of her new home. That stately mansion, shut in by noble old trees from all the dust and clamour of the outer world; those smooth lawns, and exquisitely kept beds, filled with flowers even in this chill spring weather, must have seemed beautiful to those accustomed to handsome habitations. What must they have been then to the wanderer of the streets—the friendless tramp—who a week ago had depended for a night's rest on the chance of finding an empty barn.

She looked at her benefactor with eyes that were dim with tears, as the carriage approached this delightful retreat.

"If I were your daughter, you could not have chosen a better place than this", she said.

"If you were my daughter, I doubt if I could feel a deeper interest in your fate than I feel now", answered Sir Oswald, quietly.

Miss Beaumont the elder received her pupil with ceremonious kindness. She looked at the girl with the keen glance of examination which becomes habitual to the eye of the schoolmistress; but the most severe scrutiny would have failed to detect anything unladylike or ungraceful in the deportment of Honoria Milford.

CONFLICT IMMINENT WAR SEEMS INEVITABLE

President Wilson Will Ask Congress For Authority to Use Armed Forces to Uphold the Honor and Dignity of Nation — War Fleets Are on Their Way to Mexican Ports to Enforce Demand.

WASHINGTON, April 20. — Gen. Victoriano Huerta, Provisional President of Mexico, flatly refused last night to accede to the unconditional demands of the United States that he salute the American flag, and Congress will be asked by President Wilson to-day for authority to use armed forces to uphold the honor and dignity of the nation.

Negotiations with Huerta over the demand for a salute in reparation for the arrest of American bluejackets at Tampico on April 10 came to a close last night at six o'clock, the last hour given by President Wilson for a favorable response from the Mexican dictator. The final word of Huerta to Charge O'Shaughnessy was a refusal to comply unless the United States would guarantee in writing that his salute be returned.

President Wilson at midnight was on his way to Washington from White Sulphur Springs, preparing to read a message to Congress in joint session as early as it can be arranged to-day. In the meantime American war fleets were moving down both coasts on their way to Mexican waters to carry out the President's plan for reprisals.

The crisis thus reached does not mean that there will be a formal declaration of war, because the United States Government would not declare war against a Government which it does not recognize. President Wilson will seek authority, however, to send armed forces into Mexico to seize first the ports of Tampico and Vera Cruz and the railroad trestle leading to Mexico City.

Secretary Tumulty announced just before 11 o'clock last night that President Wilson had instructed him over the long-distance telephone to call a special meeting of the Cabinet for 10.30 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Tumulty also announced that the President was preparing to deliver a special message to Congress to-day, and that a joint session would be held at the earliest hour the Congressional leaders could arrange for it, probably three o'clock.

"The matter is closed," said Mr. Tumulty. Huerta, he added, had asked for no continuation of the negotiations, and refused flatly to accede to what he called the demand for an "unconditional" salute.

Incompatible With Dignity.

MEXICO CITY, April 20. — The Mexican Foreign Minister, Senor Portillo y Rojas, announced last night that it would be impossible to agree to the demand of the United States that the flag of that country be unconditionally saluted, because that flag was not insulted, because it was not flying from the launch, and because the marines were set free before an investigation, and the officer responsible for the arrests was himself arrested and held for trial.

The United States Government, Senor Portillo declared, had refused permission to Charge O'Shaughnessy to sign such a protocol, and demanded an unconditional salute from Mexico, which Mexico felt was incompatible with her dignity.

In conclusion, the Foreign Minister said: "Mexico has yielded as much as her dignity will permit. Mexico trusts to the fair-mindedness and spirit of justice of the American people."

Will They Join Forces?

CHIHUAHUA, April 20.—An important meeting will take place in the Palace here to-day. Gen. Pancho Villa is coming from Torreon, and Don Miguel Acuna, said to be an official representative of President Huerta, has left Juarez for a conference with Carranza and Villa about aiding the dictator in the event of the United States assuming a belligerent attitude toward the republic. Villa left Torreon at 12.30 on a special train and was expected to arrive here some time last evening. Acuna is said to have come from Mexico City to confer with Carranza, having been sent to feel out Carranza as to the attitude of the Constitutionalists as soon as the Tampico incident occurred.

No Recount at Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 20—The Montreal municipal deadlock is broken. The four members of the board of control, in consequence of the withdrawal of the demand for a recount, will be sworn in Tuesday and immediately afterwards the board will hold its first meeting, when a mass of business which has been accumulating for the past ten days will be disposed of. The four controllers to take the oath of office on Tuesday are Messrs. Thomas Cote, E. N. Herbert, J. Ainey and Duncan McDonald.

Jobless May Make Trouble.

MONTREAL, April 20.—As the result of an open invitation issued by Mayor Martin, it is expected that the City Hall will be besieged in the morning by several thousand out-of-works looking for civic laboring jobs worth $2.25 a day. Only about 500 men may be taken on at the start, though if trouble develops among the disappointed work-seekers this number may have to be increased.

Unable To Avoid Train.

ST. CATHARINES, April 20.—An open verdict was rendered by the jury over the death of Charles Grigg of Grimsby, who was struck by a train on the T., H. & B., near Grassies. It is said that Grigg, who had been suffering from heart trouble, was stricken while walking the track, and was helpless when the train struck him.

HINDUS COMING.

Four Hundred on the Way to Vancouver To Test Exclusion Order.

OTTAWA, April 18. — When Parliament met yesterday afternoon Mr. H. H. Stevens (Vancouver) directed the attention of the Minister of the Interior to a press despatch stating that 400 Hindus were en route from Shanghai and Hong Kong to Vancouver, with a view to testing the Government regulation respecting Oriental immigration.

"The Deputy Minister received a telegram to that effect this morning," replied Hon. Dr. Roche, "and the officers at Vancouver have been instructed to prohibit these people coming in contrary to our regulations."

It will be recalled that several months ago several Hindus tested in the courts the validity of the orders in council which said that Asiatics could not enter Canada unless coming by direct steamship from their native land.

Judge Hunter upset the orders on the ground that they did not conform with the act. The Government then repealed the orders and new ones were passed which it was believed would meet the technical objections raised by Judge Hunter.

However, outside of these orders, there is at present an order in council, passed March 31, and to be in force for six months, which prohibits the entrance of all artisans and laborers into British Columbia. It is believed that this order, at least, will effectually bar the entrance of the coming Hindus.

Mellen Willing To Take It.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 19.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co., would be highly honored, he said yesterday, if chosen to head the federated railway employes.

The organization, which will have a membership of 2,000,000 railway employes, will be formed at a meeting in Boston on April 26. It will be known as the Federated Council of Railroad Brotherhoods.

"I would rather hold that position than be President of the United States," said Mr. Mellen.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, April 18.—Faster selling than has been seen for weeks, much of it believed to be for leading bulls, swept down prices today in corn. Argentine offers lower than ever, and ideal weather to prepare for the new domestic crop gave the greater part of the impetus. The close was weak, 3-4 to 1 5-8c under last night. Wheat showed a net decline of 5-8 to 7-8 and oats of 3-8 to 5-8c. In provisions the outcome was an advance of 7 1-2 to 15c.

HAS FAITH IN PORCUPINE

London Capitalist Thinks it Will Rank Among Great Goldfields

OTTAWA, Ont., April 18.—"I believe that Porcupine will yet come to the front and that in a period of five or ten years it will rank among the greatest of producing gold fields," was the optimistic prediction today of W. G. Earle, a capitalist of London, England, and extensive holder of mining interests in California and South Africa. "When I heard the true history of the camp from the men who have been there since the pioneer days it struck me as amazing that developments had reached such an advanced stage," he said. "While it may never equal in greatness Cobalt, it has a grand future."

Mr. Earle arrived in Ottawa today after a trip through the Cobalt camp, Porcupine and Swastika. He has no holdings in the north, but the object of his visit was really to get a line on the prospects about Kirkland and the vicinity. He says he found there was not a country in the world where mining was carried on on a more scientific and paying basis than in some of the north's big mines."

"London is all stirred up over the discoveries in Swastika and Kirkland Lake," he said. "The English, however, have been nipped so often that they are not as eager to sink their money into mining as the Americans were when Cobalt was discovered.

"The greatest of all setbacks to Porcupine was the gambling in stocks instead of the mining of ore. It is a crime the way a number of the companies have been handled. The public has been stung, and stung badly in several instances principally through the giving out of false reports."

WITCHCRAFT RAMPANT

League For Black Magic Alleged in Island of Sardinia.

Twenty-Five Were Charged Originally With Mysterious Practices But Nineteen Were Acquitted on Plea That They Were Under the Spell of the Other Six—Ignorant People Duped Out of Their Savings.

MILAN, April 20. — Stories of witchcraft which the most highly imaginative modern novelist would hesitate to print were related at the Assize Court at Sassari, Sardinia, during the trial of several women. Only six of the alleged witches were in the dock of the twenty-five original companions discharged during the secret magisterial examination. Their plea was that they acted under the powerful spell of the other six.

The existence of an influential witches' league was revealed by the evidence of some members professing mystic power for locating hidden treasure, working miracles and calling up the spirits of the dead. They victimized several hundred dupes to the extent of thousands of dollars, and eighty victims gave evidence. One of them, a former prison governor who was being threatened with dismissal because of the escape of a ferocious Sardinian brigand, spent all his private means with the witches. The women undertook to have the brigand seized by demons in the mountain fastnesses, translated through the air, and set down securely in the prison cell again.

Returning emigrants from North and South America were despoiled of their savings and deluded by the cunningly devised apparitions of lost relatives. Some families have been content to forfeit not only money and jewelry but every bit of household furniture for the benefit of the witches. One prisoner, Rosa Artu, a venerable matron of imposing appearance, and known as the Saint of Sassari, refused a lawyer's aid, saying that Saints Thomas and Augustine had been sent from heaven to defend her. In an eloquent speech she claimed to possess supernatural powers, which enabled her to heal scores of so-called incurables and even raving lunatics. The case is still proceeding.

PEACE COMMISSION PACT.

Anglo-American Questions of Honor To Be Examined.

WASHINGTON, April 20. — Sir Cecil Spring-Rice and Secretary Bryan yesterday discussed the outline of the peace commission treaty to bind the United States and Great Britain to submit to a commission for examination any issues between the two countries which may not yield to diplomatic adjustment. The ambassador visited the Department twice, and on his last call was able to lay before the Secretary of State a tentative draft of the convention as prepared in the British Foreign Office.

Secretary Bryan expressed satisfaction with the British suggestion to adopt as a basis for the British-American treaty the convention already concluded between the United States and the Netherlands. It will take a little time to perfect the new convention, because of its application to Britain's five great colonies, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Newfoundland, each of which has to be consulted.

Murphy Back in the Fold.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy is a full-fledged member of the National Democratic Club again. So is ex-Sheriff "Big Tom" Foley and ex-State Senator George Washington Plunkitt. All three were expelled from the club at a meeting held on March 10, which broke up in a row which could be heard a block away.

The amount involved, over $1,000, was stolen while it was being transferred from one train to another at Sharbot Lake. Redmond, who was employed as a messenger for the Dominion Express company, was arrested by Detective Pinchen, of the C.P.R., and admitted stealing the money. He was sentenced on March 22nd, 1913.

WEDDING BELLS

KEMP—SPENCER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Spencer, "The Ridge," Rednerville, Ont., was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, April 15th, 1914, when their only daughter, Dora M., became the bride of Herbert F. E. Kemp of Trenton, Ont. In one corner of their spacious parlor the marriage altar was marked by a bank of beautiful flowers, conspicuous among which were three fragrant Easter lilies, and overhead by festoons of white ribbons and smilax. Promptly at half-past twelve, while the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March pealed forth from the piano under the skillful touch of Miss Laura Spencer of Toronto, cousin of the bride, the bridal party, consisting of the six waitresses, namely, Miss Mills of Brockville, Misses A. Sanders, E. Scantlebury, and A. E. Anderson of Belleville, and Misses M. Howe and A. Hancock of Rednerville (centre); the clergymen, the groom and his attendant, Freeman Spencer, brother of the bride, Miss Frieda Spencer of Toronto, as bridesmaid, and lastly, the bride and her father entered. The bride looked charming in her gown of ivory satin trimmed with pearls and ninon and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid was becomingly attired in a mauve suit with draperies, ornaments and bouquet of sweet peas to match. The ceremony was conducted by the pastor of the bride, Rev. M. W. Leigh, B.A., of Rednerville, assisted by Rev. W. P. Rogers, B.A., of Trenton, pastor of the groom, and by the bride's grandfather, Rev. W. K. Burr of Chicago. With distinct voice and becoming reverence the marriage vows were taken and bride and groom were declared "husband and wife together." During the signing of the register Miss A. Sanders of Belleville sang "Because," accompanied by Miss Scantlebury at the piano. After the fifty guests had offered their congratulations, the company went to the dining room, where an excellent eight course dinner was served. After dinner Rev. W. P. Rogers, B.A., proposed a toast to the bride and was assisted in his proposition by Dr. Preston, Trenton, Rev. M. W. Leigh, B.A., Rev. W. K. Burr, Messrs. Ellwood Spencer, P. D. Redner, D. T. Stafford, Rennie Kemp and A. E. Phillips, who in different ways referred to the bride's many good qualities and the helpful services rendered in the church community. To this toast the groom made a fitting reply. Amid showers of rice and confetti the happy couple drove to Belleville, where they took train to Toronto. The bride's going away suit was of fawn whipcord with hat to match. Many valuable presents in cut glass, silverware, brass, linen, cutlery, furniture and cheques were left as souvenirs of the occasion for the bride. The groom's gift of a beautiful gold necklace with amethyst pendant was worn by the bride during the ceremony and the groomsman and gold. On their return from the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Kemp will reside in their magnificent new home, Henry Street, Trenton.

A MILITANT FROM BELLEVILLE-ON-QUINTE

(From Toronto Globe)

Once in Belleville, now in militancy. These are the Arctic and the Antarctic of the career of May Richardson, suffragette. At least, so say those who claim to know. This wielder of destruction, it is reported, is none other than Miss Marguerite Perkins, who spent much of her early life in Belleville-on-Quinte, and who established a reputation for goodheartedness and generosity that has saved to her many friends who would have been alienated had a less lovable nature indulged in May Richardson's whirlwind campaign against the law.

This suffragette is an ardent admirer of Mrs. Pankhurst, giving herself with martyr-like devotion to the leader of the militant cause. Always emotionally strenuous, Miss Richardson—or Miss Perkins—has more than once been misled by women stronger on scheming than on strict probity, and every girlhood friend is stoutly defending her motives, even while they wish that her energy had not been turned in the direction of property-smashing.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"THE RED WIDOW"

The poet says "Music hath charms," but what would that poet have said had he heard the dainty, tuneful numbers of "The Red Widow," the late Aster Theatre New York success that is to be offered at Griffin's Opera House, Wednesday evening, April 22. This attraction fathered by a triology of authors, Channing Pollock, Rennold Wolf and Charles Gebest, led all the metropolitan successes last season and its presentation here we are told will be on the same scale of magnificence, with all the wealth of scenic embellishments and dainty gowning and dressings that pleased the visual senses of its metropolitan beholders. The song numbers, some twenty, are said to be exquisite in their lyrics and the music accompaniments we are told offer the most tuneful melodies of this season. Of course the story of the play abounds in comedy sensations that will be found teaming in laughter and the large company, said to number nearly three score personages, will no doubt make the most of the talented authors' conceptions and dictions.

Bronchitis Sufferer

TAKES DRUGGISTS' ADVICE WITH SPLENDID RESULT.

If any one should know the worth of a medicine, it is the retail druggist who sells it very day in the week and is in a position to know what remedy gives the best satisfaction.

Mrs. Frank H. Udine of West Sand Lake, N.Y., says: "For years I was a great sufferer from bronchitis. Last July I had a severe attack and my friends thought I could not recover from it. Then I was advised by my druggist to try Vinol which I did with wonderful results. My cough has left me; I have gained in weight and appetite and I am strong as ever I was. I advise all who have bronchitis, chronic coughs or who are run-down to try Vinol."

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative elements of the cod's liver, without oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron that makes Vinol so efficient in such cases.

Remember, we guarantee Vinol to do just what we say—we pay your money if it does not—Red Cross Drug Store—J. S. McKeown, Belleville, Ont.

Spanish War Veteran Is Ready To Go to Texas City.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—By the direction of the Secretary of War Major General Leonard Wood, Chief of the General Staff of the United States army and the first colonel of Roosevelt's Rough Riders in the Spanish-American war, is holding himself in readiness to proceed to Texas City, Texas.

MAJ.-GEN. LEONARD WOOD.

It is the intention of Secretary Garrison to have Gen. Wood assume command of operations of all the regular troops in Texas, or those that may be used for hostile operations against Mexico. His term of service as chief of staff will expire on Wednesday, and he had been chosen to command the Department of the East, with headquarters at Governor's Island, New York harbor.

JAPANESE "SEA GRASS" FURNITURE

HAS JUST COME TO HAND, AND WE WOULD ADVISE INTENDING PURCHASERS TO DO THEIR CHOOSING EARLY, WHILE THERE IS A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF STYLES TO SELECT FROM

THE Japanese "Sea Grass" Furniture is springing into prominence more every year, and has now practically become a necessity in place of a luxury.

For lawn, porchway, garden or summer cottage, there is no kind of furniture more durable, more appropriate or more artistic than Japanese Sea Grass Furniture. It blends in perfect harmony with the natural surroundings, lending its own natural artistic lines to other features of your furnishings.

The sea grass is harvested with as much care and painstaking as our own present dap crop harvesting. It grows principally on the shoals so numerous around Japan, and was practically unknown until a few years ago, when the Japanese (who so well know how to do this class of work) discovered accidentally that this sea grass, that had been growing and rotting away for ages, had all the qualities that go to make strong, durable and subtle furniture

Japanese Sea Grass Furniture is exceedingly well made, the chairs and rockers being perfect imitations of the higher priced wood furniture; and a more comfortable chair or rocker could not be wished. They are meant in every way for rest. Just what you need after a hard day's work, or after an afternoon's shopping. You would be forced to think the chair was made to your order, when you find the ease and comfort derived from them.

Included in this display are large and small Chairs, Rockers, Settees, Tables, Work Baskets, Flower Stands, and Magazine Holders, and each piece has a Price Ticket attached that makes it easy to buy. For instance—

Large Chairs and Rockers ....$4.50 to $8.00 each
Settees at $11.50 to $12.75 each
Children's Chairs and Rockers ....$1.50 to $2.00 each

GRAND TRUNK NEWS BULLETIN

PRINCE GEORGE MAKES RAPID PROGRESS.

Mr. Morley Donaldson, Vice-President and General Manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, who has just been over the line in connection with the linking up of the steel at Nechako Crossing, expresses the opinion that within the next twelve months Prince George will have assumed the proportions of a city.

The Imperial Oil Co., has been granted by the Grand Trunk Pacific a temporary site and spur track and will immediately begin the construction of buildings required and storage tanks. In addition to this there will be a great deal of construction work on hotels, stores and residences as a great volume of general business is expected.

Prince George is admirably situated. It is near the confluence of the Fraser and Nachako Rivers, along the waters of which a large amount of freight is transported in order to reach the main line of the new transcontinental railway it will also be the hub out of which other railroad lines will run. The Pacific Great Eastern will link Prince George up with Vancouver, while this line extend northwards into the Peace River Country ~~and the produce of that rich region will thus be brought down~~ to Prince George ~~for transshipment~~ to Prince Rupert, Vancouver, and the East.

RAILROAD MEN TAKE UP FARMING.

The men who have been engaged in railway construction work on the last section of the Grand Trunk Pacific—and on a hundred miles of line, a force of 3,200 men was kept busy with an equipment of fourteen steam shovels—are now scattering and taking up various vocations. A large number of the most promising of the men are settling down to farming near the steel they helped to lay, realizing the splendid opportunities right at hand on the rich agricultural land in the Nechako and other valleys.

Activity prevails along the whole of the line. There are for instance vast quantities of merchantable timber to be cut and one mill is being put in at Willow River, the new Grand Trunk Pacific town, about twenty miles east of Prince George, which will cut 100,000 feet a day, a market for all of which is expected to be found in the tributary territory.

SAYS BRANCH LINES ARE NECESSITY IF FARMERS ARE TO THRIVE

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will it is announced, have this summer considerably over a thousand miles of the branch lines in operation.

While the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway have been rushing rails westward in order to connect at the earliest possible date the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, they have been reaching out with these branch lines and feeders. This was naturally of the first importance; to gather in the traffic for the Trunk line, to take care of the new home makers who are swarming into what was, when the main line was laid out some six years, an almost empty West. Also it was vitally important that they should take possession of every mile of attractive territory because to hesitate in this matter was to lose.

How essential to the development of the province these branch lines are is emphasized by the Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Railways in the Saskatchewan Government. Mr. Calder, who is visiting in the East just now, says:

"People who talk about putting on the brakes and stopping work are totally unfamiliar with conditions," said he. "These lines are required not to open up new territory, but to supply railway facilities for settlers who took up lands years ago. The report of the decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners on the freight rates case clearly indicates that these branch lines are urgently needed and must be proceeded with. Unless this is done not only will settlement and development be retarded, but thousands of our farmers who are completely disheartened will pull up stakes and leave the country. This represents the real situation, a situation that eastern Canada is interested in just as much as the west. If we are to hold what we have and if we are to secure annually the increase in crop area which we should expect it is imperative that railway facilities should be provided in all the large settlements in the west where the farmers are compelled to haul the grain a greater distance than from ten to twelve miles to market. Whenever this haul reaches out to twenty miles or over grain-growing is unprofitable, and will not be carried on."

May have to conceal that new Easter six-inch grating and escaped from a Pennsylvania jail must have been trained by going on a hunger strike.

ALL WORE PRIMROSES.

Englishmen Wore Flowers In Memory of Benjamin Disraeli.

LONDON, April 20. — Primroses were worn in nearly every British buttonhole Saturday in honor of Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield, England's famous statesman, who died 33 years ago yesterday.

Originally a Conservative political festival, Primrose Day is now celebrated by Englishmen of every shade of political opinion, and as this year the anniversary fell on a Sunday, the various demonstrations and banquets organized by the Primrose League were held Saturday. The Beaconsfield statue in Parliament square was garlanded and festooned with the pale yellow flower which was always the great statesman's favorite.

Five Years For Theft.

QUEBEC, April 20.—Five years in penitentiary was the sentence meted out by Judge Gervais in the criminal court on Saturday to Paul Vincent Morgan, alias Lemieux, found guilty of the theft of furs from the store of L'Heureux & Gauvin in January, 1913.

In pronouncing sentence on Morgan, Judge Gervais denounced him, telling the prisoner that he was one of the worst types of criminals the law had to deal with.

Killed by Falling Timber.

NORTH BAY, April 20. — John Sunstrum was almost instantly killed Saturday morning at English River on the National Transcontinental Railway west of Cochrane, by being struck on the head by a falling timber. He was foreman of the bridge crew engaged in tearing down a temporary trestle.

INFURIATED WOMAN KILLS HER DAUGHTER

Girl Attacked Without Warning at Hull, Mother Believed to be Insane

OTTAWA, April 20.—Wielding an axe as the instrument of death, Mrs. Pacide Massie, aged 45, wife of a plasterer residing on the corner of Adelaide and Alfred streets, Hull, on Saturday afternoon murdered her nineteen-year old daughter, Marie, the eldest of a family of seven children.

The woman had been acting strangely for about a week, and it is thought she committed the crime in an insane frenzy The direct cause of the crime was probably her objection to a young man with whom her daughter was keeping company.

The screams of the girl were heard by a neighbor, Felix Charron, who rushed in, but was too late to save her. He held the woman until the police came. The body of the girl was horribly mutilated, though she lived a few minutes after Charron had reached her. She was, however, unable to make any statement.

Mrs. Massie was immediately taken into custody and on being put in a cell at headquarters tried to commit suicide by battering her head against the wall. She appears to be violently insane.

Marie Massie was working in the home of a neighbor, and had been called home to dinner by her mother, shortly before two o'clock. One of the younger children says the woman attacked her without warning, the girl putting up, her hands to ward off the blows of the axe.

NO COMMISSIONER TILL SESSION ENDS

OTTAWA, April 20.—Rumors connecting the name of Hon. George H. Perley and other prominent Canadians with the High Commissionership in London are absolutely without foundation. The matter has never been considered, and will not be discussed by Hon. Mr. Borden and his Ministers until after the present session of Parliament.

While Hon. Mr. Perley is disqualified in the meantime because he does not possess Imperial citizenship, that is a matter which could easily be arranged for. It is not considered likely, here, however, that Mr. Perley will be the next Commissioner, although few men are considered better fitted for such a position, and probably he would only have to intimate his desire in order to get the appointment. It is not thought he has any desire for the position.

UNIFORMS LOSE THEIR BRILLIANCE

Canadian Troops will go Into Camp in Unvariegated Khaki

OTTAWA, April 20.—The Canadian troops will go into camp in khaki uniforms this year. This marks the passing away of the various uniforms which used to mark the annual training camps. In the past it was here a red coat, there an artillery man in blue with red stripe the cavalry in dark blue with white or yellow stripes, the rifle regiments in black, the engineers in scarlet coats with plush trimmings, and so on.

This is to be all changed, and the corps will go into camp in the khaki uniforms only.

BEACHY BACK WITH NEW AERO THRILL

Lincoln Beachey, the most daring of American aviators, who is engaged for Belleville June 3rd, returned from Europe bringing with him an eighty-horse power Gnome engine. He said he would loop-the-loop and do other spectacular flights within thirty days.

"I am the only man who ever looped-the-loop with a vertical engine," he said "and now I have a Gnome, I'm going to show something absolutely new."

CITY COUNCIL SELECTS LOCAL MAN FOR CITY ENGINEER

Mr J.W. Evans Chosen From Among Many Applicants--Pavement and Other By-Laws Passed--Much Business Transacted

At the Council meeting last evening considerable business was transacted. Mr. J. W. Evans, civil engineer, of this city, was appointed City Engineer. There were many applicants for the position. A bylaw appointing him was passed, also a bylaw regarding the paving of Front street and the building of a sewer on the north portion of Front street.

The members present were: Mayor Wills, Aldermen Panter, Woodley, Platt, Duckworth, O'Flynn, Wallbridge, Smith, McFee and St. Charles.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of last meeting the Council went into committee on reports, communications, etc., Ald. Woodley in the chair.

The accounts recommended to be paid by the committees were passed, and the following recommendations were disposed of:

That the sewer and manhole and the watergate at Front and Bridge streets cover be repaired and that estimates of the cost of cleaning and levelling the sewer on Front street and north of Victoria avenue be prepared.—Adopted.

That the provincial sanitary engineer be requested to come to Belleville to give his advice regarding sewers on Front Street at once.—Adopted.

That the tenders for street paving be returned to the respective parties tendering, and that the present specifications be amended, requiring a one inch and one and a half inch binder course with a ten years guarantee, and that those tendering be required to tender for both natural and artificial asphalt.—Adopted.

That the usual grant of $50 be given to the Belleville Horticultural Society, for which they agree to supply flowers, etc., for the city parks, the selection to be left with the society.

That the chairman of the light committee request the Trenton Electric and Water Company to submit their plans and prices at once for the lighting of the city.

That the tender of Albert S. Large as lessee of city market tolls for one year from April 20th, 1914, be accepted.

That the tender of Richard Stapley for the collection of garbage for the city for one year from May 1st, 1914, be accepted.

That two carts for the collection of garbage be procured.

A petition was presented for the extension of the water works system on Lingham street.—Referred to the Water Works committee.

A petition for a granolithic walk on Lingham street was referred to the assessor and clerk to report upon to see if it was properly signed.

INDUSTRIAL.

Mr. Robinson addressed the Council in reference to procuring industries for the city through an agency he represented. The agency was able to give unbiased advice relative to industries. The city would assume no responsibility until the work of the industries is started, and then the agency would require a percentage. The agency at present had a number of propositions on hand.

Mayor Wills considered the proposition was a reasonable one and one that could be dealt with at once. He was in favor of a special committee being appointed, and he moved that the chairmen of the Executive, Industries, and Gas committees have power to deal with this matter.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received.

On motion that it be adopted, Ald. Duckworth moved in amendment that it be not adopted but referred back to the committee to consider that portion of the report relative to purchasing two carts for garbage collection.

Ald. Duckworth considered it a mistake to have carts for the collection instead of wagons. He considered it would be impossible to make the collection properly by carts instead of wagons.

Ald. O'Flynn thought wagons an improvements over carts.

The amendment of Ald. Duckworth prevailed, and the council went back into committee, Ald. Woodley presiding.

Ald. Panter moved that the recommendation be amended so as to read two wagons instead of two carts.

The amendment prevailed, and the committee's report was adopted.

ENQUIRIES.

Ald. O'Flynn asked if the C. P. R. company had done anything yet towards repairing the road near Mr. Penny's house on Bay street.

City Engineer—Not yet.

Ald. Duckworth asked if some levelling could be done on the dump at the foot of Coleman street.

Mayor Wills—It can be done.

Ald. Panter—Have more tracks been laid over the railway crossing on Front street.

Mayor Wills—I called up the C. P. R. Engineer in regard to this matter. No more tracks have been laid, and the matter is in abeyance until the Railway Board gives its decision in the matter.

INTRODUCTION OF BYLAWS.

Ald. Panter introduced two bylaws, namely, a bylaw for the building of a sewer on the northern part of Front Street, and the building of an asphaltic concrete pavement on Front street.

The Council went into committee on bylaws, Ald. Wallbridge in the chair.

The bylaw to construct a sewer on the northern part of Front street, from what is known as McMahon's livery to the upper bridge, was adopted.

The bylaw relating to the pavement of Front street was laid over for the present and the committee asked leave to sit again.

The committee's report was adopted.

On motion the Council adjourned for an hour to consider applications for City Engineer.

CITY ENGINEER.

When the Council resumed a recommendation was presented from the Executive Committee recommending the appointment of Mr. J. W. Evans as City Engineer of the city of Belleville at a salary of $150 per month. The recommendation was unanimously adopted.

A bylaw appointing Mr. Evans as City Engineer was passed, as was also a bylaw to provide for the construction of an asphaltic concrete pavement on Front Street and on Bridge street from the lower bridge to the west side of Pinnacle street.

Council adjourned until next Monday night.

MEXICO CITY REMAINS QUIET NO ANTAGONISM TO AMERICANS

Newspapers of Huerta's Capital Restrict Themselves to Brief Government on the Situation

MEXICO CITY, April 21.—(Special.)—Circulars, milding anti-American, appeared in the streets this afternoon, appealing to the patriotism of Mexicans. There were no outward signs of antagonism to Americans, however, on the part of the Mexicans.

The newspapers of the Federal capital to-day restricted themselves to very brief comment on the statement given out by the Foreign Minister, devoting themselves chiefly to expressions of approval of the attitude taken by the Mexican Government.

El Imparcial declared that General Huerta had given "high proof of his discretion and loyalty," and concluded: "A people, like a man, should prefer death to dishonor."

El Pais said:—"The Tampico incidents as a reason for war are infamous, and as a basis for the assertion of right are ridiculous." It adds: "In these solemn moments serenity is the only thing that can save us; but should the time come to show ourselves patriots, it is indispensable to unite in facing death and sacrifice with the valor of justice."

Rear-Admiral Charles J. Badger, Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic fleet, now hurrying to the Mexican port of Tampica, was advised today of President Huerta's refusal to salute the American flag, and he is expecting specific instructions from Washington hourly.

The American fleet will arrive at Tampico at noon on Wednesday.

DOMINION SAVINGS CO. SUFFERS BY FIRE

(Intelligencer Special)

LONDON, Ont., April 20.—The Dominion Savings Company building, a four story brick structure at the corner of Richmond and King streets, was completely hutted by fire which started at 3 a.m. today. Besides the Dominion Savings Co., the building was occupied by the G.N.W. and C. P. R. Telegraph companies, Northern Life Insurance Company's head office, North American Life Insurance Co., Equitable Life Insurance Co., Confederation Life Insurance Co., the Remington Typewriter Co., R. G. Dunn & Co., Knights of Maccabees head office, Workmen of the World, Commercial Travellers' Benefit Society and Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association. The loss is estimated at half a million, pretty well covered by insurance.

RAISING FOOD STANDARDS

Advertising is playing a wonderful part in the raising of food standards because it has opened the way for distributing standard brands of assured quality.

Article for article, the advertised food products are of better character than the unknown kind.

They are kept to standard all the time.

Food products advertised in this newspaper are deserving of confidence; and the stores which specialize on these brands and co-operate with the manufacturers in giving them distribution are well worthy of your confidence.

In a sense the advertising columns of a reliable newspaper are a guide to good health.

"MILLIONAIRE" WORTH ONLY $200

Abraham Lincoln Pacaud's Will Annulled on George Washington Paucaud's Petition

MONTREAL, April 20.—The will of Abraham Lincoln Pacaud, who died at Verdun Asylum on January 20 last, worth $200 has been annulled by Mr. Justice Charbonneau on the petition of George Washington Pacaud, to whom the relatives of the deceased had assigned their claims.

The deceased gentleman, who was at one time a well known insurance broker in the city, seemed to be under the illusion that he was a millionaire and left annuities totalling about $50,000 a year to various parties. Sums varying from $3,000 to $12,000 per annum were ordered in the will to be paid monthly to friends, including young ladies the testator had known many years ago in Chicago. These legacies were for life and after the deaths of the parties named the estate was to go to McGill University to found a department for the cure of malignant diseases, such as cancer, to be known as the "Abraham Lincoln Pacaud Foundation."

Little difficulty was experienced by the petitioner in showing that the deceased was insane and incapable of making a will for at least two years before his death, and as McGill University, and Mr. P. R. Migneault, K.C., who was named as executive, refused to have anything to do with the matter the will was declared null and void.

MURDERS TWO INFANTS, COMMITS SUICIDE

Terrible Tragedy Reported From Village Near Newcastle, New Brunswick

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 2.—While suffering from homicidal mania, Park Sobey residing at Protectionville, nine miles from Newcastle, in the northern part of New Brunswick, on Saturday murdered Alfred E. Mullin, seven years old and later committed suicide by blowing the top of his head off.

Sobey had been drining. Reaching Mullin's home he went into the barn while Mr. Mullin took some candy into the house to the children. The two little fellows afterwards killed ran to the barn. Sobey seized an axe and striking them over the head killed them instantly.

He was afterwards found dead in bed with the top of his head blown off.

HE FOUND THE REASON

LONDON April 21.—(Special.)—Sydney W. Pugh, the Canadian Government's special representative in Wales, has just returned to Usk after a visit to Winnipeg and the Canadian West. He has given a statement to the local newspaper in which he explained that much of the alleged unemployment was due to the fact that many were now dependent on charity was due to their improvidence.

HUSBAND KILLED WIFE; FOUR BADLY WOUNDED

Celebration of Easter of the Orthodox Greek Church Leads to Week End Shootings and Stabbings--Husband Admits Firing Fatal Shot, But Claims it Was Accidental

MONTREAL, April 20—One woman is dead by the revolver of her husband, and four men, one of whom is said to be in a dangerous condition, are wounded as the result of brawls arising yesterday among the foreign element in the city subsequent to the celebration of Easter Sunday in the Greek Catholic Church. Special precautions had been taken by the police to guard against the expected fights but in spite of all that could be done in a preventative way, riots were of frequent occurrence, and, in making arrests, they met with violence in several cases. Forty people in all were arrested in different quarters of the city as a result of the celebration.

Mrs. Anchey Herman, of 105 Brown street, is the dead woman. She was shot in the abdomen by her husband, who is in the hands of the police and who admits the shooting, but states that it was accidental. Althought still living when found by the police at three o'clock in the afternoon, she never regained consciousness and died in the General Hspital early in the evening. Judge Leet and Court Stenographer Lomax hurried to the hospital to take the woman's ante-mortem statement. As she never rallied sufficiently, however, this was impossible, and there is only the evidence of witnesses held by the police to be considered.

The shooting which resulted in the death of Mrs. Herman occurred early in the afternoon. The exact time has not yet been ascertained, but it is believed that the woman had lain for some time, bleeding to death in her bed, before the police were notified and medical aid summoned. This tragedy was made more sad by the fact that four months ago the victim had given birth to a little son; his mother is dead, and his father under arrest for her murder.

C.P.R. WILL ENTER THE PHILLIPINES

MONTREAL, April 20.—Considerable interest has been created in shipping circles by the announcement that the Canadian Pacific will enter the Philippine trade on June 11, when the steamship Empress of Russia will make Manila a port of call. The fastest schedule hitherto from any North American port to Manila has been 28 days, but the Canadian Pacific, with its new fast sailings, will cut this down to 17 days.

The new schedule will bring considerable tourist trade to Manila, as the Canadian road carried a large percentage of the round-the-world travellers from Europe on its Pacific Empress boats.

This service has been inaugurated at the request of business men and commercial interests in the United States and the Philippines and undoubtedly will bring Canada into touch with a valuable new market.

ENGLISHMAN IS EVEN SENDS HUERTA DRAFT

Adopted Novel Form of Retaliation for Supposed Indignities

WASHINGTON, April 20.—An irate Englishman, furious with the United States because he felt that customs officers had insulted him when he entered New York, went into a bank here and purchased a draft for $1,000, which he made payable to President Huerta of Mexico.

By this contribution to Huerta, the Englishman explained to the astonished bank clerk, to whom he gave ten $100 bills, he planned to retaliate on the United States for the indignities offered. His chief complaint was that customs officers had snipped off aigrettes which his daughter wore when she came ashore.

CANADIANS WIN IN BOSTON MARATHON

BOSTON, Mass., April 21.—(Special.)—James Duffey, representing the Ramblers Bicycle Club of Hamilton, Ont., won the eighteenth annual Boston Athletic Association marathon yesterday afternoon, covering the 25-mile course from Ashland to Boston in 2 hours 25 minutes 1 second, which is some four minutes behind the record made two years ago by Mike Ryan of New York. A stiff breeze which breasted the course almost continuously in the latter half of the race prevented any serious inroad on Ryan's performance.

Edward C. Fabre, of Montreal, who finished fifth a year ago, was second, sixty yards behind the winner. He and the Hamilton crack had a deadly duel during the final five milestones and Fabre was finally shaken off with a half-mile to go. Fabre's time was 2 hours 25 minutes 16 seconds.

CHOIR OF BIRDS IN METHODIST CHURCH

MONTREAL, April 20.—Twenty canaries in cages yesterday lent their their voices to swell the music provided at the forty-eigth anniversary of the Centenary Methodist Church Sunday School by an orchestra of twenty pieces and a choir of seventy voices. At the morning and afternoon services even during the addresses they made the air vocal, but at night they went to sleep on their little perches, leaving the field free to the choir and the orchestra. This is the first time such an innovation has been tried in Montreal and it proved a pleasing one. Floral decorations even further enlivened the scene.

WANTS $1,000 FOR GUNMAN'S CAPTURE

MONTREAL April 20.—The capture of two of the alleged gunsmen wanted for the murder of Constable Bourdon will have an echo in the civil courts as Samuel Larose has entered action against the city to recover $1,000 offered by the corporation as a reward for the apprehension of each one of the sought for men.

OFFERS TO SETTLE UP

J. W. Moyes' Overtures to Municipalities Turned Down.

Special Meeting of Local Bodies Concerned In Affairs of West Shore Railway Is Called to Consider Proposal From Promoter, But Representatives Insist That the Probe Be Continued.

KINCARDINE, April 21—John W. Moyes, promoter of the West Shore Railway, which is now under the probe of the Ontario Railway Board, has made an offer of settlement to the municipalities concerned. This offer was considered at a meeting of representatives of the municipalities yesterday and was rejected, the representatives agreeing unanimously to press the inquiry and take chances on the final outcome.

The offer from Mr. Moyes is to return to the municipalities $178,000 worth of unguaranteed bonds secured and $2,000 in cash, plus the railroad as it stands at present. In the latter is included the right-of-way, the steel and ties laid, the value of grading and other work done, and the equipment at present on the road. There was nothing to indicate what was wanted in exchange, but it is understood that had the proposition been accepted the inquiry, so far as the municipalities are concerned, would have been dropped.

The proposition, which was in writing, had been given to Mr. Wm. Proudfoot, K.C., M.P.P., and was read by him at the meeting, which was held in Kintail, the central point for all the representatives in the heart of the district affected by the railroad.

After the offer was considered the following resolution, moved by James Brown, of Huron, and seconded by Charles Stewart, of Ashfield, was carried unanimously: "That the offer of settlement now made by Mr. Moyes be not accepted, and that the solicitors be instructed to press the inquiry to a conclusion as speedily as possible."

The investigation resumes before the Ontario Railway Board to-day.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR ILL.

Condition of Aged Frances Joseph Causes Grave Concern.

VIENNA, Austria, April 21.—"The Emperor Francis Joseph passed a fairly comfortable night. His health otherwise is not unsatisfactory." This was the official bulletin issued at the Palace of Schoenberunn yesterday. It was also stated that his majesty rose at his usual early hour and transacted official business.

The guarded language of the official bulletin caused apprehension in Vienna that the Emperor's condition was graver than was admitted by his physicians. Fear was expressed in court circles that unless the catarrh from which he is suffering diminishes within a short time serious complicatons may develop.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

A PLAY WORTH SEEING

"The Red Widow" which comes to Griffin's Opera House tomorrow night is one of those rare gems among musical plays that have a real plot.

The story which is consistent is followed closely throughout. "Cicero Hannibal Butts" is in London with his wife, who is an ardent suffragette. They are supposed to be on their way to Russia, but at the last moment Mrs Butts receives an invitation to lead a band of suffragettes in a demonstration on the House of Parliament and to help throw a few bricks. It is at this point that "Anna Vervara," known to the Russian secret police as "The Red Widow," overhears Mrs. Butts' declaration that she is going to stay behind.

SAYS A MANIAC BEAT HER

WHITE PLAINS N.Y., April 20.—Mrs. Ida Claussen went through a cross-examination of five hours yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Mills in connection with the application for her discharge from Matteawan on the ground that she is sane. She was questioned as to her life and writings by Assistant District Attorney George Medallie and Deputy Attorney General Edelson, who claim that she is a paranoiac. She made a good impression while on the stand.

"If you are discharged from Matteawan, what do you intend to do?" Mrs. Claussen was asked. Turning to Judge Mills with a smile she answered:

"To plead to an indictment found against me in New York and get free."

She was asked if she was a political reformer, and she replied that she was, but she denied that she intended to reform all the countries, because there was enough work in New York City. When asked how she was treated at Matteawan she replied:

"I was brought up a lady, yet I was thrown in a madhouse with a lot of maniacs. God, I was never in such a place. I saw two women in the asylum driven stark mad by nagging. I was starved. When I was beaten by a maniac and protested to the nurses I was told I was well able to care for myself."

DEBATE GOES ON.

Vote on Budget Expected In House of Commons on Thursday.

OTTAWA, April 21. — The House devoted another day to the discussion on the budget, and the debate will probably continue until Thursday. As yet no amendment has been offered to the formal motion by the Finance Minister that the House go into committee on ways and means, but it is expected that a resolution will be offered calling for free food, free wheat and free agricultural implements.

Yesterday's debate was carried on by Messrs. Turgeon (Gloucester), Smith (N. Ontario), Warnock (McLeod), Weichel (N. Waterloo), Neely (Humboldt), and Clarke (N. Wellington).

The debate was resumed by Mr. Turgeon (Lib., Gloucester, N.B.) He was followed by William Smith (Con., N. Ontario), who said that the Liberals from 1880 to 1896 had threatened the tariff with destruction, and many people had been deterred from investing in manufacturing enterprises on that account. Once in power, however, the Liberals had maintained the tariff, which they found in force, and the country had greatly prospered.

Mr. Warnock (Lib., McLeod) said reciprocity in wheat between Saskatchewan and Alberta would mean nothing at all, as both provinces were seeking an export market. He said the opposition to free wheat appealed to prejudice by saying that the demand came from American settlers. These so-called "American settlers" were in the main repatriated Canadians, who had been driven out of Canada by the fiscal policy of the former Conservative Government.

Mr. Weichel (Con., Waterloo) declared himself as favoring moderate protection as Canada's fiscal policy.

Dr. Neely (Humboldt) said if a referendum was taken in the prairie provinces 95 per cent. of the people would vote for free wheat.

GENERAL COTTON DIES.

Death of Ex-Inspector-General of Militia Occurs at Almonte.

ALMONTE, Ont., April 21.—Maj.-Gen. W. H. Cotton, former inspector-general of the Canadian Militia, died suddenly at the residence of his son-in-law, Alex. Rosamond, here last night at 11 o'clock.

Sir William Otter. He was the son of the late Henry Cotton, of Montreal, and was born in that city on Jan. 7, 1848. He was educated at Quebec High School and received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Quebec Garrison Artillery in 1866.

In 1882 he was promoted commandant of the Royal Canadian Artillery, with rank of lieutenant-colonel, and 18 years later was made full colonel. In 1907 he was appointed brigadier-general. His staff service was long and varied, he having served as A. A. G. for artillery and quartermaster-general at Ottawa.

MONTREAL, April 21. — Mayor Martin's rush invitation to out-of-works to call at the City Hall yesterday morning was answered by fully 5,000 men of all classes. By 10 o'clock it needed about 100 policemen to handle the mob. The recently-elected mayor promised work for 2,000 on street cleaning and repairs, and there ensued a wild scramble for tickets entitling the bearer to work nine hours for the city for $2.25.

A detachment of three to four hundred disappointed ones rushed one of the entrances and forced its way to the door of the mayor's office. All that he promised them was that they might be employed later on in the spring.

MUST STAND TRIAL.

Former Russell Township Clerk Committed on Embezzlement Charge.

SOUTH INDIAN, Ont., April 18.—W. J. W. Lowrie, former clerk of the Township of Russell, was yesterday committed to stand his trial on a charge of embezzling $300 from the township. It is alleged Lowrie retained a check for $300 received while clerk for his personal use. The accused maintains that the matter was a personal one between himself and J. Winstanley, of Morrisburg, who, preliminary evidence showed, had given the check as a deposit on a contract, making it out in favor of Lowrie. Restitution has since been made, but the three magistrates hearing the case decided to send Lowrie to trial at the L'Orignal Assizes.

DEATH ROLL

JAMES W. ANDERSON.

The announcement of the death of Capt. James W. Anderson of Ameliasburg, at his residence yesterday afternoon, after an illness of some months duration, was received by his many friends with deep regret. The late Mr. Anderson, for many years was one of the progressive men of his township, where he had always resided, and although he lived the allotted term of years his death as one of the pioneers of the county of Prince Edward, has left a gap which will be hard to fill.

Deceased was born on the 19th of December, 1832, at Massassaga, a point in the township of Ameliasburg, County of Prince Edward, on the farm now owned by Mr. Benjamin Osborne. William and Mary Anderson, the parents of James, settled upon this farm about the year 1810, when the country had few of the conveniences of today. A family of five sons and four daughters were born to them, the subject of this sketch being the youngest member of the family. The boys were: John, William, George, Levi and James; while the girls: Martha, wife of Asa Wallbridge, Litta, wife of Jas. Redner; Mary, wife of Norris Bristol, and Margaret, wife of Peter Farley. In 1866 and 1869 the mother and father passed to their reward, having lived to see their family all comfortably settled and themselves ripe in years. About the year 1852 the father of James purchased the farm where he continued to reside during the remainder of his life, and where James, for over 60 years, and up to the time of the 30th of December, 1857 James married Theadocia, daughter of the later Peter Brickman, the result of their marriage being three sons and one daughter: W. E. and Harry C., at home, and Fred and Mary E., deceased. Early in years James showed mechanical intellect to a considerable extent. Being of an ingenious turn of mind and having a fondness for machinery, many evidences of his skill in this direction are to be found upon the farm today. He was the inventor of several appliances, several of which he had patented. When the 16th Battalion was organized in 1863, upon the recommendation of the late Col. Peterson, he was granted the commission of Ensign in the Rednerville Company. In 1866 he went with his company to Kingston, during the Feuian Raid, his late brother William being Captain, and the late Wm. R. Dempsey Lieutenant. In 1869, upon the retirement of William, Mr. Dempsey became Captain and James was gazetted Lieutenant, which rank he continued to hold until completing over 20 years of service, for which he was awarded the general and long service medals in addition to 160 acres of land near Mathewson, District of Nipissing, and the grant under the Bounty Act of 1912. At an early age he became identified with the Methodist Church and up to the time of his death continued a consistent member, being one of the trustees and stewards of the church. It was only when he began to feel the weight of years his seat in the sanctuary was unoccupied by him. In this respect he set a worthy example to those he has left behind. For many years an effort was made to start a cheese factory in the vicinity of Rednerville. Mr. Anderson came to the rescue and built what was known as "Bayside" factory about the year 1870, drawing the milk, manufacturing the cheese and doing all the other duties required in those days for successfully operating an industry of that kind. When the agitation was at its highest for better ferry accommodation between Ameliasburg and Belleville, the late Captain Porte and Anderson built the ferry "Mary Ethel" in 1879. While a considerable improvement both in transit and reduced fares was given to the public through the efforts of Porte and Anderson, it was a very unprofitable investment, as many will remember the many years of litigation which followed. As an agriculturalist, Mr. Anderson might very properly be placed in the class of successful men. He took pride in his farm and surroundings and always kept himself supplied with the best of machinery and stock. In politics he was a Conservative, but not of the partisan type. In his younger days he took considerable interest as a member of the Orange Association, of which he was a Scarlet Chapter member. He was a man of progressive ideas and as such his death is a distinct loss to the community in which he lived. His brothers and sisters having predeceased him several years ago, his passing at this time at over four score years, completes the circle of a reunited family who have played no small part in the advancement of good citizenship in Ameliasburgh and the County of Prince Edward.

GOES EIGHTEEN YEARS BETTER ON OLD BIBLE

Editor of Intelligencer.

Sir.—Having seen an article in your paper of last Thursday about an old Bible in the possession of Mr. Mikel, I beg a little space in your paper to state that there is at least one in Belleville "18 years older" than his. The one I have reference to is now in the possession of Mrs. Jas. Marskell. It originally belonged to my paternal grandmother, it being a family heirloom and having her family records written therein for a great many years back, the date of this Bible being 1682.

Thanking you, I remain,

MRS. LEWIS MILES,

DESERONTO NEWS

A very successful and well attended concert was held on Friday evening in the opera house under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of St. Mark's church. The programme, which was a varied one, was given largely by local talent, assisted by Miss Marion Wilson of Napanee, and Miss Margaret Campbell of Marysville. The former possesses a mezzo-soprano voice of rare sweetness, and sang two solos which were greatly enjoyed as was evinced by the unstinted applause. Miss Campbell, who is no stranger to Deseronto audiences, contributed a violin solo in her usual pleasing style. Rev. A. H. Creegan and Mr. H. Aylesworth each sang solos which if one might judge from their reception were thoroughly enjoyed. The opening number of the evening's programme was a double quartette, composed of eight well known young ladies and gentlemen of the town. Their selection "The King's Own Muskateers", by Herbert, was well rendered and they were insistently encored.

Perhaps the reigning favorite of the evening was little Miss Marjorie Armitage, who childlike song in recitative "I've got the Mumps", brought down the house. Miss Marjories sings with a childish manner that is quite delightful and cannot fail to be appreciated. Miss Florence Bell and Mr. William Baxter played instrumental solos in their individually good style, while Mrs. C. Malley sang a characteristic song in a most characteristic way which was very entertaining. The well known duet "Sinypathy," from "The Firefly", was sung by Miss Kettle and Mr. D. Pratt.

The closing part of the programme took the form of a comedy in two acts, called "My Turn Next." The following is the cast of characters:

Taraxicum Twitters, a country apothecary—E. S. Hoag.

Lydia, his wife—Mrs. F. Hall.

Cicely, Lydia's sister—Miss F. Pierce.

Tom Trap, a commercial traveller—Clare Malley.

Tim Bolus, Twitter's assistant, Dennis Pratt.

Peggy, the housekeeper—Miss N. Noble.

Farmer Wheatear, a friend—E. Large.

Mr. Hoag as the newly wedded husband of the widow, played the part of the nervous apothecary splendidly, acting out the title "My Turn Next", with great realism. Miss Hall as his wife, ably seconded his efforts, playing the role of the solicitor's wife to perfection. Miss Pierce as her sister, did her part well, while Clare Malley, as a commercial traveller, and Edward Large as Farmer Wheatear, added to the ensemble of the play. Mr. Pratt as chemist's assistant, and Miss Noble as Peggy the witty houskeeper, took the parts of those intimately connected with the household, most admirably.

SERVICES APPRECIATED

The following resolution, beautifully engrossed and appropriately framed, is on exhibition at Mr. A. McFee's jewellery store:

"The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade desire to record their appreciation of the services rendered by Lieut.-Colonel W. N. Ponton, K.C., during his presidency of the Board in the year 1913, and also to extend their thanks for the able manner in which he has conducted the business of the Board for the promotion and general welfare of the Province of Ontario and the Dominion at large."

LOOKED LIKE INTENDED SUICIDE

The citizen who was brandishing a fierce looking razor says wasn't suicide but corns he was thinking about. Needless to say his wife bought him Putnam's Corn Extractor and hid the razor—very wise, because Putnam's cures in 24 hours; try at 25c at all dealers.

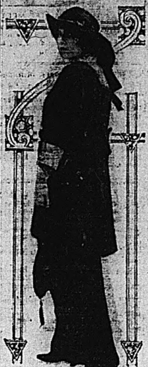
SASH BOWS ON COATS.

They Are Used to Embellish Separate Wraps as Well as Gowns.



WORSTED COAT.

On wraps as well as gowns butterfly bows are an attractive and up to date decoration. Theater wraps, separate coats, etc., are all thus decorated. The charming spring outfit illustrated here includes a coquettish little coat of one of the new worsted mixtures, with collar and cuffs finished with figured silk in shades of rose, green and terra cotta. A smart feature of the coat is the big butterfly bow across the back. Like most ultra coats of the season the skirt of the coat flares considerably below. The coat is worn over a simple little gown of silk poplin. The wide brimmed hat is adorned with velvet ribbon and a cluster of poppies.

Many of the new hand bags are in the shape of enlarged and flattened pears, with a tassel hanging from the lower point and a narrow silver mount at the top suspended on a short ribbon, just long enough to sling over the wrist. But newer still are the pockets which are being worn on the hips of the tailor mades. They may be visible or not, as one wishes, and the front and side draperies which are now in the fashion allow of them being used for practical purposes without in any way upsetting the set of the skirt.

The Charity Bazaar.

A pin stall is a good idea for a bazaar. Every one interested in the affair is asked to contribute one or more pins of one kind or another—toilet pins, safety pins, hairpins, clothes pins, hatpins, drawing pins, rolling pins—pins of any sort or kind. They sell like hot cakes.

A smelling competition is good fun. Fill a dozen little bags with strong smelling spices, herbs and so on. Hang them in a row from a string. Charge a fee of a penny or nickel for guessing what is in each bag. Or fill bottles with ammonia, eau de cologne, turpentine, kerosene, vinegar, lemon juice, rosewater, and so on. A prize can be awarded to the competitor who guesses every one.

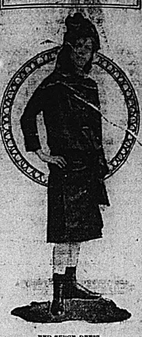
SERVICEABLE SERGES.

They Make Nice Frocks For Girl's School Wear.



RED SERGE DRESS.

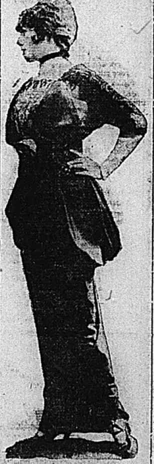
After all serge makes the most serviceable frocks for the little folks. The gown illustrated here is designed in red, with touches of white on the shoulders and sleeves. The blouse is fastened with fancy buttons and is brought low on the body, a wide girdle of satin encircling the hips. The skirt has a single box plait in front with another in the back. This makes a pretty and useful school frock for the little girl.

Lingerie collars will be worn on suits for late spring and summer, collars and cuffs of embroidered batiste, plain organdy or lace. Fancy silks, too, will be used in light colors and novelty printed effects.

FLORAL TRIMMINGS.

A Single Flower on the Corsage Gives a Smart Touch to the Gown.

The use of a single flower on the corsage is one of the most effective decorative fancies of the season. The flower may be of satin or velvet. It is considered very chic to select a futurist flower, which is, of course, a somewhat bizarre variation of the natural type. The restaurant gown illustrated here is suitable for tangoing or for wear at a smart restaurant in the evening. It is carried out in one of the smart shades of green with the vest of embroidered net and the shoulders trimmed with passementerie. A very decided pannier falls over the skirt, which, while rather narrow, is slashed below to permit freedom of motion.



GREEN SATIN GOWN.

In many of the spring gowns there is evidenced a return of the pannier drawn in at the knees, which is usually becoming to the average figure.

Such panniers are draped with considerable fullness at the waist line in order that the puffed effect may be obtained below the hips. The hem is sharply drawn into the figure, and the waist line is accentuated by a wide girdle of velvet ribbon into which is tucked a careless bunch of roses.

MAKES A DISCOVERY

In the extended debate on the now famous National Transcontinental scandal, Mr. Frank Oliver advanced the astonishing theory that the report by Messrs. Gutelius and Staunton had been inspired by the Canadian Pacific because that road was afraid the Grand Trunk Pacific would cut the rates upon it.

He might as well have said, of course, that the Canadian Pacific was afraid of the fourth cross-continental road now projected, that from Labrador to somewhere in the neighborhood of Prince Rupert. The Grand Trunk Pacific will be prevented for all time from carrying goods cheap, because of the enormous cost of its construction.

Moreover, if the Liberals had their way, the wheat of the West would be sent, along with the cattle, to the markets of the United States, and the line would then have to rely upon such meagre local freight as the uninhabited region between Rupert and Cochrane and the sparsely settled country between Cochrane and Moncton may supply, and this, after it has paid an annual rental to the Dominion Government of about six million dollars a year.

The trouble is the other way about. If the Canadian Pacific wished to bankrupt the Grand Trunk Pacific it would simply have to reduce its rates from east to west and from west to east. Sir Wilfrid talked of the Grand Trunk Pacific when it was first launched as if it was going to be a great regulator of rates, but the appalling extravagance of its construction has altogether put it out of the running and the Canadian people may consider themselves fortunate if it does not become a white elephant on their hands for years to come.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

We haven't heard of Mackenzie King for nearly two weeks, but we understand that he continues to draw his salary.

The Canadian farmer got promises from the Laurier Government. He is getting real benefits from the Borden Government.

• • •

The Liberals are peevish over the change in implement duties. They don't like "implement" clauses. Never did.

• • •

Yes, we have a surplus of thirty-six and a half millions, but we have not got the forty millions thrown away by the Grits on the N. T. R.

• • •

And in the meantime the country has forgotten that G. P. Graham made a seven hour speech on how not to build a transcontinental railway.

• • •

The Liberals wanted to kill the Canadian milling industry and the live stock industry, which depends upon it. The Borden Government wouldn't let them.

• • •

The Borden Government has cut the duty on mowers, reapers and binders by five per cent. lower than the figure of the reciprocity pact.

• • •

The Easter recess will be a period of hard work for the Opposition. They have to find out where they are at on the tariff question before the House reassembles.

• • •

No, reader, we cannot tell you what would have happened to Canada during the recent financial crisis if the people who wasted forty millions on the Transcontinental Railway had been in power.

• • •

It would have been very nice to have saved, that forty millions out of the Transcontinental, but, in the words of G. W. Fowler, M.P., what are a few millions to a Grit contractor?

• • •

The Railway Commission has ordered substantial reductions in freight in Western Canada. How long would the West have had to wait for that under the Laurier Government?

• • •

What the Liberals really don't like about the budget is the big share of consideration given to the Canadian farmer. They would prefer to give the farmer promises only.

Germany has put the ban upon Sylvia Pankhurst. And the ueer fact is that Sylvia has meekly acquiesced in the official decision that she must keep silent in Germany. Not one squeal of protest from that siren voice.

Our Home Women Have Beautiful Hair

Next time you go to the theatre or to the "movies" just notice, if you please, how many of our home ladies have beautiful hair—glossy, lustrous, and well-dressed. Then, if you will pick out five or ten of those whose hair seem to be particularly pretty and will ask them what they use on it, we feel sure that at least more than half of them will say "Harmony Hair Beautifier." It is fast becoming the rage with both men and women who are particular about the appearance of their hair.

Sprinkle a little Harmony Hair Beautifier on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottle, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores and in this town only by us—J. S. McKeown.

PROMINENT NOVA SCOTIA LIBERAL JOINS CONSERVATIVES

The worst blow that has befallen the Liberal party since they went out of office is the defection of A. C. Ross, one of the most prominent Liberals in Nova Scotia, a man who was strong in the councils of the party, and who was largely responsible for the Liberal successes in that province.

He has joined the Conservative party, after a lifetime of support of the Liberals. The grounds upon which he has made the cleavage are all to the credit of the Government. In an interview which he gave the Ottawa Journal, he stated that the transportation policy of the present Government appealed to him. The conception of the value to the country of good transportation by rail and water, both ocean and inland, was much higher in the present Government than in the late Government. He felt that the present Government, with its greater national policy, should have his support.

Mr. Ross has not found it easy to dislocate himself from his old friends. He has been a close personal friend of Hon. W. S. Fielding and of Premier Murray of Nova Scotia. He was himself in Parliament from 1905 to 1908, running in a bye-election at the request of the Liberals, although he has not much ambition for a seat in the House. He sat for Cape Breton North, but refused to contest the seat again, although he had beeen elected by a record majority. His majority was 838, and after he resigned the Liberal majority fell to 17.

In stating his reasons why he had left the Liberal party, he made particular reference to the failure of the Laurier Government to see the great natural advantage of the Sydneys as the summer port of call for the landing and embarkation of mails and hurried passengers who desire to reach their destination quickly in either continent by ships that will use this shortest ocean ferry.

An eighteen knot ship can make the voyage from Sydney Harbor to Milford Haven or Bristol in 5 days and a few hours, and a 25-knot ship can make it in 3 days, 16 hours.

Mr. Ross, when in Parliament from 1905 to 1908, succeeded in getting the then Minister of Trade and Commerce, Sir Richard Cartwright, to compel the C. P. R. and Allan boats to make a number of summer calls at North Sydney, much against the will of the owners, and on several occasions English mails were delivered in Montreal twelve hours sooner than they were ever delivered by any other route. He says the merits of this route were further handicapped by the lack of interest of the Liberal management of the I. C. R. and friction between the officials of the I. C. R. and the Post Office Department.

Mr. Ross has been some weeks in Ottawa, and he is thoroughly satisfied that the I. C. R. management will now co-operate, and that with an improved roadbed on that railway, 24 to 30 hours can be saved over any other route in the delivery of mails and passengers.

He says he feels very strongly on this question and the lack of support he should have been given by the Liberal party, of which he has been a member for a life time. He believes that the Conservative party will do all they can to consummate this and other undertakings that he is sure will be a lasting benefit to the Lower Provinces and all Canada. He thinks that one of the conditions in granting assistance to the Canadian Northern should be that the Royal line make Sydney a port of call for their vessels during the summer.

Mr. Ross is the father of the Dominion Iron & Steel Company, the Inverness Coal & Railway Company, and a number of other Cape Breton enterprises.

GRAND TRUNK NEWS ITEMS

SETTLERS WILL BE TAUGHT FARMING ON G.T.R. MAIN LINE

The Department of Agriculture of the British Columbia Government has selected Fort Fraser as headquarters for the system of Experimental Farms, to be put into operation this summer in the interior. At Fort Fraser, which is on the Grand Trunk Pacific Main Line, 372 miles from Prince Rupert, is to be located the principal agricultural station and from the local station and government plots will be managed. It is the intention of the Government to establish small five or ten acre tracts on the most advantageous ranches or farms already under cultivation and to carry on experiments in mixed farming for the benefit, experience and guidance of the farms of the interior. At Fort Fraser the parent station will be presided over by an expert of the Provincial Government who will govern the experiments of the other smaller stations.

PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT OFFERS FOR SALE ITS LOTS IN PRINCE GEORGE.

Probably the most remarkable sale of townsite lots in the history of the North American Continent was the disposal by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway of its holdings in Prince George, the eagerly bought land bringing at auction over $2,500,000. The Government of British Columbia reserved one fourth of the lots in Prince George and it now announces that it will sell its holdings during the coming summer. These auctions will be held at Vancouver on May 19th, 20th and 21th and at Victoria on May 26th and 27th and at Prince George on June 9th, 10th, and 11th.

Prince George will become, it is conceded the clearing centre of Central British Columbia. Situated on a flat table land in the angle formed by the confluence of the Nechako and Fraser Rivers it is an important divisional town on the Grand Trunk Pacific and also the point where the Pacific Great Eastern line from Vancouver will join the Grand Trunk Pacific Main Line and proceed northwards into the rich Peace River District.

GOOD PROGRESS ON WESTERN CANADA'S LATEST RAILWAY

Progress on the construction of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway which is to link up Vancouver and the Grand Trunk Pacific Main Line is rapid. Work is being pushed forward as quickly as circumstances will allow and grading and bridge building are finding employment for a large force of men

Part of the first consignment of rolling stock ordered a short time ago by the Pacific Great Eastern Railway has arrived at the Coast. Fifty box cars and hundred flat cars were purchased by the Company. Ten of the former and thirty of the later are due to arrive early in June, as well as a second consignment of freight cars.

The engineers who are conducting a reconnaisance of the proposed route north of Prince George to the Peace River Country are still in the field, but are understood to have nearly completed their preliminary observations. On their return to Prince George parties of locating engineers will start out to mark the course of the proposed extension.

SOLUTION OF BASEBALL MUDDLE

NEW YORK, April 18.—Deep thinkers among the baseball sharps have evolved a scheme which, if put into effect, would settle the present controversy between the Feds and organized baseball. These students of future conditions believe that a solution of the problem would be the formation of two twelve-club major leagues, as follows:

National League: Boston, Brooklyn, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, (International), Buffalo, (International Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis Cleveland (Association) and Indianapolis (Association).

American League: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Brooklyn, (Feds), Pittsburg (Feds) Chicago, Cincinnati, St Louis, Cleveland and Detroit.

The Feds in Baltimore, Chicago and St. Louis could be bought out, it argued inorder to make room for them in these circuits. The Class A.A. leagues, therefore, would be made up in this way::

International League: Newark, Jersey City, Providence, Washington, Toronto Rochester Montreal and Syracuse.

American Association: St. Paul, Milwaukee, Kansas City, (Feds and Association), Toledo and Indianapolis (Feds).

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomachs or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomachs and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. J. S. McKeown's Drug Store and other leading druggits of Belleville and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach trouble, it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

TO OPERATE RADIALS

Province Will Go Definitely Into the Field by New Bill.

Hon. Adam Beck Introduces Measure Which Repeals Special Act of 1913 and Provides That the Ontario Government Will Operate and Supervise Lines and Will Use Hydro Electric Bond Issues.

TORONTO, April 21.—A provincial control and operation of radial railways was presented by Hon. Adam Beck in the Legislature yesterday. The bill while repealing the special measure of 1913 provides that funds secured by Hydro-Electric bond issues guaranteed by the province may be used for the construction of the new railways.

The change in the plan relieves the municipalities from their responsibility of operation and supervision and provides a more substantial financing arrangement than that of floating municipal debentures. The burden will be distributed equally between province, commission and municipalities.

To save the Government and commission each municipality interested will deposit debentures equalling the expenditure, and they will also provide for the deficits which accrue from interest or sinking fund.

Following out some ideas suggested by deputations bonds for construction will be issued on a 50-year basis and for the first ten of these when the lines are struggling to get on their feet municipalities will not be charged any sinking fund deficits at all. No chance will be taken, however, of a municipality failing in its obligations, and their debentures may be sold in the market if the commission thinks necessary, the commission bonds being a first mortgage on the radials.

Before any municipality enters agreement the Lieutenant-Governor's approval must be gained and the electors who vote on money bylaws will then vote on it at the polls.

The change in the Government policy is understood to have been caused by the desire to centralize the management and to ensure certain capable men being in charge. This bill is now taken to open the way for all places so desiring to advance at once upon electric railway schemes.

Hon. Mr. Hanna introduced amendments to the provincial liquor license administration. One thing arranged for is the enforcement of the Scott Act by means of the Government backing with consolidated revenue funds the operation of the act in municipalities where the fines collected are not large enough to permit adequate enforcement. Government and municipality will each contribute one-half and a separate account subject to audit will be kept. The operation in unorganized districts will be under the Government entirely.

One change is to include Good Friday along with Christmas as one of the days on which liquor cannot be sold.

The right to question an intoxicated person in local option districts will hereafter be allowed in any "dry" district, and he may be forced to explain the circumstances.

It is now left to the magistrate to place on the Indian list any person he thinks proper.

Druggists as well as licenses will have the privilege of appealing from convictions and the fines and penalties accumulating in local option districts will be placed in a common fund for the use of the constituency in enforcing the law.

Child Is Killed.

ST. CATHARINES, April 21.—While Mrs. Chauncey Dittrick of this city was visiting Sunday with relatives in Buffalo, her three-year-old son Chauncey was killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver in the hands of his cousin, who was in the act of cleaning it.

The child climbed on the young man's knee, moving the trigger by accident, the bullet entering his temple, passing through his brain and coming out at the back of his head.

Poachers Must Beware.

BROCKVILLE, April 21.—Pothunters are finding inspectors along the St. Lawrence river active this spring. Game Warden Stewart of Brockville made a big seizure of guns, boats and decoys belonging to parties who were duck shooting near Mallory Town Landing.

PLAN OF OPERATION.

U. S. Contemplates a Possible Dash To Mexico City.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The war plans of the Government—for all the preparations show the intention to resort to the actual use of force within a limited area of Mexican territory—embrace the use of the army as well as the navy and the marine corps. The program agreed on calls for joint operations of the three branches of the military service with the marines.

In the discussion of an aggressive plan of operations short of war, having for its object either the rescue of Americans and other foreigners in the City of Mexico or the lesser task of holding the town and port of Vera Cruz against a force of Mexicans, it was agreed that the marines after landing at Vera Cruz should push forward along the line of railway leading to the capital, for a distance of eight miles, to a point where a concrete bridge spans a canyon. This is a place of great strategic importance, and will be one of the hard nuts to crack if an advance on the City of Mexico should be regarded as necessary.

The elaborate plans drawn for marine corps operations contemplate the taking of the City of Mexico, for the purpose of rescuing Americans and other foreigners if necessary. A quick dash for the Mexican capital before the arrival of any troops at Vera Cruz is the keynote of the plan. All the offensive military plans for the navy and the marine corps have not been completed, but the basic principle of the program of operations decided on contemplates the seizure of Vera Cruz and Tampico and the blockade of both coasts of Mexico.

Hurry on Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, April 18.—Premier Asquith told the House of Commons yesterday that the Government hoped to pass the bill for the abolition of plural voting before dissolution, but this cannot be done until 1915.

It is probable that the third reading of the Irish Home Rule Bill will be taken on either May 11 or 18, and the suggestion is made that in order to facilitate its passage, one of the stages in the Commons shall be eliminated.

THE TORONTO LEAFS ROOSTER

Toronto, April 20.—The Leafs now have ten pitchers on the pay-roll, including three left-handers, and some of them will be disposed of immediately as they have proved conclusively that they are not good enough for the team. When the Toronto team secures a utility infielder no club in the International will be better fixed for players.

The players at present under contract to the Toronto club are as follows:

Pitchers— Herbert, Gaw, Graham, Sullivan, Castleton, Ritter, Gilbert, Hearne, Rogge, Johnson.

Catchers— Kelly (Pittsburg), Snell (Memphis and Boston Am.)

Infield—Jordon and Schneider first base; Fitzpatrick, second base; Fisher, short stop; Pick, third base.

Outfield—Bill O'Hara, Wilson, Kroy; Jim Thorpe (New York Giants).

Baseball is a funny proposition. It looks very queer to see the Giants and the Athletics, who fought it out for the world's championship last fall, down at the foot of the tables, and Philadelphia and the Chicago White Sox at the top of the list in their respective leagues. The Quakers have been the surprise of the season to date. They were raked fore and aft by the Federals, but Dooin apparently has gathered as strong, if not a stronger team than he had last year, and is going along like a forest blaze. Brooklyn, too, is making a great early run. Chicago and Washington are fighting it out in the American, chiefly because their pitchers are in fine form.

THE RING.

PUGILIST SHOT DEAD

Pittsburg, April 20.—Tony Castorius, widely known amongst the boxing fans, lies in the Alleghany county morgue today as the result of a fight which started this afternoon in a dispute over a stogie. The pugilist was shot dead in front of his home in Glen Mawr, Michael Areno, accused of the shooting is under arrest. Three other men, including a brother of Areno, are being held as witnesses.

All were standing on the sidewalk chatting when one of the group drew several stogies from his pocket and offered them to the others. There were not enough to go around. Castorius and Michael, joking at first, about which should have the smoke soon became involved in a heated argument. Areno is said to have applied an epithet to the pugilist, who advanced threateningly towards the others. Areno shouted a warning to Castorius to keep back, but it was unheeded. When Castorius was a few feet from Areno, the latter, spectators say, whipped a revolver from a pocket and fired. A bullet piercing Castorius' breast under the heart and he died almost instantly.

Castorius was a promising lightweight. He had fought Hughie Madole, "But" Brown and other local fighters. During the last year he had been touring the country taking on all comers. One of his last fights was with Matt Brock, the Cleveland lightweight.

Its the "same old story" as far as the Toronto boxers who competed at Boston is concerned. They were given the "short end" of the stick in every bout that was anyway class, and in order to win had either to knock-out an opponent or practically smother him. But the local contingent are entitled to a great deal of praise. Hitchon, the Canadian champion knocked out two opponents and was out-pointed by a narrow margin by the ultimate winner in the 125-pound class, the referee deciding against him when the judges disagreed. Williams was beaten on points in an extra round and Tootel came within a few seconds of beating Al Stech, the 135-pound champion. The bell saved the latter. Hanna was trimmed in the heavyweight class, but gamely came back and defeated the man who had previously beaten him in the 175-pound division.

RITCHIE DECISIVELY WON

San Francisco, April 19.—There will be no dispute today among the sporting writers and ringside experts that Willie Ritchie holds rightfully his title of lightweight champion of the world. His defeat last night of "Harlem Tommy" Murphy of New York at the end of twenty rounds in one of the most trying fights any champion ever weathered, was conclusive.

Ritchie won all the way and from every angle.

At the same time, Murphy, who never has been a boxer to win much applause in a short-distance bout, displayed again that he is an indomitable fighter, never flinching under punishment, and always ready to come back with as much as he takes.

They were a great boon to me, I can tell you, for about two years ago, I was laid up in bed with vomiting and a most terrific pain at the base of my skull. This pain nearly drove me mad. Doctors feared it would turn to Inflammation of the Brain, but I took "Fruit-a-tives" steadily until I was cured. TWO STEAMERS IN TROUBLE

KINGSTON, April 20.—The Standard Oil Company's steamer Imperial, oil laden for Brockville, which went hard aground at Sister Island Light seven miles below Alexander Bay yesterday will be lightered by a tank steamer from Cleveland. It is feared her hull is badly injured. The Lehigh, owned by the Lehigh Coal Company of Buffalo, bound down to Montreal with coal, went ashore about the same time a short distance below Clayton, but managed to free herself without much damage. Both accidents happened in almost the opening hours of river navigation.

Risked Lives for Dog.

MONTREAL, April 20. — At the risk of their lives two boys, W. Holliday and W. Harris, rowed out in a light skiff among the floating ice on Friday and rescued a little dog. The animal had been stranded on a miniature iceberg on the St. Lawrence since Monday, and its cries finally touched the hearts of the boys. Several times their boat nearly overturned in the current, but they finally landed in the flow and after a chase caught the dog, which died from exhaustion soon after they reached shore.

U. S. FORCES MAY LAND IN STATES

Congress Gives Almost Unanimous Support to the President In His Request for Power to Punish Huerta—Customs Houses at Tampico and Vera Cruz Will Be Seized Without Delay.

WASHINGTON, April 21.— In thirty-six hours, possibly less, the United States Government will have taken possession of the Mexican custom houses at Tampico and Vera Cruz.

Detailed plans for landing of marines at these two important coast towns were completed at a conference at the White House between President Wilson, Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels, Major-General Wood and Rear Admirals Fiske and Blue and John Lind.

"No order to the army and navy will be issued to-night," was the announcement made after the conference, action temporarily being referred until Congress acts on the joint resolution approving the President's purpose of using the armed forces of the United States to enforce its demands against Huerta, growing out of the arrest at Tampico of American bluejackets.

The resolution passed the House last night by a vote of 337 to 37, after a spirited debate. For several hours it was considered by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, with prospects of an all-night session of the Senate or a recess until early to-day.

The House adjourned until to-day, and President Wilson, worn out by the day's work, retired after hearing that the House had adopted the resolution.

Persons who were in touch with the President said the steps which would be taken by the United States "short of war" were of a nature which would not require formal notification to the powers in the same sense that a declaration of blockade or other preliminaries to war would. Foreign Governments will be kept informed of developments, however.

The debate in the House brought out the fact that while the navy probably would block Mexico off from commerce with the United States, it would not interfere with the passage to and fro of foreign vessels, though cargoes discharged on the shore might be held at the customs houses if they were occupied by American forces.

The joint resolution passed by the House, and which was before the Senate at a late hour last night, read as follows:

"A joint resolution justifying the employment of the armed forces of the United States in enforcing certain demands against Victoriano Huerta. Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives, in Congress assembled, that the President of the United States is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce the demands upon Victoriano Huerta for unequivocal amends to the Government of the United States for affronts and indignities committed against this Government by Gen. Huerta and his representatives."

A bill to appropriate $50,000,000 to be expended by the President was introduced by Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military affairs committee, to which the bill was referred.

The Chamberlain bill provides:

"That the President of the United States be and he is hereby authorized to expend in his discretion for the national defence and for each and every purpose connected therewith the sum of fifty million dollars out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, which sum shall remain available until expended."

This is identical with the bill passed before the war with Spain.

Justification Strong.

LONDON, April 21.—The Times, in an editorial on the Mexican crisis, says this morning:

"The crisis has come in a form which, as sincere friends of the American people, we could well have wished different. Their justification for forcible interference in Mexican affairs is far stronger than the particular pretext upon which the President decided to abandon his policy of watchful waiting.

What About Japan?

BERLIN, April 21.—The German press as a rule is remarkably sparing in comment on the Mexican situation.

The Taegliche Rundschau asks:

"What will Japan, the natural enemy of the United States, do, and what will the other powers do?"

The Boersen Courier sees in Gen. Huerta's refusal to salute "The first admission that he does not feel sure of his position and is now playing his last trump earlier than was expected—namely, the policy of rallying all elements in Mexico against the foreign aggression."

DOG LEAD WIDOW TO DEATH PLACE

Swims all Night Round in River Searching for Dead Master

MONTREAL, April 20—Soaking wet and shivering a little dog named Corbo scratched at the door of his master's home at 22 Ninth avenue, Lachine, Saturday evening and barked a message of death to Mrs John Fitton, whose husband had gone to his death in the icy water of the St. Lawrence. John Fitton left his home about seven o'clock Saturday morning, declaring he was going for a little walk and taking the dog with him.

At about eight-thirty the dog retruned with water dripping from him and whimpering the message he wanted to give.

Alarmed, Mrs. Fitton went for her son Walter, who is employed at the Allis-Chalmers works, and led by Corbo they went down to the river bank to search. The dog led them to Cider Hill where he jumped into the water and swam about, apparently looking for his master. Search was made for the body but owing to the rapids being so close the body may have been carried out into the middle of the river. Late Saturday night the dog began whimpering until finally his mistress was forced to let him out of the house. He remained out all night and returned the next morning soaking wet from a continued search in the river.

John Fitton was well known in Lachine and had been ill since Christmas, suffering from head and heart troubles aggravated by insomnia. He leaves a widow and one son, Walter. Another son, Samuel, was drowned while learning to swim six years ago, on the eve of his marriage.

RACING TO LAND GUNS.

German Steamer Hastens To Get to Vera Cruz Before Blockade.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, via Galveston, Texas, April 21.—Intense interest was created here yesterday when it became known that a German steamship is racing for this port at the topmost speed of her engines in order to unload her cargo of 200 machine guns, a quantity of small arms and ammunition before the American fleet under Rear Admiral Fletcher can establish a blockade of the harbor. All the guns and munitions are for the forces of Gen. Huerta, but the European port from which the vessel sailed has not been disclosed.

Under international law, a blockade must be effective if vessels in the category of the German ship are to be prevented from landing their cargoes.

A question may arise concerning whether war exists under the present status of things. At all events, the American battleships must be standing guard off Vera Cruz if the German vessel is to be prevented from entering the port.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, April 20.—It was only for a brief interval today that the war outlook prevented a fresh collapse of the corn market. Holders, especially, seized the opportunity to press the sale of huge amounts and to get in line with the sharp competition from Argentina. Prices closed weak at a loss of ¼c to 1⅛c, compared with Saturday night. Wheat finished ⅛c off to ⅛c up, and oats a shade down to a like advance, but provisions were demoralized almost as much as corn, with declines varying from 20c to 67½c to 70c.

A feature of the trade today was the weaker feeling in the market for cattle, and prices declined 25 cents per 100 lbs., which was attributed to the fact that offerings were much larger than expected by the trade.

Sorry He Interrupted.

During the last general elections in Canada Rev. J. J. McGaskill vigorously upheld the reciprocity pact in the province of New Brunswick. At a meeting in Queen's County he was discussing the effect of the agreement on the price of various commodities. "What about hay?" shouted an opponent. "I'm discussing human food now," retorted the speaker, "but I'll come to your specialty in a moment!"

A CANADIAN SOLDIER.

Brig.-Gen. Dobell Is Son of a Former Laurier Minister.

Brigadier-General Charles Macpherson Dobell, who was recently appointed to the post of Inspector-General of the West African Frontier Force in succession to Major-General Wilkinson, is a son of the late Hon. R. R. Dobell, the well-known lumber merchant of Quebec, who was known throughout Canada as one of the original member of the Laurier Cabinet. Brigadier-General Dobell, who recently returned to England from South Africa, where he had been engaged upon special service, is one of the most brilliant graduates of the Royal Military College, Kingston. While a cadet he made an enviable record as an athlete and was prominent in all the college sports. He graduated in 1890 and the following year was gazetted a lieutenant in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, one of the most famous and efficient regiments of the service. He early gained distinction as a capable regimental officer and was early in his career appointed to the important position of adjutant. He took the staff course at Camberley, passed with high marks, and since then has been engaged on various staff duties. He has seen much active service for so young a soldier, and has distinguished himself upon many occasions. He received the medal and clasp for service in the Hazara expedition, and received a brevet-majority in special recognition of services with his regiment in connection with the occupation of Crete.

He was adjutant of the second battalion of the Welsh Fusiliers during the operations in China, and took part in the relief of Pekin, being specially mentioned for his personal coolness and pluck and for the splendid discipline of the Fusiliers and the exemplary manner in which all duties falling to that regiment were discharged. From China he proceeded direct to South Africa, where he was given command of a regiment of mounted infantry. Brig.-Gen. Dobell received the Queen's medal and six clasps, mentioned in despatches and received the D. S. O. He served also in Northern Nigeria, was mentioned in despatches and received the brevet of lieutenant-colonel. Brig.-Gen. Dobell was born at Quebec forty-five years ago and received his elementary education at Charterhouse School, England. He married his cousin, Elsye, daughter of the late Lt.-Col. Meyrick Bankes of the Highland Light Infantry and widow of Capt. F. L. Campbell, R.N.—Family Herald and Weekly Star.

When the Consul Won.

The Montreal consul of a Central American republic has never been seen in public without a silk hat of uncertain vintage. In the last Dominion election he won a hat from a Liberal friend, and the latter, determined that the consul should sport a more seemly specimen of headgear, left instructions at a leading store that the winner was to be fitted out with the best hat in stock. When the consul appeared to claim his prize he was shown a topper of the latest style and best quality, priced at eight dollars. He explained that, as he wore his silk hat in all weathers, something cheaper would suit him. The hatter, surprised at the winner's moderation, showed him some hats at five and six dollars, but he still insisted that they were too expensive. The shopman, ruefully abandoning his vision of a good sale, finally produced several hats which, he pointed out, were so hopelessly out of style, and of such inferior quality that they were sold for one dollar each, principally to coachmen and cab-drivers. "The very thing!" exclaimed the upholder of the dignity of the Disunited States of Revolutionaria. "Send me up eight of those."—Saturday Night.

The principal interest in China's encyclopedia of 11,000 volumes consists in a mild curiosity as to what it contains about republics.

The Spring Diet

Calls for a change from the requirements of colder weather.

The system is apt to be more or less clogged as a result of hearty eating for resisting cold. And so Nature has provided in the field grains wholesome nourishment to meet changing weather conditions, and rebuild played-out nerves.

Grape=Nuts
FOOD

—made of wheat and barley—serves a double purpose—

It not only furnishes true nourishment for body building, including the mineral phosphates especially required by nerves and brain but, being partially pre-digested, it relieves the digestive organs that are over-worked and clogged by a heavy diet.

Every spring new thousands take on Grape-Nuts as a part of their regular breakfast.

MEXICO'S DOLLAR AT 26 CENTS

Exchange Reaches the Highest Point Since Mexican Troubles Began

NEW YORK, April 23.—The delicate situation in Mexico was responsible for an advance of Mexican exchange on this city yesterday to the highest point reached since troubles began below the Rio Grande.

The local office of the National Railways of Mexico was asked by cable by the representative of the road in Mexico City to quote the exchange rate at 380, an advance of 30 points from the last previous quotation. The former figure was placed in operation on April 11.

A Mexican dollar at this rate was worth 26 1-2 cents in currency of the United States. A merchant in Mexico City who desired to buy a draft for $100 on New York had to pay $380 in Mexican money for it.

JAPANESE "SEA GRASS" FURNITURE

HAS JUST COME TO HAND, AND WE WOULD ADVISE INTENDING PURCHASERS TO DO THEIR CHOOSING EARLY, WHILE THERE IS A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF STYLES TO SELECT FROM

THE Japanese "Sea Grass" Furniture is springing into prominence more every year, and has now practically become a necessity in place of a luxury.

For lawn, porchway, garden or summer cottage, there is no kind of furniture more durable, more appropriate or more artistic than Japanese Sea Grass Furniture. It blends in perfect harmony with the natural surroundings, lending its own natural artistic lines to other features of your furnishings.

The sea grass is harvested with as much care and painstaking as our own present dap crop harvesting. It grows principally on the shoals so numerous around Japan, and was practically unknown until a few years ago, when the Japanese (who so well know how to do this class of work) discovered accidentally that this sea grass, that had been growing and rotting away for ages, had all the qualities that go to make strong, durable and subtle furniture

Japanese Sea Grass Furniture is exceedingly well made, the chairs and rockers being perfect imitations of the higher priced wood furniture; and a more comfortable chair or rocker could not be wished. They are meant in every way for rest. Just what you need after a hard day's work, or after an afternoon's shopping. You would be forced to think the chair was made to your order, when you find the ease and comfort derived from them.

Included in this display are large and small Chairs, Rockers Settees, Tables, Work Baskets, Flower Stands, and Magazine Holders, and each piece has a Price Ticket attached that makes it easy to buy. For instance—

Large Chairs and Rockers..................$4.50 to $8.00 each
Settees at $11.50 to $12.75 each
Children's Chairs and Rockers...........$1.50 to $2.00 each
Tables, Round and Square..................$6.00 to $9.00 each
Work Baskets and Magazine Holders, $4.50 to $5.00 each

NOTES FROM KINGSTON

Col. Hunter, J. P., held court yesterday afternooon in the city building. The room was crowded as much interest and feeling was taken in the case. Rev. A. E. Smart, inspector of the Children's Aid Society charged Melville Richey, a farmer near Sunbury, with severely punishing George Nuttal, 8 years old. The child's body showed marks of the cruel treatment given to him by his foster parent. One doctor examined the boy and thought that the punishment was so severe that it would permanently injure the lad. Another doctor, for the defence, while he admitted the punishment was severe, yet there would be no permanent injury from it. He was being constantly punished for childish faults that would be cured by medical care and proper diet. Col. Hunter read the defendant, Mr. Richey, a severe lecture for his cruel conduct. He was in no ways bound to keep the boy if he proved unsatisfactory. The severe flogging was given on last Thursday and the lad was taken back to the orphan's home. He was given a bath and found to be in a terrible state. Col. Hunter fined Mr. Richey $20 and costs or one month in jail. The fine, $20, will be placed in a bank to the boy's credit and will remain there till he is 21 years of age. This decision seemed to please the people very much. Mr. D. Givens, Solicitor, appeared for the defence and made a strong appeal in behalf of his client.

The city fathers had to raise the tax rate two mills on the dollar. The down trodden tax payer who is unfortunate enough to be a landlord, saves himself from financial disaster by raising the rents three or four dollars a month. The city fathers raised the salary of one well paid official by giving him $300.00 more of a salary. Some merchants want the fire chief's salary raised by another $300.00. The majority of the people see no need of this extra charge on their tax burdens.

The people are much pleased by the wonderful grit and vitality shown by the Daily Standard after the terrible visitation by fire. Through the kindness of the Whig Pub. Co. the paper has made its daily appearance without a single break. Mr. Givens has a well disciplined and devoted staff in his employment.

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

"The young lady is charming", said Miss Beaumont, confidentally, as the baronet was taking his leave; "any one could guess she was an Eversleigh. She is so elegant, so patrician in face and manner. Ah, Sir Oswald, the good old blood will show itself."

The baronet smiled as he bade adieu to the schoolmistress. He had told Honoria that policy compelled him to speak of her as a distant relative of his own; and there was no fear that the girl would betray herself or him by any awkward admissions.

Sir Oswald felt depressed and gloomy as he drove back to town. It seemed to him as if, in parting from his protegee he had lost something that was necessary to his happiness.

"I have not spent half a dozen hours in her society", he thought, "and yet she occupies my mind more than my nephew, Reginald, who for fifteen years of my life has been the object of so much hope, so many cares. What does it all mean? What is the key to this mystery?"

CHAPTER V.

"Evil, Be Thou My Good."

Reginald Eversleigh was handsome, accomplished, agreeable— irrestible when he chose, many people said; but he was not richly endowed with those intellectual gifts which lift a man to either the good or bad eminence. He was weak and vacillating —one minute swayed by a good influence, a transient touch of penitence, affection, or generosity; in the next given over entirely to his own selfishness, thinking only of his own enjoyment. He was apt to be influenced by any friend or companion endowed with intellecutal superiority; and he possessed such a friend in the person of Victor Carrington, a young surgeon, a man infinitely below Mr. Eversleigh in social status, but whose talents, united to tact had lifted him above his natural level.

The young surgeon was a slim, elegant-looking man, with a pale, sallow face, and flashing black eyes. His appearance was altogether foreign, and although his own name was English, he was half Frenchman, his mother being a native of Bordeaux. This widowed mother now lived with him, depended on him, and loving him with a devoted affection.

From a chance meeting in a public billiard-room, an intimacy arose between Victor Carrington and Reginald Eversleigh, which speedily ripened into friendship. The weaker nature was glad to find a stronger on which to lean. Reginald Eversleigh invited his new friend to his rooms—to champagne breakfasts, to suppers of broiled bones, eaten long after midnight; to card-parties, at which large sums of money were lost and won; but the losers were never Victor Carrington or Reginald Eversleigh, and there were men who said that Eversleigh was a more dangerous opponent at loo and whist since he had picked up that fellow Carrington.

"I always feel afraid of Eversleigh, when that sallow-faced surgeon is his partner at whist, or hangs about his chair at ecarte", said one of the officers in Reginald Eversleigh's regiment. "It's my opinion that black-eyed Frenchman is Mephistopheles in person. I never saw a countenance that so fully realized my idea of the devil."

People laughed at the dragoon's notion: but there were few of Mr. Eversleigh's guests who liked his new acquaintance, and there were some who kept altogether aloof from the young cornet's rooms after two or three evening's spent in the society of Mr. Carrington.

"The fellow is too clever", said one of Eversleigh's brother-officers; "these very clever men are almost invariably scoundrels. I respect a man who is great in one thing—a great surgeon, a great lawyer, a great soldier—but your fellow who knows everything better than anybody else is always a villain."

Victor Carrington was the only person to whom Reginald Eversleigh told the real story of his breach with his uncle. He trusted Victor; not because he cared to confide in him—for the story was too humiliating to be told without pain—but because he wanted counsel from a stronger mind than his own.

It's rather a hard thing to drop from the chance of forty thousand a year to a persion of a couple of hundred, isn't it, Carrington?" said Reginald, as the two young men dined together in the cornet's quarters, a fortnight after the scene in Arlington street. "It's rather hard, isn't it, Carrington?"

"Yes, it would be rather hard, if such a contingency were possible", replied the surgeon, coolly; "but we don't mean to drop from forty thousand to two hundred. The generous old uncle may choose to draw his purse-strings, and cast us off to 'beggarly divorcement', as Desdemona remarks; but we don't mean to let him have his own way. We must take things quietly, and manage matters with a little tact. You want my advice, I suppose, my dear Reginald?"

"I do."

The surgeon almost always addressed his friends by their Christian names, more especially when those friends were of higher standing than himself. There was a depth of pride, which few understood, lurking beneath his quiet and unobtrusive manner; and he had a way of his own by which he let people know that he considered himself in every respect their equal, and in some respects their superior.

"You want my advice. Very well, then, my advice is that you play the penitent prodigal. It is not a difficult part to perform, if you take care what you're about. Sir Oswald has advised you to exchange into the line. Instead of doing that, you will sell out altogether. It will look like a stroke of prudence, and will leave you free to play your cards cleverly, and keep your eye upon this dear uncle."

"Sell out!" exclaimed Reginald "Leave the army! I have sworn never to do that."

"But you will find yourself obliged to do it, nevertheless. Your regiment is too expensive for a man who has only a pitiful two hundred a year beyond his pay. Your mail-phaeton would cost the whole of your income: your tailor's bill can hardly be covered by another two hundred; and then where are you to get your gloves, your hot-house flowers, your wines, your cigars You can't go on upon credit for ever; tradesmen have such a tiresome habit of wanting money, if it's only a hundred or so now and then on account. The Jews are beginning to be suspicious of your paper. The news of your quarrel with Sir Oswald is pretty sure to get about somehow or other, and then where are you? Cards and billiards are all very well in their way; but you can't live by them, without turning a regular black-leg you would have no chance of the Raynham estates. No, my dear Reginald, retrenchment is the word. You must sell out, keep yourself very quiet, and watch your uncle."

"What do you mean by watching him?" asked Mr. Eversleigh, peevishly.

His friend's advice was by no means palatable to him. He sat in a moody attitude, with his elbows on his knees, and his head bent forward, staring at the fire. His wine stood untasted on the table by his side.

"I mean that you must keep your eye upon him, in order to see that he don't play you a trick", answered the surgeon, at his own leisure.

"What trick should he play me?"

"Well, you see, when a man quarrels with his heir he is apt to turn desperate. Sir Oswald might marry."

"Marry! at fifty years of age?"

"Yes. Men of fifty have been known to fall as desperately in love as any of your heroes of two or three and twenty. Sir Oswald would be a splendid match, and depend upon it, there are plenty of beautiful and high born women who would be glad to call themselves Lady Eversleigh. Take my advice, Reginald, dear boy, and keep your eye on the baronet."

"But he has turned me out of his house. He has severed every link between us."

"Then it must be our business to establish a secret chain of communication with his household", answered Victor. "He has some confidential servant, I suppose?"

"Yes; he has a valet, called Millard, whom he trusts as far as he trusts any dependent; but he is not a man who talks to his servants."

"Perhaps not; but servants have a way of their own of getting at information, and depend upon it, Mr. Millard knows more of your uncle's business than Sir Oswald would wish him to know. We must get hold of this faithful Millard."

"But he is a very faithful fellow—honesty itself—the pink of fidelity."

"Humph!" muttered the young surgeon; "did you ever try the effect of a bribe on this pink of fidelity?"

"Never."

"Then you know nothing about him. Remember what Sir Robt. Walpole said, 'Every man has his price.' We must find out the price of Mr. Millard."

"You are a wonderful fellow, Carrington."

"You think so? Bah, I keep my eyes open, that's all; other men go through the world with their eyes half shut. I graduated in a good school, and I may, perhaps, have been a tolerably apt pupil?"

"What school?"

"The school of poverty. That's the sort of education that sharpens a man's intellect. My father was a reprobate and a gamester, and I knew at an early age that I had nothing to hope for from him. I have had my own way to carve in life, and if I have as yet made small progress, I have fought against terrible odds."

"I wonder you don't set up in a professional career", said Mr. Eversleigh; "you have finished your education; obtained your degree. What are you waiting for?"

"I am waiting for my chances", answered Victor; "I don't care to begin the jogtrot career in which other men toil for twenty years or so, before they attain anything like prosperity. I've studied as few men of five-and-twenty have studied,—chemistry as well as surgery. I can afford to wait my chances. I pick up a few pounds a week by writing for the medical journals, and with that resource and occasional luck with cards, I can very easily support the simple home in which my mother and I live. In the meantime, I am free, and believe me, my dear Reginald, there is nothing so precious as freedom."

"And you will not desert me now that I am down in the world, eh, old fellow?"

"No, Reginald, I will never desert you while you have the chance of succeeding to forty thousand a year", answered the surgeon, with a laugh

ADMIRALS IN CONCLAVE.

British and U. S. Officials Hold Conference at Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, April 20.—Sir Christopher Cradock, the British rear admiral, and Rear Admiral Frank Fletcher, in command of the United States fleet here, had a long conference on board the British cruiser Essex yesterday afternoon. The Essex returned from Tampico yesterday.

Both admirals naturally refused to divulge the nature of their conference. It was learned, however, that Sir C. Cradock has received the most urgent request from the British Government to meet Sir L. Carden here, and to deliver to him certain messages and instructions personally.

U. S. Consul Canada is very reserved about notices as to the movements of the fleet. There is no alarm here at present, the general feeling being that the two Governments will yet get together.

A Wireless Message From The Dead

By F. A. MITCHEL

We are moving so fast in scientific discoveries that, lost in wonder at what we know, we have no time to consider what our attained knowledge is likely to develop in future. For instance, we know that an electric current may be transmitted without any other medium than the atmosphere. We also know that functions of the body, if not electric, are a force something like electricity.

When I was a boy I was constantly finding myself saying something to a companion who would say, "Why, I was just about to say that myself!" At the time I considered this a coincidence. Now I believe it to be a power I possessed in receiving the mental impressions of others by a sort of wireless process. I studied medicine and became a doctor. Then during hospital work I broke down and, though it was between winter and spring, was obliged to go to the country to recoup.

I stopped at a house that looked down a valley, and the view was uninterrupted. I used to sit on the porch wrapped in rugs and enjoy the view in the sunshine. About a mile distant was a house that bore evidence of having been built in colonial times. It was not by any means a farmhouse, but something quite handsome. The architecture was that peculiar style involving a porch with pillars.

One night I was awakened by the sound of wheels stopping right under my window and thought I heard some one call "Doctor!" I raised the sash and put my head out through the window. A man in a wagon asked me if I was a doctor, and I said I was, whereupon he begged me to come with him at once. I dressed myself unwillingly, went downstairs and got into the wagon with him. I asked him to tell me about the nature of the case I was expected to treat, but could get nothing out of him. He seemed entirely absorbed in some powerful emotion.

We were but a few minutes in reaching our destination, drawing up before a house with pillars from the porch to the roof. I inferred that I had come to the house about which I had so often dreamed. The door was opened by a woman in a short petticoat full at the hips, a kerchief across her bosom and a dainty cap on her head. She looked very much troubled.

"Come upstairs," she said.

I followed her up a winding staircase, and the woman opened a door with a glass knob. I entered the sickroom to see a young woman lying on a bed with four high posts surmounted by a canopy. On one side of her was a man holding one of her hands; on the other side was a young girl holding the other. These two looked at me with that mute appeal a doctor is so often obliged to meet.

As I drew near the bed the girl with the invalid pulled down the bedclothes, and I saw at once from blood stains and temporary bandages that my patient had been wounded. I was not a surgeon, but felt obliged to perform a surgeon's part. I examined the wound and saw that it was near the heart, so near that I wondered that the wounded woman lived. There was nothing that I could do for her except bind up the wound in a more professional manner and await results.

Presently I saw her gasp, and between gasps she said to the man beside her:

"You are convinced of the unjustness of your suspicions?"

"Yes, yes; forgive me."

"I forgive you. Goodby."

She fell back dead.

Amid a wail of those present I retired from the room. Notwithstanding the tragical circumstances, I could not but notice the costume of those in the house. "What singular persons!" I said to myself. "Not content with living in a colonial house, they adopt the colonial costume." This was especially marked in their collars, which were like those I had seen in pictures of America's early settlers. I was ushered out by the woman who received me and driven back to my home, where I went to bed, remaining half awake, half asleep, for the rest of the night.

Now, there was something uncanny about my visit, and I hesitated to talk about it to those in the house. I asked if any of the family had heard a wagon stop before the house during the night, but no one had heard any such sound. This induced me to maintain a reserve about my visit. Presently I ventured to ask who lived in the house with pillars and was told that no one lived there. It had been unoccupied for many years. The last tenant had vacated some thirty years before. I asked if anything peculiar had taken place there, but no one had heard of anything unusual. But before returning to the city I heard from a very old resident of the region there was a legend that long before the Revolution a murder had been committed there. A man in a fit of jealousy had stabbed his wife.

And now in this second decade of the twentieth century I have come to believe that the scene I witnessed took place, as I saw it many years ago; that it was stored somewhere; it may be in some soul across the border, possibly one of the participants who flashed it to me by some such process as a wireless operator will flash a message from one side of the world to another.

An Interference

By JOHN Y. LARNED

"What's the matter, Billy?"

My sister Beth asked me the question one morning when I was sitting on the porch looking dreamily on the buds that were opening on the trees.

"Nothing," I replied.

"Yes; there is."

Beth and I were great chums. There was not much more than a year between us, and I was used to giving her my confidence about everything. I resolved to throw my burden upon her in this case.

"You know Alice Woodson"—

"Oh, a case of lovesickness."

I made no reply to this. I was sorry I had begun a confession.

"Go on, Billy," Beth added.

"I won't. You'll only poke fun at me."

"Not a bit of it. I'll help you. Don't you know that I, being a girl, know just how a girl should be treated to be won?"

"You can't tell me how to win Alice. In the first place, she's in love with Fred Perkins; in the second, she seems to have some sort of grudge against me, and in the third"—

"That's enough. You needn't tell me any more. Now, listen to me. I knew all about this before I asked what was the matter with you. I've been watching you and watching Alice, and I'm convinced she's playing you."

"What?"

"Playing you—a sort of cat and mouse business."

"Oh, bosh! For a week past she has treated me abominably and all the while has been looking up with her eyes at Fred like a"—

"Like a chick in a thunderstorm. Will you do what I tell you to do?"

"That depends upon what you tell me."

"The next time you meet Alice pretend to be thinking about something else and don't see her."

"That will make matters worse."

"Very well; if you won't take the medicine I prescribe, go your own road."

I concluded to try Beth's prescription. The next time I saw Alice coming I pretended to be absorbed in something else, and just before we were to come together I turned off in another direction. That was in the morning. In the afternoon of the same day we met again. I couldn't play the same game twice in the same day, so I looked at her. She looked at me, too, or, rather, she stared at me with a cold, blank, withering stare that froze the marrow in my bones. I went to Beth and abused her for getting me into such a pickle.

"You're as weak as watered milk. I'm sorry I tried to do anything for you. I couldn't love a man I could bluff like that."

"What would you want him to do?"

"Crush me like a worm."

"How crush you?"

"Will you simply do nothing so far as Alice is concerned and leave the rest to me?"

Since I felt entirely incapable of carrying on such a contest myself I agreed to this Fabian policy. During the next few days I kept out of Alice Woodson's way so far as I could. When I saw her coming toward me I changed my course. I tried not to look troubled or angry or anything in particular. I did my best to show no especial emotion while waiting for Beth to do something.

One day I met Alice face to face. She bade me good morning in a rather huffy tone. I replied to her salutation.

"I can understand now," she said, "your recent unfriendliness to me since I have learned the cause."

"What cause?"

"Oh, don't pretend ignorance! I used to think that you had a mind of your own."

"And you don't think so now?"

"You're the first man I ever knew who would permit his sister to run him."

I began to catch on to what was at the bottom of this. Beth had evidently been at work.

"What do you mean by my sister running me?"

"I'm not supposed to tell, but I made no promise. Beth has told me all about it."

"About what?"

"About your new fancy, Mr. Ignorance, or, rather, her fancy. Any one can see that she is trying to bring it about herself, and with such a pliable brother I dare say she will."

I plucked up a lot of courage at this. Beth had evidently produced a revolution.

"Do you mean to say that my sister has been betraying my confidence?"

"Your confidence! Why, she told me herself that she was bent on making a match for you. She said she wanted you to marry a girl that was her friend."

I was pretty stupid, but not so stupid as not to see Beth's device and what it had accomplished. I cut the matter short by saying that when I married I would consult no one but the girl I wanted and began to talk of something else.

It would have been better for me to have had the pluck to manage the affair myself, for my wife has never forgiven my sister for "trying to switch me off to one of her especial friends." I have told her the true story, but she won't believe it. Beth doesn't expect her to believe it. She says she wouldn't believe such a thin story herself.

How a Secret Was Obtained

By MARTHA MONROE

Two men met on the custom house wharf in Naples, where baggage was being transferred from a recently arrived ocean steamer.

"Good morning, Vincenzo," said one. "What are you doing here?"

Vincenzo Fabroni gave the other a look enjoining silence and led the way to a place where they would not be observed.

"Well, Giuseppe, I am trying to make an honest living carrying baggage. The truth is I am tired of a criminal life and wish to reform."

"But you have nothing to fear. Being a member of the Camorra, you are always sure of protection whatever you do."

"That may be, but I am not naturally a villain. I was made so by circumstances."

"Well, Vincenzo, I wish you success in your efforts to carry rich men's trunks for an occasional lira that you may make by doing so. As for me, I wish I had your opportunities in a membership of the Camorra."

"Why don't you join the society?"

"It won't have me. I have secret enemies among the members who keep me out. Nevertheless I have been reasonably successful without the Camorra's assistance. I have just steered an American tourist into the hands of bandits and shared in the ransom."

"I wish you would lend me some of it. I would like to set up a wineshop whereby to make a living."

"How much do you need?"

"Five hundred lire would start me."

Giuseppe Zarrella thought a few minutes, then said: "I need something you possess. You need something I possess. Suppose we make a trade. You wish money to set you up in business. I wish to be a member of the Camorra. I will give you all you require for your purpose. You give me a secret that will enable me to gain admission into the society."

"What secret?"

"Who murdered Di Guido?"

Vincenzo winced. "What good would it do you to know that?" he asked.

"It would open to me the doors of the Camorra. The police are straining every nerve to discover who committed that crime. Let me once intimate that I am in the secret and the Camorra will gladly admit me."

After some more talk Vincenzo said that he would think the matter over and would give his friend an answer on the steps of the sea wall at 9 o'clock the next evening. When they came together again Vincenzo said:

"Giuseppe, the risk I would run in giving you the information you wish—the risk of my life—is worth much more than 500 lire."

"How much is it worth?"

Giuseppe looked at the other, wondering how high a price he could put on his secret. Finally he said, "Could you give me 3,000 lire?"

"Yes, I will give you that. An admission to the Camorra would be worth that to me."

"Swear that you will divulge the secret to no one."

"How could I use it without divulging it?"

"I see. Swear that you will tell no one that I gave it to you."

"I swear to that."

"When will you make the trade?"

"Now. I came provided with the money."

Giuseppe took a roll of bills from his pocket, counted out 3,000 lire and put the rest back. With the money in his palm he clasped Vincenzo's hand. Vincenzo whispered the secret in his ear, the hands were unclasped, and the bills remained in Vincenzo's.

"Now, Vincenzo," said his friend, "I will tell you what to do. Report to the Camorra that you have made this money by robbery and expect an arrest, warning them to be ready to clear you. That will account for your having such an amount, and they need not suspect that I got my secret from you."

"That I will surely do."

A few days later Vincenzo reported that he had waylaid an Englishman on the heights back of the city and taken considerable money from him. He was promised that should he be arrested and tried members of the Camorra would be present at the trial and intimate by signs to the judge that if Vincenzo were convicted he (the judge) would be assassinated.

Within a week a man was arrested for the Di Guido murder. He remained in jail some time while the government was working up a case against him and taking steps for his conviction despite the threats of the Camorra. Meanwhile Vincenzo Fabroni opened his wineshop and was making for him a good living. One day a member of the national police walked by his shop several times and, when he saw it was empty, walked in. Fabroni stood looking at him with astonishment mingled with horror.

"Giuseppe!" he exclaimed or, rather, moaned.

"Don't be afraid," said the carabineer. "You are safe so far as the government is concerned. Serve me a liter of wine, and I will tell you something."

Vincenzo pulled himself together, brought the wine, and Giuseppe told him that he had bought his secret not to secure a membership in the Camorra, but to discover the murderer of Di Guido.

AIRSHIPS COLLIDE.

Tragedy In Midair Results In Death of Aviator and Passenger.

BUC, France, April 20.—The aviator, Francois Deroy and Marvel Dablin, who was making a flight with him, were burned to death as a result of a collision in the air yesterday. Thousands of spectators witnessed the accident.

Deroy's machine, and another piloted by Bedault, with a passenger, M. Pelladeau, came together with a crash in mid-air. Evidently the gasoline tanks exploded, for both machines burst into flames and fell to the earth. Bedault and Pelladeau, although badly injured, managed to extricate themselves from the blazing wreckage, but Deroy and Dablin were pinned down and the intense heat prevented rescuers from approaching.

Flies Upside Down In Gale.

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y., April 20.—Flying upside down in a southwest gale, estimated to be blowing more than 35 miles an hour, Charles F. Niles, in a monoplane, thrilled spectators on the aviation field at Hempstead Plains Saturday.

After bucking the wind until he reached an altitude of about 2,000 feet, Niles, with his aeroplane twisting in the blast, succeeded in completing a circle. In his second attempt, when the circle was about half completed, Niles' machine slipped back and earthward for nearly 1,000 feet, when an unusually heavy gale struck it. A third attempt also failed, owing to the wind that made another loop the loop impossible.

Niles ended his day's thrills by flying upside down for nearly half a mile.

SLAYS HER DAUGHTER.

Insane Woman at Hull Kills 19-Year Old Girl With Axe.

OTTAWA, April 20.—Wielding an axe as the instrument of death, Mrs. Placide Massie, aged 45, wife of a plasterer residing at Adelaide and Alfred streets, Hull, Saturday afternoon murdered her 19-year-old daughter, Marie, the oldest of a family of seven children.

The woman had been acting strangely for about a week, and it is thought she committed the crime in an insane frenzy. The cause of the crime, it is believed, was the mother's objection to a young man, an acquaintance of her daughter. So far as known there were no witnesses to the events leading up to the crime. The screams of the girl were heard by a neighbor, Felix Charron, who reached the house, but was too late to save her. He held the woman until the police arrived.

The body of the girl was horribly mutilated, though she lived a few minutes after Dr. Belisle had reached her. She was, however, unable to make any statement.

Mrs. Massie was immediately taken into custody by a squad of police, and on being placed in a cell at headquarters tried to suicide by battering her head against the wall. She appears to be violently insane.

T. & N. O. Commissioner Takes Position Under Federal Government.

TORONTO, April 20.—Fred Dane has resigned from the Timiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway Commission. He will accept a position in the trade and commerce branch of the Dominion Government under Hon. Geo. E. Foster, which will take him to Europe. He is succeeded by G. W. Lee, mayor of North Bay. Mr. Lee has been general agent for the T. & N. O. Railway for nine years.

Mr. Dane has been a member of the T. & N. O. Commission for eight years, and held also the post of land commissioner. He is one of the most prominent Orangemen in Ontario, and has given general satisfaction by his work and his thorough knowledge of conditions in Northern Ontario. He has been instrumental in opening up a large section of the north to settlement.

Mr. Lee's appointment is very popular in the north. During his term of office as general agent for the T. & N. O. he has familiarized himself with conditions in the north country and has a thorough knowledge of railway operation.

Master Bill Astor and His Rather Queer Ambition.

HE WOULD BE A CARPENTER.

Bright Little English Lad Who Is Very Much of an American—Story of a Sparrow's Warning—Riddles to Puzzle the Little People.

Not long ago there arrived in this country a little boy of six who attracted a great deal of attention because of his smiling face and quick wit. He is William Waldorf Astor 2d, and he was born in England. He is the son of Waldorf Astor, a member of the British parliament. His grandfather, William Waldorf Astor, was formerly an American citizen, but some years ago removed to England and became naturalized in that country. The boy's mother was Miss Nannie Langhorne, and she was born in Virginia. So it seems natural enough that the young lad should have American ideas. Just before he sailed back to his English home Bill, as he likes to be called, said that he hoped to be a carpenter when he grew up. "My son," said his mother, "is a real American boy. He is Bill to every one. Nobody calls him anything else, and he doesn't like other names." Last Christmas the boy received a box of tools and since then he has used them at every opportunity. He took them back to England with him, and as all the Astors have been workers, he may yet be a carpenter. But it will be merely play for him. He won't have to earn his living in that way. On his way across the Atlantic Bill passed the time drawing pictures. He explained that he intended to sell them. Bill seems to be a real American, sure enough.

The Messenger Sparrow.

It was one of those summer days in the middle west when, the heat becoming unbearable, the farmer was compelled to retreat from his fields and take refuge from the scorching sun.

He had been resting for some little time when he became conscious of a persistent twittering about his ears. Looking up, he saw a little sparrow, which had evidently come in through the open window.

The farmer tried to drive the bird away, but each time it returned, immediately darting off again and constantly chirping as though in an effort to attract his attention.

THE WORLD'S WORK DEPENDS ON THE WORLD'S DIGESTION

From the captain of industry to the hod carrier—from milady in the auto to the woman with the scrubbing brush—the accomplishments of every one of us depend absolutely on the accomplishments of our stomachs. Backed by a good digestion, a man can give the best that is in him. When his stomach fails, he becomes a weakling.

To this loss of power no one need submit. Right habits of eating, drinking, sleeping and exercise, aided by Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, will restore and maintain the full efficiency of the human mind and body.

Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets contain the active principles needed for the digestion of every kind of food. They go to the assistance of the weakened stomach, and enable the sufferer, right from the start, to assimilate and get the benefit of the food eaten. With this assistance, the digestive organs regain their tone, and soon the use of the tablets is no longer necessary.

If your stomach is not working properly, try Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, 50c. at your druggist's. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 245

At last, his curiosity aroused, he followed the little bird to the doorway. When he looked out he saw, to his astonishment, that a fierce storm was rapidly approaching.

Immediately the farmer drove the cattle under cover. As is their wont, they were apparently enjoying the intense heat that precedes such a storm and were grazing far from shelter.

In the violent storm that followed hail of immense size descended with such great velocity that all the cattle would undoubtedly have perished had they not been sheltered.

You can imagine how thankful the farmer was to the little sparrow for his timely warning.

The Magnet.

Generally speaking, the word magnet is thought to be derived from the word Magnesia, a city of Lydia, in Asia Minor, where the peculiar magnetic properties of the ore of iron known as lodestone were first discovered.

Another authority, however, declares that the word can be traced back to Magnes, the name of a shepherd who was detained on Mount Ida by the iron in his shoes and found himself unable to move.

WEDDING CUSTOMS.

Curious Practices From Odd Corners of the World.

Love, the poet's theme, is always interesting, always new—interesting even to those to whom it comes merely as a dream of the golden past, new in its beautiful realization to the youthful and favored before whom are the possibilities of many years. Destiny awaits them, there is no black past to mar the present, no dull dread to cast its shadows over the future. Life and youth and love exist to give a roseate hue to all the long, beautiful years in store.

Alas! that disappointment should arise, disillusion, care, trouble—disenchantment.

But in fifty per cent. of the marriages that take place, these conditions are inevitable. The man and woman who can steer clear of these difficulties are indeed happy, and can steer ahead of troubles, but when such troubles can no longer be avoided, who can meet them hand in hand—without needless upbraidings or cruel reproaches.

Directly the wife assumes the husband's name, she assumes a proportion of the responsibilities in life that also belong to him. It is interesting to know the orign of the lady assuming the gentleman's name on marriage. This custom is a Roman one. When Julia became the wife of Pompey, she was known as "Julia of Pompey." Later on the custom still prevailed with the exception that the "of" was omitted.

In some countries, Iceland, for instance, the reverse is the custom, the husband assuming the wife's name.

The derivation of the word "wedding" is from the "wed" or security which the bridegroom-elect gave at the time of betrothal, the "wed" being placed in the hands of trustees, and as a further sign that he was betrothed he wore a ring. As for the wedding ring, that, we are shown by history, was first originated and designed by Prometheus, being fashioned from iron and adamant.

The wedding-cake, too, is said to have originated as a Roman custom. It was customary for the bride to hold in her left hand three ears of wheat, while at a later period the bride wore a chaplet of wheat. The bridesmaids strewed grains of corn or crumbs of cake upon the newly-wed couple, and the friends present used to collect and eat the symbolished morsels. The wedding cake actually came into fashion quite recently. It was at first composed simply of solid squares of cake held collectively by the icing only. As soon as the icing was broken, the cakes fell to pieces, and were eaten with much enjoyment by the guests.

Wedding favors and that pretty device, the true lover's knot, are of Danish origin, the later meaning, "I plight my troth."

The custom of throwing a shoe after the happy pair is a very old one, and doubtless arose from the former custom of the father giving a shoe to the young husband as a token that he gave to him all power over his daughter.

Money In His Voice.

One of London's smart young men, besides being of the spendthrift order, is an excellent mimic and can imitate his father's gruff voice to a nicety. Not long ago he wanted without delay an amount of money, and he knew that the father would treat a request for it with cold contempt. Waiting till he was sure that his father would be away, he went to a telephone call room and rang up his parent's office, calling for the cashier. The cashier was forthcoming.

"I say, Blank," said the young man, "if that scapegrace of a son of mine comes round while I am out and asks for £20, don't give it to him. Only give him £10 and tell him to make that do."

The cashier promised that he would fulfill his commands. Not long after the son called at the office and demanded £20. He was refused by the conscientious cashier, and, apparently in anger, the young man contented himself with the ten. When the parent reached the office there was trouble.

Spilling Salt.

The superstitious belief that it is unlucky to spill salt may have originated from Leonardo da Vinci's picture of the Last Supper, in which Judas is represented as spilling salt. It is just possible that the superstition was even then current among the people that Da Vinci merely embodied the superstition in his picture. A gift of bread and salt was a sign of friendship. Salt was thought to typify peace and amity, so spilling salt may have betokened enmity.

"For sale—a man's body!" That is the substance of an advertisement that appears in a recent issue of a Toronto paper, and, according to the man who inserted the "ad," he is entirely serious about the matter. The advertisement states that he desires to will his body to the anatomical institution which makes the highest bid upon it, provided the lowest offer is not less than $100. The object of the insertion of this rather novel advertisement is to procure some ready money in order to enable the man to pay the expenses of a very serious operation, performed upon his wife at the General Hospital, and to pay his house rent. In order to do these things without accepting charity, he is willing to forego the privilege of burial upon his death. No word of the success of his scheme is yet at hand.

MAKING SCRAP BOOKS.

Work Done by Children's Missionary Guild For Sick and Crippled.

Although the making of scrap books is no new idea and many are manufactured every year by Sunday school children and members of church guilds for the benefit of children in hospitals, they are always welcome. Not every one makes them in just the same way. A woman in charge of a children's missionary guild who has made a number of scrap books for sick and crippled children gives the following directions for the work:

The books that the children made were fashioned of plain colored wall paper, which was bought in short ends of pretty light colors at a low price. The paper was cut into strips twenty-four inches long and ten inches wide, each sheet folded once, thus making them 12 by 10, each book containing twelve of these double sheets. The children collected the pictures, which were cut out and sorted at the first meetings before the pasting began. In the sorting process pictures that would best please little girls were put together; also those most suitable for boys. Animal pictures were put together, as well as pictures suitable for very small children. Boiled paste was made in quantity when the pasting began, a little being given to each child in a tin pattypan, with a paint brush for the pasting. The children arranged the pictures to suit themselves. When a book of twelve leaves was finished holes were punched and the sheets tied with ribbons or cords.

The scrap books described above are of a good size for sick children to hold. The mistake is too often made of having them too large and unwieldy for a child who is weak to enjoy.

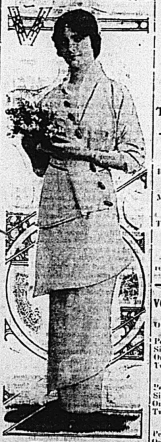
Children are delighted with cutouts of any kind. Magazines that contain fashion pictures, especially colored ones, supply little girls with a collection of dolls. They not only love to cut them out, but they will play for hours with the dolls, as they call the figures. Animal pictures charm little boys, who sometimes construct entire miniature zoos in this way.

CRAPES IN SPRING.

They Are Just Right For Fashioning the Eccentric New Draperies.

Crapes are just the materials to take on gracefully the lines of the new models which Paris has elected we shall follow. It is predicted that crape will be one of the most popular fabrics this spring and summer. Illustrated here is a smart gown for afternoon wear, which is carried out entirely in silk crape. The tunic drapery is what is known as the corkscrew, following in its lines the graceful spiral of this utensil. Colored buttons and bands of satin give a touch of color to the garment.

Something very new is the narrow plaited skirt which is held snugly to the figure by broad ribbon sashes in the form of tie backs. The new panniers or short tunics are used over the hips of these plaited dresses, while the sashes encircle the figure at a point just below the edge of the pannier.



THE CORKSCREW TUNIC.

They are adjusted to fit snugly to the figure, so that the plaits of the skirt are kept in place. Large bows finish the back, sometimes with loose falling ends and sometimes just ending in two big loops. Sometimes plaited tunics are worn with these plaited skirts in one or two tiers, with narrow ruffles at the edge to increase the width at the hips.

Stained Laces.

Laces that have been stained with perspiration should first be washed with cold water and soap. After the stain has been removed rinse in warm water.

There must have been at least 50 per cent. exaggeration in the stories of the battle of Torreon or this new series of battles at San Pedro would have been possible so soon.

WHEN YOU EAT HAM

Baking In the Oven Is the Best Way to Cook It.

DESTROYS DISEASE GERMS.

It Also Gives the Meat a Fine Flavor, Besides Making It More Wholesome. Some Suggestions For Preparing It Palatably In This Way.

Pork is served frequently in cold weather because of its heat producing qualities. Ham, owing to the fact that it has been cured and smoked, is one of the most wholesome forms of pork. It should never be eaten raw, however. To eat it safely the ham should be well cooked before serving. The fat of pork is especially indigestible; but, owing to its leanness, ham is less open to objection on this score. Pork of any kind requires about five hours for digestion. It is therefore best served in the middle of the day or a long time before retiring.

Ham should be boiled eighteen minutes to each pound of the meat, provided it is placed into boiling water immediately. If the ham is placed first in cold water and gradually brought to the boiling point it should be boiled at the same rate, but a half hour should be deducted to allow for the time until the water begins to boil. In other words, the ham should be left in the water after it begins to boil eighteen times its weight minus thirty.

Ham is more desirable in the baked form than in the boiled. It is baked fifteen minutes to the pound—eighteen if you like the ham very well done. The ham should be first washed in cold water. Then take baking soda, sprinkle it over the ham and scrub with a small brush. Rinse it in cold water and trim it.

PREPARING HAM FOR BAKING.

Ham may be boiled before baking. After this has been done let it remain for an hour in the liquor in which it was cooked. Then take it out, let it get thoroughly cold and remove the skin. Rub the upper part of the ham with white of egg and sprinkle over it the sifted crumbs of dry bread, putting them on to form a crust a quarter of an inch thick. Sprinkle with pepper and set in the oven until the crust is brown and nicely shortened by the oozing fat. This will be in about a half hour. The ham should be served cold.

Take two pounds of ham, cut three inches thick, half a cupful of grape juice, a cupful of boiling water, two cloves and an inch stick of cinnamon. Freshen the ham for two hours in cold water, drain, place in a baking dish with the other ingredients, cover and bake till tender, about one and a half hours. Remove from the liquor, add to it two tablespoonfuls of chopped raisins and thicken with half a tablespoonful of arrowroot dissolved in a little cold water.

Spiced baked ham is nice. Parboil a young ham for about an hour and a half. Lift the ham out of the vessel and pour cold water over it. Remove the skin and rub into the ham a handful of brown sugar. Dot with cloves, sprinkle with breadcrumbs and bake until tender.

Stuffed ham is a fine dish. Remove the bones from a ten pound ham, rub the inside with salt, pepper and sage and fill the space from which the bone was taken with a highly seasoned dressing. Fasten together, place in a pan, rind side down, and add a little water. Bake, basting often. An hour before serving rub the surface with sugar. It should be baked for about four hours. Serve hot or cold.

Ham baked with cider is especially palatable. The Boston cooking school gives the following recipe for preparing it: Let a choice ham stand covered with water overnight; drain and set over the fire in a fresh supply of cold water; let it heat slowly to the boiling point; then simmer for four hours. Remove the ham to a deep baking pan, take off the skin and pour over it one pint of the liquid in which it was cooked and one pint of hot cider; baste each ten minutes and let cook until the bones of the shin may be turned. Serve hot with a dish of spinach chopped and mixed with a small quantity of cream sauce, about half a cupful to a generous pint of spinach.

For sauce skim off the fat from the liquid in the baking pan. Take a pint of this liquid, one cupful of rich brown stock and thicken with one-fourth of a cupful of flour cooked in one-fourth of a cupful of butter. Season with salt and pepper and stir in one-fourth of a cupful of currant jelly.

The first part of the cooking may be done overnight in a fireless cooker. Apple sauce, apple and celery salad or cabbage salad may be served with the baked ham.

WORK CHEERFULLY.

Then Even Wash Day Will Lose Its Terrors For You.

If we take an interested mind and a brave heart with us to work there is nothing about the household round that should worry or dismay us. The stairs that are so much grumbled at give a much needed series of strengthening movements, for as we journey up and down so many times a day the hip muscles are exercised and the calf and thigh muscles made streng and trustworthy. Bedmaking and turning mattresses will improve the housewife's figure, exercising the muscles of the abdomen as well as those of the arms and shoulders. These are movements specially helpful to the woman afraid of growing uncomfortably and unbecomingly stout.

The homely washtub is not to be despised. Washing is real good exercise and enjoyable, too, but if you mean to aim for health and beauty be very sure that your washing bench and your ironing board are at exactly the right height. They must be high enough to insure that the greatest muscular exertion is brought to bear upon the shoulders and upper part of the back rather than across the small of the back.

Turning the wringer will give yet another exercise, and if a machine of good make is chosen mangling clothes should not be too heavy a task for the normally healthy woman. It should, indeed, be beneficial in strengthening the muscles of the forearm.

Standing all day long at an ironing table would in time make crooked the straightest young back, but here again we are to use a sane moderation. Finish off a reasonable number of garments each week rather than plunge into a "big wash" every fortnight, toiling and moiling over ironing till more than half the week is gone. Never attempt too much, and if your back begins to feel weary do not scorn to sit down at your ironing board while you press some of the smaller things, such as handkerchiefs or lace bows.

Even cooking may be found to be a useful exercise. Stooping to look in the oven, reaching down a plate from a shelf, carrying things to and from the pantry, manipulating the rolling pin and potato masher, turning the meat or vegetable chopper, beating eggs, stooping to take things out of the refrigerator and the many other movements required all have a value in developing the muscles.

All these tasks we have been enumerating are good for nerves if you would but believe it. See that your home is well ventilated, and always lift your mind above any thought or hint of drudgery. Keep the work in its right proportion to the rest of life, and it can have no power to make a drudge of you. Never let housework usurp the place of higher things.

COMFORTABLE FOOTWEAR.

Common Sense Should Be Used In the Selection of Shoes and Stockings.

Stockings should be half a size large to accommodate the foot as it spreads with the weight upon it, and for the same reason the shoe should be of pliable material. Black in both hosiery and shoes gives the best effect, but since colors are in vogue it is wise to compromise on plain colors and plain weaves.

For those whose feet are irritated by silk there are cotton footed silk stockings. White footed hose are preferable to either. All cheaper grades of hosiery should be washed in soda and water before being worn.

Shoes properly fitted will hold the feet in a firm grasp with the pressure uniformly distributed. The sole will be just broad enought to serve as a foundation. The heel will be of moderate height and placed beneath the end, not the middle, of the foot. A run down heel is unpardonable—and unsafe.

It is a mistake to buy shoes longer and narrower than the foot in order to make the latter appear slender, for the ball of the foot, where there is greatest breadth, is forced out of place and into the narrowing toe. It is equally a mistake to wear shoes too large, for the shifting about of the foot will cause callouses and blisters. Shoes, like other apparel, should fit so perfectly that the wearer is not reminded of their presence.

For Elderly Women.

The middle aged woman who would still look youthful must keep her heart merry and young. She must refrain from indulgence in imaginary ills, woes and wrongs and a fondness for too much self analysis and introspection.

Look at life in its true proportions, face troubles bravely, allow nothing to dim your courage, and you will find that beauty remains far into old age and that there is no regret for vanished youth.

The Fox's Useful Brush.

Though it is only a useless and rather stupid trophy to the hunter, the fox's brush is of value in many ways as well as an ornament to the fox. His broad, bushy tail is the rudder which enables him to twist and turn at any moment when running at full speed. In approaching a wall or a hedge or a ditch which has to be jumped the fox gains additional impetus by rapidly twirling his tail round, just as an aeroplane propeller revolves. Again, in climbing trees the fox uses his tail as a balance or a sort of fifth leg, and finally in curling himself up to sleep he covers his head warm and cozily with his brush.—London Chronicle.

Idleness Is Death.

Most men cannot be idle and live. That sounds strange. It is true. It is a law of nature. If a man past forty leads an idle life the probability is that he will live to be fifty-seven years old. If he leads a harmonious and sufficiently occupied life he will live to be sixty-six. This is the experience of life insurance companes, which make a specialty of old age annuities.

The figures tell the story. Idleness is harder on the vital organs of mankind than work. To be idle is to die.

Sweet Revenge.

Mrs. Shopper (after inspecting everything in the store)—I don't see anything here that suits me. I suppose I may as well go down to Stacys' and see what they have. They usually have a good assortment.

Salesman—Here's a card of one of their salesmen. Won't you kindly ask for him?

Mrs. Shopper—Ah! A friend of yours, I presume?

Salesman—No, madam; he has owed me $10 for the past three years.

The Last Straw.

"What was the matter with the maid you got the other day? I hear you have discharged her."

"She didn't seem to have sufficient intelligence to get along here. Her cooking was fair, but when she used my husband's tango shirt for a dust cloth we just had to part with her."

He Discovered Why.

Mr. Oldboy—Why do you bring so much water, Tommy? I merely asked for a drink.

Tommy—I thought you'd need more than a glassful, 'cause sister said you was the driest old stick she ever knew.

Heart Beats.

The heart of the vegetarian is said to beat on an average of 58 beats to the minute, while that of the meat eater averages 72, a difference of 20,000 beats in 24 hours.

Flour trial is essential but—it is not your work!

Flour varies from time to time in baking quality. This is because wheat continually varies according to soil conditions, etc.

Therefore, if baking results are to be constantly high, baking tests are essential. It is unreasonable to expect you to make these tests at your expense.

So from each shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. This is ground into flour. Bread is baked from the flour. If this bread is high in quality and large in quantity, we use the shipment. Otherwise we sell it.

By simply asking for PURITY FLOUR bearing this name you can always be sure of more bread and better bread.

A Revolutionist

She Passed Through Hair-breadth Escapes

By KATHLEEN EVERSHAM

Henry Cummings, an American, traveling on a train between London and Dover on his way to Paris, left London by an evening train soon after dark. There were four passengers in his compartment when he started, but at the first station two left the train. The remaining passenger besides Cummings was wrapped in a long ulster, with a broad collar turned up about his neck and a felt hat pulled down over his eyes. As soon as the train started after the second stop he roused himself, yawned, cleared his throat with a cough, looked out of the window, peering into the darkness; then turned to a bag beside him and took out a box of cigarettes.

"Do you object to smoke?" he asked of Cummings in broken English.

"Not at all. I am a smoker myself."

"In that case, there being no one else in this compartment except ourselves, I suppose we may smoke."

When the man turned toward Cummings to ask the question the American got such a view of him as was afforded by the dim light from the lamp in the center of the ceiling. He saw a youthful, feminine face, without the sign of a beard, hair of a very light hue and steel gray eyes. The voice, too, was very soft for a man's. He offered his box of cigarettes to Cummings, who noticed that the hand holding it was round and exquisitely shaped.

Cummings took a cigarette from that side of the box nearest him, and the young man took one from the other side before closing and putting it in his bag. Cummings took a silver box from his pocket and, scratching a match on it, held the match for the other to light his cigarette. This gave a better illumination of his fellow passenger's face, and Cummings was very much struck with it. He was sure if he ever saw it again he would know it. It was a serious face, the face of one who might be expected to have some great object in life, and had it not been too feminine it would have been handsome. But only a glimpse was to be had while the young man lighted his cigarette, and Cummings lighted his from the same match. Then the American leaned back to enjoy his smoke.

"YOUR PASSPORT SAVED ME FROM ARREST."

"I fancy," he said presently, "there is a trace of opium in these cigarettes of yours."

"Do you think so?"

"I am quite sure of it. But nearly all cigarettes that are made now contain some opium. I don't mind a little of it."

A very pleasant languor came over Cummings, and, not having anything in common with the stranger to talk about, he permitted himself to fall into a doze.

He was awakened by a rough shake.

"Wake up!"

A man in police uniform was bending over him. Cummings found it hard to keep his eyes open and closed them again, whereupon he was shaken anew. This time he roused himself and began to take in the situation.

The train was at a standstill. There was no one in the compartment except himself and the policeman, though he could see several persons standing without. On the seat opposite him was an ulster which he recognized as belonging to his fellow passenger. His bag lay open beside him.

"Where is the young man who was in the coach with me?" Cummings asked.

"Was there a young man with you?" asked the policeman quickly.

"Yes; there is his ulster. He gave me a cigarette to smoke, and it put me to sleep." Diving into the open bag, he pulled out most of the contents. "My passport," he exclaimed. "It is gone!"

Good Form

Correct Table Service.

The inestimable value and comfort of having the home table correctly served cannot be overestimated, as the refined home, where breakfast, luncheon and dinner are pleasant social occasions and where the maid is taught to serve deftly and noiselessly, need never fear the event of extra guests to luncheon or dinner, owing to the fact that the routine will vary but slightly from that to which the maid is accustomed.

"One does not grow old at table," is a favorite saying in Italy, and almost as important as the food is the way in which it is served and presented to us. Unfortunately many housewives think that with but the services of one general maid, who perforce is both cook and waitress, a perfect table is denied them and, unless she is already drilled in this most important branch of her work, expect but little else save the bringing in of the dinner and the changing of the plates between courses.

Simplicity in home menus as well as in more formal functions is now being adopted by even the most successful hostesses, and the dinner or luncheon of three or four courses, each perfect in itself and correctly served, is infinitely to be preferred to a more elaborate repast, carelessly cooked and presented.

The Motorcar.

Elegance has extended to the motorcar, and the smart woman spares no trouble to turn her automobile into a miniature boudoir or, as some cynics call it, dressing room. A very well known artist has been so busy for the last few weeks with commissions for painting the panels of motorcars that he has been obliged to refuse orders.

Some of the splendid new touring cars have their panels decorated with hand painted pictures representing favorite scenes or figure subjects recalling the days when Watteau and Fragonard were popular.

Inside the whole auto is lined with shot moire silk, and seats are on gilded swivels so that they may be turned in any direction. Small racks contain bottles of perfume, powder boxes in beaten silver gilt or in inlaid shell and the necessary stick of lip salve in a round receptacle of the same shell or metal.

A row of shelves is filled with the last thing in novels, and a neat writing desk is fitted so that letters may be dealt with en route.

The Hat and the Expression.

"Wearing the hat slightly to one side is very becoming to some faces—those with a dash of fun and coquetry in their expression," remarked an observing woman. "Gainsborough's famous 'Duchess of Devonshire' is an instance. But the present fashion of wearing the hat so one sided that part of the narrow brim points to the zenith, while its opposite side rests upon the shoulder, is likely to be grotesque rather than picturesque, especially when the wearer has an air of solemn gloom as her natural expression, as many of us have. A clever woman once wrote, 'Never cry in a rose colored hat.' The greater includes the less. 'Never look glum in a one sided hat.' Though it is a fashion of the hour to wear it so, no one need do it. The middle aged person frequently wears a look of anxious severity that sometimes amounts to scowling. It means short sight or a fear of looking too amiable, that is all, but to unite this fearsome expression with a hat standing on its own brim is to make a sartorial mistake of the first order."

Announce Names Distinctly.

It would be amusing were it not vexatious to note how seldom one hears a name clearly pronounced on introduction. A mumble, where only the word Miss or Mr. is clearly understood, and more often than not it is quite impossible to say whether one has been introduced to Mrs. or Miss. It is always embarrassing to any one to talk to a person of whose name one is in doubt, and few persons have the courage to ask to have it repeated.

While a loud voice is not proper or correct, the name should be distinctly pronounced or mistakes in addressing the person are very apt to cause embarrassment and often misunderstandings easily avoided if the names are known.

Very simple are the rules for making introductions by a host or hostess, as men are always presented to women, younger to the older, unmarried women to married, and only in the event of the guest of honor being a distinguished man are ladies presented to him.

Drinking Healths.

Since grape juice has become the fashion and temperance healths are drunk it is convenient to know just what is the etiquette of health drinking. When the health of a guest of honor is proposed every one rises, including the honor guest, and all drink. In responding one may just say, "I thank you and my kind host and hostess and beg you to join me in drinking to their very good health and happiness." This at once brings about another response and relieves the honor guest, who joins in drinking the toast.

A guest at a dinner party never "drinks alone." All drink whenever a toast is proposed to any one present or absent.

On the 7th day of October, 1852, the ship Princess left Australia with a cargo of wool and other articles valued at $250,000. She had in her treasure room gold in dust, bars and coin aggregating $1,300,000. She was never heard from.

In June, 1868, eighteen years after the loss of the Princess, I was one of the crew of the Boston whaler Talisman, which was trying the cruising ground on the south of Cape Horn. We had had a fair run of luck when we got a gale from the north which lasted for four days and nights without a break. This drove us away south among the ice, and on a dozen different occasions the ship was within a hair's breadth of being cast away or overwhelmed. After the fourth day of the gale there was a calm lasting thirty hours. During this interval the Talisman lay between two monster icebergs, with her boats down and ready to tow her out of the way should they close in on her. Then we got a strong breeze from the east.

Sometimes we lay moored to a berg for several hours; again we were pounding among the great cakes of ice, which threatened every moment to crush in her sides. We had been driving to the southeast for three days when the breeze fell and left us on a heaving sea, with a monster iceberg about two miles away to the south.

The ship had thus far sustained little damage, but the crew were exhausted with the hard work and constant vigilance. The men were given an all day's rest, and no incident occurred until late in the afternoon. The mass of ice had a front a mile long on our side, with an average height of 300 feet. What its width was we could not say. We were astonished to see smoke rising from the far side of it. No one doubted that it came from a fire lighted by shipwrecked sailors, who had caught sight of the Talisman and were making her a signal.

The third mate and three men were ordered off in one of the whaleboats to investigate, and I was one of the three selected. We took with us a breaker of fresh water, a bottle of rum, bread, meat, blankets, a boat compass and a lantern, and darkness fell as we pulled away from the ship.

We pulled to pass the western face of the berg and found it to be about half a mile long. As we reached its southern limit and turned to the east we caught sight of a small fire on a ledge about 100 feet above the water. As soon as we got up to it the mate hailed and was promptly answered that there were two men on the ledge, one of whom had a broken leg. Thereupon I was ordered to remain by the boat and hold on, while the mate and the two men landed on the berg and began making their way up to the ledge.

Twenty minutes later the berg split, a fog settled down, and with it came a breeze. I did not know what to do, and so I laid in my oar, wrapped myself in a blanket and sat down in the bottom of the boat. You will think it queer that I fell asleep under the circumstances, but that is exactly what happened, nor did I wake until day came again. Then I found myself in an ice floe which was drifting to the south at the rate of about three miles an hour.

I am not at all sure how long I drifted, but the general direction was south, and the time was at least four days and nights. On the morning of what was probably the fifth day I awoke to find that the floe had ceased drifting, and a quarter of a mile to the east of the boat was a mass of ice.

It was a mile or more in length and not over thirty feet high and looked more like a wall resting on the water. The ice was yellow and dirty, with rocks embedded in it here and there, and I have no doubt that a good portion of it was the lower part of an iceberg which had turned turtle. Between me and the wall was a jumble of ice, over which it seemed impossible to make my way, but as soon as I had broken my fast I set out to try it. It took me a full hour to make that quarter of a mile, but at length I reached the wall and found that I could easily get up its rough side. When I reached the top it was to discover that the mass of ice was almost a cube, with a great hollow in its surface to remind one of the crater of a volcano.

In the center of this hollow lay a mass of wreckage, and after a long stare, half believing my eyes deceived me, I slid down and began investigation. No one will ever see a more curious sight. A space several hundred feet square was covered with broken masts, yards, beams, planks, boards, ropes, blocks and sails. A large ship had here suffered destruction. Just how I could not determine, but it seemed to me as if a great body of ice had fallen on it as she rested in the crater. No other force, unless gunpowder could have so wrecked and scattered her about. Some of the wreckage bore the name Princess.

Late in the afternoon the floe began to break up, and I got back to my boat. By night there were lanes of water in every direction, and a strong breeze set in from the south. I drifted to the north all that night and all the next day, but as the second night came on I was picked up by the Scotch whaler Jeannette, which had captured and was cutting in a whale, and months later was landed at her home port.

Publishers, be careful what you say if you want to keep out of trouble. Following an article appearing in the Halifax Evening Mail of the 13th inst., inferring that if the Legislature passed the bill to incorporate the Nova Scotia Power Company, the conclusion to be drawn would be that the members had been bought, it was reported that W. H. Dennis, Jr., manager of The Mail, would be called to the bar of the House and be asked to explain.

ON THE FRONTIER.

Far West Missionary Tells of Life In Undeveloped Canada.

Mr. J. M. McCormick, the head of the little army of missionaries working under the Navvy Mission in Canada, is at present in London.

"The whole manhood of Canada is being made out there on the frontiers," he says, "away from anyone who sees or anyone who cares, except, maybe, a wife or a mother or a sweetheart away in the home-land, waiting for the man pushing the steel road out on to the prairie and laying up the capital that will set him up in his farm and bring his folk out to him across the Atlantic."

In England the navvy is "the bloke what lives rough so as other people can live smooth." In Canada he is the man that faces death and disease and mutilation every day to build the lines that pay the investor's dividends. And Mr. McCormick has come home for just a little share of those dividends—say, $50,000—to send out another dozen missionaries and a few hospitals and a score or so of libraries and schools and meeting halls to the men who have left civilization behind them at the rail-head.

"Not that these men are the scum of humanity," he warns you. "Don't get thinking that. They're magnificent men, the men who are going to be the backbone of Canada. These men don't stay navvies. They work there till they can save capital to stock the 160 acres that the Government gives free to men who show proof that they can work them."

In camp the sky-pilot with his fiddle or gramophone ("canned music" in camp parlance) is no unwelcome visitor, provided he can pull off his coat and show his grit by taking his turn at navvy's work. Religion, like everything else, has no frills in the West. You get back to the elemental things—sin, and God, and prayer.

"What about drink?" Mr. McCormick was asked, as he spoke of the odds the missionary had to face.

"Drink is absolutely prohibited," he replied. "That doesn't mean that it doesn't come in. I have seen it come in in coffins, in dynamite kegs, sewn up inside of dead pigs, and hidden in casks of butter.

"I remember a crate of eggs arriving once. Every egg had been blown hollow and filled with whisky and sealed up. Those eggs sold at a dollar apiece.

"One man I knew had a pair of hollow steel corsets made, and wore them under a big coat. They were divided into two compartments, and he sold port wine out of one side and whisky out of the other. The liquor went in through a little hole at his neck and come out of a tap through a waistcoat button hole."

It is a great work, in truth, among the men who "live rough," and—as Mr. McCormick did not tell The Daily News' reporter—it takes great men to do it.—London Daily News.

The British naval maneuvers may be abandoned because "war games" are proving too expensive. But there are still the militants.

The Reason Fewer People Take "Salts'

We find the use of salts and other harsh physics is becoming less every year because more and more people are using Rexall Orderlies, which we and they firmly believe to be the best bowel remedy ever made. They taste so much like candy that even the children like them. At the same time they act so easily and naturally that there is no purging, griping or pain. They promptly remove the constipation and by soothing and strengthening the bowels, make it less liable to occur again. We have the utmost faith in them. We know what they are made of and the pleasant beneficial results that always follow their use.

You needn't take our word for it. If Rexall Orderlies don't help you—if they don't entirely relieve all your bowel troubles—come back and tell us and we'll give back your money. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50c.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores, and in this town only of us—J. S. McKeown.

NO DANGER OF JAPAN AIDING THE MEXICANS

Though Strongly in Sympathy With Them, Japanese Are Anxious to Preserve the Good-will of the United States

LONDON April 22.—(Special.)—"There is no danger and no possibility of Japan trying to take advantage of the situation in the case of the United States and Mexico," said Arthur Diosy today to a correspondent, who pointed out that the likelihood of a Japanese move against the States was one of the suggestions most frequently heard here in private discussions of the Mexican situation. Various references, more or less veiled, also appeared in the press on the same subject.

The views of Diosy, who is not only an authority as regards Japan, but also knows Mexico well, are consequently of interest. "The dispute between the United States and Mexico is watched with closest interest by the Japanese people," said Diosy, "but you may rest assured that no effort will be taken by the Japanese Government, and it will not act in any way likely to disturb the good relations existing between them and the Government of the United States.

Japan With Mexico.

"At the same time, it must be borne in mind that the sympathies of the Japanese people are with the Mexican people, not particularly with this or that President or aspirant to the Presidency with whom the country is over-run, but with the Mexicans as a nation that has shown itself friendly to Japan on every occasion. In Mexico the Japanese are welcome whether as traders or settlers. This is especially the case in the State of Chiapas, where a number of Japanese families have been encouraged to take up land and pursue agriculture. The Japanese cannot help contrasting this readiness to welcome them as a desirable element with the attitude of the white inhabitants of the Pacific slope. Whether Mexico's affection for Japan is not to a certain extent the result of Mexican ill-will toward the citizens of the United States is a question difficult to determine."

DESERONTO NEWS

The first fire that has broken out this year occurred on Saturday afternoon when the charcoal sheds of the Standard Iron Co., were completely destroyed. The plant is situated a little to the west of the town, and by the time the fire brigade reached the scene the sheds were nearly gone and the contents were burning merrily. There was some little excitement caused when a stick of dynamite which was in the building at the time exploded with a sharp report. Stories of more dynamite being lodged in the building quickly spread through the crowd, causing a scattering, until word to the contrary was learned. The fire is supposed to have originated from spontaneous combustion, the amount of coal in the sheds at the time being approximately 18,000 bushels. The damage is estimated at not over $5,000, much of the damaged charcoal being fit for use in the furnaces. All Saturday evening and Sunday the brigade were kept busy preventing the spread of the flames to the adjoining buildings, the coal burning steadily despite the occasional heavy showers. The plant, which had been closed for repairs and enlargement, had only opened on the 24th of March, the output now being double that of former years.

At a meeting of the License Commissioners of East Hastings, held here last week, the four hotel licenses were renewed and a shop license was granted to Mr. W. Woodcock, who owns a grocery store. The request for this liquor shop caused much comment, and petitions for and against were circulated prior to the meeting of the commissioners. These were presented and duly considered, resulting in the granting of the new license and the renewal of the old ones.

KING AND QUEEN ARRIVE IN PARIS

PARIS, April 22.—(Special)—King George and Queen Mary of Great Britain arrived here this evening on the tenth anniversay of the establishment of the entente cordiale between France and England. Had the visitor been Franch's ally, the Czar, instead of her friend, King George, who is making his first visit to Paris since he ascended the throne, he could not have been more heartily welcomed. Persons who have seen many royalties arrive and many public ceremonies say they have never seen the route lined with so many thousands of enthusiasts as it was to-day.

There was nothing ever seen like the crowds which thronged the streets this evening to see the illuminated decorations, which, however, failed to decorate and they gave no sign of the artistic taste with which France is generally credited. The decorations on the Avenue de L'Opera were especially ineffective while those on the Rue Royale were unfinished. The Rue de la Paix was better. It blazed with electricity, but the effect was marred to a noticeable extent by the leading dressmakers combining their advertisement with the decorations.

The police evidently did not anticipate such an out-pouring, and there was only the ordinary number for regulating traffic.

Frank Tibbet of Fredericksburg Was Arrested—Remanded to April 24th

NAPANEE, April 21.—Provincial Inspector Reburn and High Constable Von Koughnet arrested Frank Tibett, of Fredericksburg Township, on a charge of arson. He appeared before Magistrate Rankin, of Napanee, later in the day and was remanded until April 24th.

He is accused of setting fire, on March 29th, to an unoccupied cottage owned by Henry Cooper, in the township of Fredericksburg, some twenty miles from Napanee. There were circumstances which led the authorities to believe that the fire was of incendiary origin, and application was made for a provincial officer Inspector Reburn was put on the case, and after visiting Trenton, where he made an arrest in connection with a recent fire there, he went on to Fredericksburg, and the arrest of Tibbett followed

The same thing is true in advertising. Only the advertising that reaches possible buyers is worth while.

Because they can concentrate their shots and score larger proportion of hits, manufacturers are coming to use the daily newspapers more and more.

They reach consumers direct. They gain the friendship of the local dealers.

MINER IS BEATEN BY A GANG OF THREE MEN

Was Dragged Into a Shed and Hammered into Unconsciousness—Robbers Missed His Wallet

MADOC, April 21.—Lying covered with blood and in an unconscious condition, George Knight, a farmer from Springbrook, about 15 miles west of Madoc, was found in a lonely shed. He said that he was accosted by three men and at the point of a revolver was forced to accompany them in a buggy. He was driven into a shed and beaten into unconsciousness. He had a roll of money, but the robbers overlooked it, and took but one dollar. His condition is quite serious.

SEVERE STORM HITS PRESCOTT

Employee Got Chip of Iron in His Eye, Necessitating Painful Operation

PRESCOTT, Ont., April 21.—A storm of wind and rain of great severity, accompanied by thunder and lightning, passed over this place at 2 o'clock Sunday. Some damage to trees and fences has been reported in outlying districts.

Mr. J. H. Smith, an employee of the Dominion lighthouse depot here, met with a painful accident on Saturday. While engaged in chipping some iron blocks to be used in connection with the government steamer Bayfield, preparatory to her departure from this port, one of the small pieces flew in his eye and embedded itself in the eyeball. Prompt medical attention relieved him of what otherwise would have been a very serious injury.

LEGISLATION TO COMPLETE ST. JOHN VALLEY RAILWAY

FREDERICTON N.S., April 22.—(Special.)—A bill has been introduced in the legislature which makes provision for the completion of the St. John Valley Railway according to the original route planned and as per contract. According to these plans the road will come into St. John by the eastern route, across the St. John and Kennebacasis Rivers. To make this possible it has been agreed by the Dominion Government to provide the cost of the larger bridges, which will entail an outlay of $3,000,000 and to pay the interest for fifteen years. An additional bond guarantee of $10,000 per mile for the entire length of the road is to be provided.

HAZING CAUSES THE SUSPENSION OF .54

EASTON, Pa., Apr. 21—As the result of wholesale hazing, 54 members of the sophomore class of Lafayette College have been suspended indefinitely.

Seventeen other members of the class, who were present at the hazing, have been put on probation. Any violations of the college rules by them will be followed with suspension.

It is charged that the sophomores took some freshmen to a river road the night of April 10, and made them run a gauntlet, clubbing them with heavy sticks.

LEFT A LEGACY TO PURCHASE CIGARS

CHICAGO, April 21.—Oliver W. Norton, a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, has been notified of a bequest of a fund amounting to $250 to be dedicated to the purchase of cigars. The money was willed to him by Mrs. Elizabeth C. Vincent, who died recently at her home in Cincinnati. The will provides: "To Oliver W. Norton, to be expended for the best cigars he can buy, I give and bequeath $250."

Eler says he promised his wife to wear the tile on every anniversay of the wedding and has kept his word.

Booster Period Will Come to a Close April 29th—Contest Department is Open Evenings—Enter To-Day While You Have the Opportunity to Win Some Big Votes

The special "Booster" period in The Intelligencer's great contest has created widespread interest, not only in Belleville, but in all the territory in the entire district where The Intelligencer circulates. Now is the time for candidates to exert their best efforts in securing subscriptions, as never again during the contest will the subscriptions count as many votes as they will up to 10 p. m., Wednesday, April 29th.

Not Too Late to Enter

Those who have not entered the contest or who have not selected a favorite in the race, should do so at once as there is still plenty of time for new entries and all that is necessary is getting started, as that is half the battle. Once you get started and your friends find you are anxious to win the McLaughlin Buick automobile, Bell piano, or one of the other valuable prizes that are to be awarded, you will find that you will receive unsolicited support from every direction, as running in this contest is just the same as running in any other competition—every one likes to vote for a winner, and if you show that you are anxious to win your friends will feel the same way.

Every yearly subscription counts 50,000 votes, it turned into this office any time before 10 p. m. Wednesday April 29th. It is not necessary to turn in a number of subscriptions at one time, but turn them in in any amounts and you will find yourself away in the lead at the end of the Booster offer. Don't be satisfied as soon as you secure one subscription, but keep right on going, as each subscription you secure will put you that much closer to the front seat in the Buick car. All subscriptions must be in the office by 10 p. m. Wednesday, April 29th. Candidates living outside of the city will be allowed to work up to the last minute of this offer and then mail their votes in the post office by 10 p. m., Wednesday, April 29th.

PROPOSE DIVISION OF N.S. DIOCESE

CHARLOTTETOWN P.E.I April 22.—(Special.)—It is indicated by recent development in Anglican circles that the proposed division of the Nova Scotia is soon to take place. It is reported that the diocese will include the Magdalen Islands, which is now part of the Quebec diocese, the province of Prince Edward Island and the island of Cape Breton. This makes it probable that Charlottetown may become the cathedral city. As the diocese will be of a missionary nature, it will be advantageous for the bishop to make his headquarters in its centre and from Charlottetown, he could reach any point in his dioceses easly. Prince Edward Island stands in the same relation to the diocese of Nova Scotia, that Bermuda does to that of Newfoundland, under its jurisdiction, but with liberty to form a new diocese when able. It has a cathedral erected in the bishopric of Bishop Binney, which was built with this end in view. Another alternative would be the making of Sydney the cathedral city instead of Charlottetown, but this is not considered likely as Sydney is too far distant from the sections of the proposed diocese, which will need much attention and travel from its bishop.

PROBABLE WAR FULLY DISCOUNTED

The Financial News Bureau says: Comment in financial circles is naturally concentrated on the Merican crisis and the market probabilities if war should occur between the United States and the Central American republic. Two opinions are heard, first, that war would be a bull card and, second, that it would send the market careening down for a time, but for a time only.

Traders who adopt the first attitude base their ideas on the assertion that the one thing the New York market requires in the clearing-up of the uncertainity, and that war has been fully discounted.

Parties who take the other view point call attention to the fact that the market is in no shape to resist bear pressure, and that, while to relieve the uncertainity would be to remove one of the main elements of gloom, the panicky feeling which would follow an outbreak of hostslities would have a temporary effect that would easily make itself felt.

DIAMONDS DISCOVERED IN NEW ONTARIO

Bureau of Mines Discovered Microscopic Diamonds—Platinum Also

TORONTO, April 21.—From a report issued yesterday by the Bureau of Mines the existence of microscopic diamonds in Ontario has been authentically established. The report also states that platinum to the value of $1,250 has been found in rocks that have been assayed to ascertain the presence of chrome iron ore.

"Recently the provincial geologist of Ontario, Mr. W. G. Miller," reads the statement of the Department, "submitted a sample of chromiferous ore from the Porcupine country to Mr. Johnston for examination for diamonds. Mr. Johnston reports that numerous very minute microscopic diamonds occur in this ore. These diamonds, while of no apparent economic value, are of course of great scientific interest, especially as they represent the first authentic discovery of diamonds in the province."

45 DEAD IN 14-HOUR BATTLE OF TROOPS AND STRIKERS

Militia Shoot into Mob of Coal Miners Majority of the Victims Being Women and Children

TRINIDAD, Colo., April 22.—Special—Forty-five dead, more than two-thirds of them women and children, a score missing, and more than twenty wounded is the toll in the tragedy and death known tonight to have been taken by the fourteen-hour battle which raged with uninterrupted fury between State troops and striking coal miners in the Ludlow district today.

With arms ready, both sides after a day of ominous quiet, now await the coming of dawn, when, it is forecasted, the battle will be resumed with greater bloodshed than that which has occurred.

The militia, which yesterday drove the strikers from their tent colony and, it is charged, fired it, thereby involving the greatest loss of life, are preparing for a machine-gun sortie at daybreak from their position along the Colorado and Southern Railroad tracks, at either side of the Ludlow station.

On the surrounding hills, sheltered by rocks and boulders, 400 strikers await their coming, while their ranks are being swelled by grim-faced men, who tramped overland, carrying guns and ammunition from the neighboring union camps.

Italian, Greek and Austrian miners have appealed to their consular representatives for protection, and John McLennan, president of the local union district, today wired the Red Cross in Denver to be prepared to render aid.

MAIN ESTIMATES DOWN

Final Vote of Present Session Tabled in Legislature.

Present Estimates Call For $9,810,749, Which Is a Slight Increase Over Main Figures a Year Ago—Hon. Mr. Beck Explains Hydro Details — Bill Regarding Workmen's Debts Is Thrown Out.

TORONTO, April 22.—Main estimates for 1914-15, which were tabled in the Legislature yesterday, call for an expenditure of $9,810,749. Compared with the main estimates for 1913-14 there is no great change, the principal amounts being on account of capital expenditures. The main estimates passed a year ago amounted to $9,524,387. Altogether the Legislature will be called upon to vote this session in respect of the requirements of the province for the two fiscal years $27,248,488.

The vote for civil government, which consists of salaries and contingencies, is $839,084, compared with $853,185 last year. For legislation the amount is $307,100, a decrease of $27,000. In the Attorney-General's Department the vote for the administration of justice is $786,268, as compared with $882,710 in 1913-14.

For education the vote is $2,226,052, as against $2,240,825 a year ago. Public institutions maintenance gets a sum of $1,560,047, a decrease of $13,000. In this connection there is a vote of $12,000 for the maintenance of the Reception Hospital for Insane at Toronto. There is a vote of $6,000 in the further supplementary estimates for the current year, which will carry this work on for the current six months. For agriculture $756,766; 1913-14, $766,664.

In the grant for colonization and immigration, which is $122,800, as against $126,201 a year ago, the vote of $15,000 for bonuses to concerns bringing out domestic servants is reduced to $5,000, while the vote for assisting settlers in New Ontario is increased by $10,000, the amount now being $35,000.

For the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, in respect of general services, there is a vote of $200,000.

The labor interests of the province won a point yesterday when the local committee of the Legislature threw out the Dargavel bill, which would make one-half the indebtedness of a laboring man subject to garnishee. The present law fixes the limit of $25, which is to be exempt from any such proceeding, but the new measure would work out very seriously against the man of low wages who has serious outstanding bills against him.

The ticket scalpers' bill of George Gooderham, which prevents the sale of tickets except by authorized agents, in which case the commission must not exceed 25 cents apiece, was also adopted by the committee.

The Opposition took a last stand against the further expenditure of $125,000 for Government House, but on the declaration of Hon. Dr. Reaume that the result would be a credit to the province from every standpoint, the motion of criticism was lost. C. M. Bowman said that it was a wanton expenditure of public money and poked scorn at the elaborate fittings. He was followed by Messrs. Mageau, McDonald, Monro and Proudfoot, each of whom repudiated such an amount of money being used.

Two Government bills, brought in by Hon. Messrs. Hanna and Pyne respectively, provide for further amendments to the Municipal Act and for permissive legislation allowing city school boards to establish special classes for defective children who cannot now secure a proper education along with normal scholars.

Expansion of the Hydro-Electric power scheme to large dimensions was indicated by Hon. Adam Beck in the Legislature in giving details of the various expenditures for which a vote of $5,000,000 in the further supplementary estimates was required. The commission would no longer be a middleman but would enter upon the development of power on a large scale.

There was no criticism from the Opposition on the merits of the various works to be carried out, but Mr. Hugh Munro (Glengarry) took the ground that the whole amount required should not be voted in a lump sum, but that the resolution should contain the actual estimates that Mr. Beck and Col Hendrie had given to the House in order that the members should know how much was intended to be devoted to each particular piece of work.

LOST HIS BEARINGS

Capt. Harry Day of this city, who is recognized as a mariner of no mean repute, and who is regarded as a person knowing every bar which exists on the Bay of Quinte, from Nigger Island to Big Bay, on Saturday evening last lost his bearings and as a result was temporarily stranded. Harry was in command of a motor boat owned by a well known gentleman of this city and was guiding the craft from Snake Island eatward when he went high and dry on Ship Island. The result was that all the flanges of the motor craft were broken and the boat was in such a condition that it was at the mercy of the waves, which fortunately were not high at the time. Capt. Day, after considerable difficulty, by the aid of a paddle reached Massassaga Park dock and he was compelled to remain there some hours much to the discomfort of his friends whom he left at Grape Island. It is reported that hereafter Capt. Day will carry with him a chart of the way, which will enable him to ascertain the latitude he is in and thus avoid any bars or reefs.

MOYES MUST APPEAR.

Promoter of West Shore Ry. Will Be Examined on May 1st.

TORONTO, April 22. — J. W. Moyes, the man four western Ontario municipalities have waited long months to question regarding the Ontario West Shore Railway, will appear before the Ontario Railway Board on May 1. This assurance was given yesterday by T. Herbert Lennox, his solicitor, who said Moyes was almost recovered from his very tedious sickness. And the additional information by Chairman McIntyre was that in case he did not appear, and the board was not thoroughly satisfied that sickness was the sole cause of his absence, a subpoena would be issued, and if not effective Moyes would be committed.

P. A. Malcolmson, solicitor for Kincardine, went to the extent of asking that Moyes be ordered either to appear at once or produce the unguaranteed bonds.

The Ontario and West Shore bill passed the committee stage in the Legislature yesterday with some important amendments. It now provides that whatever control J. W. Moyes had in the road be taken away from him and transferred to a board of trustees, who shall complete it.

RISING IS FEARED.

Many Believe Indian Anarchy In Mexico Will Follow Invasion.

LONDON, April 22—Luigi Barzini, in a despatch from Mexico City to The Daily Telegraph, says that the conviction of authoritative Americans living in Mexico is that the moment for intervention by the United States seems to have been well chosen, when one thinks of the terrible struggle which Mexico is carrying on against the revolution, a struggle which engages all the Government forces for the maintenance of order. But if the defence of the towns should be disorganized by the new struggle against the foreigners, in the opinion of many observers, a period of terrible Indian anarchy is possible. The Indian revolt of Morelon is now clamoring at the very gates of the capital and the Indians of Sierra de Puebla are being held back with difficulty. The mob in the capital itself might rise in revolt, disregarding military organization. All the houses are being armed. The foreign legations have rifles, ammunition and food, and the foreign colonies are making arrangements for eventual defence.

PARTY LEADERS CLASH.

Mr. Bonar Law Demands an Enquiry Into Ulster Affair.

LONDON, April 22. — A stormy scene was created in the House of Commons yesterday, when Mr. Bonar Law, the leader of the Opposition, demanded a judicial enquiry into the naval and military movements recently contemplated by the Government in Ulster. The Unionists charged that these movements constituted a plot to provoke a rising in Ulster.

Premier Asquith refused a judicial enquiry, as he said the charges had been proved false, but challenged Mr. Law to make any accusations he wished to make in the House itself, when he would be given the fullest opportunity for discussion.

Amid the cheers and angry shouts of their supporters, the two leaders took their places alternately at the table, challenging each other.

Uproar followed Mr. Law's declaration that the statements by Premier Asquith and his colleagues had been proved untrue.

The scene ended when, amid Ministerial cries of "Take you day for discussion," Mr. Law said that after he had seen what the promised white paper contained, he would consider what steps it was worth while to take.

Former Masonic Temple Destroyed With Loss of $300,000.

LONDON, Ont., April 22. — Fire discovered about two minutes to three yesterday morning totally destroyed the Dominion Savings Association Building, formerly the Masonic Temple, at King and Richmond streets. Luke Tucker, the caretaker, and Mrs. Augusta Russon, his housekeeper, escaped by the fire escape from the third floor, when aroused by the smoke.

The loss on the building will total around $200,000, and according to T. H. Purdom, K.C., president of the company, is covered by insurance. The loss to the tenants will not run over $100,000.

The building contained the head offices of the Northern Life Insurance Co., the quarters of the Western Fair News Association, the Knights of the Maccabees and the Woodmen of the World, all of which lost valuable papers. The News Association had 10,000 maps and 8,000 letters in connection with this year's exhibition ready for mailing.

What to Do For Sore Throat

SOME GOOD ADVICE BY A SPECIALIST.

As there seems to be a regular epidemic of Sore Throats this winter, the following valuable recipe will be welcomed by many. A sore throat is a dangerous complaint to trifle with, as the bronchial tubes lead directly to the lungs and the disease often travels along these tubes into the lungs and there sets up an inflammation that invariably results in serious lung trouble.

At the first sign of soreness in the throat or around the tonsils you should secure from your chemist 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength) and take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 1 oz. of moist sugar. Stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will give instant relief and will usually cure the worst throat within 48 hours. The healing and soothing of this formula are unequalled and every person suffering with a bad throat should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Important.—In ordering Parmint always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c to the International Laboratories 71 St. Antoine St., Montreal, who make a specialty of it.

FOUR MARINES ARE KILLED

Admiral Fletcher Takes Vera Cruz and Seizes Customs House

First Blow In Punitive Measures Against Huerta Results In Four Dead and Twenty Wounded—Actual War May Be the Next Step—Garrison Hopes This Will Be the Last Clash.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 22.—Four United States marines killed and twenty wounded.

These are the known casualties which accompanied the landing of United States forces from the fleet of Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher at Vera Cruz, Mexico, and the seizure of the customs house there last evening.

The casualties may be greater. Admiral Fletcher in his report of the landing stated that desultory firing from house tops and streets by Mexican federal soldiers was in progress.

Admiral Fletcher added that the guns of the naval transport Prairie were shelling the Mexicans out of their positions. It is presumed here that the Mexicans are retreating up the line of the railroad which runs to Mexico City.

Admiral Fletcher will not attempt to pursue the Mexicans. He will establish his base at Vera Cruz and hold it. The foregoing is the initial step and first cost in the act of reprisal against Gen. Victoriano Huerta, dictator of Mexico, for his indignities to the United States.

What the next step will be whether one of war or just a mere seizure of the customs house and the holding of the same, only events can determine.

In the light of the attack from the Huertaist forces the next step may be actual war, at least with one Mexican faction.

The news that Admiral Fletcher had landed a force of marines at Vera Cruz and seized the customs house there was received by Secretary of the Navy Daniels at six o'clock. The despatch stated:

"Tuesday, in face of an approaching norther, landed marines and sailors from the Utah, Florida and Prairie and seized customs house. Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire with rifle and artillery after our seizure of custom house. Prairie shelling Mexicans out of their positions. Desultory firing from housetops and streets. Hold custom house and section of city in vicinity of wharves and consulate. Casualties four dead and twenty wounded."

When this statement had been issued Secretaries Daniels and Garrison left the White House.

"I hope it is all over," said Mr. Garrison. "I think they fired to save their faces in retreat. I do not expect any more."

Startling was the news contained in the despatch even to those officials who were familiar with the administration's plans and were prepared to receive such tidings, and despite the continued circulation of reports throughout the military departments of the Government after two o'clock yesterday afternoon that something big had happened in Mexican waters.

Immediately the Congressmen took the news to the capitol, after which there were hurried conferences. With this information went the report that President Wilson did not care what Congress did with the resolution which was introduced in the House Monday which he desired should be adopted that night, and which was still being held up in the Senate by Republican members. Consternation seemed to strike those members responsible for the delay in the passage of the resolution in the Senate. It dawned upon them that they had not taken the President's counsellors at their word when they said that a big shipment of arms and ammunition was on its way to Huerta on the Hamburg-American steamer Iraquant, and that the seizure of the customs house at Vera Cruz before last night was absolutely necessary to prevent that shipment of arms and ammunition from being delivered.

President Wilson, they admitted, did know this, as well as the fact that the arms, while going to Huerta, from a German port and from a German firm, were American made.

PLANS DECIDED ON.

Toronto's Union Station Is Finally Nearing a Start.

MONTREAL, April 22—The Grand Trunk and C. P. R. have now decided on the plans for the Toronto Union Station, which, it is estimated, will cost between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

They will be submitted to the Dominion Railway Board about May 15, and when accepted the werk will proceed at once.

Information to this effect has been given out by the Grand Trunk Railway officials, who point out that the cost of the viaduct, which is a part of the big terminal scheme for Toronto, is not included in the figures quoted.

The viaduct, which will cost $3,000,000, will be a matter for later consideration.

Railway officials who have seen the plans for the station say, when finished, the depot will be the finest of its kind in the Dominion.

FINANCE MINISTER'S CHALLENEG

"I have no exception to take to Sir Wilfrid Laurier espousing a policy of free trade," said Hon. W. T. White, in the course of his budget speech. "I simply desire to say this—that we on this side of the House are ready to accept that gage of battle whenever he chooses to lay it down."

It was evident from the remarks of the Minister of Finance throughout his admirable deliverance upon the financial and trade policy of the Government that he welcomed the commitment of the Liberal party to the principle of free trade. That issue has been fought out over and over again in Canada, and the Conservative party, with its policy of moderate protection for agriculture and industries where they are threatened with their existence by the unfair competition of foreign countries, has repeatedly been endorsed by the people.

The Liberal party has had its opportunity to lower the tariff. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has conceived his "free food" policy, was fifteen years in office, and during all those years he left the National Policy undisturbed. He saw that to touch it would injure this country and kill his party.

There is no doubt that the free trade policy of the Liberal party has caused infinite trouble in the ranks of the Liberals. They are not all free traders, far from it, and on the question of tariff many of them are entirely at one with the policy of the Conservatives which was initiated by Sir John Macdonald, namely, a moderate protection to suit the needs of the country. Several of them have admitted that the logic of the Minister of Finance is unanswerable.

CURRENT COMMENT

Some millions have been added to the national debt to pay the bills left behind by the Laurier Government, but the debt is still six millions below the figure at which Laurier, Fielding & Co. left it.

• • •

By protecting the farmer's home market you benefit the farmer. By lowering the cost of the farmer's raw materials and the cost of his plant, you reduce the cost of living. The new budget does both.

• • •

Hon. Charles Murphy's constituents in Russell are protesting against the merging of Prescott and Russell, but speaking generally and on the whole, they do not seem to be backed by public opinion other than what is contributed by Mr. Murphy.

• • •

The Finance Minister comes through a period of great financial stringency with a surplus of thirty-six millions and a half. If the Laurier Government had been in power the balance would have been on the other side of the book.

• • •

Canada has concluded a year of unequalled trade expansion. She increased her purchases from other nations, but she very much increased her sales to them. The total was well over the thousand million mark. How is that for a year when the rest of the world was nearly standing still?

• • •

When Laurier launched his Transcontinental Railway project he declared that Canadian wheat must be transported to ocean ports through Canada in order to preserve its identity. Now he wants to send it all to the United States mills and have no such thing as Canadian wheat or wheat flour.

• • •

Canada's credit is suffering because of the continued hesitation of the Borden Government in appointing a High Commissioner, says Mr. H. J. Logan, who is fresh from London. But why is Logan in such a hurry? Does he want the job?

• • • •

New York Mail: "At the close of the service a certain minister in New York city said: "Brethren, I have been earnestly trying to reach the poor of New York and have been urgently inviting them to come to church. I infer from the amount of the collection just taken—$3.75—that they have come!" And some of them have landed in Belleville.

• • •

The Erie Despatch contains a news item to the effect that a tomb stone was discovered deep in the ground where excavations were being made for a large new building. The stone doubtless marked the remains of one who was trying to get in on the ground floor, and goes to show that as far back as 1835 politics in the United States was well established.

• • •

Guelph Mercury: "Mr. C. A. McGrath, who acted as chairman of the Provincial Highways Commission, will not accept pay for his services. The rumor that Lynch-Staunton, in connection with the partisan work he did for the Transcontinental, would adopt a similar course and refuse pay, has not been confirmed." If the Laurier administration had continued another two years there would be no pay to get.

• • •

Montreal Star: "Some daring prophet has announced that this week will see at Ottawa a definite announcement of the Liberal party's fiscal policy. It will be "some" economic statement which reconciles the protection of Mr. E. M. Macdonald with the Free Trade of Dr. Michael Clark." All right; we'll look forward to the announcement with interest. But we will wager a nickel "Mac" puts up the stiffest argument.

• • •

Herald Telegraph: "Just as Great Britain has always been "going to the dogs" and has never got there, so when cycles of trade depression strike this continent, people both north and south of the international boundary are apt to say that the golden age of this country has gone, and henceforth there is nothing to do but grub along with no more opportunity than confronts the people of "the effete east." And reasonably rich grubbing there is in some spots.

WOULD UNDO WORK OF CONFEDERATION

The Canadian people have expended $90,000,000 in cold cash upon the St. Lawrence waterway.

They have expended $16,000,000 to construct the channel to Montreal.

They have expended $180,000,000 on the Quebec Bridge and the National Transcontinental.

They have expended $50,000,000 on the Canadian Northern Railway.

They have expended $40,000,000 on our national ports.

They have expended $10,000,000 on the Hudson Bay Railway.

Why was this enormous amount of money, which is equal to the national debt of Canada—$386,000,000—expended in such great national enterprises?

It was expended in order that this Canadian Confederacy would fulfill the hopes and realize the dreams of the men who sacrificed so much at the cradle of its infancy—that we might make trade east and west possible to achieve, that the majestic St. Lawrence might become the gateway to the Old World beyond the seas, which nature intended it should be.

It is this great fabric which we have builded, the dreams which we are beginning to realize, that the Liberal party would today destroy.

Free trade with the United States in natural products, free wheat, would make our great national undertakings collosal failures—our great Transcontinentals mere ribbons of rusty steel.

It would undo the work and shatter the hopes of the Fathers of Confederation, make us hewers of wood and drawers of water for the people of the United States.

Why Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Scientific Reports.—April.—Acid in the stomach is dangerous and frequently fatal, because acid from its corrosive nature has a natural tendency to destroy the mucous lining of the stomach itself. No one intentionally swallows hydrochloric acid, but it is often present in large quantities at the result of food fermentation, in the stomach resulting from the chemical action, which so frequently follows the eating of the daintiest and most tasty foods or the indulgence in any form of alcoholic stimulants, including beer, wine, liquers, etc. This fermentation causes pain, uneasiness and discomfort because of the acid which burns like a red-hot iron, and the formation of gas which distends the stomach causing shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. The trouble being entirely due to the unnatural condition of stomach contents, and not in any way to the fault of the stomach itself, physicians have adopted with marvellous success the plan of neutralizing the acid and stopping the fermentation by means of one teaspoonful of simple bisurated magnesia taken in a little water immediately after eating or whenever discomfort is felt. The immediate relief following the use of bisurated magnesia is striking proof of the contention of medical men that failure to digest food properly is almost invariably due to the acid condition of food contents, and in no way the fault of the stomach or vital organs.

SPRING FISHING

According to advertisements all fishing resorts are alike, they are the best ever, but if fishing is better anywhere than it is in Algonquin Park, we do not know where it is. There is a great variety of fish in these waters and they are always hungry. The one place where you can afford to fish is where the fish are numerous, big and delicious in flavor, and that point Algonquin Provincial (Ontario) Park, so the fishermen say. Speckled trout may be caught after May 1st and the open season for salmon trout is from December 1st to October 31st the following year. Drop a line to Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont., for booklet and all particulars or get in touch with Grand Trung Agents. As this territory is a popular one for Spring fishing, write early to secure accommodation.

FARMERS, READ THIS!

Since 1878 the duty on agricultural implements has been reduced from 35 per cent. to 12½ per cent.

Of that reduction Conservative governments have made

20 PER CENT.

And the Liberals

ONLY 2½ PER CENT.

Thus the Conservatives have done eight times more for the farmers than the Liberals.

Mrs. Kate D. Richardson, of Beazley, Essex Co., Va., says, "I esteem it a pleasure to testify to the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For some years I suffered greatly with weakness. I was treated by several physicians but gradually grew worse. One of my friends told me of the good results of your "Favorite Prescription." I went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking it, with the "Pleasant Pellets," I commenced to get better. I never knew what happiness was, for I was always sick and complaining and made others as well as myself unhappy. So you see what a debt I owe you!"

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of
"Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

His small black eyes flashed and sparkled as he laughed. Reginald looked at him with a sensation that was almost

"What a fellow you are, Carrington!" he exclaimed; "you don't pretend even to have a heart."

"A heart is a luxury which a poor man must dispense with", answered Victor, with perfect sang froid. "I should as soon think of setting up a mail-phaeton and pair as of pretending to benevolent feelings or high-flown sentiments. I have my way to make in the world, Mr. Eversleigh, and must consider my own interests as well as those of my friends. You see, I am no hypocrite. You need not be alarmed, dear boy. I'll help you, and you will help me; and it shall go hard if you are not restored to your uncle's favor before the year is out. But you must be patient. Our work will be slow, for we shall have to work underground. If Sir Oswald is still in Arlington street, I shall make it my business to see Mr. Millard to-morrow."

* * * * *

Sir Oswald Eversleigh had not left Arlington Street, and at dusk on the following evening Mr. Carrington presented himself at the door of the baronet's mansion, and asked to see Mr. Millard, the valet.

Victor Carrington had never seen his friends kinsman; he was therefore secure against all chances of recognition. He had chosen the baronet's dinner-hour as the time for his call, knowing that during that hour the valet must be disengaged. He sent his card to Mr. Millard, with a line written in pencil to request an interview on urgent business.

Millard came to the hall at once to see his visitor, and ushered Mr. Carrington into a small room that was used occasionally by the upper servants.

The surgeon was skilled in every science by which a man may purchase the hearts and minds of his fellow-men. He could read Sir Oswald Eversleigh's valet as he could read an open book. He saw that the man was weak, irresolute, tolerably honest, but open to temptation. He was a middle-aged man, with sandy hair, a pale face, and light, greenish-gray eyes.

"Weak", thought the surgeon, as he examined this man's countenance, "greedy, and avaricious. So, so; we can do what we like with Mr. Millard."

Victor Carrington told the valet that he was the most intimate friend of Reginald Eversleigh, and that he made this visit entirely without the gentleman's knowledge. He dwelt much upon Mr. Eversleigh's grief—his despair.

"But he is very proud", he added; "too proud to approach this house, either directly or indirectly. The shock caused by his uncle's unexpected abandonment of him has completely prostrated him. I am a member of the medical profession, Mr. Millard, and I assure you that during the past fortnight I have almost feared for my friend's reason. I therefore determined upon a desperate step—a step which Reginald Eversleigh would never forgive, were he to become aware of it. I determined upon coming to this house, and ascertaining, if possible, the nature of Sir Oswald's feelings towords his nephew. Is there any hope of a reconciliation?"

"I'm afraid not, sir."

"That's a bad thing", said Victor, gravely; "a very bad thing. A vast estate is at stake. It would be a bad thing for every one if that estate were to pass into strange hands—a very bad thing for old servants, for with strangers all old links are broken. It would be a still worse thing for every one if Sir Oswald should take it into his head to marry."

The valet looked very grave.

"If you had said such a thing to me a fortnight ago, I should have told you it was impossible", he said; "but now——."

"Now, what do you say?"

"Well, sir, you're a gentleman, and of course, you can keep a secret; so I'll tell you candidly that nothing my master could do would surprise me after what I've seen within the last fortnight."

This was quite enough for Victor Carrington, who did not leave Arlington street until he had extorted from the valet the enire hisory of the baronet's adoption of the ballad-singer.

CHAPTER VI
Auld Rebin Gray

A year and some months had passed, and the midsummer sunlight shone upon the woods around Raynham Castle.

It was a grand pile of building, blackened by the darkening hand of time. At one end Norman towers loomed, round and grim; at another extrimity the light tracery of a Gothic era was visible in window, and archways, turret and tower. The centre had been rebuilt in the reign of Henry VIII., and a long range of noble Tudor windows looked out upon the broad terrace, beyond which there was a garden, or pleasaunce, sloping down to the park. In the centre of this long facade there was an archway, opening into a stone quadrangle, where a fountain played perpetually in a marble basin.

This was Raynham Castle, and all the woods and pastures as far as the eye could reach, and far beyond the reach of any human eye, belonged to the castle estate. This was the fair domain of which Reginald Eversleigh had been for years the acknowledged heir, and which his own folly and dishonor had forfeited.

Now all was changed. There was not a peasant in Raynham village who had not as much right to enter the castle, and as good a chance of a welcome, as he who had once been acknowledged heir to that proud domain. It was scarcely strange if Reginald versleigh felt this bitter change very keenly.

He had placed himself entirely in the hands of his friend and adviser, ictor Carrington. He had sold out of the cavalry regiment, and had taken up his abode in a modest lodging, situated in a small street at the West-end of London. Here he had tried to live quietly, according to his friend's advice; but he was too much the slave of his own follies and vices to endure a quiet existence.

The sale of his commission made him rich for the time being; and, so long as his money lasted, he pursued the old course, betting, playing billiards, haunting all the aristocratic temples of folly and dissipation; but, at the worst, conducting himself with greater caution than he had done of old, and always allowing himself to be held somewhat in beck by his prudent ally and counsellor.

"Enjoy yourself as much as you please, my dear Reginald," said Victor Carrington; "but take care that your little follies don't reach the ears of your uncle. Remember, I count upon you being reconciled to him before the year is out."

"That will never be", answered Mr. Eversleigh, with a tone of sullen despair. "I am a doomed wretch, a beggar for life, and the sooner I throw myself over one of the bridges, and make an end of my miserable existence, the better. According to Millard's account my uncle's infatuation for that singing-girl grows stronger and stronger. Not a week now passes without his visiting the school where the young adventuress is finishing her education. As sure as fate, it will end by his marrying her, and the street ballad-singer will be my Lady Eversleigh."

"And when she is my Lady Eversleigh, it must be our business to step between her and the Eversleigh estates," answered Victor, quietly. "I told you that your uncle's marriage would be an unlucky thing for you; but I never told you that it would put an end to your chances. I think, from what Millard tells us, there is very little doubt Sir Oswald will marry this girl. If he does, we must set our wits to work to prevent his leaving her his fortune. She is utterly friendless and obscure, so he is not likely to make any settlement upon her. And for the rest, a man of fifty who marries a girl of nineteen is very apt to repent his folly. It must be our business to make your uncle repent very soon after he has taken the fatal step."

"I don't understand you, Carrington."

"My dear Eversleigh, you very seldom do understand me", answered the surgeon, in that half-contemptuous tone in which he was apt to address his friend; "but that is not of smallest consequence. Only do what I tell you, and leave the rest to me. You shall be lord of Raynham Castle yet, if my wits are good for anything."

* * * * *

A year had elapsed, which had been passed by Sir Oswald between Raynham Castle and Arlington street, and during which he had paid more visits than he could count to "The Beeches."

On the occasion of these visits, he only saw his protegee for about a quarter of an hour, while the stately Miss Beaumont looked on, smiling a dignified smile upon her pupil and the liberal patron who paid so handsomely for that pupil's education. She had always a good account to give of Sir Oswald's protegee—there never was so much talent united to so much industry, according to Miss Beaumont's report. Sometimes Sir Oswald begged to hear Miss Milford sing, and Honoria seated herself at the piano, over whose notes her white fingers seemed to have already acquired perfect comamnd.

The rich soprano voice had attained new power since Sir Oswald had heard it in the moonlit market-place; the execution of the singer improved day by day. The Italian singing master spoke in raptures of his pupil—never was there a finer organ or more talent. Miss Milford could not fail to create a profound impression when her musical education should be completed, and she should appear before the public.

But as the year drew to its close, Sir Oswald Eversleigh talked less and less of that public career for which he had destined his protegee. He no longer reminded her that her own industry depended her future fortune. He no longer spoke in glowing terms of that brilliant pathway which lay before her. His manner was entirely changed, and he was grave and silent whenever any allusion was made by Miss Beaumont or Honoria to the future use which was to be made of that superb voice and exceptional genius.

A DIRECT AND MOST EFFECTIVE TREATMENT For Cold in the Head and Catarrh

Some internal remedies, such as Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, undoubtedly help a great deal in checking a cold in the head. But you get the quickest action from Fossal Balm.

This is applied directly and conveniently through the new nozzle-shaped end of the collapsible tube in which it is put up. This little nozzle reaches well up into the nostril, and a gentle squeeze on the tube discharges enough of the Fossal Balm to spread over the membrane lining the nasal passages, kill the germs of the cold or catarrh, soothe the smarting inflammation, make breathing through the nostrils free and easy, and check the cold or relieve the catarrh at once.

The fact that this new means of applying the Fossal Balm is so handy, and gets it right up where it is needed, adds much to the value of this splendid remedy.

CANNOT COME BACK SAYS PRESIDENT BARROW

New York, April 21.—Although the Federal League has taken a large number of players from the International League President Barrow, of the International League, said today that not one of his club owners would be permitted to take back a single player who has jumped. He said:

"International League players who have taken part in any Federal League game are through with our league for all time, and cannot come back under any conditions. They have preferred the Federal League to the International and they must win or fall with it.

"Several clubs in our league have under consideration a lawsuit against the Federal League for interfering with their property, but the league will not attempt in any way to seek the return of any of the players who jumped from the International League.

THORPE NOT FOR THE LEAFS

New York, April 21.—The Tribune says: Reports that the Giants have released Jim Thorpe, the Olympic hero, and Bunny Hearne, the young scuthpaw to the Maple Leafs are somewhat premature. For that matter there is hardly going to Toronto at all. Secretary Foster of the Giants said today that the Indian has a term contract with the Giants and McGraw has no intention of sending him to the minors. McGraw took a liking to Thorpe's work on the trip around the world and still has faith in his ability to make good in the big leagues. While Hearne has not been released yet, it is probable he will be sent to Toronto shortly. McGraw is well stocked with pitchers and another year in the minors will do Bunny lots of good.

MEXICANS OPPOSE LANDING OF UNITED STATES MARINES

Main Body of Huerta's Troops are Retreating to the Westward After Obstinate Stand Against the U.S. Forces--Civilians Believed to Have Done Most of the Later Fighting in the Streets

VERÁ CRUZ, April 22. — Vera Cruz last night was in the hands of forces from the United States warships, but the occupation of the port was not accomplished without loss of American lives.

Four Americans, bluejackets, and marines, were killed by the fire of the Mexicans, and twenty-one fell wounded. The Mexican loss is not known, but it is believed to have been heavy.

The waterfront, the Customs House, and all important piers, including those under the terminal works, from which extend the railways to the capital, have been occupied. All the territory around the American Consulate is strongly patrolled and detachments hold other sections of the city.

The Mexican commander, Gen. Gustavo Maas, offered a stubborn resistance to the American advance, and for many hours there was fighting in the streets. Toward nightfall it was reported that the main body of the Federal garrison was in retreat to the westward.

Rear-Admiral Fletcher, in command of the United States warships, prefaced his occupation of the port by a demand, through the American Consul, W. W. Canada, for its surrender. Gen. Maas promptly declined to accede to this demand, and shortly afterward ten whaleboats were sent off from the side of the transport Prairie, loaded with marines. These boats effected a landing in the neighborhood of the Customs House before noon, and a few minutes later Captain William R. Rush of the battleship Florida, who was in command of the operations, brought his flag in.

The coming of the American forces was not heralded by any great excitement, but small crowds gathered to watch the landing. Soon the bluejackets and marines marched through the streets leading from the waterfront and along the railroad yards. Others proceeded to the American Consualte, while still others were deployed along the approaches to Central Plaza, in which Gen. Maas had concentrated his men.

These manoeuvres were effected without opposition, but suddenly Gen. Maas challenged the advance with the first shots—a volley fired from a point three blocks from the marines and two blocks south of the main plaza. The marines replied immediately, but the action ceased in a moment. There was a lull for ten minutes and then another brief exchange from the west end of Montesinos street, where a Federal outpost was stationed.

At 12.30 the firing became general, and at one o'clock the guns of the Prairie went into action.

After Gen. Maas had been driven from his position in Central Plaza, the Americans found themselves the object of fusilades from the tops of houses, where small groups of soldiers and citizens had taken up positions. It was learned only last night that the greater part of those engaged in this resistance were civilians, who refused to accept the American occupation passively. They obtained guns and stationed themselves at points of vantage and did much to prolong the action.

Towards the middle of the afternoon a large body of Mexicans evacuated their position and are now somewhere in the sand hills back in the interior, where it is reported from Mexican sources they are expecting to be joined by reinforcements sent down from the capital.

Two Hundred Mexicans Killed.

GALVESTON, Texas, April 22.—More than 200 Mexicans were killed at Vera Cruz yesterday in the fighting that followed the landing of U. S. sailors and marines, according to information received at the cable office here.

Vessel Arrives Too Late.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Official advices reached the Navy Department at midnight that a German vessel carrying ammunition to Huerta, finding on arrival that the Vera Cruz customs house was in possession of Americans, anchored outside the harbor. The vessel, Secretary Daniels says, carries 15,000,000 rounds of shells, mostly for rapid fire guns, and 200 field guns.

Fifteen Cavalrymen Held.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 22.—A special to the Douglas, Ariz., International from Tombstone, Ariz., says news reached there yesterday that 15 members of troop B, tenth cavalry, were being held by constitutionalist troops at a point just below the border between Naco and Hereford, Ariz.

The troops, who were on border patrol, wandered across the line on Monday night without being aware of the fact. It is reported they were surrounded and taken prisoners by a large rebel detachment.

Troop A, tenth, left Fort Huachuca yesterday to investigate.

SOME FUTURE EVENTS

The Prophecies Made by Frau Nelly Von Heyman

BERLIN, April 21.—Interesting to these who believe in occult revelations are the prophecies of future events made by Frau Nelly von Heyman, of Bremen, the "Madame Thebes" of Germany.

Frau von Heyman has attracted much attention as a seeress, and like Mme. Thebes, of Paris, is consulted by persons high in social, political and financial circles of Germany, and has won favor by her predictions of political events. As her name indicates, she belongs to the so-called "lesser nobility," and is a woman of education. Like Mme Thebis, of Paris, Frau von Heyman once a year issues a series of world prophecies, but she is more conservative than the French seeress.

Among the prophecies just issued by Frau von Heyman for this year are the following:

"It will not soon come to war between America and Japan, but there will be much controversy and a serious disagreement, long-drawn out. Japan eventually will give way but should America lose her rudder, then will come confusion."

"Germany will make an alliance with England during 1914.

"Germany will lose much this fall and weep many tears.

"Three monarchs will die during 1914.

"It can be said that no European war is approaching in 1914.

"There will be four earthquakes in Europe during the year.

"There will be rapid development in aerial navigation, but also many deaths. The ocean will not be crossed by airship or aeroplane during the year. Zeppelin will lose his principal airship."

The Conservation Commission and City Planning Association will hold a big convention in Toronto.

April 29, has been selected for a meeting of the Hydro-Radial Union of the Stratford district. The gathering will be held in Stratford in the afternoon.

Messrs. L. M. Hayes, K.C., of Peterboro, and Anson Spotton of Harriston, were sworn in at Guelph as Senior and Junior Judges of Wellington County.

A. Gundry, M. A., principal of Strathroy Collegiate Institute, has been appointed to fill the principalship of Galt Collegiate Institute, vacant by the resignation of Thomas Carscadden.

Ingersoll Boy Scouts gave a fine display at their fourth annual concert, which was attended by Lieutenant-Governor Sir John M. Gibson, Provincial Secretary H. G. Hammond, Provincial Commissioner W. K. George, and others.

Mr. Andrew Creig is killed and William Davidson is critically injured as a result of an accident near Wiarton last night. They were driving a blind horse, took the wrong turn at the top of the hill and drove back over the rock, falling about 15 feet.

His dearest wish was once to be
A happy multimillionaire,
But that was years ago, ere he Began to lose his curly hair.

He wishes now that on his pate
Another thatch of hair would grow
And that he might reduce his weight
To what it was ten years ago.

WARM WORDS ON STREET CLEANING

Editor, Belleville Intelligencer.

Re cleaning (not paving) Front street:

Reduce the high cost of living, back to the land. If Mohamed won't go to the mountain then we must bring the mountain to Mohamed.

Some days ago I heard a citizen speaking about a dream he had, and in his vision he saw farmers spreading fertilizer on Front street preparatory to putting in a crop of potatoes. I took the hint, and the first Alderman I met I asked what they were going to do about cleaning the street. He said it wasn't in his line, and to call up Alderman So-and-so, for he knew all about it. I called up So-and-so and asked him what they were going to do about cleaning Front street. He said he brought the matter up in the Council, but that august body considered it would be a waste of money to spend $500 to clean the street, as the contractor who tendered for the paving of the street had offered to take care of the mud in their tender. I suppose some ingenious individual has solved the paving problem and by some secret process to convert mud into good paving material. Imagine the streets of Belleville paved with mud, not gold.

Now to be serious, when a man from Shannonville asks a prominent Front street merchant where he could find the ferry boat terminus, as he wanted to get to the other side of the street, it is time that Belleville citizens, who have the welfare of the city at heart, should make a move in this matter.

The contract for paving has not yet been let. That will be in the sweet by-and-by. In the meantime——! !!

If the weather continues, in a few days more we will be blinded by the dust, so we are between the devil and the deep sea.

Outside papers please do not copy.

Pleurisy Pains Vanish! Chest Colds Cured!

NERVILINE HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE

Don't suffer!

Nerviline is your relief.

Nerviline just rubbed on, lots of it, will ease that drawn, tight feeling over your ribs, will destroy the pain, will have you smiling and happy in no time.

"I caught cold last week while motoring," writes P. T. Mallery, from Linden "My chest was full of congestion, my throat was mighty sore and I had the fiercest stitch in my side you could imagine. As a boy I was accustomed to have my mother use Nerviline for all our minor ailments, and remembering what confidence she had in Nerviline, I sent out for a bottle at once. Between noon and eight o'clock I had a whole bottle rubbed a and then got into a perspiration under the blankets. This drove the Nerviline in good and deep, and I woke up next morning fresh as a dollar and absolutely cured. Nerviline is now always part of my travelling kit, and I will never be without it."

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, or you can easily get the 25c. trial size from any dealer.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

Just before the close of the splendid Star Course programme last night, the Secretary announced that the Thomas Jubilee Singers, who are at present touring Ontario, would be in the city over Sunday and would furnish the musical programme for a big men's meeting on Sunday at 4 o'clock, when Rev. H. S. Osborne will speak on "The Peril of the Soul." The meeting will be held in the Gymnasium.

Mr. Hess then announced the choice of the talent, made by the committee, for next season's course. It will consist of an unusual attraction of Swiss singers, known as The Tyrolean Alpine Yodlers, who have been making a great hit at the leading Chataguas. Second, a group of distinguished Russian musicians from the Imperial Conservatory of Music, St. Petersburg. Third, Colonel G. A. Gearhart, one of the most powerful and yet popular platform orators of the continent. Fourth, Elmer Crawford Adams Company of Boston. Fifth, Ellsworth Plumstead, the humorist; and sixth, the Original Strollers Quartette. Over two hundred orders were given last night for the next season's course.

COUNTRY CORRESPONDENCE

TUFTSVILLE

Death has again visited our community and taken Mrs. Anna Juby on April 11th. Mrs. Juby was a great sufferer, but bore her trials with great Christian fortitude and patience. She had been staying with her daughter, Mrs. French, for some months, and all that loving hands could do was done to relieve her, but without hope of saving her life. Her funeral was held in Eggleton church, of which she was a member for twenty years. The sermon was delivered by her pastor, Rev. E. A. Tonkin, from a text selected by the deceased: "Weep not." The pastor was assisted by Rev. Mr. Byers of Stirling. A splendid service was given in the presence of a large assembly of people, after which her remains were interred in the cemetery at Stirling. The bearers were her neighbors Messrs. Geo. Clarke, Robt. Werden Albert Eggleton, Wm. McMullen, Geo. Bird and Jeremiah Bird.

ADDRESS BEFORE JOHN ST. GUILD

A very interesting and instructive address was given to the Young People's Guild of John St. Church last evening by Mr. I. L. Moore of the O. B. C., on the subject of "The Consecration of Time". Mr. Moore emphasized a number of very important considerations which evinced his careful preparation of the subject. He pointed out the importance of avoiding the fatal mistake of drawing rigid lines of distinction between things secular and sacred and the idea of consecrating all time and days' work. Very apt also were his comments upon the tendency in these days to the over-doing of recreation, which defeats it purpose and is certain to bring a reaction. The importance of work, in the right use of time, also called forth many valuable suggestions along the lines of thoroughness and system and punctuality. The genius is the hard worker, and a large measure of success comes through the observance of the old and very important rules of life.

"What ever is worth doing is worth doing well."

"A place for everything and everything in its place."

"A time for everything and everything in its time."

Grippe Prevalent

HOW TO REGAIN STRENGTH AFTER A SEVERE ATTACK

With so much grippe prevalent this winter a few words of advice regarding its cause and treatment will not be out of place.

Grippe is an infectious disease easily taken when the system is in a tired or run-down condition

The best means of prevention are to keep the blood in good healthy condition and if the system gets into a weak, rundown condition, take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

A lady from Long Branch, N. J., says: "Grippe left me in a nervous, weakned run-down condition. After taking three bottles of Vinol I am better and stronger than I have been for years, and I cheerfully recommend Vinol to all who have suffered from the grippe and need strength." (Name furnished on request.)

We have never sold in our store such a valuable strength creator and health restorer for the convalescent, the weak and run-down as Vinol, and your money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it—Red Cross Drug Store—J. S. McKeown, Belleville, Ont.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

May Cancel Franchises.

TORONTO, April 22.—Municipalities in Ontario which are suffering from dangerous gas products, will have their interests protected by the Legislature. The municipal committee yesterday passed a bill that will allow any corporation with the assent of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to cancel a company franchise and not pay any damages therefor. The complaints from Brantford and other places against the large amounts of sulphuretted hydrogen in gas supplied by a very independent company was responsible for the action.

Advocates Canadian Model.

LONDON, April 22.—The adoption of the Canadian precedent with regard to the permissive provisions of the British North American Act is advised by H. C. Thomson, in a special article in The London Chronicle on "Can Ulster be Pacified?" as the best solution of the Irish problem.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"THE RED WIDOW"

How would you like to be invited to the famous Winter Palace at St. Petersburg when the annual white fete is in progress? So you could waltz across the white and gold floor of the dazzling ballroom to the strains of an entrancing Russian waltz?

How would you like to see the famous Ice Palace made of huge blocks of ice hewn from the river Volga and erected in miniature of the Czar's Imperial palace, and over which is thrown the night vari-colored lights which give to it an iridiscent hue?

How would you like to spend an evening in all this grandeur, among the nobility of the house of Nicholas, among the uniforms of the pride of the Russian army, the chief of the Imperial police, and, to add excitement, a band of Nihilists with the avowed intent of blowing up something, and to further entertain you dozens upon dozens of prancing, twinkly, beautiful girls dancing to tuneful music?

Eh—what did you say—say!

Then ramble down to Griffin's Opera House tonight and secure your seats for "The Red Widow" and you can see it all. It is the finest bit of scenic grandeur ever presented on any stage. It outrivals everything in massive stage settings ever constructed.

A Style Review of Society Brand Clothes

Young Men And Men Who Stay Young

Have come to regard the styles set by Society Brand Clothes as being assuredly correct—and rightly so.

There is a freshness, a spontaniety about them that is easy recognizable, that has given them undisputed leadership each season for a decade. This is so because their conception is that of an acknowledged style artist, a man young enough to appreciate what young men want and with a requisite skill to put those desires into realization.

This season we are featuring the two most popular Society Brand styles, namely, The Poole, and The Master. We would especially call your attention to these models as we are sure they will meet your requirements.

POPULAR NOVELIST DEAD.

Samuel R. Crockett Passes Away In London, Aged 54.

LONDON, April 22. — Samuel Rutherford Crockett, the novelist, died Monday. He was born in 1860.

Mr. Crockett entered the Free Church of Scotland as a minister in 1886, but retired in 1895 to devote his time to literature. He was a voluminous writer, "The Stickit Minister" (1893) being among the best known of his works. His first work was a small volume of poems issued in 1886. His popular novels included "The Raiders," "Men of the Moss Hogs," "The Grey Man," and "Joan of the Sword Hard" and many more.

The death occurred yesterday of Sir Edwin Durning-Lawrence, aged 77, who attained celebrity by his two works, "Bacon is Shakespeare" and "The Shakespeare Myth."

Gen. Sir Henry Brackenbury died at Nice Monday, aged 77. He saw active service in many parts of the world.

Shaw Says King Is a Syndicalist.

LONDON, April 22.—George Bernard Shaw, speaking at a demonstration held for the purpose of advocating Socialist unity, referred to the presence of Keir Hardie, Mr. Hyndman and himself on the same platform.

The three of them, he said, had met on the same platform in the reign of Queen Victoria, who was a Whig; they had met in the reign of King Edward, who was a Liberal, and they had met to-night in the reign of King George, who apparently was a Syndicalist. That showed they were moving.

CANADIANS TREATED AS BRITISH SUBJECTS

Our Trade With Mexico Small--Big Interest in Ottawa Over Newest War

OTTAWA, April 22.—There is a great deal of interest in the capital in the Mexican situation. Canadian interests will be protected through Great Britain, and the Department of External Affairs is keeping in close touch with the situation on account of the heavy Canadian investments and the fact that a number of Canadins are in Mexico at the present time. They will be given the same treatment and protection as British subjects.

Canadian trade with Mexico at the present time is very small. Owing to the disturbed conditions and the impossibility of developing any extensive trade until there was a settled government, the Canadian Trade Commissioner was withdrawn by Hon. George E. Foster a year ago.

CUT GIRL'S THROAT IN BUSY STREET

Italian Victim Assailed by Man in Middle of the Afternoon

MONTREAL, April 22.—Her throat slashed by a razor in the hands of a countryman, in a busy thoroughfare, and in the middle of the afternoon, Miss Santaio Musco, the 19 year old daughter of Nicola Musco, an Italian, of 635 St. James Street, had a narrow escape from death, while her assailant, a young fellow whose motive for the crime is thought to be jealousy, wielded his razor against members of the crowd who witnessed the assault and, aided by two alleged accomplices who had been standing near, made good his escape and is still at large.

The victim, a dark-eyed, handsome Italian girl, still very pale from loss of blood and the shock of her experience, with her throat swathed in bandages, told the story of the attempt upon her life at her home last night. "I was going on an errand for my father when Frank tried to kill me," she said. "With my little sister I was on my way to the Light, Heat & Power Company on Craig street to pay a bill and had reached the corner of Busby Lane, when Frank, who had apparently followed me from near my home, stepped up to me, and before I could move had pulled out a razor and slashed at my throat with it. The blood commenced to flow from my neck and I broke away from him and screamed for help.

"Several men who had been coming along the street at the time interfered and grabbed hold of Frank, but two of his friends, whose names I don't know, who had been standing on the corner, stepped in, and struck at the hands of the men who had hold of Frank, making them let go, and then all three of them ran up toward Latour street and got away."

After the girl had been slashed with a razor and her assailant and his two friends had made their escape, the girl was taken in a cab to her home, where a local doctor was called to attened her. After giving her temporary treatment for the gash, which extended for two inches and a half along the left side of her throat, but which had not severed any important blood vessel, the physician ordered her removal to an hospital, and she was taken to the Hotel Dieu. After treatment in the hospital she was able to be removed to her home.

Actress Pays For Folly

PETERBORO' April 23.—One of the actresses of the Red Widow Company lost her whole wardrobe by fire yesterday. She was using an electric iron in her bedroom at the Grand Hotel, and after throwing the iron on the bed without turning off the current went out The contents of the room were destroped before the firemen put out the resulting blaze.

STIFFER LAWS ON CIGARETTE SALE

Brodor Special Committee Likely to Sit During the Recess

OTTAWA, April 22.—At the next session of the Anti-Cigarette Committee next Tuesday several Toronto witnesses will be heard, including Mr. J. J. Kelso, and Superintendent Ferrier, of the Mimico Asylum.

Later Mr Hugh John Macdonald, Police Magistrate of Winnipeg, and a medical expert from Philadelphia will be heard.

It is likely that the committee will ask for power to sit and take evidence during the recess, as it is realized that it is too late now to accomplish anything this session. The committee was originally appointed as a result of a resolution of Mr. Andrew Broder to prohibit entirely the sale and manufacture of cigarettes. The committee is almost certain not to recommend such drastic action, but it is likely it will suggest a tightening up of the present law in regard to sale to minors and the providing of better machinery for the enforcement of a law which has been hitherto a dead letter.

CONTRACTORS ARE BEING HELD UP

Can't go Ahead With Kingston Paving Because of Disagreement

KINGSTON, April 22.—The street railway company has demanded that the city council call in as arbitrator the chief engineer of construction of the Montreal Tramways, Limited, to settle the differences as to track paving specifications.

This demand is in accordance with an agreement between the city and the company.

The street railway president, H. W. Richardson objects to laying new tracks over the fresh excavations which have been made on Princess street. There is danger of the paving of Princess and King streets being held up this year after the city has awarded the contract to Ottawa men, and all is in readiness to begin the work.

Whether or not the streets will be paved this season now rests with the Montreal expert.

IRISHWOMAN DEAD AT AGE OF 114 YEARS

Mrs. Honora O'Leary, of Cool Mountain House, in the parish of Iveleary, Cork, Ireland, died in her one hundred and fifteenth year there, according to advices received yesterday by her two sons, who are now residents of Chicago.

"She led an eventful life", said John Desmond O'Leary, "and retained all her facilities until the end. She was in the thick of the Whiteboy uprising in 1821 and partook of all its dangers. She was 22 years old then.

"When Barry O'Leary was killed in the Pass of Keim-an-Figh in the fight between the whiteboys and the yeomanry she brought the news to O'Leary's relatives. She rode horseback across the mountains, keeping clear of the roads, which swarmed with soldiers and in peril every minute. She knew little of the English language, but her Galelic was superb. Her mother lived to the same age as she."

PASSPORT HANDED U.S. REPRESENTATIVE

Special to The Intelligencer

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American Charge d'Affaires at Mexico City, has been handed his passports. Twelve Americans have been killed and fifty wounded in the fighting at Vera Cruz. Charge d'Affaires Algara, of the Mexican embassy, has received instructions from the Huerta government to return home.

MEXICO WILL FIGHT TO BITTER END, SAYS HUERTA

LONDON, April 21.—(Special.)—Luigi Barzini in a despatch to The Daily Telegraph dated Mexico City, Tuesday night, speaking of the calmness with which the news of the landing of Americans at Vera Cruz was received, says: "The capital is now preparing to fight the new enemy with a serene decision which speaks of the habit of sacrifice and indifference to life or ruin and despairing pride.

"Mexico will fight to the extreme limit of her power against the Colossus," said General Huerta yesterday morning. "Better die fighting than purchase peace at the price of national dignity."

MAKES A CRACK AT QUEEN CITY

LONDON, April 22.—The Pall Mall Gazette sneers at a Toronto Reuter message telling of the anxietty of Canadians investors over the Mexican enterprise. "This appeal of sentiment is really touching. We were under the impression that Canadian groups had placed their script rather widely among British investors. We will be bound to say that if there is any sympathy to be wasted it should be directed towards the British Isles, not towards Toronto."

Ottawa, April 23.—Special— Mr. Fred Dane of Toronto, who last week resigned his position as chairman of the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, has been appointed Canadian Trade Commissioner at Glasgow at a salary of $3,000 per year. MOVIE TURNS HER INTO LUNATIC

EDMONTON, Alta., April 22.—Actual shipwreck on the Atlantic and the representation of another on a motion picture screen in a local theatre are responsible for the insanity of Ksenia Zaplotinski, who was taken in charge by the Edmonton police Monday, and held until today, when she was turned over to the care of her brother.

The brother stated that he came to Canada from Russia and took up a homestead, after which he sent passage money for his sister. During a storm, the craft on which she was sailing became partly submerged, and the survivors were picked up by a passing American steamer.

The girl arrived here last Tuesday. Taking in a moving picture theatre on Saturday, she witnessed a feature reel, on which was a representation of a shipwreck. As the boat started to sink the girl fainted. When she regained consciousness several hours later she failed to recognize her relatives, and has since mumbled incoherently of her terrible experience.

Prof. Law, of Knox College, commended the societty to the practical help of Canadians and declared that it is irrigating the field of life by the diffusion of good literature among men who needed it most.

A large number of influential Toronto and provincial theologians, professors, judges and business men were elected vice-presidents and directors.

CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH IN WASHTUB

OTTAWA, April 22.—While playing around a tub of hot water yesterday afternoon, Susan Petitclere, the bright little four year old daughter of Mr. Gilbert Petitclere, 17 Arthur Street, approached too close and fell into the scalding water.

Agonized with pain, she started screaming and attracted her father from an inner room. He rushed in, grabbed the child, and removed her clothing. His efforts, as well as those of Dr. H. B. Small, who was called immediately, proved futile. The child died in a few minutes. Coroner Baptie was called and decided that an inquest was unnecessary, as the cause of death was obvious.

SELL MAPLE SYRUP OR CHANGE NAME

Ottawa Committee Jolts Fakirs Who Sell Bogus Article in Canada

OTTAWA, April 22.—The agricultural committe to-day reported Hon. Bruno Nantel's bill to prevent adulterated maple syrup or maple sugar being sold to the public as the real article. Some slight amendments were made, otherwise the bill passed as it stood and will come into force on January 1, 1915.

By the bill is forbidden to use the word "Maple" in connection with any article of food resembling maple syrup or maple sugar and standards are set as to what constitutes purity in these articles.

NEW YORK MAYOR CARRIES TALISMAN

NEW YORK, April 22.—As Mayor Mitchell was leaving the New York Press Club a personal friend congratulated him on his escape from the bullet fired at him by the aged crank. The Mayor smiled and reached into his vest pocket, pulled out a small gold frog attached to his watch chain.

"My talisman did it", he said; "no harm can come to me so long as I can carry it."

Then he explained. In Costa Rica last fall he was entertained at the home of a prominent citizen. After the entertainment his hostesss presented the little frog to him. She said it came from a burial mound left by a prehistoric race, but enough was known to say that it was a sure talisman aginst death by violence.

"Do you know", said the Mayor, "that just before this shooting occurred, I remember by accident I touched the little frog."

Sir Wilfred Objected to Morning Sittings

OTTAWA, April 23.—Special— Premier Borden moved a resolution in the House to-day to commence morning sittings next Monday. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said there was a persisten rumor that the Government would introduce important legislation in regard to the Canadian Northern. If this were the case, it would not be opportune to have morning sittings until the Opposition had had time to study the proposed legislation.

"Without committing myself as to the reports the leader of the Opposition has referred to", replied Mr. Borden, "there will undoubtedly be further legislation, which has not appeared on the order paper, and in view of this I will not press my resolution to-day."

WILL TAKE CARGO BACK TO BERLIN

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The captain of the German steamer Ypirange readily acquiesced to the order of the American commander at Vera Cruz not to attempt to land the large cargo of munitions of war consigned to President Huerta, and placed his vessel at the disposal of Admiral Fletcher. He promised not to leave the harbor unless a norther compels him to seek safety in the open sea.

Disposition of the guns and ammunition was arranged for at a conference between Secretary of State Bryan and Ambassador von Bernstorff of Germany. The captain of the vessel, being unable to secure clearance papers at Vera Cruz will return the cargo to its former owners in Germany, although the Huerta Government had paid in advance for the munitions.

The cost of transporting the cargo to Vera Cruz and return must be borne by the consigners of the munitions. This arrangement is in accofd with the international precedents covering such incidents.

DIDN'T PROVIDE AS HE HAD NO MONEY

OTTAWA, April 22.—Mrs. Anna Johnston charged her husband, Arthur, with non-support in court this morning. Her contention was that the latter had neglected to provide for his family for the past three months.

The latter, in rebuttal, stated that he had always been a generous provider, and said that he had been dismissed from his employment with the Grand Trunk railroad owing to the fact that his eyes had gone back on him.

Mrs. Johnston failed to establish that she was in necessitous circumstances, as she is keeping a lodging house at present. As her husband appeared to be willing to look after his family as soon as he secured work, the magistrate dismissed the case.

EFFORTS TO REVIVE GOLF IN FREDERICTON THIS SUMMER

FREDERICTON, N.S., April 22.—Special—Bright prospects for the revival of golf in this city are foreshadowed by local golfers who are taking steps to organize a club during the coming summer. It is expected that J. Stewart Neill, who has been south during the winter, will be one of the leading lights of the club, as while in the southern States he has become an enthusiastic golfer, and has seen some of America's golf stars play at Pinehurst, N.C., including Francis Onimett. For some years Fredericton had a local golf club and was active in the sport, but of late years this activity died out.

IRON AND STEEL CO. TO LIGHT ADDITIONAL BLAST FURNACE

SYDNEY, C.B., April 23—Special—Renewal activity is indicated at the plant of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, by the announcement that in a short space of time the company will light another blast furnace. This announcement is regarded by wage earners and business men as the harbinger of a busy season close at hand and a record spring, summer and autumn, and an industrial and mercantile output is now confidentially calculated upon. Another indication of this spirit was the boom in Easter trade, which was far ahead of 1913.

LET REBELS FINISH JOB IS PLAN AT WASHINGTON

Will Not Despatch Army--Revolutionists Will Then Push on and Finish Huerta

WASHINGTON April 23.—The battlecry will not be "On to Mexico City" according to John Lind, who was special representative of the President in Mexico City until recently. Mr. Lind is supposed to be familiar with the situation and the plans.

"Now that Admiral Badger has arrived in Mexican waters with his fleet will it not be advisable under the circumstances to rush the army from Galveston to Vera Cruz and proceed directly to Mexico City and take possession before Huerta can arrange for a stubborn defence of his capital?"

The question was asked of Mr. Lind, who is probably the best posted man here on the present situation in Vera Cruz.

"No that is not the present intention," replied Mr. Lind. "As we are now in possession of Vera Cruz the next step will be to clean up Tampico. Then we should retain possession of both cities and also blockade all the remaining ports in Mexico. I do not anticipate any more fighting, as Huerta will have all he can do to contend with the advancing forces of the victorious revolutionists."

"Has Huerta an effective army?"

"No; the pick of his forces were sent north, where they were annihilated in and around Torreon. All he has left are some bands of hired assassins," said Mr. Lind.

"What is your opinion of the skirmish at Vera Cruz yesterday?"

"It turned out just as I had anticipated," replied Mr. Lind. "When called upon to surrender, General Maas retreated from Vera Cruz with the bulk of his command. Those left behind were disorganized and consisted mainly of roughnecks and assassins. These men concealed themselves on the flat roofs of the buildings and picked off our men from their concealment. All the buildings have flat roofs and copings, the latter affording considerable protection to the Mex'cans.

"We have no quarrel with the revolutionists, therefore, while Huerta is blocked away from supplies, etc., the revolutionists will push forward steadily and irrestibly. The end should not be far off, so far as Huerta is concerned."

Hon. Mr. Hanna Explains Snider Episode in the Legislature.

Opposition on Strength of Hearsay Demand an Enquiry Into Visit of Inspector to Welland, But Provincial Secretary Makes a Full Explanation of the Affair and the Motion Is Defeated by 70 to 20.

TORONTO, April 23. — For five hours the Legislature yesterday debated a motion of the Opposition to appoint a select committee to enquire into the visits of W. K. Snider, Provincial License Inspector, to Welland, Huron and Peel, prior to the vote on the Scott Act in January. The Opposition charged that an official had been employed to influence the vote, according to Government desires.

Hon. Mr. Hanna replied vigorously and frankly explained the whole affair, after which the motion was defeated by 70 votes to 20.

In support of his motion Chief Liberal Whip Bowman said that because the Scott Act made dry certain places which were wet under the Local Option Act, the contests were unusually interesting. Welland had been a testing ground, and the liquor people had spent $60,000 there to defeat the temperance bylaw. Snider, he said, went into the riding to tell the people that the Government did not want the act passed. He was repudiated at first, but afterwards acknowledged, but whether "off his own bat or not" he had acted improperly.

"He should have been brought to the carpet, and not only reprimanded, but suspended," he declared. "No official of the Government has the right to take part in elections in this way."

Hon. Mr. Hanna stated that the description of the man given to him would not warrant his identification at the time.

"Didn't you know he was there?" asked an Opposition member.

"No, I did not," was the reply.

"Was there such a close alliance between the Government and the liquor interests that the latter had pressed for Snider going for a set purpose?" asked Mr. Bowman.

"Any insinuation or suggestion involved in that statement is absolutely untrue," declared Hon. Mr. Hanna. "I will ask the hon. member a question 'Why does he ask it.'"

Mr. Bowman replied that statements had been made that J. P. Haverson, counsel for the liquor interests, had visited the Minister with that end in view.

"He had not,' 'was the emphatic reply.

Mr. Bowman, in conclusion, urged that the committee asked for be appointed and the matter cleared up.

Mr. Hanna said that he and Eudo Saunders, chief license officer, had discussed the whole effect of the Scott Act on the province, and the conclusion was that a statement setting forth what the law really meant should be issued to the press as authoritative, and yet not from the Government, to avoid influencing the election. It was conceded that in unorganized districts the measure was a good one, but in old counties people should understand certain conditions to be met. Huron had most to expect and less to lose, but in Peel it was imperative that they know that when the Scott Act was passed it suspended all local option laws and the bulk of the county was under them. Snider had known of the statement to be published but not of how it was to be used. His actions he had taken to be within his duties, and afterwards affirmed that his conversation had begun and ended with the facts given in the statement.

"I say now as I said then, that I had no idea Inspector Snider was in Welland at the time," Hon. Mr. Hanna declared.

Hon. Mr. Foy said Mr. Bwman had not produced anything that would warrant his asking for a select committee of investigation. His speech was "a bundle of hearsay and newspaper scraps." He would ask him to withdraw his motion.

Mr. Rowell held that either the officer had violated the Departmental rules and deserved punishment, or that he had been sent with a purpose to discourage electors from passing the temperance measure.

Hon. Mr. Lucas said that too much could not be done nowadays to make public life inviting to good men and to stop the hurling of dirt and innuendoes across the floor.

J. G. Anderson (Lib., S. Bruce), Chas. McCrea (Con., Sudbury), and Evan Fraser (Con., Welland) also spoke.

CHANGES SUGGESTED

Prison Commission Report Recommends Many Reforms.

Permanent Commission Should Be Given Charge of Control of Penitentiaries and Parole Boards Increased—Hair-Cropping, Prison Garb, "Hosing" and "Tubbing" Is Condemned.

OTTAWA, April 23. — Many changes in the administration of penitentiaries are recommended by the report of the commission which has been enquiring into the management of Kingston and other penitentiaries, tabled in the House yesterday afternoon. It recommends:

That control of penitentiaries be given to a permanent commission of three, with power to appoint staff officers and heads of departments, make regulations, etc., the wardens to be given authority to employ and dismiss keepers, guards, etc. That a parole board of not less than three members be appointed for each penitentiary, to sit once a month, and that the field staff of parole organization be increased to three officers directly under the Justice Department.

That an arrangement be made with the provinces to take over the custody of first offenders and prisoners under 25 years of age. Should this be found impracticable, two reformatories for young prisoners and first offenders should be established in the east and west. That prison industries be established to supply the requirements of the Government services. That close cropping of hair be abolished, save for cleanliness. That in place of the present uniform a suit and cap of one tone material, blue or grey, be adopted. That a few copies of a carefully censored weekly newspaper be provided for the good conduct prisoners.

That moderate use of tobacco be allowed to good conduct men; that dining-rooms be provided for good conduct men, and that hosing and imprisonment in dungeons be abolished.

Other recommendations are for modern hospitals, reorganization of staffs of hospitals, school instruction, drill, and better educated guards.

At Kingston conditions were found discouraging for convicts, and the asylum ward was managed to give least trouble for those in charge. Tubbing and hosing are condemned, and responsibility put on Dr. Phelan and Inspector Stewart.

Respecting the charge of Dr. Edwards, M.P., that Deputy Warden O'Leary favored Roman Catholics in assigning posts, the commission finds the charges not sustained and due to "an unhappy spirit of distrust and suspicion." It is also found that O'Leary was not guilty of political partisanship. Overseer Wilson is exonerated.

It is also recommended that a system of classification be inaugurated, based on the conduct of the prisoners, to encourage them to habits of order, industry, etc. The report further suggests that outside work be developed to the fullest extent at each prison in farming operations, etc., and that a thorough physical and mental examination of each prisoner be made on his admission and a proper filing system be installed for records.

RESIGNATION DEMANDED.

License Department Takes Quick Action With Paul Morand.

TORONTO, April 23.—At the request of the Provincial Secretary's Department, Paul Morand, license inspector for North Essex, resigned his position yesterday and a short time afterwards as a witness before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature explained why he had done so. Under examinatin by Liberal Whip Bowman, he admitted that while in office he had been president and largest stockholder of a canning company that borrowed money from hotel license-holders. He did not know this to be improper, he said, until told so by his Department, and had not himself solicited the loans.

Chief Officer Saunders deposed that the matter had been brought to his attention through a query on the legislative order paper, and he had been asked to supply the answer. This led to Mr. Morand being interviewed as to borrowing money from hotelmen and his resignation had been demanded at once.

WELSH CHURCH BILL.

Government Had Majority of 84, a Drop of 15.

LONDON, April 23.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—The Government is completely satisfied with Tuesday night's division on the Welsh Disestablishment Bill, although compared with last year's figures there is a drop of fifteen votes.

The figures were: For the bill, 349; against it, 265. Two Liberals abstained from voting, and one of them, Sir E. Beauchamp, voted against the bill. The Irish Nationalists attended in full force, no fewer than seventy of them supporting the Government.

This marks the third succeeding session in which the Commons have affirmed the principle of the present measure. It now only remains for the bill to be read a third time and be submitted to the Lords one month before the session is through to give it the privileges of the Parliament Act.

English Etchings.

Last year there were only twenty-three murders committed in the city of London.

In Buckinghamshire an ointment made from mistletoe berries is still believed in as a cure for rheumatism and epilepsy.

Among the offenses for which capital punishment can be ordered in English law today are high treason and arson in a royal dockyard or arsenal.

The average wages of kitchen maids in England is $98.50 a year, while those of governesses is $97.50. Next in order are nurses at $101.75, parlor maids at $117.75, ladies' maids at $135 and cooks at $157.50.

A CHARMING SPRING WEDDING

One of the most charming weddings ever witnessed in Belleville was solemnized on Wednesday, April 22nd, at eleven o'clock, at the home of Mr. Charles H. Bonisteel, Avondale, when his daughter, Miss Frances, was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest W. Dickens, also of this city.

The guests were received in the drawing room which was appropriately decorated with flowers, palms and ferns by Mrs. Bonisteel and Mrs. Dickens, mothers of the contracting parties. The attractive young bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in a gown of ivory charmeuse trimmed with lace and pearls, wearing the accustomed bridal veil and carrying a handsome shower bouquet of roses and lily-of-the-valley. She was unattended, except by little Mary Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Day, of this city, who acted as flower girl and looked very winsome in a French embroidered dress, carrying a basket of daisies.

Immediately after the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. H. S. Osborne, pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church, Mr. James S. Dyer of Toronto, brother-in-law of the bride, sang Lyall Phillips' new wedding song—"Art Mine Alone?" The Sprague orchestra played the wedding march and furnished excellent music during the luncheon, which was served from the dining-room to the sixty guests by six girl friends of the bride, who looked very chic in their new spring frocks.

Particular mention must be made of the much-admired wedding cake, which was a masterpiece, made especially by the groom's father.

Many beautiful gifts were presented to the highly esteemed young couple. The groom's gift to the bride was in the form of a substantial cheque, while the little flower girl was the happy recipient of a gold locket and chain, the soloist receiving a beautiful silk umbrella.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickens left on the International Limited for Buffalo, en route to New York city, the bride travelling in an exceedingly smart suit of brown silk ratine with tuscan hat to match. When the popular young couple return to the city they will take up residence in their new home on Albert street, where their host of friends wish them great joy and happiness.

Children's Scalp Sores Are Healed by Zam-Buk

Mothers are well aware how frequently children contract scalp sores, ringworm, etc., at school. Some little sufferer is sent to school with a sore of this nature. At play the children change caps, and right there the infection is spread—the damage done.

Some children are particularly liable to scalp sores, etc., and often these break out with annoying frequency. Such a case was that of the daughter of Mrs. Albert Gaedike, of 185 Albert St., Montreal. Mrs. Gaedike says: "My little three-year-old daughter suffered frequently from scalp disease, and try as we would, we could not rid the little one of this. We tried everything we could think of, but failed to effect a cure, until we were advised to try Zam-Buk. This balm seemed entirely different to anything we had ever tried before, and from first applying it there was a marked improvement. The sores became less inflamed and less irritable. After a few days, they ceased to trouble the child; and in less than a fortnight from first commencing with Zam-Buk they were completely healed. In view of these facts I feel it my duty to let mothers know how beneficial Zam-Buk is."

There is no doubt that for scalp sores, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, frostbite, and similar sores, Zam-Buk is absolutely without equal. It is just as good for piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, cut, burns and scalds. Rubbed well in over the affected part, it cures rheumatism, sciatica, etc., etc., and rubbed into the chest it relieves the tightness and feeling of weight due to contracting a bad cold. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto for price. Refuse imitations.

LIBERTY OF VERY SHORT DURATION

A young man named O'Connell was some four months ago at Peterborough sentenced to six months at the Provincial Central Prison at Guelph. Owing to his being an exceptionally good prisoner he was released yesterday, but his liberty was of short duration, as Sergt. Naphin, a member of the local police force, was at the farm with a warrant for the re-arrest of O'Connell. He was brought to the city and this morning appeared before the magistrate. He was charged with converting to his own use a suit of clothes to the value of $25, the same having been taken from Mr. George Lee's place of business, the property of Mr. Vincent Brown. O'Connell pleaded guilty and asked for leniency from the court. He stated that he could return to the prison farm at Guelph and be employed as a blacksmith at a salary of $35 per month. If he was allowed to do this he stated that he would pay all costs, return the clothes, which he had on him and also pay compensation for any damage to the clothing. The magistrate remanded O'Connell to jail for a week, or such time as is necessary, so that the authorities at the farm can be communicated with to ascertain if his statement is correct.

POLITICO RELIEF MAP

Editor, Belleville Intelligencer.

Dear Sir.—The Board of Education have recently placed a set of Politico Relief Maps in each of the four Public Schools. A relief map, shows the actual topography of a country, whether elevated or depressed. The ordinary flat map shows only the political divisions of a country, overlooking all the valuable features of relief, and are made in the same way the Romans made maps before the Christian era.

The difference between a relief map and a flat map is so great that it is hard to make a comparison. The relief map shows every mountain, valley, watershed, basin and all elevations and depressions. It enables the teachers to teach a kind of geography that is not found in books or on flat maps. It also enables pupils to appreciate the influence of geographical environment on all forms of life—animal, plant and human. Here may be shown that topography and climate operate together, that the different regions, because of physical and climatic conditions, modify the food, shelter, clothing, culture, industries, etc., of man.

By the aid of relief maps pupils can pick out the natural commercial routes, industrial centres, product belts, and can work out the effect of natural boundaries and barriers.

Canada is large enough to make a mighty empire. It is 3,000 miles from east to west and 1,500 miles from north to south. It possesses great plains, long stretches of forest, high mountains, mighty rivers, vast lakes, safe harbors and numerous canals. The relief map will point out to the rising generation the country as it is and the great possibilities within its borders. The level plains, the table lands, the mountain ranges, the river valleys cannot be shown or communicated to child's mind with a flat map.

The relief map of Europe shows us why Nature herself has formed the boundaries of the different countries of Europe. The great plains of Russia, with no protection on the north, are swept by the cold, bleak winds, and are known the world over as the most barren, comfortless region in the world. Sweden is able to raise wheat on account of its natural barriers to the north and with the aid of the gulf stream, and yet it is in the same latitude as Russia.

Rome and Chicago are exactly in the same latitude, yet the people of the western city and plains go to sunny Italy to escape the cold. The mountain range to the north of Italy shuts out the cold north winds and makes Italy what it is. These facts are all brought out in a relief map.

One of the most interesting of the series is the map of the world. It will be noticed that the mountain ranges of the eastern continents extend east and west, whereas in the western continents they extend north and south. All the different climatic conditions found on the same parallel demonstrate beyond the shadow of a doubt that north and south of the equator has little to do with the climate productions and occupations of the people, and that the relief map has everything to do with it.

Yours truly,
F. S. DEACON.

AMEND OCEAN RATES.

That Is Real Need of Western Farmer Says Dr. Steele.

OTTAWA, April 22.—The budget debate was resumed yesterday by Mr. Sinclair (Lib., Guysboro, N.S.), and was participated in by Messrs. Steele, Marcil, Morphy and Lanctot.

Mr. Sinclair declared that the policy of the Government seemed to be to spend money as fast as it was possible to borrow it. In this connection, he likened Hon. Mr. White to Nero—always fiddling and borrowing more money.

The present Government, maintained Mr. Sinclair, had accomplished practically nothing that made for the prosperity of the country, while, on the other hand, they had accomplished much that was detrimental to Canada. They had debauched the civil service and degraded the great undertaking, the National Transcontinental.

Dr. Steele (Con., N. Perth) declared that instead of discussing the advantages which might accrue from free wheat, the west would accomplish much more good for herself by encouraging the milling industry. If we had free wheat it would mean the death of that great industry.

Another feature of the western problem which Parliament would do well to turn its attention to was the high freight rates charged on the Atlantic.

In conclusion, Dr. Steele urged the establishment of a Government-owned and operated line of steamers to carry agricultural produce from Canada to Britain at fair rates.

Lumbermen Ask Protection.

OTTAWA, April 23.—The Railway Commission reserved judgment yesterday after hearing arguments for and against the application of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association for an order to prevent the railways from increasing the rates on lumber from Ottawa Valley points to Montreal throughout the summer months.

The railways propose to cancel the summer schedule of tariffs on lumber early in May and maintain the winter schedule all the year around.

CHECK FOR SIR JAMES.

Conservative Members Present Leader With Sum of $2,000.

TORONTO, April 23.—Sir James Whitney received a pleasant surprise yesterday afternoon, when a committee representing the Conservative members of the Legislature called on him and presented him with a check for $2,000 as a token of their affection and esteem. The Premier's condition was not one that would permit him to make an extended reply, but he spoke feelingly and expressed his heartfelt thanks at the kindness and sympathy of his followers in the House. The presentation was made by Mr. George H. Gooderham (South Toronto), and he was accompanied by Mr. H. C. Scholfield (South Wellington) and [illegible] T. Herbert Lennox [illegible]

REDISTRIBUTION TO-DAY.

Mr. Rowell Complains That He Hasn't Had Time to Examine Bill.

TORONTO, April 23.—In the latest draft of the redistribution bill, which will probably be subject to little change, provision is made for an addition of four new members to the Ontario House. These will come from a new city riding, comprising Windsor, Walkerville and Sandwich; from Cochrane, a new electoral district in the north, and from the two new seats given to Toronto. There will be two Lincoln ridings. Monck is abolished.

Among the ridings which have had their boundaries considerably altered are the Greys, Middlesex, Victoria, the Bruces and North Oxford.

At the meeting of the committee yesterday Mr. Rowell claimed that the Liberal members had not had nearly enough time to study the situation, and quoted the division of the Victorias and North Oxford as instances of insufficient notice.

"Not much of a change there," suggested a member.

"There is only a question of one hundred Liberal majority; that is all," said Mr. Rowell. "We should have an opportunity to hear from the different parts of the province."

"That is out of the question," said Mr. Hanna.

Mr. Rowell insisted however and another meeting was arranged for today at 10.30 before the reporting of the bill in the House this afternoon.

William McDonald (Centre Bruce) fought strongly for the Bruces as at present distributed. He said the average difference in the Kents and other counties was greater than there. He urged that to change the makeup of the centre riding and to call it West Bruce with the municipalities grouped as proposed would destroy the "old fighting ground."

Mr. Rowell said that the inclusion of Sullivan Township in North Grey seriously hurt the Liberal cause.

Hon. Mr. Lucas stated that the bill merely sent back certain sections to where they had been before the Liberal redistribution.

TO VOTE TO-NIGHT.

Budget Debate Occupied House Most of Yesterday.

OTTAWA, April 23.—The budget debate is expected to conclude tonight with speeches from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Dr. Michael Clark and Geo. H. Boivin for the Opposition and Hon. Geo. E. Foster and Hon. Arthur Meighen replying for the Government. The debate took up most of yesterday with eight speakers on the floor, three Conservatives and five Liberal.

E. W. Nesbitt (Lib., N. Oxford) charged the Minister of Finance with mismanagement of loans and extravagance which made borrowing necessary. He believed that farmers would have been satisfied with the duty on implements if they had been given wider markets.

"The Finance Minister and his supporters," declared Dr. A. Thompson (Con., Yukon), who followed, "stand for moderate protection. This party stands or falls on a policy of moderate protection." Referring to the people of the west, he said that if they entered upon manufacturing, instead of confining themselves to the one industry of agriculture, they would become protectionists, and he urged upon the Government the desirability of developing the water powers of the Prairie Provinces and thus hastening manufacturing.

At the evening sitting Levi Thompson (Lib., Qu'Appelle) argued that trade was under a restriction which was hampering the development of the west, and consequently lessening the business of eastern industrial plants.

Donald Sutherland (Con., S. Oxford) advised the farmers of the west to do more than grow wheat.

Hydro Commission Opposes.

OTTAWA, April 23.—The Hydro-Electric Commission has asked that the injunction against the W. C. Edwards Electrical Development bill, which was before the Private Bills Committee Tuesday, be sustained, as the way it stands at present it would be injurious to the Hydro-Electric system.

WN ARGUMENT CONDEMNS THEM

Trade "Grain Growers' hose policy for Canada is nce for itself and the devil hindermost, contains an ar e of its recent issues, which read with care by the second of economic wisdom in rty, who would abolish ricultural implements. the form of an inter ess a person than the e Grain Growers' As hich he complains bit rice of binder twine is ng, and that its price d to the Canadian far ted States binder twine nts the fact that there Canada that competition which would enable us to buy independently of the arrogant dictation of a foreign monopoly.

Was there ever a more convincing indictment of the fallacy of Free Trade? Not so many years ago there as a duty on binder twine. Fifteen binder twine factories flourished throughout the Dominion—one as far west as Brandon—prices were reasonable, thousands of hands were given employment, and the home market of the farmer was being materially contributed to. At the instigation of that school of political economists, which ow gets its inspiration from the pages the Grain Growers' Guide, the Liberals abolished the duty. The result was that they placed the whole industry at the mercy of the surplus product of the highly specialized factories of the United States. The whole fifteen factories were killed off, with one single exception, and the Canadian farmer found himself at the mercy of prices levied on foreign made binder twine, by a foreign trust.

When trusts become oppressive, we can deal with them, if they be Canadian trusts. But if the competition of home industries has been eliminated, and the people have become dependent upon foreign trusts for goods which are produced abroad, they cannot fix their prices. And, as with binder twine, so with agricultural implements. The placing upon the free list tomorrow of agricultural implements would endanger the existence of eventy-seven thriving factories in the Dominion—forty-five of which are ght here in the Province of Ontario. It would threaten with disaster isted capital to the extent of $50,0,000.

It would deprive of employment, haps, ten thousand Canadian workmen, and their families of support. would strike a serious blow at the adian home market, by depopulat several towns, thus depriving farmers of the surrounding country of a market that is unexcelled.

It would send at least $20,000,000 of good Canadian money to the United States each year, that would otherwise circulate at home.

It would place Canadian farmers at the mercy of the greed-dictated prices of a giant American trust.

Many an engagement has been broken off through a misunderstanding—each thinking the other had money.

A STUPENDUOUS TASK

Manuel Estava, Mexican consul general at New York, is quoted as saying: "An American army offiicer, a major, who was sent to Mexico as a scout during the Madero revolution, told me that he believed it would require an army of between 300,000 and 400,000 men, five years' time and $500,000,000 simply for the United States to invest the larger cities of the country. I can add to this when I say that it will take them 25 years thereafter to pacify the country." "What will be the effect of the blockade on the revolution?" Mr. Estava was asked. "I cannot say exactly", was his reply. "I see no reason to believe the Constitutionalists will join with the government at once. They will join, however, the minute the country is invaded. All differences will be forgotten in the love for the republic, all will fight shoulder to shoulder."

Probably Huerta has been calculating on that. The game is up so far as he is concerned. It has been apparent for some weeks past that his enemies were gaining ground and that he could not hope to subdue the country. So, seemingly, he thinks it more honorable to be crushed by a vastly superior force, to yield to a foreign invader, thereby improving his own chances of living in Mexican history as a hero and a martyr.

AMERICA'S POSITION

Commenting editorially upon the action taken by the United States, under command of Admiral Fletcher, the Montreal Daily Star aptly says:

"If the result of American action in Mexico is merely to crush out Huerta and then give the country over to Carranza and Villa, there will be no satisfaction in the waiting and watchful world—and the humane and orderly American people will soon have their work to do over again. But if this is merely President Wilson's round-about way of beginning an occupation of the country, with a view to conferring on it subsequently a free and settled government, then we can all afford to ignore the pretext and think only of the ultimate results of the "war." Obviously if intervention does not come now, it will later. It seems merely a matter of date. The American people are committed to this costly and difficult task by the Monroe Doctrine. And sooner or later they will courageously take it up."

CURRENT COMMENT

Brantford Courier: "It is of the irony of fate that Wilson and Bryan, both well-known advocates of international peace, should be up against the Mexican embroglio."

* * *

London Advertiser: "Through an error in the counting of the votes, Montreal is temporarily without a council, and there are many unkind persons down there who will say it is better so."

* * *

Buffalo Express: "They are already talking about doubling the income tax to meet the war expenses, and they may have to increase the tariff again. That would be a joke on the Democrats, after all the years they struggled to have it reduced."

* * *

St. Thomas Journal: "An Ottawa alderman who was a member of a delegation that went to Toronto on civic business returned $20 of the sum allowed him for expenses. At last report the city treasurer was regaining consciousness."

Montreal Mail: "Charles S. Mellen, former railway president, has been offered the presidency of a great federation of railway brotherhoods. The compliment is unique. If he refuses, there is always Andrew Carnegie to fall back on."

Daily Mail: "Many thoughtful men who have appreciated how necessary the Monroe Doctrine is to the American Republic have reached the conclusion that the United States must either abandon that doctrine or else expand it, by assuming the responsibilities to the rest of the world which that doctrine now carries with it." Monroe Doctrine or no Monroe Doctrine, the American Republic purposes to maintain its dignity if it has to fight for it. To be practically spit at by an insulting Mexican and submit to such indignity is a pill too bitter to swallow.

Herald Telegraph: "In face of the present depression, therefore, it is refreshing to read an address such as that delivered before the American Statistical Association in Boston by Mr. Frederick L. Hoffman, of Newark, N.J., in which the claim was set up that there never was a golden age on this continent equal to the golden age of the present. Mr. Hoffman found nothing but hopefulness from a review of the social and economic progress of the United States during the past 75 years. He thinks that country is but on the threshold of good times, and that its prosperity will be so marked that within 56 years its population will have grown to 200 millions." Within fifty years the United States will not be in it with Canada as to population.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

IT PAYS TO BE KIND, RAILWAY PRESIDENT SAYS

To every employee of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Paific Railways a message has been sent out from this president's office. This message deals with "Efficiency and Courtesy", and is signed by Mr. E. J. Chamberlain, President of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways. Mr. Chamberlin's message embodies the spirit of the modern railroad, an insistence on the right of the public, passengers and shippers alike, to demand the best possible service from the railway man. In his message to the passenger department employees the president says:

"The railroad company desires to sell its transportation. The ticket rates are alike for all, and any person buying a ticket, no matter what the style his clothes are, how much money he displays or what his position in society is, is entitled to proper and courteous treatment.

"The railroad man has a great opportunity for passing out kindness and good will. He comes in contact with every kind and condition of individual; the old, the young; the rich, the poor; the illiterate, the learned, the happy, the prosperous, and those in defeat, saturated with sorrow and distress; he sees them all, and through intuition knows to which class they belong. A smile, a kind word, or a kindness done to any of these cannot fail to leave its impression for good and this good cannot help but expand. Try it."

The president's message to the freightmen says:

"The needs and wishes of shippers and consignees should be anticipated as much as possible. When cars are ordered the matter should receive close attention and in case it is not possible to furnish as ordered, shipper should be notified, so he may arrange his plans accordingly; he should be made to feel you are interested in his welfare, and that his business is worthy of consideration. Do not discommode a shipper because of some omission of his own, but try to help him out. Railroads are the servants of the public and it is their duty to serge well."

CALIFORNIA "RAISIN DAY"

This year California "Raisin Day" is to be celebrated in the "Golden State" on April 30th. The slogan on that particular day will be "Eat Raisins". Not only in California will the day be given prominence, but many of the eastern railroads will feature it by placing on the menus of their dining cars special California raisin dishes. The Grand Trunk will add these dishes to their special menus an all their dining cars, April 30th.

MEDERIC MARTIN STORIES

(Canadian Courier)

Now that Mr. Mederic Martin is Mayor of Montreal for two years, some people are savage and some satisfied. The stories about him are as varied as the prophecies.

One is to the effect that the day after his election, he went around to see the editors of all the papers. Practically none of them had supported him, although the Graham papers, the Star and the Herald-Telegraph, did not oppose him. Martin went to see them all. "Now," said he, "Mr. Tarte (or Mr. Nichol or whoever it mighe be), you opposed me as Mederic Martin, but I want you to support me as Mayor Martin. You will have suggestions to make, and I want you to make them to Mayor Martin. I want you to help Mayor Martin. If you do not help Mayor Martin then he will not be happy." And more to the same effect. It is said that the newspapers editors were greatly impressed by this action, and though they fought him hard before, they will now wait and see if he intends to initiate necessary reforms and give Montreal good government.

Another is told of how he met a charge of not being well educated in English. "They say", said he to an audience of electors, "that I shall not be able to make a proper speech in English if royalty should visit Montreal during my term as mayor. Well, now, let us see. Who writes the mayor's speech on such occasions? Did any mayor ever write his own speech? No, my friends, they are written for him by the secretaries at the city hall. They keep these men there for that purpose. If, then, royalty should visit our city, the secretaries will prepare an English speech for me. And I tell you, my friends, that I can read an English speech as well as any mayor Montreal has ever had."

"RUN TO EARTH"

By the Author of
"Lady Audley's Secret," "Aurora Floyd," etc., etc.

The school mistress remarked upon this alteration one day, when talking to her pupil.

"Do you know, my dear Miss Milford, I am really inclined to believe that Sir Oswald Eversleigh has changed his mind with regard to your future career, and that he does not intend you to be an opera-singer."

"Surely, dear Miss Beaumont, that is impossible", answered Honoria, quietly; "my education is costing my kind bene—relative a great deal of money, which would be wasted if I were not to make music my profession Besides, what else have I to look to in the future? Remember Sir Oswald has always told you that I have my own future to achieve. I have no claim on any one, and it is to his generosity alone I owe my present position."

"Well, I don't know how it may be, my dear", answered Miss Beaumont, "I may be mistaken; but I cannot help thinking that Sir Oswald has changed his mind about you. I need not tell you that my opinions are opposed to a professional career for any young lady brought up in my establishment, however highly gifted. I'm sure my blood actually freezes in my veins, when I think of any pupil of mine standing on a public stage, to be gazed at by the common herd; and I told Sir Oswald, when he first proposed bringing you here, that it would be necessary to keep your destiny a profound seceret from your fellow-pupils; for I assure you, my love, there are mammas and papas who would come to this house in the dead of the night and carry off their children, without a moment's warning, if they were informed that a young person intended to appear on the stage of the Italian Opera was receiving her education within these walls. In short, nothing but your own discreet conduct, and Sir Oswald's very liberal terms, could have reconciled me to the risk which I have run in receiving you.

The first year of Honoria Milford's residence at "The Beeches" expired, and another year began. Sir Oswald's visits became more and more frequent. When the accounts of his protegee's progress were more than usually enthusiastic, his visits were generally followed very speedily by the arrival of some costly gift for Miss Beaumont's pupil—a ring—a bracelet—a locket—always in perfect taste, and such as a young lady at a boarding-school might wear, but always of the most valuable description.

Honoria Milford must have possessed a heart of stone, if she had not been grateful to so noble a benefactor. She was grateful, and her gratitude was obvious to her generous protector. Her beautiful face was illuminated with an unwonted radiance when she entered the drawing-room where he awaited her coming; and the pleasure with which she received his brief visits was as palpable as if it had been expressed in words.

It was midsummer, and Honoria Milford had been a year and a quarter at "The Beeches". She had acquired much during that period; new accomplishments, new graces; and her beauty had developed into fresh splendor in the calm repose of that comfortable abode. She was liked by her fellow-pupils; but she had made neither friends nor confidants. The dark secrets of her past life shut her out from all intimate companionship with girls of her own age.

She had, in a manner, lived a lonely life amongst all these companions and her chief happiness had been derived from her studies. Thus it was, perhaps, that she had made double progress during her residence with the Misses Beaumont.

One bright afternoon in June, Sir Oswald's mail-phaeton and pair drove past the window of the school-room.

"Visitors for Miss Milford!" exclaimed the pupils seated near the windows, as they recognized the elegant equipage.

Honoria rose from her desk, awaiting the summons of the schoolroom-maid. She had not long to wait. The young woman appeared at the door in a few minutes, and Miss Milford was requested to go to the drawing-room on the visit of the baronet.

He rose to receive her, and took the hand which she extended towards him.

"I am alone, you see, Honoria", he said; "I told Miss Beaumont that I had something of a serious nature to say to you, and she left me to receive you alone."

"Something of a serious nature", repeated the girl, looking at her benefactor with surprise. "Oh, I think I can guess what you are going to say", she added, after a moment's hesitation; "my musical education is now sufficiently advanced for me to take some new step in the pathway which you wish me to tread."

"No, Honoria, you are mistaken", answered the baronet, gravely; "so far from wishing to hasten your musical education, I am about to entreat you to abandon all thought of a professional career."

"To abandon all thought of a professional career! You would ask me this, Sid Oswald—you who have so often told me that all my hopes for the future depended on my cultivation of the art I love?"

"You love your art very much then, Honoria?"

"More than I love life itself."

"And it would grieve you much, no doubt, to resign all idea of a public career—to abandon your dream of becoming a public singer?"

There was a pause, and then the girl answered, in a dreamy tone—

"I don't know. I have never thought of the public. I have never imagined the hour in which I should stand before a great crowd, as I have stood in the cruel street amongst all the noise and confusion, singing to people who cared so little to hear me. I have never thought of that—I love music for its own sake, and feel as much pleasure when I sing alone in my room, as I could feel in the grandest opera house that ever was built."

"And the applause, the admiration, the worship, which your beauty, as well as your voice, would win—does the idea of resigning such intoxicating incense give you no pain, Honoria?"

The girl shook her head sadly.

You forget what I was when you rescued me from the pitiless stones of the market place, or you would scarcely ask me such a question. I have confronted the public—not the brilliant throng of the opera-house, but the squalid crowd which gathers before the door of a gin-shop, to listen to a vagrant ballad-singer. I have sung at races, where the rich and the high-born congregate, and have received their admiration. I know what it is worth, Sir Oswald. The same benefactor who throws a handful of half-pence, offers an insult with his donation."

Sir Oswald contemplated his protegee in silent admiration, and it was some moments before he continued the conversation.

"Will you walk with me in the garden?" he asked, presently; "that avenue of beeches is delightful, and—and I think I shall be better able to say what I wish there, than in this room. At any rate, I shall feel less afraid of interruption."

Honoria rose to comply with her benefactor's wish, with that deferential manner which she always preserved in her intercourse with him, and they walked out upon the velvet lawn. Across the lawn lay the beech avenue, and it was thither Sir Oswald directed his steps.

"Honoria", he said, after a silence of some duration, "if you knew how much doubt—how much hesitation I experienced before I came here to-day—how much I still question the wisdom of my coming—I think you would pity me. But I am here, and I must needs speak plainly, if I am to speak at all. Long ago I tried to think that my interest in your fate was only a natural impulse of charity only an ordinary tribute to gifts so far above common. I tried to think this, and I acted with the cold, calculating wisdom of the man of the world, when I marked out for you a career by which you might win distinction for yourself, and placed you in the way of following that career. I meant to spend last year upon the Continent. I did not expect to see you once in twelve months; but the strange influence which possessed me in the hour of our first meeting grew stronger in me day by day. In spite of myself, I thought of you; in spite of myself I came here again and again, to look upon your face, to hear your voice for a few brief moments, and then to go out into the world, to find it darker and colder by contrast with the brightness of your beauty. Little by little, the idea of your becoming a public singer became odious to me", continued Sir Oswald. "At first I thought with pride of the success which would be yours, the worship which would be offered at your shrine; but my feeling changed completely before long, and I shuddered at the image of your triumphs, for those triumphs must, doubtless, separate us for ever. Why should I dwell upon this change of feelings? You must have already guessed the secret of my heart. Tell me that you do not despise me!"

"Despise you, Sir Oswald! you, the noblest and most generous of men! Surely, you must know that I admire and reverence you for all your noble qualities, as well as for your goodness to a wretched creature like me?"

"But, Honoria, I want something more than your esteem. Do you remember the night I first heard you singing in the market-place on the north road?"

"Can I ever forget that miserable night?" cried the girl, in a tone of surprise—the question seemed so strange to her—"that biter hour, in which you came to my rescue?"

"Do you remember the song you were singing—the last song you ever sang in the streets?"

Honoria Milford paused for some moments before answering. It was evident that she could not at first recall the memory of that last song.

"My brain was almost bewildered that night", she said; "I was so weary, so miserable; and yet, I do remember the song. It was 'Auld Robin Gray.'"

"Fruit-a-tives" Brought Him Perfect Health

AVON, ONT., May 14th. 1913.

"I am younger since I have been taking "Fruit-a-tives". I was troubled very badly with Piles, Constipation and Stomach Disorder, but I found "Fruit-a-tives" was the panacea for the whole three.

Now I am free of all these diseases and enjoying perfect health, and able to work whenever I like. Five years ago, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives". I took two every night and they worked wonders for me.

No other medicine I could get was so good and I took lots of different remedies before I found out how good "Fruit-a-tives" were.

'I keep "Fruit-a-tives" on hand all the time, and am never without them. I even take them with me when I go motoring, so I can have them handy. "Fruit-a-tives" are worthy of every good word I can say about them. The fact that they cured me of Piles, was something to be everlastingly thankful for"

SPORTING NEWS

MONSTER SPORTING MEET FOR JUNE

TORONTO, April 22.—At the first meeting of the Ontario Olympic Committee last night G. L. MacKay was elected vice-chairman. Suggestions were ordered to be sent on to the Canadian Olympic Committee requesting that they use their influence to have boxing added to the programme and that at least two walks be on the card.

The idea of holding a monster athletic competition for the Province of Ontario here in June was discussed and very favorably commented upon. It is almost a certainty that the meet will be held at the new Motordreme and it will be used as the first of a series to bring out the material for the forthcoming Olympiad. It was suggested that every outdoor sport that can possibly be accommodated be staged at this meet, and the people of Ontario are to be given a chance to see the cream of the Ontario athletes in action.

NEW ATHLETIC CLUB

A meeting is called for Friday evening at 8 p.m. in the Engineers' Hall Line St. to organize the Grand Trunk Railway Athletic Club—Football, baseball and lacrosse.

GENERAL SPORTS.

Czar Michael, a 30 to 1 shot, won the third race at Havre de Grace yesterday.

Jim Thorpe, champion athlete and now a member of the New York Giants, will not be seen in the uniform of the Toronto Ball Club this year, as was previously announced. Announcement of the deal was premature. It is said that McGraw wanted Tim Jordan included in any deal to give Thorpe to Toronto. McGraw thought Tim would make a good pinch hitter for the Giants.

The Durham, N.C., club has refused to sell Joe McManus to the Ottawa club. It is hoped that Joe is steering clear of the hops this year.

TO DROP WALK FROM OLYMPIC

The news that the International Olympic Committee is considering a proposition to drop the walks from the card for Berlin in 1916 rouses the Canadian committee. George Goulding, the Olympic champion walker, looks like the mainstay of the Canadian team just now. With the walks eliminated, Canada's hopes of a first place are reduced to Jimmy Duffy and Ed. Fabre in the Marathon, and George Hodgson in the swims Of course we have two years to develop material in other directions, but still it would be a hard bump to have a practical certainty taken away from us. The request to drop the walk originates with trouble over judging. A square walk is a hard thing to decide.

THE RING

FOUGHT TO A DRAW

Youngstown, Ohio, April 22.—George Chip, of Pittsburg, and Leo Houck, of Philadelphia, fought twelve hard rounds to a draw here last night. The fighting was savage.

LONDON, April 22.—Georges Carpentier, the French champion, signed articles for a 20-round contest with "Gunboat Smith" for a stake of $25,000 offered by Dick Burge and a side bet of $2,500. The fight to take place some time in June in London.

LONDON, April 22.—The bout between Joe Borrell, of Philadelphia, and "Bandsman" Blake the English middleweight at Blackfriars, disappointed a big crowd.

When the gong sounded at the close of the fourth round Blake turned to go to his corner, and Borrel swung a hard right to the head knocking him out.

Blake's seconds claimed a foul, but the referee thought the blow was unintentional, and declared it "no contest." Borrell had the better of the exchanges up to that time.

BASEBALL.

DOLAN'S BROTHER SHAPES UP

Hamilton, April 22.—Much interest was taken in the manner in which Art Dolan the first baseman performed. Dolan is a ringer for his brother, the Ottawa player, in appearance and action. He is bigger than his brother Frank, and as yet is having trouble getting down for the ground balls. This appears to be his one weakness.

GETS WALKING TICKET

Lawrence, Mass. April 22.—Pitcher Castleton was released immediately after yesterday morning's game and left later for Youngstown to consult Bonesetter Reese.

Castleton came to the Leafs on the recommendation of Drummond Brown, who jumped to the Feds. Castleton was formerly in the Pacific Coast League, but was idle all last season. He complained of a sore arm during the spring training.

TESREAU SUED FOR $25,000

New York, April 22.—Charles Monroe Tesreau, the Giants' pitcher from the Ozark country, is being sued for $25,000 for breach of promise of marriage. The plaintiff is Miss Clara Young, of Perryville, Miss., who says "Big Jeff" was engaged to her when he married Miss Helen E. Blake of this city, shortly before the Giants started on their world tour.

The summons and complaint were served on Tesreau when he was at practice on the Brooklyn ball field yesterday The case will be tried in the Supreme Court here, and from the many burning love letters in the possession of Miss Young's attorney, indications are that the baseball world will have much to talk about.

When Tesreau was about to marry Miss Blake, he wrote Miss Young: "It

RANZA SHOWS HIS NATIVE HOSTILITY

e Resents Intervention and May Join Hands With Huerta

From Authoritative Source t Gen. Huerta Deliberately nned Insults to U. S. In Hope Uniting Forces In Mexico Falls a Bomb In Washington—Playing For Time.

INGTON, April 22. — News n. Venustiano Carranza, Con- nalist chief, had regarded the seizure of Vera Cruz by the American naval forces as an act of hostility to the Mexican nation, fell like a bombshell in official circles last night.

President Wilson has especially disclaimed any act of hostility to the Mexican people, particularizing Gen. Huerta as the object of the American operations to secure reprisal for offences at Tampico and elsewhere against the American flag. Consequently the Washington Government had hoped the Constitutionalists would remain silent and not inter- elves into the imbroglio. za letter, however, con- ears of many officials that tionalists might side with is was the one possibility been discussed in admin- rcles all day as the most e in the situation. ostility on the part of the nalists crystalize the plans of the army will be changed. There were reports during the day that the joint army and navy board already had recommended the restoration of the embargo on arms.

Action by Congress approving the President's course in using the army and navy in view of the situation he had presented in his message, and the receipt of details of the fighting at Vera Cruz were the chief developments of the day.

Future steps were uncertain. The President has determined that his course shall be gradual. No orders have been issued to seize the customs house at Tampico. It is the purpose of the administration to keep order in Vera Cruz and await the full effect upon Huerta of the first act of reprisal by the American Government.

There is every reason to believe that the railroad running inland from Vera Cruz for twenty miles, together with a valuable trestle, will be policed by American marines and bluejackets. This section of the railroad is of supreme importance should future developments require a movement on Mexico City.

Beyond the holding of Vera Cruz and this railroad, the Washington Government does not want to act at present, but persons in the confidence of the administration admit that action by Huerta or Carranza at any time may alter completely the plans.

In this connection a high Government official made public a letter from a friend whom he regarded as trustworthy, which read as follows:

"I hear on reliable authority, from a man arriving from Mexico City, that Huerta personally, with the Mexican Foreign Minister, planned the Tampico incident with a view of bringing on armed intervention and uniting the Mexican factions with him."

The same official expressed the view that Huerta had delayed his answer to the United States for a salute to the flag pending the arrival of the shipment of ammunition on the German vessel.

Volunteers for service in Mexico will not be called for unless there is a formal declaration of war by Congress. This was announced in the House yesterday by Chairman Hay of the House military affairs committee.

Movements of the navy were continued yesterday. The Navy Department feels that a sufficient force of marines is on the way, not only to take care of the situation at Vera Cruz, but at Tampico, too, if the order is given for the seizure of the customs house there.

SENDS NOTE TO WILSON.

Carranza Demands Withdrawal of U. S. Troops From Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, April 23. — Gen. Carranza's note to President Wilson declaring the seizure of Vera Cruz by American forces a violation of the national sovereignty of Mexico, inviting the United States to suspend hostile operations and withdraw its forces, and suggesting that the Constitutionalist Government should receive demands for reparation of offences committed by Huerta stirred the Mexican situation to a new and acute crisis late last night.

The opposition to the American Government's action, coming from an unexpected quarter after the Washington administration had hoped for an attitude of neutrality and passive observation from the Constitutionalists, brought the Government face to face with possible hostility from the great body of Mexican forces lying in proximity to the southern tier of the United States.

Carranza agreed with President Wilson that Huerta did not represent the Mexican nation, but, on the other hand, feared the Mexican people might be inflamed and drawn into a conflict which would make them sacrifices to the usurpations of Huerta.

Gen. Carranza described the Constitutionalist successes, saying that Huerta was slowly being crushed and that the Constitutionalists soon would be in possession of the Mexico City Government. When they triumphed, he pointed out, ample reparation would be made for all offences. In the meantime he wished the United States to take no steps which would excite the Mexican populace.

The note, it was admitted by many officials, was capable of a friendly construction, but there was some doubt expressed that the subordinate officers under Gen. Carranza might not be so conservative. Apprehension over this situation was manifest in many quarters.

One of the Montreal gunmen was identified from photograph five miles west from Coe Hill, Ont., Tuesday and moving in direction of Clydesdale.

Daniel McDonald, a former underkeeper at the Halifax, N.S., city prison, committed suicide by shooting himself. McDonald was involved in an investigation.

Within sight of his four sons, Joseph Eddy, sectionman on the C.P.R., was killed in the railway yards at Mile End, Montreal. He was struck by an engine.

The Senate divorce committee yesterday reported in favor of the petition of Mrs. Florence Merritt of Toronto for a divorce from her husband, Robert Norris Merritt.

FORMER BANK MAN GOES TO PRISON

He Pleaded Guilty to Obtaining Eleven Hundred Dollars by Forgery

TORONTO, April 22.—P. S. Morris, a gentlemanly-looking young fellow, who in January last year forged a cheque on the Edmonton Bank of Canada for $1,172, which he dissipated on a tour through Europe, and returned to Canada to face the music, stood in the dock of the County Criminal Court to-day and pleaded guilty.

Crown-Attorney Greer said the prisoner was formerly a clerk in the Royal Bank at Edmonton, and obtained possession of the acceptance stamp. He came to Toronto and worked for the Foresters. He went to the Trust Company and took in a cheque made payable to his order and opened up an account. He took all the money out on various cheques, and went through England, France and Germany, and returned her without the money.

Mr. H. H. Dewart, K.C., who appeared for prisoner, said there had been restitution to the amount of $148. The forger was in his twenty-third years. While he was with the Royal Bank at Edmonton he made out the cheque in the name of Wm. Kennedy, in September, but he did not at that time cash it, but in January the temptation came, and he unfortunately yielded. Mr. Dewart said the prisoner could get no assistance from his family and thought a short term of imprisonment at the farm would have a good effect on him. He was anxious to make all restitution that was in his power.

Judge Denton, in sentencing prisoner, said it was one of the most serious crimes to come before the Court and the sentence must be a substantial one. He thought he could comply with the request of counsel in keeping the prisoner away from the penitentiary, and he would be sent to prison for 18 months.

Cookery Basket.

One of the objections to cooking with paper bags has been the difficulty in lifting the bag from the grid of the oven without opening it and spilling its juices. This difficulty is entirely overcome by using the novel metal basket recently put on the market for this special purpose. The basket is of attractive looking metal, very light, fitted with handles and is to be lined with special parchment paper, in which the food is placed. It entirely does away with bursting or heating bags and permits the food to be removed as easily as it would be from any ordinary utensil. Special bags or papers come fitted to the basket, which also has a lid and can be lifted directly on to the table if desired.

DUE TO RUSHING WORK.

Why Contractor McArthur Was Entitled to Consideration.

OTTAWA, April 23. — Gordon Grant, chief engineer of the Transcontinental Railway, explained to the Public Accounts Committee yesterday the settlement made with J. D. McArthur, whereby $150,000 was cut off from the contractor's estimates on account of over-classification and over-break instead of $512,000, recommended originally by the arbitrators, of whom he was one.

Mr. Grant stated that the arbitrators had not at first taken into account the fact that by the commission's orders, the work had been rushed and heavy blasting had been done. For this the contractor was not responsible, and it would be unfair to hold him to it. Witness believed that if, under the circumstances, McArthur had gone to the courts he would have won. The contractor, to avoid litigation, was willing to have $150,000 taken off. Major Leonard, Mr. Cochrane and Mr. Lynch-Staunton were aware of the settlement, which he considered fair and just.

The case was reported to the House by the committee.

Ship Black Sheep To Canada.

LONDON, April 23.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—"I don't know what the people of Canada would say to that," remarked Justice Bray, at the Liverpool Assize, when a lenient sentence was suggested for a defaulting bank clerk, because his friends were prepared to ship him to the Dominion. The prisoner got eight months.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"THE RED WIDOW"

There was a good audience at Griffin's Opera House last night to witness a delightful musical comedy entitled "The Red Widow". It was heralded as a successful and rather marvellous production, and this was certainly true. All present thoroughly enjoyed the performance with the latest musical hits, elaborate effects and costumes. The company compares most favorably with any seen here for some time. The comedy, dreamy waltzes, and dances caught the audience and delighted them during the entire performance.

Carl Sherlock, the comedian in the role of the manufacturer of the famous C. H. D. Corsets was the constellation of the evening, and pulled off a number of local hits.

Lillian Ludlow, with her partner, Wm. Purette, Jr., in the latest dances, also attracted the attention of the audience and came in for a goodly share of the applause. The leading lady, Lillian Concord, as the Red Widow displays more than average talent.

Music lovers are promised a treat in the near future when a large company of Belleville's most talented artists under the direction of Mr. Dan A. Cameron as Musical Director and Mr. Wm. Doyle as Stage Manager present Mr. Joseph Nevin Doyles' masterpiece "The Golden Age."

This magnificent production promises to surpass anything of the kind ever put on in this city.

From start to finish of this Opera you feel the exotic influence and the bewitching splendor of the Orient. The music and singing receive an appropriate rendering by a fine ensemble of trained voices. Versatile comedians, pretty girls, etc. combined with the richest variety and beauty of lovely costumes in which the ideas of the old world eastern countries are melted together and reproduced in a scheme of Orientalism tends to make this an event to be looked forward to. The date and further particulars of this show will be given later. Watch the papers.

LAID AT REST

OBSEQUIES OF THE LATE CAPT. JAS. W. ANDERSON OF AMELIASBURG

The funeral of the late Capt. Anderson took place from his residence in Ameliasburg this afternoon, and was largely attended by a wide circle of relatives and friends who assembled to pay the last tribute of respect and esteem to one who had been recognized as one of the stalwart men of his day. The service was conducted at the residence of the deceased by the Rev. M. W. Leigh, B. A., Methodist minister and pastor of the Rednersville circuit, who gave a very able discourse from John, xx chap., 29 verse, last part, "Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." A favorite text of the deceased and one which was frequently referred to by him during his illness. The music, which were favorite selections, was under the leadership of Mr. J. M. Chislitt, an esteemed friend of the family. A widow and two sons keenly feel the loss they have sustained through the death of a husband and father. The bearers were Jas. F. Anderson, A. W. Anderson, W. W. Anderson, Alex H. Anderson, Jas. R. Anderson and Ridley Anderson, all nephews of the deceased. The interment took place in the family plot at Albury cemetery.

HOW THIN PEOPLE CAN PUT ON FLESH

A NEW DISCOVERY

Thin men and women—that big hearty filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of these a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive and J. S. McKeown's Drug Store and all other druggists in Belleville and vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

SMOTHERING OF ASTHMA STOPS QUICK THOUSANDS CURED BY "CATARRHOZONE

COUNT TEN—THEN RELIEF COMES FROM CHRONIC ASTHMA

Nothing yet discovered can compare with Catarrhozone in bad, ugly cases of Asthma.

Catarrhozone is the one remedy that can be sent quickly and direct to all parts of the breathing apparatus.

The effect from Catarrhozone is a quick one—you feel better in no time—keep up the good work, use Catarrhozone as directed and you get well.

If your case is curable, if anything on earth can rid you permanently of Asthma, it will be Catarrhozone. It contains that strangely soothing and powerful antiseptic found in the Blue Gum Tree of Australia, and this is fortified by other germ-killing properties which when so scientifically combined, make Catarrhozone a veritable specific for Asthma, Catarrh and Bronchitis.

Even though many other remedies have failed—even though you are discouraged and blue—cheer up and try Catarrhozone to-day. What it repeatedly has done for others it will surely not fail to accomplish for you.

Catarhozone is not expensive. One dollar will buy a complete outfit from any Druggist. The money will be well spent because your immediate improvement in health will surpass your fondest expectations. Don't wait—to-day is the time to use Catarrhozone.

GILHOOLY COMES BACK

New York, April 23.—Frank Gilhooly, the outfielder purchased from Montreal last season by Manager Chance, of the New York Americans, is to be traded to Buffalo for Frank Truesdale, a second baseman. Waivers were asked on Gilhooly yesterday, and he will go to Buffala as soon as all of the clubs give their assent. Truesdale probably will play second base for the Yankees in place of Hartzell. He will report to Chance immediately.

Gilhooly was purchased from Montreal for a sum said to have been $10,000, but the amount was not to be paid until he had made good. Whether the purchase price is to be paid now has not been made known by manager or officials of the Montreal club.

The coming back of Gilhooly is a great surprise. The Montreal outfielder was well thought of by Fdank Chance in the few games he played last fall.

HOCKEY.

HOCKEY FRANCHISES FOR NEW YORK AND BOSTON

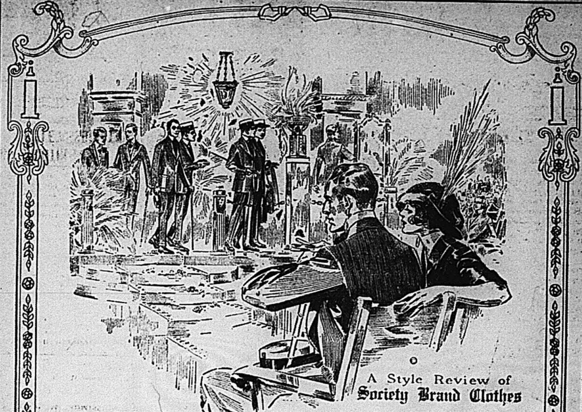
Sault Ste. Marie, April 22.—With the assurance of New York and Boston obtaining franchises in the National Hockey Association in the year 1915, hockey fans will receive some surprise, as the Dynamite Twins—Howard and George McNamara—are already slated as managers of the two clubs. Big artificial ice rinks that are modern in every detail are under construction in these cities now. The New York one will be completed next Winter but N.H.A. hockey will not be played in the States during the 1915 season, as the clubs will not be admitted until 1916, when both rinks will be in readiness. The franchises which are promised by the N.H.A. will be owned by the Spalding Company who now control the Ontario stock.

When the idea of admitting American clubs into the National Hockey Association, thus making it an international hockey association was first brought forward, it was the intention of the McNamara brothers and their eastern supporters to purchase either both of the American franchises, but these franchises are at present under the hand of the Spalding Company, although it is possible and likely that the McNamaras will obtain the Boston franchise in the event of their not being the club owners, they will nevertheless be club managers, as they have a big name as hockey players in the States since their trip there in the season of 1913.

BELLEVILLE WINS AT BASKETBALL

Saturday night, after the leaders corps of the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. had given their exhibition of gymnastic work, a picked team from the corps played the Belleville Y.M.C.A. team a game of basketball, with the result that the Belleville team won a victory.

The Belleville team have had a very successful season, having defeated both the Peterborough and Kingston Y.M.C.A. senior teams; in fact, they have not lost a single game. This same team, all of whom are members of Dr. McCulloch's Bible Class, will play a game under their class name of "Bridge Street Ever-Readys" in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium Saturday night, 25th inst. Their opponents will be the St. Luke's Sunday School team of Kingston, who are winners of the church league in that city.



A Style Review of Society Brand Clothes

Young Men And Men Who Stay Young

Have come to regard the styles set by Society Brand Clothes as being assuredly correct—and rightly so.

There is a freshness, a spontaniety about them that is easy recognizable, that has given them undisputed leadership each season for a decade. This is so because their conception is that of an acknowledged style artist, a man young enough to appreciate what young men want and with a requisite skill to put those desires into realization.

This season we are featuring the two most popular Society Brand styles, namely, The Poole, and The Master. We would especially call your attention to these models as we are sure they will meet your requirements.

LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS TO HOLD CONVENTION

HALIFAX, N.S., April 22.—Special—Plans for the big convention of Locomotive Engineers, which is to be held here July 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24, have practically been completed. The convention will be attended by Engineers from all over the Dominion and many from the United States, and promises to be one of the biggest conventions held in Halifax composed of railroad men. While the number attending is estimated at 4,000, it is expected that many more will attend the big meet, as questions affecting locomotive engineers all over the North American continent will come up before the convention.

Halifax, with its laurels as a convention city at stake, is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the railroad men, and the local committees are not leaving anything undone that will tend to the welfare of the visitors.

One of the features of the program will be a clam-bake and picnic at the Jubilee Boat Club's grounds on the Northwest Arm, which will include all the star attractions of the ideal picnic and also a regatta with an illuminated boat parade in the evening. This will be an all day affair, the public being admitted to the grounds.

The program of the convention is as follows: Monday will be registration day at the Queen's Hotel, where the delegates will register and receive their badges. In the evening there will be a public reception at the Arena at 8 o'clock, including addresses by prominent citizens and convention delegates, followed by a grand musical and literary entertainment. Tuesday morning there will be a private business session of locomotive engineers at the Arena at 9 o'clock, and in the afternoon the annual election of officers will take place. In the morning of the same day there will also be a private session of the Ladies' Auxiliary at Province Building at 10 o'clock. In the evening there will be a grand ball at the Annex. Wednesday morning will be devoted to general sight seeing and to a reception to the wives of the visiting delegates. In the afternoon the delegates will be treated to a sail on the Harbor, Basin and Arm, and seaward as far as Chebucto Head. At the same time there will be a smoker at the Arena, followed by a boxing bout. Thursday morning, afternoon and evening will be the grand clam-bake, picnic, regatta and illuminated boat parade at the Jubilee Boat Club grounds at Northwest Arm. Friday evening the convention will end with a grand concert in the Public Gardens.

BOOSTER PERIOD THE TIME TO MAKE GAINS IN CONTEST

Contestants Should Utilize Every Hour of Remaining Days of Booster Offer--Subscriptions are Worth Most Now--Nothing Can be Gained by Delay! Let Your Slogan be "More Subscriptions"

That The Intelligencer's great subscription campaign is destined to break all records in contest competition is shown by the active work the energetic and ambitious candidates are puting forth. "Booster" time affords those who extend their best efforts now to gain thousands of extra votes, and thereby place them within sight of the winning goal for the Buick Touring car and the other valuable awards. Never again during the contest will the subscriptions count as many votes as they will up to 10 p.m. Wednesday April 29th, the closing day of the "Booster" period.

The earnest work by contestants has not only met a ready response in the way of support, but has made earnest partisans of representative citizens in every walk of life in each district. Some of these friends of the candidates are inquiring into the plan and methods being and to be pursued in the conduct of this contest, with a view of assuring themselves that the candidates whom they are supporting are to have a "square deal."

The friends of the candidates are the real power in the race for success. See that you do your part to make your favorite candidate popular. Speak everywhere of his or her campaign and of your wish that he or she would win. Back up your wish with deeds, and give them the substantial aid of your subscription.

This is the critical period when the ner[illegible] of the candidates are apt to get what a woman calls "jumpy". Some who felt sure are beginning to wonder if after all they are so sure that the person just below them may not be holding back just enough votes to be just above them in the final count.

That feeling isn't pleasant, but it's wholesome. No one can afford to be certain that they are in a position to win the prize of their choice. Best make it sure by getting as many subscriptions as you possibly can.

A question for all candidates to ask themselves at the close of each day is, "Did I do all that was possible to gain votes to-day?" If you cannot answer honestly in affirmative then you are not doing enough, and you should decide firmly to improve to-morrow.

Needless to add, the candidates will work harder than ever before. Those with leads and determine to hold them realize that the only way to feel safe is to secure every subscription in sight. It is simply a matter of fighting to the last ditch that wins the battle. This is a battle—a battle of votes for the greatest list of valuable prizes ever given away in Ontario. Yesterday is dead; tomorrow does not exist, act to-day. Subscriptions and votes are now the main issue.

Don't stop when night comes, because this is the best time in some cases to secure subscriptions, as some of the most valuable readers are men who are too busy to think of subscribing for a paper during working hours. Perhaps it would be a good plan to use the telephone to notify your prospective subscribers that you will call in the evening for a subscription. Bring up a strong finish now, while the "Booster" offer of 50,000 votes is on, and after the contest is over you will not regret it, but if you should happen to lose the prize you most desire by not having secured the desired number of subscriptions when you had the opportunity, you can blame no one but yourself. Most desirable things are not won without a strong effort and a demonstration of just a little more energy, a little more persuasive power, a little more enterprise than the other party is able to master is sure to make you a winner in the end.

The Contest epartment of The Intelligencer is open each even between 7 and 8 o'clock. Phone 36.

VESSEL ASHORE ON MAIN DUCK'S ISLAND NOW A TOTAL LOSS

The steambarge Navajo, which went ashore on the Main Duck Island after taking a load of grain out of the barge Ceylon late last fall, is in a critical position and it is feared that she is a total loss. The craft has had no protection from the elements as she has been at the mercy of the full force of the winter gale on Lake Ontario. A trip to the scene made recently showed that the stern of the barge and the hull up past midships is totally destroyed and the machinery is badly damaged. Much of the engine's piping has been carried away and the boilers have been seriously affected by the cold weather. It appears that the water was left in the boiler all winter and that they have cracked to some extent due to the fact of the water freezing.

The island is strewn with the grain that has been washed ashore, and has made good food for the multitude of birds that come near the island. Practically the only parts that will be of value on the craft will be some parts of the engine and the hoisting engine which is situated forward. The only thing left on the decks is the wheelhouse which is near the bow.

AN ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY

SPRINGBROOK, April 23.—An attempt was made at Bellview last Friday evening, but was frustrated by the timely appearance of Jas. Beatty on the scene. It appears that Will Paffs, Will Cassidy and Andy Reid were coming from Marmora when they overtook a stranger and invited him to get in the rig with them and he refused. He being a elderly man they put him in by force. When the party arrived at Bellview hotel they drove under the shed and demanded his money. When he did not give it to them they proceeded to take it by force. Will Paffs held the horse while the other two went through the victim's pockets. In the tussel that followed the stranger received some ugly blows in the face. Just then Mr. Beatty proprietor of the hotel, heard some unusual noise under the shed and it being dark at the time went out to investigate just in time to prevent the robbery. As it was they got no money. No arrests have yet been made. It is said that Cassidy and Reid disappeared.

TRIED TO OBTAIN $7,500

Forged Letter Saying Sir William Bass Needed Funds

LOADON, April 23.—A remarkable story was told at the Marlborough street police court today when Alfred Rawlinson was remanded on a charge of uttering a cheque for $7,500 in favor of Sir William Bass, Bart., and attempting to obtain from Washington Stringer $7,500 by means of the cheque.

The accused, it was stated, forged a letter to Mr. Stringer purporting to be from Sir William Bass, and reading: "My wife and I are in a difficult position We had to go to moneylenders for the enclosed cheque and I cannot pay it into my bank, as my account has been garnisheed. It is vital for us to have the cash this morning. Would you be so kind as to send us by bearer your open cheque for the account and pay ours into your account.

Mr. Stringer discovered that the letter was a forgery and had Rawlinson arrested.

THREE BRITISH FIRMS LOOKING FOR FACTORY

ST. John, N. B. April 24.—Special—Mr. W. B. Homfray, an English capitalist, who has returned from England, is responsible for the statement that representatives of three large British manufacturing concerns are en route to St. John to look the city over for a site for the location of branch factories to handle the Canadian business. The prediction of Mr. Homfray is that St. John will be the New York of the Dominion as a port for ocean trade, and also predicts a big industrial expansion for this city.

WILDEST STORY YET OF PORT NELSON

What Really Happened to the Allette--Gov't Half Million Loss a Canard

OTTAWA, April 23.—The statement by two men who have arrived in Winnipeg from Port Nelson that the Government stands to lose half a million dollars through the loss of two steamers the Ceranz and the Allette at Port Nelson, is regarded by Government officials as one of the wierdest of the many remarkable stories gathered up by Liberals with regard to the work at Port Nelson. The Allette is reported as having been "looted."

The facts are, the Allette was a tramp vessel, charterd to carry lumber to Port Nelson. She reached port with some of her plates injured. Not liking the lightering facilities her captain started away, got more damage to his plates, turned again toward the port and ran the nose of the vessel into the mud cargo and all. Later the ship was found to be on fire and Engineer McLaughlin and the superintendent of the works at Port Nelson went out at great personal risk with dynamite, blew holes in the side of the ship and let in the water, thus saving something like half the cargo. In any event there would be no loss to the Government as both steamers and cargo were insured. The charge that the dredge Port Nelson had been injured was disproved months ago.

$150,000 ARE CUT FROM THE ESTIMATES

Gordon Grant Explains Cut-Off for Over-Classification

OTTAWA, April 23.—Gordon Grant, chief engineer of the National Transcontinental Railway, explained to the Public Accounts Committee today the settlement made with J. D Arthur whereby $150,000 was cut off from contracter's estimates on account of over-classification and over-break instead of $512,600 recommended originally by the arbitrators of whom he was one.

Mr. Grant stated that when the arbitrators first examined the works and decided upon the large amount of deduction they had not taken into account the fact that by the commission's orders the work has been rushed and heavy blasting has been done. For this the contractors were not responsible and it would be unfair to hold him to it. All the engineers on the ground were against the larger amount being taken off and the witness himself believed that if, under the circumstances, McArthur went to the courts he would have won. The contractor to get his money and avoid litigation was willing to have $150,000 taken off and a settlement on this basis was reached.

Mr. Grant said that Major Leonard, Mr. Cochrane and Mr. Lynch-Staunton were aware of the settlement and he considered it fair and just. The case was reported to the House by the committee.

THRILLING TRIP FROM MEXICO TO VERA CRUZ

(Intelligencer Special)

VERA CRUZ, April 24.—After a thrilling trip from Mexico City, during which they were repeatedly held up by Federal troops, hissed and insulted, 150 American, British and German refugees arrived here early today. The special train from the capital was run in two sections. Eight miles out of Vera Cruz it was discovered that the tracks had been torn up. A relief train, guarded by bluejackets from the British warship Essex, reached the stalled train Friday morning. The refugees were then transferred and the trip to Vera Cruz completed. Eight hundred Americans are still in Mexico City and are in the greatest danger. During the past three days serious anti-American demonstrations have occurred. The American conculate was attacked and stoned and the coat-of-arms torn from the door.

REMAIN OVER FOR WEDDING

MEXICO, CITY April 24.—(Special.)—A military guard was placed on the American Embassy here this afternoon. The arms and ammunition which have been there for some time were removed today as they were considered unnecessary in view of the protection afforded by the Mexican Government. Senor Pojas, in returning the passport of Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy, sent up acknowledging that Mr. O'Shaughnesy "has observed personally towards the Mexican Government and people a strictly correct conduct as far as permitted him by his position as representative of a Government with which such serious difficulties have arisen."

The exact time of Mr. O'Shaughnessy's departure has not been determined. Probably on Friday the whole Embassy staff will leave on a special train, with military escort for Vera Cruz or Manzanillo.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy this afternoon saw General Huerta, who cordially invited him and Mrs. Shaughnessy to the wedding of his son Victor to Senorita Hernandez to-morrow (Friday) morning.

MEN CANNOT AFFORD TO BE POORLY DRESSED

Good appearance is a strong factor in business success. Good clothes are essential to good appearance.

But good clothing need not mean extravagance. The making of attire for men is now standardized almost to an exact science.

Prices are often quite moderate and seldom unduly high.

Glance through the advertising in The Intelligencer from day to day and notice the character of the clothing the stores are offering.

Not much trouble to dress well if men are alert to their opportunities.

FRUIT INSPECTOR SAYS APPLE CROPS IN N.S. WILL BREAK RECORDS

HALIFAX, N.S. April 24.—(Special.)—A record breaking year for the apple crop, is the expectation of Mr. G. H. Vroom, chief fruit inspector for the Province of Nova Scotia. Mr. Vroom bases his hopes on a well kept record of other years, which shows that the winter preceding the great crop of 1911, was almost identical, day by day with the winter just past, this condition he said, being especially marked during March and April.

For the fruit grower, Nova Scotia has special advantages. It is nearer European ports than any part of the American continent. The apple trees planted are the best known European and English varieties; the life of an apple tree here is from 60 to 100, as compared with 20 to 60 years in more trying climates. Apples are successfully grown on nearly all kinds of soil, from light sand to heavy clay. The development of the export trade began in 1880, with an export of 20,000 barrels of apples, and gradually increasing to a shipment estimated at over one and three-quarter-millions barrels in 1911.

In 1912, the crop was nearly one and a quarter million barrels. At a Royal Horticultural Society Show at London, Nova Scotia captured the highest award and fourteen subsidiary medals. The principal varities of apples grown are Baldwins, Nonpareils, King of Tompkins, Gravensteins, Bishop, Pippin Golden Russet, Wealthy, Fallwater, Stark, Northern Spy and Blenheims. As yet, the industry is confined on a commercial scale to the counties of Hants, King's, Annapolis and parts of Digby, Yarmouth, Queens, Lunerburg, Cumberland and Pictou, more particularly to the first three, but it could be greatly extended if the methods which have proved so successful in these counties were more universally adopted. With a view to testing and demonstrating the possibilities of fruit growing in other counties, the Government has established 33 model orchards in them. As a result the apple industry has received a considerable stimulus and bids fair to occupy an increasingly prominent place in these counties which heretofore were regarded as not adapted to fruit growing.

GOLD FOUND AT RED HEAD, N.S.

HALIFAX, N.S. April 24.—(Special.)—Two brothers of the name of McMillan, of Isaac's Harbor, report finding gold at Red Head, a few days ago Prospectors have for years tried to find the belts of lead which they were sure existed there, but until the discovery no one seemed to be able to locate them.

The province has been the stamping ground of prospectors for the past thirty years. A mining expert worked hard for many years on this ground endeavoring to uncover the rich belt of leads, and after much searching he found that he was on the right track, but falling sick at this time he died leaving his great work unfinished.

Before his death, he told a friend the method by which he could locate the lead, and described to him the work he had done. After the expert's death his friend and one of the McMillan brothers came to the mines office in this city and entered their claim. Since that time the Red Head Mine has been worked by the two brothers, who now report finding the valuable metal in large quantities.

Tears off Clothing Smashes Window and Puts Head Through to Cut Throat

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 24—Special—Wasyl Saryk, a Russian, attempted to commit suicide in the detention room of the Immigration Department to-day. He came from New York and was taken off the G. T. R. train, after which he became violently insane.

WRITER FORSEES GENERAL ELECTION

Declares Recent Concessions Offered by Premier Are Last Word --Censure Vote Coming

LONDON, April 24.—Special—The precise terms of the Opposition motion, which will be in the nature of a vote of censure on the Government for its handling of the recent happenings in Ireland, will be announced some time today, but the intention of Bonar Law is to have a full and impartial enquiry into the whole business, and particularly as to the source of the authority for the movement of troops in Ulster. The enquiry will be held by a select committee of the House.

T. P. O'Connor, in this week's' Reynolds, foresees a general election this year if the Tories continue to keep alive the issue of the army versus Parliament. He says: "If the Tories keep up the fight against the Home Rule Bill and rely on the seduction of the army to destroy the policy of Parliament, then they may force an election earlier. This is an issue which any Liberal Government is bound to put to the test of public opinion. The Liberal party has come to exactly the same temper with regard to the future of the Home Rule Bill as the Irish had reached several weeks ago. The concessions of Premier Asquith represent the last word of the Irish party. I am not in a position to add that they represent the last word of the Liberal party as well. Liberal after Liberal has told the Liberal whips that if the Government ventured to go one step further on the road of conciliation they would find the whole rank and file of the Liberal party in the country in revolt against theb.

CANADA'S INTERESTS IN MEXICO CITY

OTTAWA April 24.—(Special.)—On the suggestion of the two party leaders in the Senate, Senator Choquette today dropped for this session his bill to make it a criminal offence to publish pictures of persons accused of crime. He said part of his purpose had been served by calling public attention to this question. He promised to present a similar bill next session.

Senator Poirier called attention to the risk of Canadian property and the lives of Canadians in Mexico and the statement of the Government that they were giving the matter attention. He asked if the Niobe and the Rainbow were to be sent to Mexico to protect Canada's rights.

Hon. Mr. Lougheed—I will call the attention of the First Lord of the Admiralty to the matter.

CAMPAIGN TO DEVELOP LABRADOR

LONDON, April 24.—(Special.)—"I am bent on developing my adopted country, Labrador, the Norway of America," said Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell, the missionary explorer, before sailing from England. The most important commercial task before me is to start reindeer farms to meet the demand for reindeer meat in Canada. It it my hope to surpass the meat supplies of Alaska. The Dominion government is building two large harbors on the east coast where the frozen reindeer meat will be brought and shipped to England." The explorer said that he was also going to work for the preservation of fur-bearing animals, martins, minks, foxes and seals, which have been hunted almost to the point of extinction. He recommended the southern part of Labrador for a delightful pleasure trip.

A number of the communications were referred to the council of the board to deal with as considered expedient.

Mr. H. Sneyd, Treasurer, presented his annual report, which showed a balance on hand of $7.35. On motion the report was adopted.

A brief discussion arose over a communication in reference to holding out inducements to persons desiring to emigrate to this country from Great Britain.

Mayor Wills said it was serious for any individual association to deal with the matter of indusing any person to come to this country.

PURCHASED AUTOS AS ONE WOULD TOYS

TORONTO, April 24.—(Special.)—The career of Harold J. Brennan in the automobile business came to a sudden and painful end last night, when he was picked up on Yonge Street by Detective Mitchell and locked up in the Agnes Street police station on charges of fraud and forgery. He bought more cars in one week than any one of Toronto's millionaires can boast of, paid for some of them with cheques and in other cases signed agreements to take them at certain dates. Not only did he go into the automobile purchase business recklessly but branched out into the line of accessories, and, as he had so many autos, thought that an order for 50 tires would only be in keeping with his gasoline equippage.

While all these large transactions were going on he was jumping from one hotel to another without even enough money to pay for a night's lodging. He first registered at the Prince George Hotel a week ago as M. P. O'Brien of Ottawa. He remained there for a couple of days and took his departure selecting the Queen's Hotel as his next place of abode. Things became uncomfortable there, and on Wednesday he wandered up to the Hotel Mossop. He only spent one day there, leaving early yesterday morning with bag and baggage and an unsettled bill and when arrested last night seemed to be in search of new lodgings.

Altogether, he bought and paid for $12,000 worth of automobiles, the payments being made with worthless cheques on the Bank of Nova Scotia, while other cars were contracted for, payments to be made later. Representing himself as the son of Mr. M. J. O'Brien, the Renfrew millionaire, automobile salesmen believed that he had a substantial credit and were ready and anxious to do business with him. One car he paid $1,500 for, another he purchased for $2,400, another for $2,300, and two others for like amounts. In addition to this the agent for the Overland Sales Company, on Adelaide Street, cashed a cheque for $10 for the man, as he was little short of pocket money and the banks had closed.

As the arrest was made last night the police could not find out exactly how many cars the young man had purchased but automobile dealers whom he had been "doing business" said that not half of the dealings were yet known. None of the companies interested lost much money, but Brennan was laying the foundation for a credit account with the dealers, and many admit that they would probably have fallen in the trap. When the man appears in court to-day he will be remanded to allow the police to continue their investigation.

At intervals during the programme refreshments provided by the ladies were served. The entertainment was most enjoyable in every way.

A lady from the vicinity of Brockville left last week for a visit to friends in Leroy, Minnesota. She was accompanied by her four children. The U. S. immigration officers at Detroit thinking that she had deserted her husband, refused to allow her to enter U. S. territory, and she was forced to return home.

MOUNTAIN PONIES.

Canadian Rockies Have a Breed of Animals All Their Own.

The origin of the famous Rocky Mountain ponies of Western Canada is shrouded in mystery. The indigenous horse of North America, which, modern scientists hold, was evolved from a sort of native five-toed dog, has for centuries been extinct. It is supposed that the so-called Rocky Mountain ponies are an Indian breed, originally imported from Mexico or South America. Before summarizing their general qualities and uses it will be interesting to note how they differ, first, from the ordinary horse used on the prairies, and how, secondly, from the horses employed by the Northwest Mounted Police. Technically, the Rocky Mountain ponies are described as "clean-footed" horses—that is to say, they are not subject to the diseases of the hoofs which affect the prairie horses. If the ponies were not thus "clean-footed" they would be quite useless for their primary work as pack horses for carrying supplies up the scarred heights of the Rockies. They differ from the Northwest Mounted Police horses solely in the matter of height. They possess all the qualities, except height, that are desirable in the animals used by the Northwest Mounted Police. They have all the speed, agility and endurance required for the work, but they lack by two or three inches the height necessary to carry considerable weight, such as that of an able-bodied man, at top speed. The Government, therefore, mated Rocky Mountain pony dams with thorough-bred sires, and their offspring are the strong, active, untiring, fleet horses which have proved themselves a phenomenon in a class of work that would have proved too arduous for any ordinary breed of horses.

Besides being clean-footed and fleet, the Rocky Mountain ponies are a particularly hardy breed, enduring any sort of weather in summer or winter. Though standing only fourteen hands high, they have well-compacted muscles and bones, and are very strong, and possessed of untiring energy. Further, they are as surefooted as a mountain goat, and will take the extreme edge of a precipice with absolute safety and fearlessness. Finally, they are very agile in climbing mountains or in turning quickly and safely from points of imminent danger, and they carry packs with ease.

It is for these qualities that the British Government is considering the establishing of a "remount" farm on the foothills and plateaus of the Rockies for the purpose of evolving these ponies into hardy, clean-footed, fleet and serviceable horses for use in the British army, especially in countries where the cavalry and the commissariat department will move under extraordinarily impeding conditions. Capt. R. Grant Thorold, of Dutch Creek, in the Columbia Valley, and other ranchers once thought of breeding the Rocky Mountain ponies for use as polo mounts. But Capt. Thorold found that their height was not sufficient to allow them to carry the required weight at top speed, and that, in any case, to breed them for commercial use would yield much greater profits. The polo mount project was, therefore, given up.

The chief uses to which the Rocky Mountain ponies are put are, briefly, these: They are superior animals for tourist carrying, packing supplies for mountain-climbing and hunting parties, for light teaming, for clearing and for logging in timber camps. They are strictly a product of Canadian industry, and the men who live and work in the mountains swear by them.

Easy Made Money.

With a cigar box label and a five-dollar-bill of the Bank of Hochelaga, a presentable fifty-dollar-bill can be made. Two such bills were taken from John Rougard, of Napierville, Que., recently, in the store of Napoleon Daoust, Notre Dame street west, Montreal. Rougard was placed under arrest.

He said that he was a farmer and claimed he had received the bills in payment of stock he had sold in the city. On the other hand, it is said by the police that once in the station he seemed to throw away concealment by saying: "I'm caught. It took me three months to make them."

The method used to manufacture bills apparently was to neatly cut out from a cigar label eight number "50's" and three printed "fifty's." The eleven clippings were then placed on to the five dollar bill and in a dim light would pass well if no examination were made.

English Etchings.

Last year there were only twenty-three murders committed in the city of London.

In Buckinghamshire an ointment made from mistletoe berries is still believed in as a cure for rheumatism and epilepsy.

Among the offenses for which capital punishment can be ordered in English law today are high treason and arson in a royal dockyard or arsenal.

The average wages of kitchen maids in England is $98.60 a year, while those of governesses is $97.50. Next in order are nurses at $101.75, parlor maids at $117.75, ladies' maids at $135 and cooks at $157.50.

The Black Opal

It Brought Good Luck After All

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"So you are going to marry Craveth?" asked Robert Delmore with a note of pain in his voice.

Ina Standish turned her beautiful gray eyes upon the young man and spoke coolly enough, although her heart was wildly beating.

"Yes," she said deliberately. "I am engaged to marry Anthony Craveth. Won't you wish me happiness, Bob?"

"Of course I will, Ina, although you may not need my good wishes. You have attained your ambition—you have made a brilliant match."

"You are unfair—you have no right!" flared the girl hotly. Then, as if reading something in his frank eyes, she drooped her head and murmured: "Forgive me, Bob. You are right, as usual. I am horrid, but I've been poor all my life, and you don't know how I hunger for the good things of the world."

"The luxuries you sigh for are not the really good things of the world," said Delmore gravely. "I know that, for I am a rich man, yet I am supremely unhappy."

"Yet"— She was beginning swiftly when the door opened and a servant announced Anthony Craveth.

He entered, a tall, dark man, with a long, sallow face ornamented by a jetty black mustache and imperial. His shining black hair was brushed smoothly down over his high, narrow forehead in a deep curve.

Anthony Craveth was of French parentage, and he was called fabulously rich.

Now, as he came into the room he darted a sharp glance at Robert Delmore and gave him a cool greeting. Delmore tendered his congratulations on the approaching marriage with Miss Standish, bent low over Ina's white hand and then took his departure.

"I'M AFRAID OF IT!" SHE SHUDDERED.

Ina was very white when she was left alone with her betrothed. Craveth was an ideal lover, and even Ina, who cared little for him, felt the romantic charm of his ardent wooing.

At last he brought from his pocket a small tortoise shell ring case and, opening it, took out a beautiful black opal ring, the stone surrounded with small diamonds.

"This," he said tenderly, taking her left hand in his own, "is the traditional betrothal ring of the Craveths. It was brought from Australia many years ago by an ancestor of mine, and since then it has always been worn by the brides of my house. It is said to bring happiness and good luck to all true lovers."

He slipped the beautiful ring on her slender finger and then kissed her rosy finger tip and the black opal.

"Until you permit me to touch your lips," he murmured reprovingly.

Ina did not appear to hear him. She was staring at the ring with horrified eyes.

"I am afraid of it, I am afraid of it!" she shuddered as she held her hand toward him. "Take it off, Anthony. I cannot wear it."

"Nonsense," laughed the lover, patting her hand. "You are superstitious, as most people are where opals are concerned and especially black opals. They bring good luck to our family."

So, finding that Anthony was so bent upon her wearing the black opal ring, Ina stifled her prejudices and said no more, but that evening when she sat alone in her room she looked at the opal for a long time.

"I am afraid—afraid—afraid!" was her last thought as she went to sleep.

That night Ina had a vivid dream. She thought that she was walking in the fields and that she wore the opal ring on her finger. A shadow darkened the sky, and she looked up to see a great eagle descending in sweeping circles.

She dreamed that he attacked the opal ring on her finger and carried it away with him, leaving her finger torn and bleeding.

Ina awoke, with a little scream, to find that the early morning sunlight was breaking through her east window and that part of her dream had come true, for the opal ring was gone from her finger and the finger was cut slightly, as though the jewel had been roughly torn away.

It was a moment of intense excitement when Ina faced Anthony Craveth and told him about the loss of the black opal ring.

The incredulous smile on his countenance when she described her dream and told of her awakening to discover that the ring had really disappeared brought a strange terror to her heart.

"What is it, Anthony?" she cried sharply. "Why do you look at me like that?"

"Because I am interested in your story," he replied dryly.

"But—but you look as though you scarcely believed me," persisted Ina nervously. "Of course I know that some one must have entered my room and stolen the ring from my finger, but—but you must understand that this entire transaction appeared as a dream to me and nothing more!"

"Of course I never doubt a lady's word," said the man, with a mocking smile. "But, mademoiselle, you understand that as the black opal engagement ring has vanished, so our betrothal is dissolved!" With a deep bow he vanished from the room, leaving Ina heartbroken over his cowardly insinuations.

Ina's father instituted a close inquiry into the matter of the vanished opal ring, and, unknown to the girl, he consulted Robert Delmore, who had long been a friend of the family. Robert had long loved Ina and wanted to marry her, but the girl's ambitious nature had chafed against his slow wooing, and she had accepted the more brilliant Craveth, whose courtship had been as brilliant as it was brief.

Both Mr. Standish and Delmore agreed that it would be an easy matter for a thief to steal the ring from Ina's finger, for her bed was drawn close to an open window, which, although heavily barred, was always open at night. It would have been easy for an interloper to have stood on the little balcony outside the window, thrust his arms between the iron bars, taken Ina's hand and removed the ring.

They decided that that had been the course pursued, for they found muddy footprints on the floor of the balcony and deep indentations on the flower beds beneath, where some one had jumped to the ground.

A few days afterward Ina sat listlessly regarding the advertisements in the daily newspaper. Suddenly a familiar name caught her eye:

> LOST.—Stolen from the residence of Anthony Craveth of Sydney, Australia, a valuable ring set with a large black opal surrounded by diamonds. Large reward and no questions asked for information concerning jewel. Address
>
> MESSRS. LINN & HODDY,
> Counselors, Wharf Street, Sydney.

"How strange!" cried Ina. "Why, the ring was stolen from my hand! What does Anthony mean? Has the loss of the ring driven him out of his senses?"

She put all these questions to her father, who confessed himself bewildered. In turn he showed the clipping to Robert Delmore.

"I'll take this home with me and study it out," said Delmore gravely, and his first visit was to the nearest cable office, where he sent off a long message to Linn & Hoddy at Sydney. While he waited for a reply he made what investigations he could concerning Anthony Craveth and his family history.

To his surprise, he found that the only Anthony Craveth who was known to be living was a native of Australia and had never visited America. The New York Craveths repudiated any acquaintance with the man who had engaged himself to Ina Standish.

Inquiry at Craveth's hotel revealed the fact that the man had paid his bill and departed four days before. No one knew where he was or the reason for his sudden departure. Robert Delmore asked permission to examine the rooms he had vacated, and there he found a pair of mud stained shoes which proved to fit exactly the footprints around the Standish residence.

Two days after he sent the cable message to Sydney Robert Delmore called upon Ina Standish and her father.

"At last I have uncovered the mystery surrounding the disappearance of the black opal ring," he said gravely, "and I must say, Ina, that the ring certainly brought ill luck to you as well as to its real owner."

"Its real owner!" echoed the girl. "Didn't it belong to Anthony Craveth after all?"

"Yes, it belonged to him safe enough, and the tradition concerning it was authentic, but it happens that the man you knew as Anthony Craveth was not that gentleman at all, but a thief who stole the ring from Craveth's home in Australia. The real Anthony Craveth is married and has a family."

Ina shuddered. "I was afraid of it," she sobbed. "But it served me right for being such an ambitious wretch! I didn't really care for Craveth, and"—

Delmore's arms went around her. "I know you didn't, Ina. I knew you loved only one man in the world, and if you had waited another day he would have asked you! But it's all right now, and I'm sorry, dear, that Craveth's black opal brought you such ill luck"—

"Ill luck!" cried Ina, with shining eyes, as she drew away and looked at him adoringly. "To find out my mistake, to be prevented from making a lifetime blunder, to find out that you love me—why, Robert, that's the best luck in the world!"

"So the black opal brought us good luck after all," laughed Delmore tenderly.

SEVENTY-EIGHT SALOONS PUT OUT

CHICAGO, April 23.—As a result of yesterday's "down state" election in which the woman vote played a more important part, both "wets" and "dry" came off with honors practically equally divided in the second tilt of the year. Out of the forty villigase and towns where the liquor question was at stake 21 were voted dry, putting 78 saloons out of business.

"Wet" won nineteen of the fights, including that at Danville, the home of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, and the largest city involved.

The contest was bitter and the result close. "Wet" majority was 181 out of 14,291 votes cast. At the election of April 7, the vote of the women had the balance of power. Following the adopted plans of campaign, contests will be filed by the "Wets" against the result of the election, so that the results may be thrown out if the Woman's Suffrage Bill is knocked out by the Supreme Court.

POTTED FERNS.

They Make Charming Plants For Indoor Decoration.

Ferns are the rivals of palms in the affections of the indoor gardener and are considered by many the more charming plants. No one can dispute the beauty of the graceful maidenhair or its more hardy sister, the Boston fern.

The former, while exceedingly difficult to raise, will fully repay all care. The chief requirement for ferns is an absence of water on the leaves, for it scorches them and dries them just as though a fire had passed over them.

Ferns, however, require an ample supply of water at their roots at all times, though during November, December and January they are resting and the amount may then be lessened. They need only a small amount of sun, but the temperature must be as even as possible, as they cannot stand violent changes.

The Boston fern belongs to the sword fern family. During the last few years it has become one of the most popular varieties, and deservedly so, for it is easily grown and unusually pretty.

For the woman who is on the lookout for oddities there are the Platyceriums, a small family of epiphytal ferns. They are pretty in baskets or shallow pans, though they may be fastened to blocks of wood with a little peat or sphagnum about their roots. They must be kept wet and they thrive in a warm room.

Annual Meeting of City Board of Trade

similar letters and he would always encourage those coming here who would engage in farm work, as they were desired.

President Elliott said the time had arrived when he was about to retire from the presidency of the board. He had been in Belleville for over seven years and for seven years had been a member of the board, and president for the past two years. In this time he had attended all meetings and also attended many meetings of the executive council of the board. The city, during the past two years had grown to a considerable extent and the population showed a decided increase. Fine school buildings and many new residences had been erected. The speaker referred to the fact that the Dominion Construction had spent a large sum of money in this district in the past two years. The board in the past two years had done much to help the city along. A fine new dock is being constructed, and Front street will be paved. The board had assisted in these matters. The Belleville Board of Trade was well thought of by the Associated Boards of Trade, and Col. Ponton, the energetic Secretary of the board, had represented the Belleville Board in an able manner upon several occasions. Sir M. Bowell, Hon. H. Corby, Messrs. Porter and Northrup, M.P.'s, and J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., had ever been ready to co-operate with the board for the betterment of the city. The City Council had also co-operated with the board. In retiring he desired to thank all for the hearty co-operation which had been extended to him since being in office.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Mr. W. B. Deacon presented the report of the nominating committee which recommended the officers for the ensuing year as follows:

Pres.—H. F. Ketcheson.

Vice-Presidents—F. S. Deacon and J. W. Johnson, M.P.P.

Treasurer—J. Elliott

Secretary—Col. Ponton.

Chairman of Transportation—Ex-Mayor Ackerman.

Executive Council—Messrs. C. M. Reid, W. C. Springer, T. Blackburn, J. O. Herity, C. J. Bowell, W. B. Riggs, Col. Marsh, A. J. McLaren, O. Scott, W. B. Deacon and M. Sprague.

Auditors—H. Sneed and A. M. Chapman.

The report also suggested that the annual meeting of the Board be held on the third Thursday of January instead of in April.

The report was unanimously adopted and Mr. Ketcheson, President-elect, took the chair for the remainder of the evening.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, President-elect, thanked the members for the honor conferred upon him. He would do the best he could for the prosperity of the city. His heart was in the city, and with hearty co-operation the city's progress was assured.

Col. Lazier, in referring to Mr. J. Elliott, said he had been untiring in his efforts for the city's welfare and to build up the Board of Trade while he was the president. He moved that a hearty vote of thanks be tentedered to Mr. Elliott and to Col. Ponton, the indefatigable Secretary, who had on all occasions so ably represented not only the Board of Trade but the city.

Mr. F. S. Deacon, in a few well chosen remarks, endorsed the resolution, which was unanimously adopted and tendered to Mr. Elliott and Col. Ponton by the President-elect.

Mr. Elliott thanked the members for the resolution passed and the kind words which had been spoken.

Col. Ponton said the delight of working was co-operation in the work of the Board of Trade. In referring to the County of Hastings, Col. Ponton spoke of the wealth of the mineral resources. He thanked the members for the resolution passed and the kind words spoken.

Rev. A. M. Hubly, being called upon, said it was a pleasure for him to attend a meeting of the Board of Trade. This was a good work and the members are animated by a desire to do good for the city. He congratulated the Board of Trade upon the success which had attended its efforts. He was pleased to learn something of the workings of the Board of Trade. He was deeply interested in the welfare of the city.

Mr. W. W. Anderzon, Reeve of Ameliasburg, being called upon congratulated the President-elect. He was interested in the Board of Trade and also interested in the city of Belleville. He wanted the city to grow and prosper and he believed it would. He would do all he could for the interests of the city.

Mr. C. J. Wills said Belleville could offer good inducements for manufacturers to locate here. Power is reasonable.

Mr. A. J. McLaren spoke briefly in reference to immigration and the necessity of securing good farm help. In speaking of the city, he said it was prosperous, but industries were needed to make it more prosperous. The board in the past had accomplished much good, and the members had worked hard.

On motion the board adjourned.

THE MEXICAN MUDDLE

The first definite act of reprisal against the obstinate Huerta by the United States comes to us from Vera Cruz. With pain and regret the people of the country learned of the casualties incident to this move. The purpose, it appears, was to prevent the rail shipment to the City of Mexico of machine guns and several million rounds of ammunition said to be aboard the German steamer which had arrived outside the harbor. Until the blockade is established it may not be lawful to interfere with the voyage of a German ship, but after she has discharged her cargo there can be no ground of international complaint if seized upon at once. It is said that the German purveyor of these supplies exacted payment when they were put on board for shipment. Being the property of Huerta, therefore, they would be lawful spoil of war if the United States Government seized upon them, says The New York Times, rather than permit machine guns and ammunition to fall into the Dictator's hands. Mr. Lind is quoted as saying that Huerta can at most count upon the support of about 5,000 troops. Plainly, if he must depend upon an army no larger than Mr. Lind's estimate, he is not in a position to hold his own very long against the coercive measures of so powerful a Republic. Meanwhile it is reported that the diplomatic representatives of the European powers at the City of Mexico continue to urge the stubborn old man to give in. If he yields, that is the end of the matter, which, after all, is a justification of President Wilson's position, that the struggle is with Huerta and not with Mexico.

WITH NECESSARY VARIATIONS

An eminent English writer compares the United Kingdom with Canada in the years 1840-1867. The legislative union of the Canadas, futile as it seemed in some ways, was essential as a preparation for a smooth working federal system. The French-Canadians needed a thorough seasoning in the both English and French had to learn mutual tolerance and amicable co-operation in the difficult school of union. So with British and Irish, English and Scotch. A smooth working federation of the British Isles is now a possibility or a certainty, since the different peoples have come to know one another and in a large measure to trust one another. But to force upon the British Isles a mechanically homogeneous federation of the Canadian or Australian pattern will not appear sound policy even if it were possible. As Mr. Asquith said in his latest speech, insisting upon the carrying of the home rule bill:

> "We wish to see the same process applied with the necessary variations, and applied without undue delay, to the other parts of the United Kingdom, in the conviction that such a constitutional organism would lead to a greater efficiency in the conduct both of local and of imperial interests, and that the quickened patriotism of every part will not impair but will nourish and stimulate the larger patriotism of the whole."

There must be "the necessary variations."

Why we Guarantee This Stomach Remedy

If there are one hundred people in this town who suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, or any other form of stomach complaint, we believe we can suggest a remedy that will relieve at least ninety-eight of them, and perhaps every one of the hundred. We'll do more than suggest the remedy—we'll promise to give back the money to each and every one of the hundred that are not relieved. That's how much faith we have in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets.

Containing Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive acids known to medical science, as well as other necessary ingredients, Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets soothe the inflamed stomach lining, aid the secretion of gastric juice, check distress and heartburn, promote regular bowel action and make it possible for you to eat what you like and as much as you like without fear of consequences.

The Toronto World wants to know what Huerta will do. Very likely his last act will be identical with that of one Oom Paul Kruger of South Africa—skip when he finds himself too closely pressed.

The Governor-General has established himself very firmly in the hearts of the Canadian people and not the least reason for that success is the interest he has always shown in every effort to better the lot of our poorer citizens. This is characteristic of the true gentleman.

Of thirty men who applied for work at the Y.M.C.A. in St. Thomas, Ontario, not one of them would accept openings with farmers of the district. Gangs of boy thieves and burglars are worrying the guardians of railway yards and the police in Montreal at present, and few days pass without some of the young rascals appearing in the Juvenile Court. Mr. W. L. Scott, President of the Ontario Union of Children's Aid Societies, being asked if it were true that the women of Canada were learning to smoke, replied, "Unquestionably, and to an alarming extent. It is coming from above. It is the women of the best classes who are particularly addicted to cigarette smoking. It is increasing to an alarming extent." Mr. Scott understood that the habit had prevailed upon the Continent and in England for many years, but it was comparatively new to Canada, and it was spreading. The habit had become fashionable and was hard to dislodge. It must be refreshing for a husband, upon returning from work, to kiss his wife after she has been puffing the smoke of a cigarette. Nix for us.

The PRICE OF NEWSPAPERS

(Ottawa Citizen)

The Manitoba Free Press and the Winnipeg Telegram, both one cent dailies, have raised their weekly subscription rates to ten cents, the new rate to go into effect on May 2nd next. The step is interesting inasmuch as it indicates that the increased cost of production in every line of manufacture has been felt by the manufacturers of newspapers. Paper prices have gone up steadily and in the matter of expenditure on news services the rates are more severely felt. The only two sources of revenue open to a newspaper are those of advertising and subscriptions. In regard to the latter, it is considered good policy to so adjust figures as to produce a return equal to the bare cost of white paper, plus the delivery and collection expenses and the charges incidental thereto. It is obvious that any increase in the price of raw material must be borne by the subscription department or else encroach upon the advertising rates. Any increase in advertising must fall heavily upon the merchant and manufacturer, whereas any increase in the price of materials can be spread over a large number of readers. As long as the latter are getting the news at exactly what it costs to produce it there is no injustice in the increase. On the contrary, it is good business and helps maintain the high standard of the paper concerned. The Winnipeg papers are taking the only course consistent with their position, prominence and general excellence.

LAURIER POLICY TAME

Liberal Leader Skates Adroitly Around Free Food Issue.

Amendment to the Budget Demanding Free Wheat, Free Implements and a "Considerate Revision of the Tariff" Is Defeated at End of Long Debate — Hon. Mr. Foster Answers Sir Wilfrid.

OTTAWA, April 24.—The budget debate did not reach its conclusion yesterday, but it reached the brow of the hill when at an early hour this morning the House voted down an amendment offered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Laurier amendment declared flat-footed for free wheat and free agricultural implements, but did some clean skating around the free food proposition. It demanded a "considerate revision of the tariff" in view of the high cost of living.

The debate yesterday was opened by Sir Wilfrid in an adroit arraignment of the present budget and blaming the combines and the tariff for the high cost of living.

Hon. George E. Foster followed in one of his old-time speeches, which roused the Conservative members to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. There was no lack of prosperity on Ontario farms he said and the western farmer would be prosperous also if he would take up mixed farming. Refusal of free wheat would in the end force him to do this.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in opening, said the duty on agricultural implements was lowered so little that it was simply adding insult to injury. The Government certainly wasn't offering the farming class much encouragement. It had refused to give the farmer free implements and free wheat. The two main causes of the desertion of farming as an occupation were, in the opinion of the leader of the Opposition: (1) The high cost of production, and (2) the insufficiency of markets. The cure said Sir Wilfrid was to put agricultural implements on the free list. The argument advanced by the Government was that the western farmer must pioneer the same as did our forefathers in Ontario.

"If we cannot aid the dead," said Sir Wilfrid, "let us at least help the living."

Putting wheat and implements on the free list no more meant free trade than did the Conservatives declare themselves for free trade when they put lumber on the free list in 1894.

"The policy of my party," declared Sir Wilfrid, amid applause, "is not a policy of protection, but one which has as its principle a customs tax for revenue purposes only."

In support of the Liberal free wheat policy Sir Wilfrid pointed out that although Canada produced over 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, she only used 50,000,000 herself and exported another 50,000,000 to Britain, thus leaving on her hands 100,000,000 bushels. Did not the country immediately to the south of us offer the best possible market for the over-production? We could also sell our flour there, he contended, as it was his belief that in many of the states, particularly in the east, Canadian millers could successfully compete with American producers.

In replying, Hon. George E. Foster ridiculed Sir Wilfrid's statement that agriculture was on the decline. There was not a farmer who would agree with that statement. Both Provincial Governments and the Federal Government were aiding the farmer in every way possible. The free food policy of the Opposition certainly didn't encourage the "back to the land" movement. Evidently the ex-Premier's advisers had recognized this fact, because Sir Wilfrid had right-about-faced on that issue, and, to the surprise of the House, did not embody it in his amendment.

"Now the hon. gentleman advises us," said Mr. Foster, "that if we can't get free food he will get us free bran for our breakfast table."

Continuing, Mr. Foster declared that Sir Wilfrid was prone to change his views on the tariff. From 1876 to 1896 he had opposed the national policy, but upon assuming the reins of office he had immediately formulated a protective tariff. "At the present time," said Mr. Foster, "my hon. friend is not searching for a policy for Canada; he is looking in vain for a political policy which will put him back in power again, and unfortunately for him, he can't find such a policy." (Laughter.)

Not only this but Sir Wilfrid had framed a policy which made its appeal to a particular class and only a section of that class. While the granting of the demand for free wheat would undoubtedly be injurious to the millers and other considerable industries it would also intensify the present trouble in the west by encouraging the farmers there to specialize in wheat. The crying need of the west was for mixed farming, and refusal of the extension of the wheat [illegible] tainly have the tendency of bringing about a greater variety of crops in the west.

Canada's problem did not lie in the finding of new markets. The high cost of living demonstrated that the need of the country was to encourage selling on the Canadian market.

Dr. Clarke (Red Deer) expressed himself optimistically as to the future of the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific, but intimated that he had no faith in the Hudson Bay Railway project.

H. H. Stevens (Con., Vancouver) and G. H. Boivin (Lib., W. Shefford) also spoke.

The Laurier amendments was defeated on the following vote. Yeas, 48; nays, 88; Government majority, 42.

PAPER REINSTATED.

Canadian Menace Is Given Interim Mailing Privileges.

TORONTO, April 24.—The Canadian Menace, published at Aurora, Ont., has been granted interim mailing privileges by the Postmaster-General at Ottawa. Since Hon. Mr. Pelletier stated, in the House of Commons, that this Protestant publication had been refused mailing privileges, the Postoffice Department has received many indignant letters, petitions from all sorts of Protestant associations. Members of Parliament have been actively engaged during the past few weeks in the interests of The Menace, and its being refused privileges, enjoyed by others, has proved a lively topic for debate in the corridors at Ottawa. Roman Catholic opposition to the paper has also been strong.

"The Postoffice Department had no legal grounds for refusing us mailing privileges. Its opposition was unreasonable and unwarranted from the first," said the editor, Mr. H. M. Wodson. "Our paper will maintain a high standard of journalism, and will breathe a vigorous Protestantism. We are a purely Canadian concern, in no way connected with the paper bearing the same name across the line."

Mexican Gunboat's Commander Accepts Invitation To Back Out.

VERA CRUZ, April 24. — The Mexican gunboat Progreso, with more than five hundred soldiers in heavy marching order aboard, steamed to the harbor mouth last evening, but no further. The commander of the Progreso had not heard that the Americans were in possession of the city.

The Progreso was hailed by the flagship and boarded by Lieut. Byron McCandless, of Admiral Badger's staff, who informed the commander that he had the choice of remaining under the guns and searchlights of the flagship or putting out to sea. It was explained to him that the United States was not at war with Mexico, but for the present the presence of Mexican gunboats and soldiers at Vera Cruz was not desirable. The interview was brief and ended with the Progreso putting to sea.

FOR COMPULSORY TRAINING.

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton Converted by Australia's Cadets.

LONDON, April 24.—Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, as a result of his inspection of the Australian forces, has become a convert to the principle of compulsory training. "I now think," he said yesterday, "that the system is good for a nation, whether from a moral or a physical aspect. I have inspected fifty thousand senior cadets and it has been beyond my previous imagination."

It will be recalled that Sir Ian in 1911 published the now famous book entitled "Compulsory Service," in which he defended the territorial force. Lord Kitchener, who drew up the Australian defence scheme, is also an advocate of national service.

Members To Work Hard.

OTTAWA, April 24. — The House will hold morning sessions, beginning with Monday next. In answer to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier would not commit himself as to the C. N. R. legislation that is to be brought down.

Referring to the action with regard to Canadians in Mexico, Premier Borden stated that representations have been made to the Imperial Government on several different occasions.
